SUMMARY: House Bill 235, Printer's Number 1055, the Opioid Abuse Child Impact Task Force Act, establishes a task force to examine the opioid abuse epidemic's impact on infants and children. This legislation is effective immediately and expires on March 1, 2018.

ANALYSIS: HB 235 establishes a task force to examine the opioid epidemic's impact on infants and children. The task force shall focus on improving the safety, well-being and permanency of substance-exposed infants and other young children affected by their parents' substance abuse disorders.

The task force will be responsible for:

- Identifying strategies and making short-term and long-term recommendations to prioritize the prevention of substance-exposed infants.
- Improving outcomes for pregnant and parenting women who are trying to recover from addiction.
- Promoting the health, safety and permanency of substance-exposed infants and other young children at risk of child abuse and neglect or placement in foster care due to parental substance abuse.
- Ensuring that Pennsylvania is compliant with the federal Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act related to identifying substance-exposed infants and developing multidisciplinary plans of safe care for these infants.

The task force is comprised of the following

- The Secretary of Human Services or a designee who shall be an employee of the Department of Human Services (DHS).
- The Secretary of Health or a designee who shall be an employee of the Department of Health (DOH).
- The Secretary of Drug and Alcohol Programs or a designee who shall be an employee of the Department of Drug and Alcohol Programs.
- Three members appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate. One of these appointees may be a member of the Senate.

- Three members appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. One of these appointees may be a member of the House of Representatives.
- Four members appointed by the Governor.

Individuals appointed by the Senate President pro tempore, the House Speaker and the Governor must possess professional experience and expertise in:

- Obstetric medicine;
- Pediatric medicine;
- Behavioral health treatment;
- Early intervention programs;
- County children and youth agency services;
- Child advocacy; or
- Neonatal Intensive Care Unit nursing.

The task force shall meet as necessary, but no fewer than five times prior to November, 30, 2017. The first meeting shall be convened within 45 days of the bill's effective date. Members of the task force shall not receive compensation, but shall be reimbursed for reasonable and necessary expenses incurred in service of the task force.

The task force will have the following duties:

- To examine and analyze the existing practices, processes, procedures and laws relating to the diagnosis and treatment of substance-exposed infants.
- To review and analyze the existing practices, processes, procedures and laws relating to the safety, well-being, permanency and placement of children at risk due to their parents' substance abuse disorders.
- To hold public hearings to take testimony, request documents and obtain information required to conduct the task force's review.
- To make relevant recommendations for improving the safety, well-being and permanency of substance-exposed infants and other children adversely affected by their parents' substance abuse disorders.
- To prepare and submit by January 31, 2018 a final report on its activities, findings and recommendations to the Governor, Senate and the House of Representatives.

DHS, DOH and the Joint State Government Commission shall cooperate to provide administrative or other assistance to the task force.

FISCAL IMPACT: Passage of this legislation should have no adverse fiscal impact on Commonwealth funds. DHS and DOH would be required to reimburse members of the task force for reasonable and necessary expenses which should be covered by the agency's General Government Operations appropriations.
