LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1991

SESSION OF 1991

175TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 1

SENATE

TUESDAY, January 1, 1991, 12:00 m.

The PRESIDENT. This is the constitutional day and hour for the convening of the 175th Regular Session of the General Assembly.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) called the Senate to order at 12:00 m., Eastern Standard Time.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Monsignor Michael Servinsky, of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church, Altoona, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God, the Creator of all and the Lord of all history, bless this august assemblage, who meet on this New Year's Day of 1991 to open this legislative Session.

The first day of a new year always brings with it energetic hope and revitalized strength to confront the difficulties which so vex us.

Grant the newly elected Members of this Legislature a warm, gracious and amicable welcome. May they bring fresh insights into old problems. May their energy and zeal renew those who have been worn down over the years. Bless, too, the reelected Members of the Senate and General Assembly. Grant them the gift of leadership and the courage to exercise it.

Bestow upon all our Legislators the prudence and patience to listen and learn from others. Grant them the gift of wisdom so that this Commonwealth may be safely piloted through the turbulent times which face us.

O God, You know our thoughts even before we do, so You know how worried and anxious we are about the events in the Persian Gulf. We all pray for our Armed Forces. We remember in a very special way all the men and women from Pennsylvania and those of our own families who serve our country. Watch over them, Lord, and keep them safe, but, most of all, Almighty God, grant us peace.

Our thoughtful and heartfelt concerns include those who live here in Pennsylvania. We are indeed grateful for the passage last year of Act 31. Nonetheless, there are still many life issues challenging us. In brief, how do we provide our citizens with needed health care and housing? How can we feed the hungry and furnish recreation? What can be done to supply our children with free choice in education, including a value centered education? There are questions of employment, crime and punishment. We are faced with a deteriorating infrastructure as well as the crises of our cities, boroughs and townships. Then, to solve these, Lord, we will need the financial wherewithal in a time of dwindling resources. Without despairing, we trust in Your divine providence and guidance. Already You provide us with freedom and the power of commitment. Freedom equips us with the capacity to discover numberless solutions, while our commitment dedicates us to the accomplishment of our goals.

In ancient Rome it was the custom to seek the seat of the senate or public office in order to get rich. Moreover, we know the infamous story of the Emperor Nero who was unconcerned about the people. So indifferent was he to the needs of the state that he fiddled while Rome burned.

Heavenly Master, these men and women have pledged themselves to the service of their constituents and of the Commonwealth. Do not allow them to become self-serving or narrow in their thinking. Save them from the temptations of power, greed and politics. May the primary concern of each individual Senator be the welfare of all the citizens of Pennsylvania. May their days in office be a contribution to the people and not be reduced to petty competition or bickering over individual or party self-interest, and may the spirit of God come upon you. May you be granted the spirit of cooperation and collaboration in order to give food to the hungry, shelter to the homeless, justice to the needy, hope to the despairing, knowledge to the ignorant, love to all, and at all times may you realize that it is only by working together with one another and with God above that the tasks laid upon you today can be fulfilled.

Let us, too, remember the families and the friends of our Senators, those here present and those who cannot be here with us today. Bless them, Lord, that they might support these Senators with love and understanding as they attend to their sworn duty. We lift our hearts and our hands to God with this prayer, to Him Who lives and reigns for ever and ever. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks Monsignor Servinsky for the prayer and for establishing the legislative agenda for the year.

PRESENTATION OF ELECTION RETURNS

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

The PRESIDENT. For the record, the Chair has been informed by the Secretary of the Commonwealth that all of the Senators-elect have filed in the Secretary's Office the accounts and affidavits as required by the Act of June 3, 1937, P.L. 1333, Section 1632.

Before proceeding to the administration of the oaths of office, the Chair would like to request the cooperation of all news photographers and all individuals who would like to take pictures, so that during the actual ceremonies there will be no picture taking. Those Senators who are sworn in are asked to please, at the conclusion of the actual administration of the oaths of office, stay a few moments at the bar so that anybody who wishes to take a picture can do so. That is to say, we will interrupt the proceedings after the swearing-in to allow for an opportunity for all of you to take whatever pictures you like. Please do not take pictures during the actual ceremonies.

ADMINISTRATION OF OATH OF OFFICE

The PRESIDENT. The next order of business will be the administration of the oath of office to the newly elected Senators. It is a distinct honor and privilege to have with us today two very distinguished judges: Judge Robert L. Byer and Judge James R. Kelley of the Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania, Judge Kelley being an alumnus of this very august Body.

These jurists have kindly consented to come here today to administer the oath of office to our Senators-elect and officers in accordance with Article VI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

We will now proceed to the administration of the oath of office to the Republican Senators-elect by Judge Byer.

Will the Republican Senators-elect present themselves in front of the rostrum. Please bring with you the Bibles which have been placed on your desks.

Would you all please rise.

I have the honor of presenting Judge Byer who will now administer the oath of office to the Republican Senators-elect.

Judge BYER. This is a very distinct honor for me.

Senators-elect, would you please place your left hand on your Bible and raise your right hand and repeat after me:

I, please state your names, do solemnly swear, that I will support, obey and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the Commonwealth, and that I will discharge the duties of my office with fidelity.

Congratulations, Senators.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT. Would all the Senators and guests please be seated for a few moments while we allow photographs to be taken. Those individuals who wish to take photographs, please come forward at this time.

Would the Republican Senators please wait for a few moments to accommodate your public.

The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

The PRESIDENT. Would the photographers bear with us and exit so that we can swear in the Democrats, after which we will invite you back.

Would the Senators and all the guests please be seated.

The next order of business will be the administration of the oath of office to the newly elected Democratic Senators. The oath will be administered to the Democratic Senators-elect by Judge Kelley.

Will all of the Democratic Senators-elect present themselves in front of the rostrum. Please bring with you the Bibles that have been placed at your desks.

Would you all please rise.

It is an honor to present Judge Kelley who will administer the oath of office to the Democratic Senators-elect.

