SESSION OF 2009 193RD OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 65

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, July 29, 2009

The Senate met at 10 a.m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Joseph B. Scarnati III) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend GERRY STOLTZFOOS, of Freedom Valley Worship Center, Gettysburg, offered the following prayer:

I am painfully aware, today, that there are other belief systems involved in this House other than mine. I am not here to push mine, and I invite you to pray in the belief system that is yours as I pray in mine:

Our Heavenly Father, You have given us today, and for that, we thank You. You have allowed us to live in a great nation and given us meaningful work to do. You have entrusted us with a momentous time in history, when the decisions that will be made today will decide the direction, the tone, and the meaning of so many lives that will live with our decisions. We are humbled by our role and deeply moved by the implications of what we do. You have given us meaningful opportunities to make the lives of others better, and for that, we are in need of Your wisdom, Your guidance, and perhaps even Your intervention if we lose our way in the details or somehow lose sight of the precious people whom we serve.

As we go about our work today, we ask You to guide and direct this work for the good of mankind. Allow us to create a world, O God, that treats people well and fosters true greatness in our people. Give us Your great grace to see and admit our mistakes and grow in our abilities to serve those we are charged to serve. Help us recognize and encourage great ideas, even when they are not our own or convenient for our own careers. Our desire is not so much that You bless the work of our hands but that You would involve us in those great things that You are already blessing.

Help us form a government and a system that allows the creative greatness of the human spirit to soar. Help us to imagine solutions and to create room for people to create solutions of their own. Help us to make it possible for our constituents to build lives and families of meaningful and productive satisfaction. And, Lord, grant us a sense of awareness, that all we have and all that we are comes from You, and that we are mere stewards of it.

Help us to remember that one day, we will stand before You and give an account of how we served and how we lived. When we do well, give us humility in acknowledging that You have generously given us wisdom. Help us to honor You in all that we do, O God. And for those of us who are Christians, we pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks Reverend Stoltzfoos, who is the guest today of Senator Alloway.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

(The Pledge of Allegiance was recited by those assembled.)

Considered the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Columbia, Senator Gordner.

Senator GORDNER. Mr. President, I rise in support of House Bill No. 1770. With the passage of this legislation, up to 60,000 people who are unemployed across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania could benefit from this legislation. Already, unfortunately, there are about 20,000 people who would benefit. Those are individuals who have already taken advantage of the combined 72 weeks of unemployment comp provisions but have had those exhausted. Around 20,000 of them, again, have had them exhausted just in the past 2 weeks.

This legislation takes advantage of some Federal stimulus and stabilization moneys and would allow us to provide these additional 7 weeks at the cost to the Federal government for most of it, although there will be some cost to governmental employers. As has been stated during this process, this will have no effect on business employers, as a result of provisions in the Federal law, but those employers that are not businesses, such as school districts, municipalities, counties, and even the Commonwealth, will have some costs assigned to them. But I am sure we will all agree that the benefits to those unemployed will outweigh the costs to those municipal governments.

The city of Philadelphia will end up seeing the biggest cost, of about $1 million. Allegheny County will be second, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, around $500,000. We have received letters from the mayor of Philadelphia, the Allegheny County Executive, and Governor Rendell, indicating their support for this legislation, even after acknowledging those costs to them. Ninety-five percent of my district is made up of boroughs and townships.

Part of the due diligence that the Senate Committee on Labor and Industry did was to make sure that all of the municipal entities that will be affected had the ability to weigh in. Just last week, as a matter of fact, the Pennsylvania Association of Boroughs and the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors did weigh in. They indicated that they are neutral on the legislation and appreciated the opportunity to have some extra time to get some questions answered.

