LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

SESSION OF 2016

200TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 25

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The House convened at 11 a.m., e.d.t.

THE SPEAKER (MIKE TURZAI) PRESIDING

PRAYER

The SPEAKER. Our prayer today will be offered by Pastor Nancy Easton, Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church here in Camp Hill.

Immediately after her prayer, we will recite the Pledge of Allegiance.

And, Reverend, we are so pleased to have you here with the former Speaker, Sam Smith, and our Chief Justice Saylor. It is really our honor to have you here. You have to tell everybody where your roots are before you start the prayer, if you do not mind. Please come up.

All members and guests, please rise.

PASTOR NANCY R. EASTON, Guest Chaplain of the House of Representatives, offered the following prayer:

Good morning.

I am from Ridgway, Pennsylvania, in beautiful Elk County, and so I was sharing with the former Speaker our love for that neck of the woods, which is truly in the woods at some points, but absolutely, I say it is God's country.

So please join with me in prayer.

Sovereign Lord, we bow our heads before You acknowledging our need for Your steadfast presence and wise judgment as we see to the affairs of this Commonwealth. Such a responsibility as this is an awesome one, and we humbly thank You for giving it to us.

May we live out our offices, our vocation, with respect toward one another, with an openness to listen to differing opinions, and with an overarching concern for the voiceless. Help us care for the well-being of our citizens, and with Your aid, may we establish communities that promote justice, cultivate compassion, and live in peace.

In all these things, Holy One, make us resolute and give us the grace to fulfill them. We pray this in Your mercy. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

(The Pledge of Allegiance was recited by members and visitors.)

PORTRAIT UNVEILING CEREMONY

INVOCATION

The SPEAKER. At the beginning of our ceremony here honoring Sam Smith, we are going to begin with an invocation, so we will have a second prayer today, and Reverend Easton will be once again coming to the rostrum to begin our ceremony.

So at this time Reverend Easton for an invocation with respect to our ceremony.

I would ask that all members and guests please rise.

PASTOR EASTON. Join with me in prayer:

Holy Lord, You are a great God and greatly to be praised. You created the earth and all that is in it. You gave us Your law and wrote it on our hearts as a living memorial to Your grace and our purpose. You have given us solemn responsibilities to nurture the generations and promote the well-being of all. You have blessed the Commonwealth with good soil, forests, rivers, and lakes, and a people dedicated to their protection and conservation. We have been blessed by this land, and its people are grateful to You for Your abundance.

Today we are especially grateful for the service of Speaker Samuel H. Smith. We thank You for his untiring effort and care on the behalf of his constituents in the 66th District and all of the citizens of Pennsylvania. May this portrait which we dedicate today serve as a reminder of his commitment to his office and to the people of Pennsylvania.

In Your holy name we pray. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would ask the Sergeants at Arms to close the doors of the House.

I know a few more members are still coming in, so I am just going to give them the opportunity to come in. Guards, if you will just check to make sure, just take one more look outside the doors to see if any other members wish to come in.

WELCOME REMARKS BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. It is such a great honor to lead off in terms of welcoming remarks here today for a good friend, a partner, a mentor, and a great leader for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and also for his district back in Jefferson County.

As is the custom here in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, following a House Speaker's term in the office, an oil portrait is painted and placed in a special location in the Capitol, known as the Speaker's Portrait Gallery. Today the portrait of a wise and good man, an outstanding public servant, and a friend to all in this chamber here today, Samuel H. Smith, the 137th Speaker of the House, will be added to this collection, and we, his good friends and colleagues, are gathered here this morning to be a part of unveiling this portrait in honor of his distinguished service to the Commonwealth.

GUESTS INTRODUCED

The SPEAKER. On behalf of all of the House, Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to welcome you, the Chief Justice, your family and friends who are gathered here in the well of the House today especially for this historic event.

First, I would like to extend a warm welcome to Speaker Smith's immediate family, and if they would not mind please standing when I announce them: his wife, Donna; his daughter, Alex, and her husband, Corey; and his son, Zach. Many of us are very, very good friends with Sam's family, and Alex and Corey have come from Michigan for this event, and we are so pleased that you could be here today. Thank you very, very much for being with us.

We also have – and I know he is good friends with a number of the folks here today – Sam's parents, former Representative Eugene "Snuffy" Smith and his wife, Jean. Would you please stand. Thank you so much for being here. This Representative Smith was elected to the body in a special election in February 1963 and served 11 consecutive terms, and during his time he served as chair of the House Business and Commerce Committee. Great to have him here.

And one of the Speaker's best friends in government and in politics and still in the service of the public, from the 41st Senatorial District, we welcome Senator Don White. Senator, so much appreciation for your being here.

Sam was so gracious to also invite all the former Speakers, and we have with us today the Honorable William DeWeese – Representative DeWeese, if you will please stand – and the Honorable Robert O'Donnell, former Speaker.