Judge KELLEY. Mr. President, I share the same pride that Judge Byer does in performing and serving the perpetuation of this great Body. I also share the personal additional pleasure in having been one of the colleagues and serving in this great Body.

Would each of you put your left hand on the Bible and raise your right hand, please.

As I commence this, I will ask you to give your name as it was read by the Clerk in the certification of the record on the election. And likewise, the Constitution Article VI, Section 3 provides for the alternative of your swearing or affirming.

After I ask you to give your name, you will give your name as I requested and then it is your choice; you will say I affirm or swear.

Would you please repeat after me:

I, and state your name, do solemnly swear or affirm, that I will support, obey and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of this Commonwealth, and that I will discharge the duties of my office with fidelity.

Sworn. Congratulations.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT. Would the other Members of the Senate and all the guests please be seated while photographs are now taken. Would the Democratic Senators please wait for a moment so they can get their pictures taken.

The Senate will be at ease.

NEWLY ELECTED AND REELECTED SENATORS WELCOMED TO THE SENATE

The PRESIDENT. The Chair at this time would like to welcome all of the reelected Senators and all the newly elected Senators. We heard from Monsignor Servinsky just a few minutes before about the senate of ancient Rome, and I assure you that if you are seeking self aggrandizement as a Senator, you will be sorely disappointed. On the other hand, if you desire to serve others, you will find this to be a rewarding and a challenging experience. I wish all of you good luck in this coming Session, and I look forward to working with all of you.

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

The PRESIDENT. Before taking up the next order of business, dealing with the election of the President pro tempore and several officers of the Senate, the Chair would like to continue the practice started a few Sessions ago that if there is, in fact, only one candidate for each of the several offices, the Chair will dispense with the calling of the roll and ask for a voice vote on the nomination. Is there any objection to the voice vote in the case that there be only one candidate? The Chair hears none.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDENT. The next order of business will be the election of a President pro tempore of the Senate for the 1991 Session. This is in accordance with Article II, Section 9, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, our first and highly significant responsibility today is to elect for this Body a President pro tempore. I think if we reflect for a moment to the office of President pro tempore, Mr. President, we ask a great deal of the individual who holds that position. That individual must demonstrate fairness in presiding over events in this Chamber and remain dignified, gracious and thoughtful in difficult pressured circumstances to uphold the ideals and traditions of this institution, maintain and advance the professional services that allow us to better represent our constituents and be a faithful and diligent champion of this institution, of this branch of government and certainly to Pennsylvania as a whole. We are fortunate, Mr. President, to have had Senator Robert Jubelirer serve as President pro tempore for the past six years, whether it has been presiding over the Senate, meeting an individual Member's needs or promoting and defending this institution. He certainly has served this institution admirably. He has not just filled a ceremonial role but he has worked to achieve solutions for the Members of the Senate and for the people of Pennsylvania. I know, as we look back over the Senate record, Members on both sides of the aisle have been moved to pay tribute to his leadership, his judgment and dedication to that position. Senator Jubelirer is passionate in his commitment to this institution and has continually earned our trust and respect. It is a distinct privilege to nominate an outstanding Senator, leader and friend, Robert C. Jubelirer, to serve as President pro tempore of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Senator MADIGAN. Mr. President, I rise to second the nomination of Senator Robert C. Jubelirer as President pro tempore of this Body.

In his previous years of service as President pro tempore, Senator Jubelirer has with diligence distinguished himself and this institution by faithfully administering the important duties this demanding role requires in a fair and judicious manner.

I am honored to second this nomination, Mr. President, knowing that in the selection of Senator Jubelirer we recognize the commitment that he has given this office. We assure the furtherance of what certainly is a deep and abiding concern for this institution and for the continuation of its long and meaningful traditions. Thank you, Mr. President.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I think in seconding the nomination, I would have to start by repeating what the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, said, that this is the first order of business, actually, of the day because it places a very high degree of significance on the operation of the Senate as an institution.

I believe, Mr. President, that any of us who over the past three weeks have had the opportunity of reading the newspaper, have also had the opportunity of understanding that institutionally there are some concerns as to the operation of the Pennsylvania State Senate. Our concerns, Mr. President, on this side of the aisle really do not deal with political considerations but, in fact, deal with considerations of the Senate as a Body of the 50 Members and, basically, in the operation of the Senate as an institution.

Mr. President, I would like to make a reflection in just three different areas in a very strong spirit of cooperation.

Mr. President, we on the Democrat side are very much so concerned about the standing committees and the way standing committees in the Senate are structured. Mr. President, for the past several years since I have been elected as the Democrat leader, we have talked over and over about the facilities and about the working conditions which our Members have to deal with, but I think, Mr. President, that we need other considerations given to some of those particular conditions that we have.

Mr. President, we have an abiding concern on this side of the aisle that as we develop into our legislative Calendar and into our legislative history for the Session, some strong consideration be given to bills that are sponsored by Members of the Democrat Party and not only bills that are sponsored by the Republican Party.

Mr. President, I am not saying that all of these particular things would come under the direction of the Office of the President pro tempore, but I think the President pro tempore can go ahead and he or she could establish policy within the framework that we have to operate to go ahead and to make the institution work in a better way.

It is with having said these things in a spirit of cooperation to try to rekindle that type of cooperation that is needed, I believe, to run the institution in the proper fashion, I stand before you seconding the nomination of Robert Jubelirer as President pro tempore of the Senate.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, I rise with a great deal of pride today to be able to second the nomination of a person whom I have become pretty good friends with over the past few years. Surprisingly enough, people outside the circle of those of us in the Senate may not believe that because we are probably as adversarial toward one another as you could get at times, but I found Bob Jubelirer to be a person who does have a great deal of respect for the institution of the Senate. I have found him to be able to take off the mantle of partisanship and take on a bipartisan feeling whenever it meant something to the institution. I found him to be a very difficult adversary to get through, because even though I am doing this seconding with a great deal of pride, there is also a very large twinge within me that I wish I were nominating Bob Mellow.