One of the important things that our committee did before we reported this bill out was amend it in order to put in a retroactive effective date. House Bill No. 1770, as it came over from the House, had an effective date that said, effective immediately. The problem with that is that if, in fact, we do this today, which I know we will be doing, I believe it is scheduled for House consideration, on concurrence, on Monday, and it goes to the Governor. By the time it gets to the Governor, 3 weeks' worth of unemployed would have already come off the rolls. As a result of the committee's actions, we put in a retroactive position that will make the effective date for the appropriate sections retroactive to July 1, again, to make sure that those 20,000 individuals who have already come off the rolls will qualify for these benefits as well.

Finally, I would like to thank Senator Tartaglione and the Members of the Senate Committee on Labor and Industry for allowing me to do due diligence to make sure that this legislation is 100-percent perfect for the benefit of the 20,000 people who can take advantage of this now, and the 60,000 people who will end up taking advantage of this benefit in the coming months. Again, I urge support for House Bill No. 1770.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Philadelphia, Senator Tartaglione.

Senator TARTAGLIONE. Mr. President, I ask to be recognized so that I can speak in support of House Bill No. 1770, which I believe will give peace of mind to thousands of families who have struggled through the recession.

Mr. President, this did not all come about because of the crowd from Philadelphia that we have here in Harrisburg. This all came about because the crowd from Philadelphia is united with the crew from the suburbs, the gang from Allegheny, and the squad from the northeast. It came about because people across Pennsylvania are suffering through this historic recession, and lawmakers from across Pennsylvania understand that helping them is helping the economy and preserving families.

The working families that benefit from this bill live in large cities, in small boroughs, in houses, in apartments, in suburbs, and on farms. This crowd we have from Philadelphia--and I like to call them the Philadelphia delegation--united with members from east to west, behind the jobless workers who are among the first victims of the recession. The Philadelphia crowd helped convince city officials that the benefits of the bill were well worth the costs. They worked through the weekend to convince all of my Senate colleagues that we need to get this done so that these families can stop worrying. The gang from Allegheny did the same. I am proud of the crowd.

In my mind, the 17,880 workers who lost their unemployment benefits nearly 2 weeks ago made all of this effort worth it. I am their henchwoman, Mr. President, and I do not even think that is a word, but even if it is not, I do not mind being called that. Call me a henchwoman, call me persistent, call me whatever. Each Member of this crowd was elected to this Chamber by constituents, most of us several times over. We are their henchpeople.

More than 4,000 of them will benefit from this bill, and I am happy to be able to tell them that help is on the way. They lost their income through no fault of their own. They have been working and looking for work in a market that is losing 4,000 jobs a month. Unemployment has jumped by 45 percent in Philadelphia. But joblessness is not just an issue for the city crowd. The unemployment rate is up by 70 percent in Dauphin County, and 260 people will benefit from this bill. Three hundred and eighty people will have their benefits restored in York County, where the unemployment rate is up 88 percent in the past year. In Lancaster County, unemployment is up by 80 percent, and 400 people will get help.

Mr. President, I believe that the unemployed from these counties are good people who got caught up in bad times. I believe they are hardworking. I believe they are honest. I believe the same about my colleagues from those counties. Mr. President, I know we have differences of opinion about many important issues, but I know that just like I do, they go back home when Session is over, and they answer for what we have done here in this Chamber. I do not believe the people of Philadelphia are any more honest and hardworking than the people of central Pennsylvania, and I would be troubled to learn that that feeling is not mutual. I hope that there is nothing about my henchwomanship that has left anyone feeling otherwise.

On behalf of the crowd, I want to thank my colleague from Northumberland County, Senator Gordner, for his courtesy, flexibility, and dedication in moving this bill through the committee. I am grateful to the Republican Leader from Delaware County for his dignity and temperance and for his swift action today. To Senator Mellow, our Democratic Leader, I am thankful for his leadership and support; to Governor Rendell, for his dedication to getting this done; to Representative Gergely, who introduced the bill and ushered it through the House of Representatives by a vote of 197 to 1, and his staff.

