SUMMARY: This legislation would extend requirements for the filing of a statement of financial disclosure to write-in candidates receiving a nomination or being elected to an office. This legislation would take effect in 60 days.

ANALYSIS: This legislation would require that a write-in candidate file a statement of financial interests within 30 days of having been nominated or elected unless that person declines the nomination or office within that period of time.

The candidate would be required to file the statement with the commission for state-level public office and, for county or local offices, with the governing authority of the political subdivision in which that person has been elected or nominated.

The 30-day period would be calculated from the date the appropriate board of elections certifies the person as the winner of a nomination or election.

A write-in candidate that is nominated but fails to file a statement of financial interests shall not appear on the ballot.

FISCAL IMPACT: This legislation would have no adverse fiscal impact on Commonwealth funds.