But the finality of our election process is that last year's elections are over and the vitality of this political process is that there will be another one coming up ahead of us.

I think the opening prayer probably pointed out to us, even though we do not like to admit it at times, very clearly that we have a great deal of challenge ahead of us, the challenge of dealing with the problems of the society which we live in and which all fifty of us are obligated and dedicated to doing, but I think Bob Jubelirer's challenge in the next two years is going to be even greater, because last year this election process brought about a lot of acrimony and bitterness and some very difficult days within the Senate Chamber itself. I think those things are not going to go away without a very good, strong leader. I think the challenge that Bob Jubelirer faces in the next six months or a year is to see that whenever we all leave here, whether it be a year from now or ten years from now, the Senate will still be here and that we will be doing things in a manner in which there is respect and pride for one another.

I believe that Bob can do that and I believe he will face the challenge and I am looking forward to spending another two to four years, whatever, and we are going to all be around here together. I say, Bob, good luck to you. I very happily second his nomination.

NOMINATIONS CLOSED

The PRESIDENT. Are there any other nominations or seconds? If not, the Chair will declare the nominations for President pro tempore closed. The candidate for the office of President pro tempore is the Honorable Robert C. Jubelirer of Blair County.

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined to be in the affirmative.)

The PRESIDENT. Robert C. Jubelirer is unanimously elected President pro tempore.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO ESCORT PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE-ELECT TO THE ROSTRUM

The PRESIDENT. The Chair takes pleasure in appointing the following committee to escort the President pro tempore to the rostrum for the administration of the oath of office: the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Bell; the gentleman from Bradford, Senator Madigan; and the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Mellow. Will the committee proceed to the performance of their duty.

(Whereupon, the President pro tempore-elect was escorted to the rostrum of the Senate.)

ADMINISTRATION OF OATH OF OFFICE TO PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE-ELECT

The PRESIDENT. The oath of office will be administered to Senator Jubelirer by Judge Byer.

Please rise.

Judge BYER. Please place your left hand on the Bible, raise your right hand and repeat after me:

I, Robert C. Jubelirer, do solemnly swear, that I will support, obey and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of this Commonwealth, and that I will discharge the duties of my office with fidelity.

Congratulations.

(Applause.)

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT
PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDENT. It is now an honor and a privilege to present your President pro tempore, the Honorable Robert C. Jubelirer of Blair County.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Thank you, Lieutenant Governor Singel. Monsignor Servinsky, my old golfing buddy, it is good to have you here. You told it straight today—not always on the golf course, but you told it straight today. We are delighted to have you here. Honorable Judges Bob Byer, an old long-time friend, and Jim Kelley, one of the real decent, outstanding people who has graduated from our Body and gone on to higher service in the judicial system, we are delighted to have both of you back.

Distinguished guests, families and friends of the Senate, thank you all for joining us as we begin a new year, a new Session and hopefully a new era of progress for Pennsylvania.

It is always very special to me to have an opportunity to introduce members of my family, and at this time I would like to introduce my two sons, Andy and Jeff, who are here. Andy is from Harrisburg and Jeff is a sophomore at that great university up in the middle of the state, Pennsylvania State University, my alma mater.

I would like Andy and Jeff to please stand.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. I bring you greetings, those of you who have asked, How is your mother doing? Well, she is a lot better right now, I can tell you. She is a lot better, breathing a little easier that this time has come, and she is doing just fine. Octogenarian that she may be, she is my hero. She has been my inspiration and without her strong support I would not be here today. To Laurie and Chuck and Michelle who could not be here today, I know they would want to be and want to be remembered.

It is an honor. When I left you before the break at the end of the Session I said, today you honor me. I hope always I will honor you. It is an honor to receive the trust and confidence of your colleagues, Members of this absolutely most distinguished Body.

Time does not diminish the gratitude I feel or the recognition or the expectations that must be fulfilled. There are lessons about dignity, cooperation and communication that are taught in this Chamber, and I have taken those to heart and hope to benefit by them. We are never, ever too old to learn.

To Senator Joe Loeper, thank you so much for your generous words of nomination, but most important, for the special friendship that you have offered over so many years. To Roger Madigan, your warm words meant a great deal to me today. To Bob Mellow, sure we joust a lot, but when it comes to this institution today, I very much appreciate the fact that you as the leader of the Democratic Party in the Senate were one of the seconders. To Bill Lincoln, well, I do not think any two people have come farther than Bill Lincoln and Bob Jubelirer, who love to debate on the floor and who have been political adversaries, but who have more respect for one another, who care more about this institution and probably two of the most emotional people in the Senate who have shown their love and care for the people who work here and the institution itself. Thank you for your kind words as well, Bill.

Over the past six years, counsel and friendship—and let me emphasize the word “friendship”—from the Members on both sides of the aisle meant a great deal. Today I reaffirm my commitment to fairly and diligently serve the Members in the institution of the Senate. It is what we inherited from our forefathers and it is what we will give to posterity.

I want to welcome the new Members. You are going to serve in the greatest institution of its kind anywhere. I think you will find it a very fulfilling experience. Let me say to each of you, as I have said to every Member of this Senate, my door is open, and if I can ever help personally or professionally, as I have done with many others, I would certainly welcome you.

In November the Senate bid farewell to several esteemed friends and colleagues. Today we have the privilege of welcoming their successors: Senator Mike Bortner from York, Senator Melissa Hart from North Hills of Allegheny County, Senator Bob Robbins from the Shenango Valley and Senator Allyson Schwartz from the City of Philadelphia. We welcome you. Freshman Senators are no longer regarded as novices, for those who survive the rigors of modern day campaigns are indeed battle-tested by the time they take the oath of office. We will benefit from your talents, your perspectives and your contributions.