Thanks to the Secretary of Labor and Industry, Sandi Vito, and her wonderful staff, who has worked with us to clarify and answer questions. Credit must go to Senate staff members, who worked so diligently to reach this vote. Kathy Benton - I do not know if there is a word for the henchwoman's henchwoman, but she is it, and I am proud of her work. Todd Roup - I will spare him a hench title, but his efforts are greatly appreciated. My colleagues on both sides of the aisle, for the people of Pennsylvania, for the people who need help, and for those who just want the General Assembly to operate with dignity and decorum, I urge a "yes" vote on House Bill No. 1770.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Chester, Senator Dinniman.

Senator DINNIMAN. Mr. President, I rise to tell you that unemployment is real, that I come from probably one of the wealthiest counties in all of Pennsylvania, and that in our county, too, the unemployment figures are increasing. We were okay until about October of last year. We were able to keep it at 3 percent or below. But we are now at 6.25 percent, and in the Philadelphia suburbs, we now have some of the fastest growing unemployment in the Commonwealth, in terms of a percentage.

We have to, as a body, whether we are from Philadelphia, whether we are from the suburbs, whether we are from central Pennsylvania, Erie County, or Allegheny County, we have to understand and respond sensitively to the people who, through no fault of their own, do not have jobs. I want to join with my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Tartaglione, to make this statement and to make it clear that this is a problem for all of Pennsylvania, and each of us has to be sensitive. But I personally was disappointed, as I know Senator Tartaglione and all Members of our Caucus were, that this vote was delayed for a week, because--I mean, I am happy that we are going to vote "yes" today.

Understand that there are people out there, real people, our neighbors, our friends, even members of our families, who do not have jobs. They try. They try the best they can to find employment in this economy, but there are no jobs out there. More and more--at first, it was the workers on the lines who were hurt, then it became middle management, and now, as we have a total restructuring of the global economy, upper management. The people who live in the neighborhoods of Chester, Montgomery, Delaware, and Bucks Counties, as well as suburbs all over this Commonwealth, are also getting hurt.

If there is anything that this body has to unite on, it is to reach out and help those citizens who want to work, who have talent, who want to contribute to the well-being of this Commonwealth, but simply cannot find jobs. I am glad we are passing this today. We should have passed this a week ago. And if any issue comes up on unemployment, let us unite together. I know we had to go through all of the intricacies of understanding what it would cost this borough, or what it would cost this city, or what it would cost the State, but the bottom line, my friends, is this: There are people in this Commonwealth, growing every day by hundreds and hundreds and thousands and thousands, who do not have jobs.

If we, who have jobs here, and were elected to do them, are not sensitive to this community, then who will be? It is our responsibility, as Members--I do not care what your party is. I do not care where you come from. We need to reach out, and we need to reach out on a continuing basis. Again, the key is this - we should thank God, each of us, that we have jobs. The people who are listening out there are scared and nervous that they, too, will join these statistics.

If there is any disappointment with the President's stimulus program, it is that it has not brought back full employment yet. But we, here in the Commonwealth, need to work, day in and day out--with no excuses, no delay in our timing--to be sensitive to those who are unemployed, to understand that they are our brothers and our sisters, and to make sure that we act and act quickly on any opportunity to extend unemployment compensation.

Finally, Mr. President, do you think that any of those individuals out there do not want to work? Do you think, after 2 years--72 weeks, remember--that they have not struggled for a year and a half, almost 2 years, to find employment? We need to respond affirmatively to what is occurring. I thank Senator Tartaglione. I thank Senator Gordner for finally moving the bill. Again, let us remember that these are human beings who need work, who want work, and we, as a body, should never delay in trying to help our brothers and sisters who are struggling through this difficult economy.

Thank you, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Columbia, Senator Gordner.

Senator GORDNER. Mr. President, I must respond to the previous speaker. On behalf of 20,000 people who have already lost their benefits, I am glad that we delayed so that we could amend the bill to make sure that those folks are covered. If we would have acted immediately, it is very probable that 20,000 people across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who had exhausted their 72 weeks of benefits would not be benefitting by the passage of House Bill No. 1770.

