SESSION OF 2015 199TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 12

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The House convened at 11 a.m., e.s.t.

THE SPEAKER (MIKE TURZAI) PRESIDING

PRAYER

HON. STEPHEN BLOOM, member of the House of Representatives, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray:

Dear Lord, we stand in awe of Your indescribable power, Your breathtaking artistry, Your infinite nature, Your extravagant mercy. We thank You for granting us the opportunity to serve You and the citizens we represent in this unique and imperfect institution of government. We thank You for entrusting us as the heirs and stewards of the Holy Experiment You ceded so many years ago in the hearts and minds of William Penn and our Founders.

We thank You for patiently abiding our failures and weaknesses and selfish pride and for the limitless grace You so freely and generously offer in spite of our propensity to forget and reject Your presence and Your love. Lord, Your Scripture reminds us unless You build the house, we labor in vain who build it; unless You guard the city, we watch in vain who guard it.

So, Lord, we pray that You would be here and do Your work here, that You would clear aside the obstacles we constantly set in Your path. We pray that You would break the strongholds of evil in this room, in this Capitol, and in each of our own hearts. We pray that You would strengthen and challenge and use us to seek Your holy purposes. We pray for those we have chosen to lead us and for those we have chosen to serve us, realizing that neither is the more important or the less important in Your eyes.

We pray that each of our hearts would be drawn and bent and transformed to Your ways. And we pray for miracles, Your miracles, to unfold in our midst.

I pray all these things in the mighty name of my Lord and savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

(The Pledge of Allegiance was recited by members and visitors.)

STATEMENT BY MR. McGINNIS

The SPEAKER. Representative Gillen and Representative McGinnis are recognized to speak on HR 27. They will be followed by Representative Barbin speaking on HR 69. Please proceed. The floor is yours.

Mr. McGINNIS. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, there are certain moments of human history that are beyond description and even beyond understanding. How does a tiny island of volcanic ash in the vast Pacific Ocean become the decision point for the future of civilization? Yet nothing less was at stake on Iwo Jima in February 1945.

Mr. Speaker, the statistics of that battle tell a grim story, but United States Marines are never defeated by statisticians. The victory on Iwo Jima secured a path for world freedom and instantiated America as the paramount guardian of liberty.

Mr. Speaker, we rightfully call attention to the Marine veterans whose courage 70 years ago vanquished the forces of despotism and evil. I would like to specifically mention my friend back in Altoona, Gene Boyle, who is unable to be with us today, and of course, Mr. Mahlon Fink, who is with us today. Thank you, gentlemen.

Mr. Speaker, let us forever remember and be grateful for the sacrifice of theirs and that of their fallen comrades.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

STATEMENT BY MR. GILLEN

The SPEAKER. Mr. Gillen.

Mr. GILLEN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

In a few moments I will speak more specifically about my friend and constituent and neighbor, United States Marine Mahlon Fink.

This is a place that those coming of age in the thirties that would eventually serve in the United States Armed Forces had never heard of, had never studied in their history books, had never examined on a map, yet it was part of a notable island chain administered, interestingly enough, though 600 miles away, administered by Tokyo municipally. Iwo Jima was and is part of the volcano island chain.

Just a few moments ago, sitting with Mahlon Fink, I asked him about the Sulfur Island, or Iwo Jima, that he served on. Indeed, Mahlon Fink on day one, on February 19, 1945, landed that morning on Iwo Jima, and several days later he watched the flag-raising ceremony on Mount Suribachi. He said that he and his fellow Marines, because of the vents that were on the island and an extraordinary heat, he said they actually cooked their beans and meals, he and his fellow Marines, on that island. Not only was the heat oppressive and sulfur and the smell of decaying bodies in the air, but he said there were times that he paused during his 12 days of fighting, that he paused to think about his mother. I asked him, did he think about his father. He said, yeah, but he thought about his mother first. And maybe more significantly, he stopped to pray. No doubt in the midst of that titanic struggle involving tens of thousands of combatants on either side, there were a lot of thoughts of home. There were no doubt a number of prayers that went up. And when it was all done, there were nearly 7,000 men that would never see their mother or father again. There were 7,000 that would not be opening any more Christmas presents back home. There were 7,000 that left behind brothers and sisters and aunts and uncles and mothers and fathers.