This is a day of ceremony, one of few occasions. It is wonderful to see all the children and the grandchildren here enjoying the festive day—New Year's Day—a day of ceremony on few occasions when the Senate sticks to the script and refrains from endless debate and maneuver. By coincidence of the Calendar, this is a day of both oath taking and resolution making. In a broad sense, we all resolve to serve our constituents in our state with energy and fidelity.

There are challenges facing our state and our people that will require resolve, the resolve of action, not merely of words. There are consequential issues that will be resurrected and revisited. Priority will be given to putting a judicial reform amendment before the voters by the spring primary in May of 1991. New proposals will take their place on the legislative agenda as well. Over the past decade state government has taken an increasingly important role because of mandates handed us or responsibility shifted our way because of new or more assertive public demands and because of a rising commitment to ensuring Pennsylvania's recovery and competitive capability. This expansion of responsibility has come, not through added bureaucracy or stifling regulation, but through investment and programs and services that make a difference for individuals and for communities. Our challenge in the months ahead is to sustain progress despite the difficult financial times confronting each and every one of us. For the state to renege on commitments, to forego opportunities, to radically shift responsibilities would be to ill serve our citizens.

Incidentally, George Allen, who sadly passed away yesterday, was fired as head coach of the Washington Redskins despite a consistently winning record. When he was pressed for a reason, the owner explained, I gave him an unlimited budget and he exceeded it. Well, clearly, we are not in an era of unlimited budgets or infinite resources. It is not spending and taxing levels we must exceed, but standards of performance and productivity and, yes, accountability. We are reminded that we cannot afford to be careless, and that is an admonition we will heed. We also cannot afford to ignore the public insistence on education reform, retreat from the war on drugs or to sacrifice the momentum generated on environmental cleanup. We cannot afford to curtail services to the underprivileged or those with special needs or to mortgage the future through a political facade of false economy.

In these days of fierce competition of interest we can never fully satisfy all viewpoints, but we will endeavor to find the balance that most benefits the people. My experience through 16 years in this Senate has brought confidence in our capacity to act decisively and to respond prudently. Perhaps those who join us today know and appreciate that what happens here is different than what tends to be reported. Shortly after the conclusion of the last Session, my hometown paper criticized the General Assembly for lack of substantial production and for passing some less than illustrious measures, yet a subsequent editorial lauded the Governor's signature on bills they believe of great merit. Well, ladies and gentlemen, somehow they managed to miss where the abundance of quality legislation is initiated, where it is debated, where it is shaped and where it is adopted, and that is right here in the Senate and in the House of Representatives. Others write of legislative gridlock, but the volume and nature of the legislation we consider and approve gives lie to such contentions. The Senate has been a wellspring of ideas and ultimately a channel of bipartisan cooperation in the range of issues of consequence to economy, education, environment, and human services, and that will remain true in the Session ahead.

There has been some pointed criticism of the legislative profession in recent years. Well, sometime ago Justice Louis D. Brandeis described a profession as comprised of the knowledge derived from experience, the advancing and passing along of that knowledge, the enforcement of ethics and values, the cherishing of performance above reward and the moral imperative to serve others. I submit to you and to all the people of Pennsylvania that the men and women I have had the privilege of serving with have been professionals in the finest sense of the Brandeis description, individuals of stature dedicated, innovative, wise. These people, some gone, many yet here today, have helped bring the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania forward and inspire pride in this great Commonwealth of yours and mine, a Commonwealth that we give to our children. The 50 Members here share a sense that we are not here just to oversee, but to achieve, be faithful to the duty to be responsive, the obligation to provide leadership, the expectation to decide in the public interest.

And so the support of our families and our friends reminds us of the true rewards of public service and the importance of public trust.

Ladies and gentlemen, friends, family, colleagues, I extend my sincere appreciation from the bottom of my heart for your continued confidence. It is a very, very special day because it is the beginning of a new year, and let me extend my wishes to each and every one of you, your families and friends a very, very happy and healthy 1991. Truly you have made this a most special day for me and my family. God bless you and happy new year.

(Applause.)

ELECTION OF SECRETARY OF THE SENATE

The PRESIDENT. The next order of business is the election of a Secretary of the Senate.

Senator FISHER. Mr. President, many of the changes in the legislative process over the last decade have placed heavier demands than ever on our Senate support services. For the past nine and one-half years, Mark Corrigan has served as Secretary of the Senate in a thoroughly capable and professional manner. He has carried out the modernization of the many services provided by that office and helped us to fulfill our responsibilities as efficiently as possible. In his most visible role, that as Parliamentarian, Mark has demonstrated fairness, patience, knowledge and wisdom and has been able to provide the proper counsel and guidance at times of contention to all presiding officers, most importantly those of us who have served temporarily in that position, and he has provided that counsel and guidance in a truly nonpartisan and decisive fashion.

Through late nights, long days and pressure-packed Sessions Mark Corrigan has earned our confidence, our trust and our respect. It is my privilege, Mr. President, to nominate the honorable Mark R. Corrigan as Secretary of the Senate of Pennsylvania, and I would ask my colleagues for their unanimous support of that nomination.

Senator O'PAKE. Mr. President, as my colleague from Allegheny has so well pointed out, since 1981 Mark Corrigan has served the Senate and all of its Members with distinction. We know Mark for his professionalism and his responsiveness in administering the office of Secretary both on the floor of the Senate and off the floor. Mark runs that office in an even-handed and even-tempered manner. His experience, his hard work, his integrity and his commitment to the institution of the Senate are unquestioned. Some of us also know Mark for his active involvement in his church, St. Patrick's, and his community. He is indeed a man for all seasons and it is my pleasure on behalf of this side of the aisle to second the nomination of a well regarded, true professional, Secretary Mark R. Corrigan.

NOMINATIONS CLOSED

The PRESIDENT. Are there other nominations or seconds?

If not, the Chair will declare the nominations for Secretary of the Senate closed. The candidate for the office of Secretary of the Senate is Mark R. Corrigan of Dauphin County.