It is possible that the previous speaker is not aware of it, because he was not involved with the legislation, was not on the committee, was not involved with the negotiations, was not involved with my conversations with the Secretary of Labor and Industry, who immediately agreed to the amendment that we inserted in the Committee on Labor and Industry to insure that those 20,000 people who have already exhausted their benefits would get those benefits. That is a direct result of putting a retroactive amendment into the bill.

So, Mr. President, there is a reason why we do due diligence. The Senate is a deliberative body. We take a look at legislation, and we make sure that it is correct, so that when it goes to the Governor, it is exactly how we want it. I am pleased, as the chair of the Committee on Labor and Industry, to have done due diligence on this bill, because I would have felt horrible to have passed legislation to the Governor and then found out that 20,000 people might not have gotten the benefit of this bill because we acted too quickly and too irresponsibly.

So in response to the previous gentleman, I am pleased to support House Bill No. 1770, as amended, with the Senate amendment in it to insure the retroactive activity and to make sure that those 20,000 people get the benefit of this legislation.

Thank you, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Mellow.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I had no reason whatsoever to participate in this debate, except I think if there is anyone who is uttering a lame excuse, it is the previous speaker, because this gentleman could have reported this bill out of committee on the date that we had a news conference, which was July 20. I immediately--

POINT OF ORDER

Senator PILEGGI. Mr. President, point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Pileggi.

Senator PILEGGI. Mr. President, I believe the speaker is questioning the motives of the gentleman who is chairman of the committee.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair reminds all Members to speak on the bill and not question the motives of previous speakers.

Senator MELLOW. I am not questioning the motive, Mr. President. I am stating a fact. There is a major difference, and I would like the Chair to instruct the Republican Leader of the Senate that there is a difference between a fact and a motive. I do not know what the gentleman's motive was, as chairman of the Committee on Labor and Industry, not to report the bill out, but I do not understand the excuse that we are making on the floor of the Senate, because that bill could have been reported out.

I would have signed a note to convene a meeting of the Committee on Labor and Industry off the floor. That could have been done a week ago. If that news conference did not take place in the Rotunda last week, we would not be discussing House Bill No. 1770 today, and that is thanks to Senator Tartaglione. She is the one who is responsible for the fact that it was brought to the attention of not only the Members of the Senate and the General Assembly, but also to the people of Pennsylvania.

I am not questioning his motive whatsoever. I am questioning the reason why there was an excuse. I know what the motive was, I believe, and I am not -- in no way am I trying to say that the gentleman did something inappropriate. I am questioning the political wisdom as to why we had to wait to get this particular bill done. The only thing that this bill does is help almost 20,000 people in Pennsylvania who are unemployed take advantage of an extension through a stimulus. I heard excuses, Mr. President, prior to the news conference on Monday, July 20, as to the reason why it was or was not done.

I think it is time that we put excuses aside. I think it is time to start working on the business of the people, and the business of the people, in this particular regard, is not to throw bouquets and to sing "kumbaya." It is to do the job that we are being paid to do. Let us not blame others for the reason why. They have said we have done things, we have not done things.

Let us get down to doing the job the right way. Send it back over to the House of Representatives so they can concur on it, and send it to the Governor for his signature, for the purpose of helping the 20,000 people who are collecting unemployment, because there seems to be little regard, Mr. President, for the almost 80,000 people in Pennsylvania who work for the Commonwealth, who, because of the budget impasse, are not getting paid. Let us not put those 20,000 people in the same category as the 80,000 people in Pennsylvania who are, today, currently working. Let us pass the bill, let us finish with the excuses, and let us get on with our business.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Pileggi.