It is our great honor to have Mahlon Fink here today. Lest we ever forget the sacrifice and the price that was paid for that flag, though two stars less, flying on Mount Suribachi, Mahlon Fink and his comrades-in-arms counted duty and flag and honor and country more important than life itself. And he was quick to note when the United States Navy came up that they ferried them around, and indeed, there were naval losses during this conflict. Everything that you might expect in war, in a very condensed 8-square-mile area about the size of Harrisburg, at least Harrisburg's land mass, was present in and around Iwo Jima, U.S. Army Air Forces, predecessors to the United States Air Force; K-9 war dogs; code talkers; United States Navy; Navy corpsmen. It was a universal effort on the part of this country.

And when that AP (Associated Press) editor developed the picture that came from Mount Suribachi to Guam, he remarked in looking at that picture, "This is one for all time." Indeed, that picture symbolizes bravery for all time. And yet, as we reflect and memorialize this battle, just as Mahlon said to me, he is passing a torch, and if this country is going to remain free and we are going to be in a position where we can pledge allegiance to our flag every day, there is another generation of Americans that have to take up a mantle and sacrifice and give and to do what Mahlon Fink did. On February 19, 1945, he stepped on to the sands of Iwo Jima, and 12 days later, just a few feet from where he and his comrades-in-arms were standing, an enemy mortar hit and shattered with shrapnel both of his legs. And there has not been a day in these 70 years that have gone by where Mahlon Fink does not think about Iwo Jima. There is not a day that has gone by in 70 years where he does not bear the marks and the scars and indeed the shrapnel of Iwo Jima. Our task is small today, but it is necessary to remember that sacrifice. And corporately this Assembly says to you, Mahlon, God bless you, and thank you for serving the United States in the United States Marine Corps.

STATEMENT BY MR. BARBIN

The SPEAKER. The good gentleman from Cambria County, Representative Barbin.

Mr. BARBIN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I am also here to thank Mr. Fink. As the Bible tells us, a man's life is threescore and ten, plus if you are healthy and you are lucky. What is important to us is for us to remember what true honor really is. It is not the Super Bowl honor. It is not power. It is not prestige. It is the person who is willing to do something that most people hesitate to do. Mr. Fink is here to say that because we are now at the 70th anniversary. The person in from Johnstown who is part of that iconic picture is no more or less important to the success we saw at Iwo Jima. We created a landing site that allowed us to have an airport where damaged aircraft could recover as opposed to going all the way back to Guam, and that turned World War II by taking it at a huge cost.

The person from Johnstown who served also on that first day was Sgt. Michael Strank, and the people that are here that hear me give the prayer on numerous occasions have heard me speak of him because he really is the type of person that we are supposed to be passing laws for. You talk about an honor, it is about doing something you are not supposed to do or most people would hesitate to do. Strank entered the war early. He was 25 when he was killed in the Battle of Iwo Jima. He is the only person on the flagpole that you really do not see, and he is the only person raising the flag that does not grab the flag. What he does is he grabs another one of his platoon members to kind of help him lift, to push that heavy iron pipe up so that all the Marines on this cruddy island could see the flag, was the second reason.

The book "Flags of Our Fathers" is about what actually happened that day, and it is really, it is his self-sacrifice. What he does is, he turns— He has fought on Bougainville, which is the worst fighting of the war up to that point. He goes back to the States for rest and relaxation. They want to promote him. He insists upon going back because all the guys in the platoon are 18. He is 25. So he turns the promotion down. He goes back. He knows that he will be killed, or at least he believes that, so he tells his parents that, "Don't expect to see me come back." And he is there, because it is like out at Soldiers' and Sailors', Hazo says that it is at that moment when you decide the person's life beside you is more important than your own. That is what makes a hero. So you look at what they have done, what Mr. Fink has done, and it is that spirit that actually says America for whatever its flaws are has a unity and resolve which will allow us to continue to be light.