(A voice vote having been taken, the question was unanimously determined in the affirmative.)

The PRESIDENT. The Chair declares Mark R. Corrigan unanimously elected Secretary of the Senate.

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED TO THE SECRETARY-ELECT

The PRESIDENT. The Secretary-elect will now approach the rostrum in order that the oath of office may be administered. Once again we want to call on Judge Byer to administer the oath of office to the newly elected officer.

Please rise.

Judge BYER. Please place your left hand on your Bible and raise your right hand and repeat after me:

I, Mark R. Corrigan, do solemnly swear that I will support, obey and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of this Commonwealth, and that I will discharge the duties of my office with fidelity.

Congratulations.

(Applause.)

ELECTION OF CHIEF CLERK OF THE SENATE

The PRESIDENT. The next order of business is the election of the Chief Clerk of the Senate.

Senator WENGER. Mr. President, in March of 1986 Gary Crowell became the Chief Clerk of the Senate of Pennsylvania. Four and a half years of administering a multi-million dollar budget is no small task. His conduct during this time has won our admiration and our respect. I think his handling and his example of fiscal prudence and his professionalism have been outstanding. He is not only a highly professional and competent administrator, but he is a fine gentleman. He is personable and he is a very popular Chief Clerk. Mr. President, he deserves to be reelected. I am pleased at this time to nominate Gary Crowell to be the Chief Clerk of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, you talk about a tough job. Here is a guy who has to deal with 50 people who know they are right all the time, and he has to tell them how to spend their money. He has to make sure they do not do anything that will get them in trouble, and I found that getting an ex-marine may be the only person who could handle that. I think we have been fortunate in that we have an ex-marine in Gary Crowell who has decided to stay with us. I did not realize, Gary, that it has been four years, but time flies real quick when you are having a good time. That job becomes doubly more difficult because not only does he have to deal with the 50 of us, he also has a situation where there are 26 of one party and 24 of the other, which sometimes becomes part of his operation, unfortunately.

I have to say the four and a half years that I have been privileged to deal with Gary, I found him to be fair and I also found him to have the quality that it would take. If you are wrong, when you go to see him, you are going to know you are wrong because he is going to tell you, and I think that has kept a lot of us from having problems. Because we both served together on the Joint Legislative Audit Commission, I want to tell you with a great deal of pride, when we do that process, every year for a number of years now, there have been no exceptions for the Senate, and whenever there is an exception, that means that somebody has done something in their expenses that was not particularly within the rules and it takes a while to work that out. We have gone through audit after audit after audit now here in the Senate without even having any exceptions to begin the process with, and I think that is a tribute to Gary Crowell. I think it is a tribute to the people who have served here in the Senate in that they have enough respect for him and trust in him that they accept his decisions, and those decisions in the four and a half years or five years, or whatever it has been, Gary, have been good ones. I wish you well for the next two years, and I would urge you to continue to do the kind of job you have been doing and I know you will do in the future. With a great deal of respect for you personally and a great deal of pride, I second your nomination.

NOMINATIONS CLOSED

The PRESIDENT. Are there any other nominations? Are there other seconds? If not, the Chair will declare the nominations for Chief Clerk of the Senate closed.

The candidate for the office of Chief Clerk of the Senate is Gary E. Crowell of Cumberland County.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair declares Gary E. Crowell unanimously elected Chief Clerk of the Senate.

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED TO THE CHIEF CLERK-ELECT

The PRESIDENT. The Chief Clerk-elect will now approach the rostrum in order that the oath of office may be administered. Once again we want to call on Judge Byer to administer the oath of office to the newly elected officer.

Please rise.

Judge BYER. Please place your left hand on your Bible and raise your right hand and repeat after me:

I, Gary E. Crowell, do solemnly swear that I will support, obey and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of this Commonwealth, and that I will discharge the duties of my office with fidelity.

Congratulations.

(Applause.)

HONORABLE ROBERT L. BYER FOR

In the Senate, January 1, 1991.

RESOLVED, That the thanks of the Senate is hereby tendered to the Honorable Robert L. Byer, Judge of the Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania, for his services in qualifying the newly elected Republican Senators.

STATEMENT BY THE MINORITY LEADER

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Schwartz, I would like to offer the following resolution, but before I do that, Mr. President, I would also like the record to indicate that the more things change, the more they stay the same. I would like to thank Senator Kelley for his swearing in of the new Members of the Senate and also for his interpretation of the Constitution. We appreciate that tremendously.

SENATE RESOLUTION*THANKS OF SENATE TENDERED TO THE HONORABLE JAMES R. KELLEY FOR ADMINISTERING OATH OF OFFICE TO NEWLY ELECTED DEMOCRATIC SENATORS

Senator MELLOW, on behalf of Senator SCHWARTZ, offered the following resolution which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, January 1, 1991.

RESOLVED, That the thanks of the Senate is hereby tendered to the Honorable James R. Kelley, Judge of the Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania, for his services in qualifying the newly elected Democratic Senators.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS WELCOMED TO THE SENATE

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would take a moment to explain that there is a specific reason why there is not an item on the agenda entitled "Introductions" and the reason is because there are so many distinguished visitors among us. We are very grateful for the presence of so many of you who have come today to witness this auspicious occasion, most notably wives, husbands, supporters from districts, and so on. The Chair also took note of several Congressmen in our midst. I will venture forth and say that Congressman Gekas is with us. Congressman-elect Santorum is with us. The Chair earlier noticed Congressman Ridge and Congressman Murtha in various parts of the Capitol today. Some of the staff from Congressman Gray's office are to our right, and to all of the other dignitaries—city councilmen, former Senators and others who are with us today—we thank you very much. Having dispensed with the majority of the introductions, the Chair would very much like to call upon the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Mellow, for an especially appropriate and important introduction.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, it is not the first time we have had the opportunity of having this gentleman attend one of our Sessions or even attend a swearing-in ceremony. I think more importantly this year than probably ever in the last 15 years, because of the problems we are having in our country and because of what is taking place with "Desert Shield" in Saudi Arabia, I think it is important that I have the opportunity of introducing a gentleman who has been able to distinguish himself above and beyond. In fact, Mr. President, I believe it was President Truman who said that if he had the opportunity of being President of the United States or the recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor, he would choose the latter. I would like to present to the Body the recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor from Lackawanna County and from my hometown of Peckville, Mr. Gino Merli, who is seated over here.