Sam dedicated 28 years of his life to this institution and to representing the residents of the 66th Legislative District. A native of western Pennsylvania and the small but well-known town of Punxsutawney, Sam arrived here knowing that the legislative body needed to hear the voices of rural Pennsylvania and rural communities, and his knowledge with respect to core businesses that provided jobs for families in coal, timber, gas, and the balance of environmental protection while at the same time providing family-sustaining jobs, there was not anybody better in understanding or articulating the balance and importance of those particular issues.

In order to rebuild communities devastated by collapse, he secured and, really in many ways, started State funding to clean up streams, improve local water and sewer services, and reclaim abandoned mines. He fought tirelessly and successfully to make sure that Interstate 80 and other transportation routes all throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania were up to the standards that a Keystone State like Pennsylvania needed.

And Sam was never a person who believed that one size fits all. While he was very supportive of public education, he also was very supportive of education in a variety of forms, and the accountability block grant was, as many of you know, really the child of Sam Smith and his education policy, but he also championed vocational-technical schools, income tax credits for families wishing to send children to schools of their choice, and block grants that allowed public schools to target individual funding needs.

He had a very, very important understanding of the relationship of the State to local communities and had a great respect for local communities all across the diverse State of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. And he was also a person that found that overregulation could be very heavy-handed and was always looking to provide common sense and a responsible balance in those areas.

I must tell you that in addition, Sam led the effort to reduce the size of the legislature, which for the first time had been passed by both chambers. We did it the two previous sessions under Sam's leadership, from 203 to 153, and now it is at 151, is what passed both chambers.

I, on a personal level, had the opportunity to see Sam in this realm of policy discussions, and I must tell you, you always wanted him on your side, because while Sam was very, very gracious and had camaraderie with everybody, he was also a very serious-minded legislator. He did not always let everybody see that. I saw it all the time, and I have to tell you, I came to greatly admire his skill, his principle, his dealings with fellow legislators and folks in the outside world and citizens back home. I can honestly say he is in a very quiet way sometimes, but in other ways in a very strong, strong, strong way, Sam is one of the giants of the House of Representatives, truly.

It is with great honor and pleasure that I am here to be able to welcome my predecessor, mentor, partner, Sam Smith, and I think this video presentation that we are going to now provide you will give you some great insight into the working nature of Sam as Speaker and as Representative in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

(A video was presented.)

REMARKS BY CHIEF JUSTICE THOMAS G. SAYLOR

The SPEAKER. Mr. Speaker, we are so honored to have with us today the Chief Justice, Thomas G. Saylor, of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to provide remarks with respect to our guest, Sam Smith.

Chief Justice, please.

CHIEF JUSTICE SAYLOR. Thank you.

Speaker Turzai; Leaders Reed and Dermody; Whips Cutler and Hanna; certainly since it is budget season, Chairmen Adolph and Markosek; honorable members of the House, present and past; Speakers O'Donnell and DeWeese; Senator White; and distinguished guests:

It is my particular pleasure to say a few words on this occasion, the ceremonial unveiling of the official portrait of my friend, Speaker Sam Smith.

To paraphrase Emerson, institutions are the lengthened shadows of great men, and the tenure of Sam Smith as Speaker is now interwoven into the fabric of the historical institution of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, which traces its origins to the Provincial Assembly convened in 1682, shortly after William Penn arrived in the Pennsylvania colony.

The history of this body is also intertwined with the history of our country. Benjamin Franklin, who served as Speaker in 1764, was of course instrumental in the founding of our nation in 1776 and the framing of our Federal Constitution in 1787; John Morton, who served as Speaker in 1775, was the signatory of the Declaration of Independence; and Thomas Mifflin, who served as Speaker in 1785, was one of the Pennsylvania delegates to the Constitutional Convention.

Following the ratification of our national Constitution, Pennsylvania adopted a new Constitution in 1790, creating this Assembly, and your official history informs that the autonomy of the Pennsylvania House was fashioned after that of the British Parliament and served as a model for American legislative and congressional government.

Speaker Smith has a deep respect for the history and for the founding principles of our country and Commonwealth. Like Madison, he is well aware that men are not angels and that therefore one of the greatest challenges in administering a government of men over men is in constantly obliging that government to control itself. And in his long legislative career spanning 28 years, Speaker Smith evinced a profound understanding of the role of a Representative in a democracy.

As classically formulated by the Anglo-Irish statesman Edmund Burke in his speech to the electors of Bristol in 1775, "Certainly, Gentlemen, it ought to be the happiness and glory of a representative to live in the strictest union, the closest correspondence, and the most unreserved communication with his constituents. Their wishes ought to have great weight with him; their opinions high respect; their business unremitted attention. It is his duty to sacrifice his repose, his pleasure, his satisfactions, to theirs, and above all, ever, and in all cases, to prefer their interest to his own. But his unbiased opinion, his mature judgment, his enlightened conscience, he ought not to sacrifice...to any man, or to any set of men living.... They are a trust from Providence, for the abuse of which he is deeply answerable. Your representative owes you, not his industry only, but his judgment; and he betrays, instead of serving you, if he sacrifices it to your opinion."