Senator PILEGGI. Mr. President, just briefly, for people who might be watching this and are not informed on the history of this bill, it is my understanding that although we agree that this bill is an important and time-sensitive bill, for some reason, there was no corresponding bill in the Senate, and the House bill was here less than 3 weeks before today's final passage. I agree with the gentleman from Columbia County. That deliberative process did allow for a very important amendment. If it was simply rushed through without that thoughtful process, we would be doing an ineffective job as legislators.

I would also point out, for those who are watching, that much of the press for us to act quickly came from our friends in the House after they sent the bill to us, which did not come to us until July, by the way. It could have come to us sooner, but it came to us in July. And then today, we are here passing the bill, as amended, back to the House. But for some reason, the House does not think this is an urgent enough matter to come back tomorrow, or to come back the next day, or to come back even the next day. They are prepared, evidently, to wait until Monday before this bill takes final action in the House and goes to the Governor.

So I think that the positive news here is that we have acted responsibly, and we have acted quickly. We have moved this bill forward to the House so that we will effectively extend unemployment compensation benefits. Frankly, I do not know how productive it is to try to assign blame or error or a perceived delay when, frankly, the delay, in this case, was productive.

Thank you, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Mellow.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I just think, for clarification -- and I am not saying this for those who may be watching it on TV, because quite frankly, everybody should have been watching what has taken place in this particular Chamber and in the General Assembly over the last several weeks or month with regard to a budget and the ineffectiveness in trying to get a budget passed. But, Mr. President, our understanding is that the moment this bill passes the Senate, the House will reconvene for the purpose of acting on House Bill No. 1770, to grant the extension to those individuals, through the stimulus package, who collect unemployment compensation.

So, Mr. President, let us quit the blaming that is taking place in this body. I think it was very unfortunate that a Member of the Republican Party was very critical of a Member of this Democratic Party over here. A Senator, on the radio last weekend, made some very, very strong allegations against a gentlewoman. I think when you talk about excuses and you talk about blame, there is enough to go around right there, Mr. President.

So if we are going to do the job the right way, as adults in Pennsylvania, then we should do the job the right way, not only as it deals with an extension of unemployment compensation benefits, but equally as important, Mr. President, as it deals with the budget of the Commonwealth, which today is 29 days late, beyond the fiscal year when the budget should have been signed. So let us move on. Let us get this job done, and hopefully, we will then move on to try to resolve the budget.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution and were as follows, viz:

YEA-48

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Fontana.

Senator FONTANA. Mr. President, I have listened to the debate, discussion, and rhetoric about the budget and the budget impasse for the last 2 months. I have heard about State workers, and for the record, Mr. President, I believe that the State workers should be paid and should have been paid. But I have also heard about spending numbers, deficits, money differences between proposed budgets, live within your means, tighten your belt, old revenues, new revenues, next year's budget, the budget for 2 years from now, and share the pain. I have heard all of that. So I was wondering, Mr. President, is there another way to balance this budget with revenue sources that have not been discussed much or at all?

The most current expenditure total for the Senate Republican version of the budget, as reported yesterday, was $27.2 billion. The Governor's most recent version of the budget has a total expenditure of $28.6 billion, including the $277 million in cuts announced on Monday. Simple mathematics, as I have heard stated a few times here, that is a $1.4 billion difference. So the billion-dollar question is, Mr. President, how do we make up that difference?

My constituents have been very clear that they do not want a personal income tax or even a sales tax increase, and I have not advocated for either one of them. Those same constituents, however, Mr. President, are advocating for more funding for their libraries, early childhood programs, public television, the arts, job training, hospitals, and mental health programs, among others.

Mr. President, an extraction tax on the Marcellus Shale may only generate $88 million, but that funding can reinstate, for example, the New Communities Program that provides funding for the Elm Street and Main Street programs in our municipalities. It could increase Pre-K Counts and the Head Start supplemental line items to the levels proposed by the Governor or restore the grants to the arts. Imposing a tax on smokeless tobacco may also result in an additional $39 million, but that figure alone could restore funding to our public libraries. Also, an increase in the cigarette tax could provide an additional $85 million.

