House Bill 2536, as amended, amends the Fiscal Code (Act 176 of 1929) to authorize emergency tax anticipation notes. Specifically, it is amended to authorize alternative tax anticipation notes that mature at the end of the next fiscal year.

House Bill 2536 adds new section 193-C to Article I-C Emergency COVID-19 Response to allow a local government unit to borrow money under Title 53 Section 8121 (relating to power to issue tax anticipation notes), subject to the following additional terms:

1. The governing body’s anticipation of current taxes or current revenues may include an anticipation that the taxes levied or revenues receivable may not be received, in full or in part, until after the end of the current fiscal year due to the extension of tax filing deadlines, administrative break-down during the proclamation of disaster emergency issued by the Governor on March 6, 2020, published at 50 Pa.B. 1644 (March 21, 2020), and any renewal of the state of disaster emergency, unexpected severe economic contraction or the inability to timely enforce collection due to the proclamation of disaster emergency; and

2. In addition to the other requirements under this subchapter relating to limitations on debt of local government units, a governing body shall establish a maturity date for a tax anticipation note issued under section 8121.1 which shall not be later than the last day of the local government unit’s fiscal year in 2022.

The Local Government Unit Debt Act defines a “local government unit” as a county, county institution district, city, borough, incorporated town, township, school district or any similar, general or limited purpose unit of local government or any unit created by joint action of two or more local government units which is authorized to be created by law. The term does not include a city or county of the first class, an authority or any unit created by joint action of two or more local government units which have not been granted by statute the power to issue bonds. The term includes school districts of the first class presently operating under a home rule charter or home rule charter supplement.
Senate Appropriations Committee
Fiscal Note

House Bill 2536 includes legislative findings as part of new section 199-C such that the General Assembly finds and declares that the proclamation of disaster emergency issued by the Governor on March 6, 2020, published at 50 Pa.B. 1644 (March 21, 2020), and the resulting global pandemic from COVID-19, has had an unexpected and sudden effect on the citizens, governments and businesses of the Commonwealth, including a material negative effect on the revenues of many local government units.

Under current law, tax anticipation notes (TANs) are borrowing instruments that allow local government units to borrow money for short term or operational purposes. Local government units are required to repay existing TANs by the end of the current fiscal year after revenues have been received during the year. Otherwise, any remaining balance becomes unfunded debt under the existing provisions of LGUDA.

Fiscal Impact:

Enactment of this legislation with respect to the authorization of emergency tax anticipation notes for local governments will have no fiscal impact on Commonwealth funds.

As noted by the Local Government Commission, which was consulted in the drafting of this legislation, the COVID-19 pandemic has posed an immediate challenge to municipal fiscal operations throughout the Commonwealth. For many local governments, shifted tax deadlines, resident job losses and emergency-related expenses have the potential to create unprecedented need for financial liquidity tools.

Many local government units likely will not have collected all of the taxes and fees that have been levied during the current fiscal year by the time traditional tax anticipation notes would mature later this fall. The provisions of House Bill 2536 would allow these entities to have more time to repay TANs with a longer maturity term and more flexibility to determine how these economic conditions and unanticipated expenses will affect the local government’s ability to maintain its operations over the coming months.