(Applause.)

SESSION OF 1991 175TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 3

SENATE

TUESDAY, January 15, 1991.

The Senate met at 10:15 a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (Robert C. Jubelirer) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Let me first clarify the program. I am the President pro tempore of the Senate, Senator Robert Jubelirer of Blair County who will be presiding over this ceremony, and the Lieutenant Governor will not have to preside over his own swearing in, so I call that correction to your attention.

Let me welcome each and every one of you to this ceremony, and I am sure that it will be a most enjoyable day for all of us.

The Chair requests the Sergeant-at-Arms to direct the standees in the rear of the Chamber to the gallery where there is standing room. This is necessary in order to keep these doorways open to facilitate the coming and going of the official parties participating in today's ceremony.

The Senate will come to order.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend LARRY CHOTTINER, Pastor of Westmont Presbyterian Church, Johnstown, offered the following prayer:

And let us pray.

Almighty and Sovereign God, on this day we lift our thanks for the grace and guidance that has borne us to this moment. Our lives unfold under Your watchful care. Enriched by Your masterful hand, we have been endowed with blessings beyond our imagination. Fashioned in the mystery of Your love, we are the inheritors of a hope that remains undefiled and unfaded. We celebrate Your presence in the midst of this assembly and pray that what we do is to Your praise and to Your glory.

O God of peace, our minds this day are filled with many issues. Even as You are present with us, so also You are present with those that wage the struggle to find peace in our world. For our leaders, our diplomats, our soldiers, even for those that we call our enemies, may You give us cause on this day to beat our swords into plowshares and so avoid the treachery of war. Hear us we pray.

And as this Senate convenes today, may You lead each man and woman who serves here in the ways of justice and of mercy. May You grant to each a full measure of wisdom and an even fuller measure of courage to stand against the wiles of temptation and evil. For the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor we pray, be with them as they assume these special tasks a second time. Grant them Your blessings, that in the exercise of their continued duties, they may be a light to the path of others. Be with us all as each faithfully discharges the responsibilities of government, and insured with this sacred trust, help each to pass on to the next generation a vital Commonwealth prepared to embrace them and their dreams.

For the people of Pennsylvania and the confidence they have placed in those chosen to lead, we also on this day lift our thanks, and it is not as an afterthought, but effective government reflects a strong relationship between leaders and those they lead. And so it is for their many faces, their daily tasks and the wealth of life they represent that we are grateful to You, our Creator.

O God, our faithful God, O fountain of life and light ever flowing, without whom nothing exists, keep us calm, keep us faithful. Hold us in Your powerful hand and help us to love and so find joy in its abundance, for it is in thankfulness that we pray to You, O God. Amen.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair thanks Reverend Chottiner who, of course, is the guest today of Lieutenant Governor Singel, as well as Senator Stewart.

INAUGURAL CEREMONY OF LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR-ELECT MARK S. SINGEL

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The hour having arrived for the administration of the oath of office to the Lieutenant Governor-elect, the Senate will come to order.

The ceremony will be opened with the invocation, which will be offered by The Most Reverend Thomas Dolinay, Archbishop of the Byzantine Catholic Archdiocese of Pittsburgh.

INVOCATION

The Chaplain, The Most Reverend THOMAS DOLINAY, Archbishop of the Byzantine Catholic Archdiocese of Pittsburgh, offered the following prayer:

O God, Who has gifted our country with a freedom so lacking in many parts of the world today, a freedom that many can only secretly long for, send down Your Holy Spirit upon Mark Singel as he assumes his second term as the Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

May the spirit of truth guide him as he strives to serve the people of this state. Let neither race nor origin of nationality or religious persuasion of any deter him as he serves his fellow citizens in this State of Pennsylvania. May he ever have charity and compassion towards the less fortunate members of our society.

With Your help, our Heavenly King, may he dispense his awesome duties with honor and distinction. In a day when the cynical speak disparagingly of our political structure, may the light of Mark Singel's integrity shine brightly.

We also pray for his wife and family, that they stand by his side fully understanding the high purposes of his office. O God, please accept these petitions we offer You this day. Amen.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Thank you, Your Excellency, for your beautiful prayer.

The rest of us will be at ease for a few minutes at that time. Again, your cooperation is very much appreciated and welcomed.

Singel, Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Governor, let me offer my first congratulations.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you. Thank you very much.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR MARK S. SINGEL

The PRESIDENT. Your Grace, your Excellencies, Reverend Clergy, venerable Sisters, Governor Casey, Governor Kline, Mr. Speaker, distinguished colleagues, honored guests, family and friends:

Calvin Coolidge in his succinct style, once said: "We have been a most blessed people. We ought to be a most thankful people."

I stand before you—my family, my friends, my colleagues—for the second time, most thankful for the opportunity to serve the people of this great Commonwealth in the days ahead. Your love and support enrich me in the good moments and they sustain me in the bad. That nourishment is especially important now in these troubled times. Today 400,000 American men and women are positioned in a desert half a world away, praying for peace, prepared for war. Pennsylvania has made its own very deep personal commitment by sending to the Persian Gulf companies of our finest soldiers.

Over the past few months I have had the privilege of meeting with many of our troops as they have departed for duty overseas. As I shook their hands and looked into their faces, I was consistently impressed with the dedication of Pennsylvania's service men and women and very proud of their resolve. They are laborers and professionals from every corner of this state. They are the husbands and wives, fathers, mothers, daughters and sons of Pennsylvania, and they deserve to know that we support them and wish for them a safe and speedy return.