So, Mr. Fink, thank you for being here to remind us what real honor is and what our duty is to make sure we are the light. Mr. Boyle, who is from Hollidaysburg, Mr. McGinnis's constituent, is featured in the documentary that will be shown next Saturday which celebrates the flag raisers at Iwo Jima, including Michael Strank.

Thank you for participating in our ceremony today. Thank you for keeping that light going, and we do have it. So if anybody says we are losing a generation, we still have all of the heroes in Iraq and Afghanistan. We have got six from Johnstown. We also have Chris Kyle and we have Pat Tillman. They did the same as Mr. Fink. They did the same as Mr. Strank. And I would like to publicly say that is God in an American soldier's life when you give up, when you are willing to make that sacrifice, and all of our soldiers do.

Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative Barbin, Representative Gillen, Representative McGinnis. And thank you, Mr. Fink.

Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz of the U.S. Navy said in March of 1945, "Among the men who fought on Iwo Jima, uncommon valor was a common virtue."

Thank you very much.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second consideration?

Mr. KRIEGER offered the following amendment No. A00104:

Amend Bill, page 1, lines 6 through 10, by striking out all of said lines and inserting

Section 1. Section 2709(c)(2) and (f) of Title 18 of the Pennsylvania Consolidated Statutes are amended, subsection (b.1) is amended by adding a paragraph and the section is amended by adding a subsection to read:

Amend Bill, page 1, line 16; page 2, line 1; by striking out "by repeatedly" in line 16 on page 1 and "communicating" in line 1 on page 2 and inserting of making

Amend Bill, page 3, line 8, by striking out all of said line and inserting

"Communicates." Conveys a message without intent of legitimate communication or address by oral, nonverbal, written or electronic means, including telephone, electronic mail, Internet, facsimile, telex, wireless communication or similar transmission.

"Course of conduct." A pattern of actions composed of more than one act over a period of time, however short, evidencing a continuity of conduct. The term includes lewd, lascivious, threatening or obscene words, language, drawings, caricatures or actions, either in person or anonymously. Acts indicating a course of conduct which occur in more than one jurisdiction may be used by any other jurisdiction in which an act occurred as evidence of a continuing pattern of conduct or a course of conduct.

Amend Bill, page 3, lines 11 through 13, by striking out all of said lines and inserting

"Family or household member." Spouses or persons who have been spouses, persons living as spouses or who lived as spouses, parents and children, other persons related by consanguinity or affinity, current or former sexual or intimate partners or persons who share biological parenthood.

Amend Bill, page 3, line 17, by inserting after "age" and which produces some physical manifestation of the distress

On the question, Will the House agree to the amendment? The SPEAKER. On that question, the Chair recognizes Representative Krieger.

Folks, we are going to hear from Representative Krieger on the amendment.

Sir, the floor is yours.

Mr. KRIEGER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The amendment does two things. Essentially, what it is designed to do is to narrow, to some degree, the scope of the bill. Now, there were concerns expressed in committee on both the right and the left as to the possible chilling effect on free speech, and we are all very sensitive to that.

So what this bill is designed to do is a couple things. The original bill allowed for two incidences of conduct to occur with no specified time period in between. The amendment would define a pattern of conduct that is patterned after other statutes in the common law that would require a court to find that there was a pattern here of misconduct that we are seeking to find, seeking to penalize. So that is one. It narrows it a little bit to make sure there is a pattern of conduct.