In keeping with this tradition, Speaker Smith's first and foremost loyalty was to his constituency, the citizens of Jefferson County, who returned him to the House for 14 terms, but his votes were always informed by his independent judgment and bounded by his conscience. As he moved through the ranks of the House and into positions of leadership, he gained a keen appreciation of the collective nature of this representative Assembly. Upon being sworn in as Speaker on January 4, 2011, he said this, as you just heard on the video: "Too often we see issues from one of two points of view, as if there were only two views in this" great "hall. The truth is, there are 203 points of view. We are not a body of just Republicans and Democrats; we are a reflection of 12 1/2 million Pennsylvanians, each who is an equal part of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

Finally, like all great leaders, he realized that there are occasions where parochial interests must yield to the greater civic good of the Commonwealth, an awareness which is grounded in the parliamentary conception of this body and was best described again by Edmund Burke, concluding his remarks to the voters of Bristol, "Parliament is not a congress of ambassadors from different and hostile interests; which interests each must maintain, as an agent and advocate, against other agents and advocates; but parliament is a deliberative assembly of one..." polity, "...with one interest, that of the whole; where, not local purposes, not local prejudices ought to guide, but the general good, resulting from the general reason of the whole. You choose a member indeed; but when you have chosen him, he is not a member of Bristol, but he is a member of parliament."

And so, Mr. Speaker, the portrait that will be unveiled this morning will stand with the ages and will reveal to future generations a man who left his mark on this historic institution, yet concluded his long period of exemplary service with his judgment respected, his principles unshaken, and his conscience intact.

RECOGNITION OF ARTIST

The SPEAKER. Just before we unveil the Speaker's portrait, the introduction of the artist is on our agenda, and it is Ellen Cooper. Where is Ellen? I am sorry, Ellen. Ellen, do you mind coming up to the rostrum, please, so we can introduce you. Thank you, Ellen.

Ellen was educated at the Tyler School of Art and Temple University, where she received her bachelor of fine arts and master of fine arts degrees, and she currently lives and teaches in the Philadelphia area. Many of you may know that Sam sits on the board of trustees for Temple University. Ellen has studied under contemporary portrait painting masters and achieved Signature Status with the Portrait Society of America, and her work has received over 20 national and international awards and been featured in various publications, including "International Artist" and "The Art of the Portrait."

Highly regarded by her peers as well as collectors, Ellen's portraits have hung in museums and are presented in many private, corporate, and institutional collections. This is, however, her first portrait in the Speaker's Portrait Gallery, and we are so pleased that you could be with us today as we unveil this for the Speaker.

At this time we are going to ask Ellen to please take her seat again.

ADDRESS BY HON. SAMUEL H. SMITH

The SPEAKER. We are going to call up our great friend – and if we could give him a great standing ovation again – the Speaker, Samuel H. Smith, for remarks.

Mr. SMITH. You cannot resist it once you have it, although Speaker Turzai has a different gavel. The balance is not the same for me.

Mr. Speaker, Chief Justice Saylor, Senator White, former Speakers DeWeese and O'Donnell, the members, staff, and family and friends:

It is a great pleasure to be back here today to witness this unveiling. I have to say, this was originally – the Parliamentarian was really hoping to have this scheduled last September, but then things kind of went sideways here, and I do want to thank all of you for making me look better and better every day. I swear, more people thought I was smart after I left than when I was still here. Sorry about that, but there are no boundaries when it comes to that kind of thing.

And to the gentleman from Allegheny County, Mr. Dermody, the leader of the Democrats, and the Democratic Caucus members, I am glad you got to see the video, because that was what they showed the night I did my kind of retirement speech, and you guys were all tied up in knots in a leadership election, I think, for like a day and a half it seemed. So I am really happy that some of you are here today, number one, and you got a chance to see the video, and frankly, on my part I am thankful that that is probably the last time I will ever have to see the video too.

Obviously, on a day like today there are a certain amount of thank-yous, and I first just want to start with Ellen Cooper, who painted this. I have not seen it. I have seen a little blowup, a little mock of it she made for my kind of critique and then I saw a picture of the picture, but I have not actually seen it yet. However, two people I generally trust their judgment very highly, the Parliamentarian and the Mace. Where is Jimmy? Where is he hiding? They both saw it and both said it was very nice. So, Ellen, I have not seen it yet. I will give you my final judgment in a few minutes, but I do trust those two, although with the Parliamentarian, you never know. There could be a picture of a groundhog under that thing, for all I know.