(Applause.)

These are troubled times on the domestic front as well. While we wait and watch with our President in his foreign policy initiatives, the time has come to separate from a policy of neglect that has imperiled states and local governments throughout the nation.

Edward Arlington Robinson asked:

"Are we in anguish or complacency

Not looking far enough ahead

To see by what mad couriers we are led?"

Ten years of massive deficit spending at the national level, a tripling of the annual federal debt and the abandonment of programs for social progress have left numerous states facing staggering potential shortfalls.

The New York Times reported just recently that Washington used to provide 25 percent of state and local budgets. It now provides less than 17 percent. States now bear the burdens of the poor and disabled, infrastructure building and repairs and a host of other services vital to a safe environment, a healthy economy and a sane, compassionate society, but it is neither appropriate nor productive today to waste our energies laying blame. Today, as the deadline for decision in the Middle East approaches, today as the chill winds of economic recession buffet this state and this nation, we must call upon the reservoir of resolve that Pennsylvanians possess.

On this, the birthday of the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., we note that he reminded us that "the ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy."

Some have suggested that the luster has dimmed somewhat from Pennsylvania's star. To those critics, I say, we have faced worse. To those skeptics, I say, observe as we seize opportunity from even this crisis. And to you, Governor Casey, I say, I stood with you in the good times; you can count on me to stand with you in these tough times.

(Applause.)

What constantly reassures us is what de Tocqueville saw over 100 years ago: "The people reign in the American political world as the Deity does in the universe. They are the cause and the aim of all things; everything comes from them and everything is absorbed in them."

The goodness and strength of the people of Pennsylvania themselves underlay our confidence that we will prevail together. It is important that those of us who hold the public trust do not diminish that goodness and that strength through self-interest or excessive partisanship. Let us be honest about it. There have been occasions on the campaign trail, in the caucus rooms, on this very floor, where the interests of the people have been subverted by other influences. While we all share some of that blame, I must say that I am particularly distressed by the willingness of this political community to divide itself along dubious philosophical lines. Identifying oneself as a Republican or a Democrat is competitive enough. Locking ourselves into labels like "conservative" or "liberal" invites intransigence and a thoughtless adherence to narrow dogma that is counterproductive. I believe that it is possible to reflect the traditional values of family and self-reliance and economic restraint that are thought to be the mainstays of conservatism while, at the same time, sharing the desire for fairness and progress that burns in the hearts of so-called liberals. I believe that this is what the Commonwealth and the country needs now more than ever. For my part, I seek the moderation of the Apostle Paul. I will continue to look for pragmatic solutions, unbounded by factional thought. I will seek to blend the best instincts of the entire political spectrum into a philosophy that assures the common ground of opportunity for all of those whom we serve. If we just drop the barriers a bit, if we recognize our common purpose and not the lines we have drawn so pugnaciously between us, we would then realize what Abraham Lincoln did in his inaugural address: "...we are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection."

Finally, a story as told by John Greenleaf Whittier. On May 17, 1780, a "horror of great darkness" fell upon all of New England. The sky was "black with ominous clouds." Birds fell silent. Men prayed. Many thought it was the end of the world.

"...in the old state house, dim as ghosts,
Sat the lawgivers of Connecticut,
Trembling beneath their legislative robes.
'It is the Lord's Great Day! Let us adjourn'"

Then rose the venerable Abraham Davenport with a strong and steady voice:

"...this may well be the Day of Judgement which the world awaits;
But be it so or not, I only know
My present duty, and my Lord's command
To occupy till He comes. So, at the post
Where He hath set me in His providence,
I choose, for one, to meet Him face to face.
Simple duty hath no place for fear."

In these troubled times, let us perform our respective duties without labels, without prejudice or malice and, most importantly, without fear.

I thank you very much for your kind attention.
(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (Robert C. Jubelirer) in the Chair.

SENATE AT EASE

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. At this time, if we could ask the cooperation of the Members and guests, we will take a brief pause or recess so that those who wish to take photographs may have that opportunity to do so.

The Senate will stand at ease.
(The Senate was at ease.)

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. Would the photographers please adjourn to the rear of the Chamber. Would the Members please take their seats. Would all the participants in the festivities please be seated.

As the Governor and his family leave, the Chair would take the opportunity to thank all of them for their presence.

(Applause.)

BENEDICTION

The PRESIDENT. This ceremony has been concluded. The Chair will now call upon Monsignor Thomas Smith, Pastor of St. Paul's Church in Annville, to pronounce the benediction.

Please rise.

The Chaplain, Monsignor THOMAS SMITH, Pastor of St. Paul's Church, Annville, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty God, we have come to the conclusion of the inauguration of Your servant Mark Singel as Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania. The speeches are nearly over, and as we move on to other affairs we ask Your blessing on his work. There are many problems to be solved in our Commonwealth, and he will need Your direction both in the Senate and in his other duties. Keep his eyes fixed on Your will. Give him the endurance which is needed when duties loom large. Give him concern for the people of our Commonwealth. Help him as he strives to balance his duties as husband, as father and civil servant to the millions of citizens who will count on him.

Send us all from this Chamber ready to celebrate today and ready to work tomorrow, that our Commonwealth can reflect Your plans for Your kingdom on earth. May Your Holy Spirit give him clear vision to see what is best for all of us. Give him health, happiness and peace of mind. We ask this, Father, through Christ our Lord. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. I would like to take a moment to thank Monsignor Smith for his inspiring words, which I am fortunate to hear regularly on Sundays.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

UNIONTOWN, PA—Senate Minority Whip, J. William Lincoln was recently honored with the 1990 Penn State-Fayette Campus Outstanding Alumnus Award, according to Dr. John D. Sink, Campus Executive Officer.

The "Outstanding Alumnus/Alumna of the Fayette Campus" Award, established in 1985, honors former students of the Campus whose subsequent professional achievement warrants special recognition by their alma mater. Bill Lincoln, 32nd District State Senator for Fayette and Somerset Counties, and Democratic Whip in the Pennsylvania State Senate is the sixth recipient of this award.