The second thing it does is models after existing tort law. There is a tort called intentional infliction of emotional distress, and what we are doing to some degree here is, in some instances, criminalizing this behavior. So what it does is requires there be a physical manifestation of this emotional harm, and really, to succinctly put it, we are trying to make sure we do not criminalize hurt feelings but have something more substantial to reach, to make sure that we are narrowing the speech we are reaching here.

So my understanding is this is an agreed-to amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Chair calls upon the good gentleman from Dauphin County, Chairman Ron Marsico.

Mr. MARSICO. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

This amendment is agreed to, and I appreciate the members' favorable vote. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, sir.

On the question recurring, Will the House agree to the amendment?

The majority having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendment was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second consideration as amended?

Mr. PETRARCA offered the following amendment No. A00094:

Amend Bill, page 3, line 16, by striking out "serious" and inserting substantial

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER. On that question, the Chair recognizes the good gentleman from Westmoreland County, Representative Petrarca.

Mr. PETRARCA. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

What this amendment does, it tightens up the definition of "seriously disparaging statement or opinion" from "serious emotional distress" to "substantial emotional distress," which will put this legislation in line with legislation that we have previously passed dealing with stalking in Pennsylvania. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, sir.

The Chair recognizes the good gentleman from Dauphin County, Representative Marsico.

REMARKS SUBMITTED FOR THE RECORD

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentlelady, Ms. Harper, rise?

Ms. HARPER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I have remarks to submit to the record on submitting the question to the voters of the mandatory retirement of judges.

The SPEAKER. Thank you very much. Those will be accepted.

Ms. HARPER. Thank you.

Ms. HARPER submitted the following remarks for the Legislative Journal:

This bill proposes a constitutional amendment that would let the voters decide if they believe judges can serve until age 75. Right now judges are required to retire when they hit the age of 70.

The Constitution was last amended on this point nearly 50 years ago in 1968 when we were wearing tie-dyed jeans and the average life expectancy was 70. Americans are living longer, healthier lives and many judges are being forced to retire when they are really at their peak of performance.

If you are a Major League baseball player, you should probably think about retiring before you are 70 years old because you need vast physical skills that do decline with age. However, if you are a judge, your years on the Bench, even your years on the Earth, furnish you with a wealth of experiences and life lessons that can only make the quality of judging better. In short, for many judges, years on the Bench help them develop wisdom, help them be better judges, and the Commonwealth is the poorer if they are forced to retire. The quality of justice in the Commonwealth is enriched by older, wiser, experienced judging.

For women too, the amendment offers the chance of serving longer since many women come to the Bench a little bit older since they have sequenced their careers to handle children or other family responsibilities. This will allow the system to keep those women judges longer.

Last session we had hearings on this bill and medical testimony that there is no noticeable decline in intellectual ability for most people between the ages of 70 and 75. If there is a problem with an individual judge, we have a mechanism in place to take care of that.

The bills do not propose any change in the qualifications for serving as senior judges whose age limit remains at 78. Ultimately, it is up to Pennsylvania voters who elect judges to that coequal branch of government to decide whether judges should be forced off the Bench at age 70. I believe raising the mandatory retirement age to 75 is a reasonable change, and I hope the voters will agree.

The SPEAKER. Members, if you will please clear the aisles, we have two more bills on third consideration.

BILLS ON THIRD CONSIDERATION

The House proceeded to third consideration of HB 215, PN 463, entitled:

An Act amending Title 18 (Crimes and Offenses) of the Pennsylvania Consolidated Statutes, in assault, further providing for the offense of neglect of care-dependent person; and providing for the offense of abuse of care-dependent person.

On the question, Will the House agree to the bill on third consideration? Bill was agreed to.

STATEMENT BY MRS. DAVIDSON

The SPEAKER. On unanimous consent, the gentlelady from Delaware County, Representative Davidson, will have the floor.

Please, everybody, if you could give Representative Davidson your attention.

Mrs. DAVIDSON. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I just wanted to take a moment to acknowledge something that I believe is significant.