Anyway, Ellen, it was pretty interesting when she came up. We met and talked a little bit I guess in order for her to kind of get to know a little bit, you know, just my temperament and my style, or whatever, and then we came up here because this is where we decided to pose it, although I actually got confused and went down to the Brick Haus last night because I thought the unveiling was down there, you know, comfortable environment, kind of where people sort of know you. I was as comfortable there as here in some ways. Nevertheless, Ellen, then we were up here, and basically, she takes a gazillion photos and then she reviews them, and then we kind of go over them and kind of settle on like, you know, just the posture, what do you envision in the background. How your hands are positioned was like a major ordeal. I did not know that was so critical. But for me, a lot of it was like, what is the expression on your face going to look like? And I had this one look. I cannot make myself do it. I need to be provoked. The gentleman from Beaver County, Mr. Christiana, when he would rise to the mike, he could provoke it. The gentleman from— That one back there, second of all, you just sit down. That one can get the look. But the person who could bring out the look the most from me, like that, was our caucus spokesman, Steve Miskin, who frequently got confused between being a spokesman and being a policy guy. So when we were doing the portrait, when they were taking the pictures to get that look, I actually had Steve come up here and stand down there and "Just say anything, Steve. It will get it," and he would say something, and I gave him this look, and it is sort of a look like, you just sit down and shut up. It is that kind of look. I do not want to hear your crap today. And that was the look I wanted in the portrait; I really did. I believe, you know, I have always been one to need people to temper and kind of constrain my thoughts. So I believe that Ellen probably captured the essence of it but did not exactly go for the full enchilada. So I am very pleased to have worked with you, and thank you for your efforts on behalf of this portrait day.

As I mentioned, there are a lot of people to thank, and I think we all know the importance of our family and what our families put up with and deal with and engage in. Obviously, in my case, because of my father being here before, I have been on both ends of that deal, and I am not going to elaborate on that. They know that I know that I could not be here without them, and the support of our families, as we all as members understand, is so, so critical to our success as a legislator, but more for our own kind of physical health and well-being, it is so important.

But there are a few other people outside of my immediate family that I wanted to just point out, and I would like to say something about just about everybody that is here. I know that goes on a little too long, although I will take a sidebar. The chief justice and I and a couple of, you know, my other two sons – I have a son, Zach, but I have another two sons, Dave Thomas and Tony Aliano – we would get together with the chief justice sometimes to pontificate on the world and what was going on, and he was always one to kind of enlighten me. As you know, he is a little deep into the history and he was an educational force for me. Every time we would meet, he would follow up by sending me something to read, which I always appreciated, but the best was before Chief Justice Saylor was chief justice, his predecessor was up there, and it was budget time, and of course, although I do appreciate that you did not actually ask for any appropriations today, Justice Saylor, but nevertheless, we are up doing our annual meeting with the justices, and the chief was there, the former chief and the current chief were there and maybe one other member of the Court, and we got into a discussion of the Constitution, and I was just saying what I think and, you know, what I believed it meant. We walked out of there, and Tony and Dave, who are both attorneys – you know, as attorneys you know when you are with the Court, you are like kind of on your good behavior. I am just being me – and we walked out of there and we were walking down the hall back to the office, and they are like, "Holy cow, I can't believe you just got into a constitutional debate with the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court." But what the heck, you know, you are what you are.

A couple specific people I do want to thank. Diane Kiehl, none of you, for the most part, knows who Diane Kiehl is, but she was the person who helped me in the early years, especially politically. She was the person that went out knocking on doors with me and she was a person that kind of, you know, helped me get feedback and kind of was an ear to the ground, and Diane is here today, and she was here for my first swearing-in as a freshman and she is here today to wind things up. I just want to thank Diane for all of her friendship and love and support over the years. I could not have done it, especially without you.

One person I need to mention, my guy who was my treasurer. He was my favorite from day one, and shortly after I retired from here and closed out my campaign account and did all that work, shortly after that Bob Roberts had a stroke and just passed away a few weeks ago, but he is another person that I think, you all certainly understand, your campaign treasurer or finance person is also somebody you really, you really have to count on, rely on, and trust, and I just would be remiss if I did not mention that. Even though he is not with us anymore, I did want to publicly acknowledge his effort and service to me all of those years.

And the other last two are my two Debbies. One is D-e-b-b-i-e and the other is D-e-b-i. Thank goodness they spelled their names differently. Debbie in Harrisburg, Debbie Parobek, who worked for my father before me, when I got elected she could have gone and worked for a guy who was going to become a chairman. You know, from a staff perspective, work for a freshman, work for a chairman? Usually you are going to go to the chairman because, you know, it is a better deal, generally speaking. She passed on that and stayed with me as a freshman – smart move, too, by the way, not because I became Speaker but because I think he lost reelection like one or two sessions later. But Debbie has been with me from day one and has been just, you know, a steady force in my life, and I appreciate all of your efforts, likewise with your counterpart, Debi Meneely from Punxsutawney, providing the same but a little more forceful. She was one more in my life that said you are doing this or you cannot do that, or blah, blah, blah. She was my boss in many respects, but she was also one of those people that kind of helped you sort things out, and I want to especially thank you, Debi, for all that you did for me as well.