Mr. President, let us talk about the capital stock and franchise tax. Whether we apply last calendar year's rate of 2.89 mills or freeze the existing rate of 1.89 mills, we are still talking about $72 million to $374 million in additional revenue, or something in the middle. That is enough revenue to provide public television station grants, reestablish job training programs, increase grants to the students at PHEAA, and increase the funding to our tourism promotion agencies.

How about talking about closing the Delaware loophole? That change could result in additional revenues of $200 million, revenue enough to insure that our hospitals have adequate funding and that we continue to support mental health programs that our residents rely on.

We all have priorities, Mr. President. There are plenty of other worthy programs that we could discuss restoring to the budget, provided that we have the revenue to do so. These are some of the things that I have pointed out. So let us talk about these proposals and give our constituents what they need and what they want. Maybe someone, Mr. President, can tell me why these revenues were not considered, or maybe they were considered and were rejected. I guess my question is, Mr. President, why were they rejected, and why are we saying "no" to them now and delaying this budget further?

Thank you, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Hughes.

Senator HUGHES. Mr. President, I rise to raise a point of information for the Members and anyone who may be paying attention to our activities here in the Senate.

We have been talking at length for several months now about our budget situation, about the dollars that exist or do not exist here in the Commonwealth, about decisions that we make here, what impact they will have at the local level, what impact they will have on the services we provide. The gentleman, my friend, my colleague from Allegheny County, just talked about potential new resources and revenues that could be yielded to address our situation. We talk about how we spend money, how we do not spend money, and then we talk about the impact of all of these decisions on our local municipalities, townships, school boards, counties, whatever local jurisdiction you want to name. We have talked about it all.

We have a new wrinkle that we can add to the equation today, Mr. President, and it appears that—I do not know, maybe it is for political expediency, maybe it is for whatever reason, but it seems that it is rising face to some of the earlier conversations that we had with respect to how our decisions impact local municipalities—it appears that the date for the special election to fill the seat, I believe it is the 24th senatorial seat, the date for the special election to fill the resignation of our good friend and colleague, Senator Wonderling, who has retired from this body, has been set for September 29. September 29 is the date that has been set.

Now, I am not sure why we do not set the date to coincide with the general election that appears the first Tuesday in November, which would seem to be the smart thing to do, would seem to be the thing that would allow for voters to have their say on a whole number of local and State issues and electoral seats. But it seems that we have set a date, on September 29, that probably gives rise to political expediency. It does not necessarily maximize turnout for the folks who reside in that senatorial district. But the thing that we do know is that it is probably going to cost the local taxpayers of the, I believe, four different counties who are part of that senatorial district, it is probably going to cost a total of about a $500,000, all told, when you count up all costs. And I am not talking about political costs. I am talking about local taxpayer costs, Mr. President. It is probably going to cost about $500,000 to local taxpayers to have that election on the obscure date of September 29.

We are not talking about the first Tuesday in November, when it would be the most appropriate time to have the election, where everybody is already set up, the mechanisms are in place, the local electoral boards are in position, machines and computers and whatever the counties are using to do their vote-casting is set where everybody is already focused on a date. We pick a date, September 29, and forget the political conversation. What we know is there are going to be hard-and-fast costs that have to be borne by those counties on that date, a date pulled out of the sky, September 29, a decision made by this body that will have an impact on local taxpayers. They are going to have to pay the costs of that, when the costs were already set in their budgets for an election on that first Tuesday in November.

It makes no sense. It shows, however, that the decisions that we make here have an impact on local taxpayers. First, we want to set an election on some obscure date of September 29, adding the cost to local taxpayers for them to run the election on that day, and then in the same conversation, we propose a budget process and budget discussions that will have further impact on local taxpayers. It has been reported, that if we move Senate Bill No. 850, which has been discussed and voted here on this floor, or if we move House Bill No. 1416, which has been voted and