First of all, I want to commend the maker of the bill, the gentleman from Berks County, Mr. Caltagirone, and all the cosponsors of HB 221. I also want to commend the makers of the amendments, including the gentleman from Allegheny County, Mr. Miller, who withdrew his amendment but brought to our attention, I believe, what is important for us to consider as we move forward in trying to create a system that serves people well, people among us who have ailments and conditions that affect the brain.

There are times in this House where we do something significant, something important that really affects and changes the course of people's lives in a positive and dramatic way. There are sometimes when we do something significant, and then you know there are sometimes when we do not. So when we do, I believe it is worth mentioning.

In this moment when we see the effects of mental illness, autism, and intellectual disabilities and the effects that it has on our society, these individuals that are most vulnerable and are in the greatest risk are being misunderstood and therefore mistreated in our society, mistreated by our criminal justice system, mistreated by providers who do not understand, mistreated even by family members who do not understand the disease or the conditions for which they suffer. We have to begin to change the trajectory of their lives and not put people in prison who need to be in treatment and need to be cared for. We need to begin to preserve the life and to preserve the dignity of these individuals, their families, and their loved ones.

As this bill has passed the House today and now goes to the Senate, I know that I will do everything in my limited power to see that it does not go to the Senate to die like so many of our bills do. I will call on the Senators with whom I have a relationship and I will ask members of these affected communities with the conditions that affect the brain and all of their advocates to call on their Senators to make sure that this bill gets passed and becomes the law of the land.

I invite each and every one of you, my esteemed colleagues on both sides of the aisle, to do the same, because this is a bipartisan issue, because diseases, disorders, and conditions that affect the brain have no respect of persons. It affects anyone, it affects everyone, and affects my family and many of yours in this House.

Today we did something important, and I want to acknowledge that and encourage us to make sure full passage happens on behalf of the people that we love and all the citizens of this great Commonwealth. Today we did something important, and I wanted to acknowledge that. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative Davidson.

STATEMENT BY MR. CALTAGIRONE

REMARKS SUBMITTED FOR THE RECORD

The SPEAKER. The Speaker recognizes, on unanimous consent, the good gentleman, Representative Caltagirone, of Berks County.

Mr. CALTAGIRONE. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I would like to thank Chairmen Marsico, Petrarca; the staff; and especially the members of the Judiciary Committee and all of the members of the House.

I have submitted remarks for the record, but I want to thank those that were most helpful in getting this legislation moved. We did this in the last session. It is a repeat to get it over to the Senate again. I would hope that they would consider it. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, sir.

Mr. CALTAGIRONE submitted the following remarks for the Legislative Journal:

Mr. Speaker, HB 221 will provide for training for police and minor judiciary. The training will provide them with the tools they need to recognize individuals with mental illness, intellectual disabilities, and autism.

The training will include proper techniques to interact with these individuals, de-escalate potentially dangerous situations, and instruction on alternative services or diversionary options available to these individuals. It is critical that we provide our police and minor judiciary with the tools they need to protect themselves as well as help people with mental illness, intellectual disabilities, and autism.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank Chairman Marsico and his staff for their hard work on this legislation over the past two sessions.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that the House join me and vote for HB 221. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

STATEMENT BY MR. DeLUCA

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes, on unanimous consent, the good gentleman from Allegheny County, Representative DeLuca.

Mr. DeLUCA. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I just want to say to my colleagues out there that I have been here for 15 terms. I know we have a lot of new members here, and, Mr. Speaker, you have been here quite a while too. I have never – and I served under Democratic and Republican Governors – I have never seen a Governor like the Governor we have today, Governor Wolf, who has bipartisanly gone to Republicans and Democrats – he is not done yet – in the office, walking the halls, and talking to our staff. That has been unheard of in my 15 terms here, and I think we ought to just congratulate him on starting a new day here in Pennsylvania.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative DeLuca.

There will be no further votes.