You know, when I walked out of here, it was the end of November. You go through December – it is the holidays, your kind of normal routines of holiday season – came back for the swearing-in and for Speaker Turzai's election as Speaker; I was here for that. After that I was pretty well done. I was physically and emotionally exhausted. I did not know how tired I was until I was fully out of here, you know, a month or so after being done, and I would talk to people, and they would say like, "Well, what are you doing?" I said, "Well, you know, I get up in the morning and I make a list of three things to do, and if I'm lucky, I get to the second one." But I am incapable of doing three things in one day anymore, and you know, in our world that is before breakfast, but it was about all I could do to get three things done in a day; never. Actually, I only got two. If I got to two, I thought I had a successful day.

You know, this place, when I first came I thought this was about getting things done, and while it is about getting things done, I failed to see until, you know, a few years in that you did not really get it done. There is no finality. It is not like we actually solved the problem forever. We are always revisiting. I can remember voting on issues and thinking, one of those tortuous issues where, you know, half the people were for it and half were against it and you had to go one way or the other at the end of the day, and you would think, oh my, at least I will never have to vote on that again, but if you are here for a while, you know, 8 or 10 years later, there it comes again, the same basic issue. There are so few new issues in this world that we deal with. It was one of those lessons that I thought this place was about getting things done, and in a way it is not about getting it done, because it is never really done. It changes; the world changes. We have new things to deal with, same issue just from a different angle. It is about governing, and governing is not ever a finished product. That is the way this system is designed, and it was a real lesson for me. I mean, I remember in my early years some issue was coming up, and I was on this side of the issue, and I dug into the history of it a little bit, only to find out it was my dad, you know, 6 years before had voted to make that that way and I am here voting to go the other way. You know, it is a job that is just never, ever actually completed, and in fact, it is about doing and redoing things, and it is something I think is important for us to keep in mind.

I have enjoyed being Speaker. I enjoyed that more than probably anything else in my legislative career. It has been a lot of fun. I found there are two things that I missed. I have only said one, but I just discovered the second thing I do miss, besides the people and their friends. I mean, set that aside, the one thing I really miss is having an administrative assistant, one of my two Debbies, to sort of tell me, hey, do not forget to do this, do that, or take care of some odds-and-ends things for you. I really miss that. My wife, obviously, was not taking up that task. I did not even pretend to ask. But that is the one thing I really miss. Other than that, nothing. I do not miss anything else, until about 20 minutes ago when I was sitting here and things are going on, I figured out one other thing I might miss around here. On a really busy day when things were nuts – and you know how those days are, when people are really kind of rolling – there was nothing better, more enjoyable and relaxing than to sit in one of those chairs, and generally, the members did not look for you over there. They look here or they look wherever you are on the floor, but they do not look for you there, even though you are hiding in plain view, and that is a great spot to sit, right where the chief justice is sitting. You can look at the room; you can hear the commotions. I found two things I actually miss about this place, and I hope you know how I mean that, because I have loved every minute of being here. I have loved the job and the people and the challenges. The frustrations even were fun in a way. And having seen some of the highs and lows of this place, going from, you know, when I was first elected, it was sort of like getting reelected was kind of a slam-dunk thing. You think of that era to, you know, the current political era, the revolutions Bernie Sanders and Donald Trump bring to this world. What a change in atmosphere and what a change in how people perceive their part of governing and what they do.

But it has been a great pleasure, and I want to thank all of you for your service.

And with that, I just wanted to conclude with Teddy Roosevelt, who has a, you know, neat little twist to history in this building. He has some great quotes, and I just wanted to leave you with one, because I think it is important to remind people now and then of what it is all about and who counts, and this is from "The Man in the Arena." I am sure many of you are familiar with it. "It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat."

God bless you all and thank you very much.

UNVEILING OF PORTRAIT

The SPEAKER. Good; the family will be joining Sam here on the rostrum.

Speaker, please go ahead.

(Portrait of the Honorable Samuel H. Smith unveiled.)

The SPEAKER. Speaker Smith, thank you so much, and to your family.

I would welcome everybody. We are going to take some time to just have you give everybody the opportunity to come up to see the Speaker and his family, if you have not, and to look at the outstanding portrait that Ms. Cooper has done for Sam and for the citizens of Pennsylvania. Thank you very, very much.

We will take a short break. Thank you.

We would ask members to please report to the floor. Would all members please report back to the House floor.

The House is back in session.

We have a number of members who would like to be recognized on uncontested resolutions. We are going to begin with Representative Marcia Hahn, who will be speaking on HR 843, and that will be followed by Representative Driscoll on HR 841; Representative Oberlander on HR 832; Representative Boback on HR 853; Representative Murt on HR 847; and cleanup will be Representative Moul on HR 840.

Members, if you will please take your seats. Members, please take your seats. If members could please take their seats.

STATEMENT BY MS. HAHN

The SPEAKER. Representative Hahn is here.

So members in front of Representative Hahn, if you could please take your seats.

Representative Hahn, the floors is yours.

Ms. HAHN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I rise to thank everyone for their support of HR 843, which designates this Thursday, May 5, as "National Day of Prayer" in Pennsylvania. This is an annual event on the first Thursday in May to set aside time to pray for our country. For many reasons these are troubled times in which we live. Also, for a multitude of reasons, there are many things for which we should be thankful. The National Day of Prayer is not the only day we can and should pray, and for that freedom itself, we should celebrate.

Prayer is a very personal experience. Each of us is free to pray individually, and that is something that no one can take from us. While prayer is unique to each individual, this Thursday, May 5, let us join together to recall the reasons there are to give thanks and the many people in our world of plenty who are in need of our prayers and support.

Again, thank you for your support of HR 843.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

STATEMENT BY MR. DRISCOLL

The SPEAKER. Representative Driscoll, on HR 841.

Mr. DRISCOLL. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

HR 841 will honor both our fallen firefighters as well as their grieving survivors by designating the week of May 9 through May 15 as "Fallen Firefighters Survivors' Week" and designating May 13 as "Fallen Firefighters Survivors' Day."

Mr. Speaker, every day our firefighters put their lives on the line to help their neighbors at any time during the day or night. Instead of running away from danger, they move toward it to protect the well-being of others. Our firefighters devote hours of their own time, often sacrificing time with their family and friends, so that our community can be safe.

Firefighters embody the common values to which all Americans aspire: courage, commitment, teamwork, trust, and selflessness. Whether it be volunteer, career, industrial, or wildlife, these brave men and women give selflessly day in and day out to protect our homes, our properties, and our businesses. They are the first line of defense against the tragic loss of lives, always vigilant and prepared to fight fire, explosions, and other catastrophes out of a sense of duty, commitment, and valor.

Firefighters and their loved ones know that they are risking life and limb each time they answer the call to duty. To those who did not make it home, there remains a terrible void in the lives of all their friends, family, and fellow firefighters. This resolution is offered in some small way to recognize these men and women and their survivors as true heroes.

In addition, it is my hope to promote the amazing efforts of the National Fallen Firefighters Foundation, which was created by Congress in 1992 to remember America's fallen firefighters and to raise funds for the survivors' families. The NFFF receives no direct Federal funding and instead relies on grants, individual and corporate donation, and fundraising events. One such event, the 9th Annual Southeastern Pennsylvania Fallen Firefighters Memorial Golf Outing, will be held on May 31 at the Middletown Country Club to raise funds for survivors of fallen firefighters through the NFFF and the International Association of Fire Fighters, Local 22 Survivors Fund. The NFFF should be applauded for undertaking such important work and for offering support to the survivors of firefighters in their time of need.

I am reminded of a tribute to firefighters, which is a response to a firefighter about what he or she makes for a living. The answer is, "I make holding your hand seem like the biggest thing in the world when I'm cutting you out of a car. I...make 5 minutes seem like a life time when I go in a burning house to save your family. I make those annoying sirens seem like angels when you need them. I...make...children breathe" again "when they stop." I make "...you survive a heart attack. I make myself get out of bed at 3am to risk my life to save people I've never met. Today I might make the ultimate sacrifice to save your life. I make a difference...."

Thank you for remembering those who made the ultimate sacrifice. Thank you for supporting those who do so much to protect us, our families and communities. Thank you to our House members here for supporting this resolution. And thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative Driscoll.

STATEMENT BY MS. OBERLANDER

The SPEAKER. Representative Oberlander is recognized to speak on HR 832.

Ms. OBERLANDER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Given the comments that were just made about Firefighters Day, I will keep mine very brief.

But it is an honor and a privilege to have the support of this chamber as we honor firefighters in Pennsylvania. Certainly what they do each and every day is very meaningful to all of us, and their willingness, many times, to do this as volunteers, unpaid, to put the hours in to that job for training and all of those things is really something that we need to be grateful for and thank them.

And it is interesting to know that in 1736 Benjamin Franklin founded the first volunteer fire company, so it is really deep-rooted in our history, and I thank all of Pennsylvania's firefighters.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative Oberlander.

STATEMENT BY MS. BOBACK

The SPEAKER. Representative Boback, on HR 853.

Ms. BOBACK. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

As we voted today to recognize May 2016 as "Teacher Appreciation Month" in Pennsylvania, I feel it is important to thank all of our teachers and recognize their contributions to our communities and to our children.

To all parents who encourage their children to pursue a teaching career as a passion, we say thank you. And as a former educator, I can say that teaching is truly a calling and we need to support our future educators who hold the next generation of our students in the palm of their hand. Thank you to all our teachers, including our parents – our first teachers – for their commitment and contributions to our lives.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative Boback.

STATEMENT BY MR. MURT

The SPEAKER. Representative Tom Murt is recognized to speak on HR 847.

Mr. MURT. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my colleagues for supporting HR 847, which declares the week of May 2 through 8, 2016 as "Children's Mental Health Awareness Week."

Mr. Speaker, as legislators, as teachers, and as parents, we must help children, all children, especially those with special needs, feel connected to their communities, their schools, and their families. Mr. Speaker, feeling welcome is essential to a child's positive adjustment, self-identification, and sense of trust in others and themselves. Building strong, positive relationships among students, school staff, and parents is important to promoting mental wellness.

Mr. Speaker, we must also promote resilience. Adversity is a natural part of life, and being resilient is important to overcoming challenges and good mental health. That will promote connectedness and competency.

Mr. Speaker, we must help all children know that they can overcome challenges and accomplish goals through their actions. By achieving academic success and developing individual talents, children will more effectively deal with stress.

As legislators, we must ensure that children have a positive and safe school environment. Feeling safe is critical to students' learning and mental health.

We must also fight against negative behavior such as school violence and bullying and harassment. We can do this by providing easily understood rules of conduct and fair discipline practices and ensuring an adult presence in common areas, such as walkways, cafeterias, soccer fields, locker rooms, and playgrounds. As parents, we must teach children to work together to stand up to a bully, urge them to reach out to excluded peers, and celebrate acts of kindness.

Mr. Speaker, my hope is that this resolution will encourage all Pennsylvanians to help children, especially those with special needs. We need to show these children that they, too, can make a difference. This positive behavior of which I speak will build self-esteem, reinforce personal responsibility, and present opportunity for positive recognition, and that will reinforce the importance of being part of the community.

As legislators, we must encourage and educate school staff, parents, and students on the symptoms of and help for mental health problems. Information can break down the stigma surrounding mental health and enable and empower adults and students to recognize when to seek help.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative Murt.

STATEMENT BY MR. MOUL

The SPEAKER. Representative Moul, on HR 840.

Mr. MOUL. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

HR 840 is "Tourette Syndrome Awareness Month" resolution. I had prepared some remarks, but I think I will just wing it.

There is not a soul in this chamber that does not know what Tourette syndrome is. We have one organization, Tourette Syndrome Alliance, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to work with over 3,000 children in Pennsylvania that are afflicted with this innate disease. I just ask you, during budget season, to keep them in mind, make sure we do not forget about the Tourette syndrome, make sure we keep these people doing the good work that they are doing, and that we make sure that we put our support behind them.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative.

REMARKS SUBMITTED FOR THE RECORD

The SPEAKER. Representative Tim Hennessey.

Mr. HENNESSEY. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I would just like to thank the members for their support of HR 864, which establishes May 2016 as "Older Pennsylvanians Month" in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The balance of my remarks I will submit for the record. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, sir.

Mr. HENNESSEY submitted the following remarks for the Legislative Journal:

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to commemorate Older Pennsylvanians Month. Historically, we also celebrate Older Americans Month in May, which I know my colleagues have also introduced a resolution commemorating that here in the House.

As chair of the House Aging and Older Adult Services Committee, I want to take the time to acknowledge our older adults here in the Commonwealth. As many of you know, Pennsylvania has the fourth highest population of seniors in the nation. In 2011 the first baby boomers began turning 65 – that is 10,000 people every day in the U.S.

As these boomers age, we realize that we not only must have adequate services and supports available to them, but we also must recognize the services, expertise, and knowledge they are able to share in our local communities.

This year's national theme is "Blaze a Trail." We recognize older adults and their contributions to our communities. Later in life they are uncovering new talents, offering assistance in our communities with their expertise and knowledge, discovering new passions, or maybe sharing their lifetime passions by continuing to work and volunteer in our neighborhoods, churches, and schools. Today we recognize our older Pennsylvanians as they blaze a trail here in the Commonwealth and thank them for continuing to share their talents, skills, and stories with us every day.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

STATEMENT BY MR. SCHLOSSBERG

The SPEAKER. Representative Schlossberg, HR 764.

Mr. SCHLOSSBERG. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

And thank you to the members in the chamber for the approval of HR 764, which declares May as "Mental Health Awareness Month." I think we have a very bad tendency in this chamber to kind of steamroll our way through these resolutions and forget that despite the fact that they are resolutions, they are nonbinding, they are meant to bring awareness to important problems, to things that affect our constituents deeply.

One out of every five adults in this country and in this Commonwealth actively suffers from some sort of mental health challenge, one out of every two will over the course of their lifetime, and only 30 to 40 percent of those people will seek treatment. Now, there is a variety of reasons for this, there is no shortage of reasons for this, but the stigma that surrounds mental health disorders is a big part of that reason.

I would encourage every member in this chamber, in the course of their daily lives in enacting their legislative duty, to remind those who suffer from some sort of mental health challenge or those who love or know someone who suffers from the same issue that people with mental health disorders can lead happy, successful, and wonderful lives, and they should not be shunned by society but should be embraced by it.

Mr. Speaker, last year at around this time, I spoke on the House floor from that spot over there, talking about my own struggles with depression and anxiety, and this House responded by giving me a standing ovation, which was truly, on a professional level, one of the greatest and most touching moments of my life. I bring it up today because I firmly believe that every single person in society deserves that kind of comfort and love that everyone in this building showed me on that day.

So in the course of your daily lives, I would remind, I would beg, I would implore all of you to take care of those who suffer from some sort of mental health illness, because if it is not you personally, I am sure someone you know or someone you love is in that position. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative Schlossberg.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER. On that question, the Chair recognizes Representative Miller. Sir, the floor is yours.

Mr. D. MILLER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to offer this amendment that I think builds off of a very good idea of the maker of the bill, where here we are going to recognize the unique relationships that come about, whether we are talking about parents or some of the guardianships and the coverage that needs to be done for some of our citizens to which they need a little bit of help when it comes to managing their financial affairs.

This expands to this protected people-class the options and the abilities to protect them and to be sure that they are less likely to become victims of identity theft. I think that this bill here will go a long way with this amendment and assure that we are helping all of our citizens.

And I just want to thank the good chairman for his work here in finding this amendment, which I think would be a great addition to the Commonwealth. So I would offer the amendment, and I believe it is one to which we have agreed on.

The SPEAKER. Representative Barrar, on the amendment, sir.

Mr. BARRAR. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I would ask the members to vote for the amendment. It is agreed to. I think it is a great addition to the bill, and I thank the member for his cooperation in working with us.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, sir.

Mr. BARRAR. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mrs. GINGRICH. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Over in the Senate – and I am going to thank in advance for the support of both the chambers on this bill, which has been a lot of hard work and unanimous – but the changes, the little, small changes that were made over there in the Senate Appropriations Committee were a cross-referencing of the definition for "preemployment transition services" as it is used in the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973, so in some respects, technical, and they clarified the scope of services that will be provided by OVR (Office of Vocational Rehabilitation) to eligible students, and then a couple of technical formatting changes, and that is what happened over in the Senate.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative Gingrich.

STATEMENT BY MRS. GINGRICH

The SPEAKER. Representative Gingrich is recognized on unanimous consent.

Mrs. GINGRICH. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I do want to again thank the members in both chambers for supporting this very important bill for our high school students with disabilities.

Thanks to this legislation, the way it was crafted for OVR to work with our school districts in getting our high school students that are dealing with disabilities out into the integrated workplace so that when they graduate from high school they do not graduate to their parents' couch.

Many of them are ready, willing, and totally able to work in an integrated environment, and this will give them the opportunity that we all had as high school students – learning the soft skills of the workforce and opportunities for opening doors for employment.

I do especially want to thank the group led by Dr. Josie Badger, the #IWantToWork Campaign Team. They were tireless in working in both the House and the Senate, and there will be many young people gainfully employed as a result of all our mutual work.

Thank you again, Mr. Speaker.

Amend Bill, page 2, line 17, by striking out "(2)" and inserting (3)

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER. On that question, the Chair recognizes Representative Maher.

Mr. MAHER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

We have observed in this House many times the growing epidemic of drug overdoses and that a drug overdose is the leading cause of death in young adults. Too often these drugs come right out of medicine cabinets, and we need to find a way to dispose of drugs that are not needed for the reasons for which they are originally prescribed. This amendment provides an additional avenue to accomplish this drug destruction which will, we hope, reduce the risk of loss and death for Pennsylvanians.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, sir.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the amendment?

LEAVE OF ABSENCE CANCELED

The SPEAKER. Representative Mark Keller is on the floor and should be placed on the master roll.

CONSIDERATION OF HB 1769 CONTINUED

The SPEAKER. This bill has been considered on three different days and agreed to and is now on final passage.

The question is, shall the bill pass finally?

Representative Gillen, you are recognized, sir.

Mr. GILLEN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I want to commend my friend and the gentleman from Lehigh and Berks Counties relative to this particular piece of legislation. I indicated to him, prior to speaking, that I would have a few comments on the bill.

We are moving from a fine regimen of up to $1,000 to $5,000 and $10,000 fines for committing a PUC-related offense. If I could just very briefly, before I close, draw attention to one of the penalty enhancements under this bill. A violator moving household goods from one location to another, it would actually call for the confiscation, the possible confiscation of the vehicle being utilized. Think in terms of $100,000, $150,000 piece of equipment that would be confiscated in addition to the registration and the destruction of someone's livelihood as a consequence of this PUC (Public Utility Commission) violation.

Might I also note that the fine regimen in moving to a $5,000 or $10,000 fine on the second offense, though typically a third-degree misdemeanor, would be a $2500 fine. The fines called for in HB 1769 would move to $5,000 and $10,000 fines, which would typically be more associated with fines you would see in assault or human trafficking as well as prostitution cases.

Mr. Speaker, I am not at variance with the intent of the bill. I am concerned about destroying the livelihood of drivers moving household goods from one location to another as a consequence of a technical PUC violation. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Thank you, Representative Gillen.

Does anybody else wish to be recognized?

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?