James William Lincoln was born October 27, 1940, in Lemont Furnace, (Fayette County) Pennsylvania, to Phillip Maxwell and Catherine Elizabeth (Goodwin) Lincoln. In 1958, Bill graduated from Connellsville Area High School, and spent his early career as a salesman, while raising four sons with his wife, the former Sandra Joan Gambone.

In 1970, he was elected District Magistrate. While actively engaged in raising his sons and supporting his family, Bill found time to attend Penn State-Fayette for two years. Between 1969 and 1971 he was a "Dean's List" student majoring in pre-law/education. It is an experience he cherishes, and his continued support for education in general and higher education in particular testify to his commitment.

Bill was elected to the Pennsylvania House of Representatives in 1973, where he served until 1978 when he was elected to the Pennsylvania Senate. During his years in the House, he was active in supporting educational and environmental issues, interests that he continues in the Senate.

In 1979, he took his seat in the Pennsylvania Senate. For the next decade, he rose steadily in the leadership of the Senate, serving as Chairman of the Environmental Resources and Energy Committee and as a Member of the Education Committee. In 1985, he was elected Whip of the Democratic Caucus.

As Whip, he led the fight for increased funding for Pennsylvania's Schools, for an $18,500 minimum salary for teachers, for expanding the scope of the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency, for the Pennsylvania Infrastructure Investment Authority and for increasing the minimum wage.

Bill is Chairman of the Joint Legislative Air and Water Pollution Control and Conservation Committee, a Member of the Board of the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency, and a Member of the State Transportation Advisory Committee, the Senate Transportation Committee, the Senate Environmental Resources and Energy Committee, the Legislative Audit Advisory Commission and the Mining and Reclamation Advisory Board.

Throughout his political career, as he has accepted honors and garnered more prestige, Bill has never forgotten some basic lessons learned in Fayette County. He has never forgotten his roots, he has aggressively represented our interests in Harrisburg and throughout the state. He has never forgotten the importance of education, to himself and to people of all ages, everywhere. He has never forgotten the need to preserve and protect our environment. And he has never forgotten the importance to each and every one of us of a decent job at a decent salary.

In 1988 Bill Lincoln was elected a member of the Penn State-Fayette Campus Advisory Board and serves on its Academic Affairs Committee. Through his leadership, the Legislature passed, and Governor Casey signed into law, $7.1 million for new building construction at the Fayette Campus!

The ultimate measure of any university is the accomplishments of its alumni. Bill Lincoln certainly epitomizes the unique achievements that a Penn State education makes possible. He proves the point that what a society invests in the education of its citizens is returned many-fold in their later achievements.

A RESOLUTION

Memorializing the Governor to proclaim the week of January 27 through February 2, 1991, as "Catholic Schools Week."

WHEREAS, Strongly committed to the traditional tenets of an education that both challenges the mind and builds the character, Catholic Schools have played a vital role in America's educational structure; and

WHEREAS, Catholic Schools have consistently offered quality education to almost a quarter of a million Pennsylvania students every year while saving State and local taxpayers more than $1 billion dollars a year. Steeped in traditions that enhance the building of self-esteem and self-confidence through a strong recognition of self-worth, Catholic Schools continually strive to offer academic opportunities that keep pace with an ever-changing society. Ever challenged to accept the responsibilities they will face as tomorrow's leaders, students in Catholic Schools learn that effective leaders must first learn to serve the needs of others; and

WHEREAS, Through the dedication of teaching staffs that are truly committed to the values that have made Catholic Schools such a unique educational opportunity, Pennsylvania's 900 Catholic Schools have achieved a dropout rate that is less than 3% a year, while seeing about 80% of their graduates go on to college; and

WHEREAS, During the week of January 27 through February 2, 1991, Catholic Schools across this Commonwealth will celebrate "Catholic Schools Week" to promote the value of a parochial school education, with January 30 being celebrated as Catholic School Appreciation Day; therefore be it

DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL RESOURCES

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PENNSYLVANIA CONSERVATION CORPS

The PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following communication, which was read by the Clerk as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
Harrisburg, PA 17120

October 1, 1990

John J. Zubeck
Chief Clerk
House of Representatives

Mark R. Corrigan
Secretary of the Senate

Gentlemen:

It is with great pleasure that I submit the Pennsylvania Conservation Corps Annual Report as required by Act 112 of 1984, as amended. Act 67 of July 1, 1990 transferred responsibility for the Pennsylvania Conservation Corps program to the Department of Labor and Industry. However, the Department of Environmental Resources had administrative responsibility for the program through Fiscal Year 1989-90.

I am proud that during my tenure we have made significant progress in providing young people many opportunities in the areas of service, education and employment. I feel confident that in the future PCC will continue to fulfill the governor's commitment to public service, volunteerism and the environment in an exemplary fashion.

The legislated purposes of the PCC program are to provide work experience, job training and educational opportunities to unemployed youth aged 18 to 25, and to foster economic development through labor-intensive improvement activities on Pennsylvania's public lands.

I am proud to report that both of these goals continue to be met in impressive style. This year, PCC initiated 64 projects throughout the Commonwealth, including about 47 percent in rural areas. Every dollar of the taxpayer's money spent on PCC projects this fiscal year will return about $1.69 in the value of work completed. In addition, these projects could generate as much as $1.3 million in revenues such as cabin rental fees and local sales taxes.

The number and quality of projects undertaken are solid testament to what can be accomplished by young men and women through adequate supervision and a well-designed program.

During FY 1989-90, 557 corpsmembers participated in the program and, since PCC's inception, nearly 9,000 young men and women have been employed. These corpsmembers have received intensive on-the-job training in carpentry, masonry, landscaping and other trades. They have also been offered adult literacy instruction, GED preparation and testing, life skills, and job search and application training. The worth of this training is evident in the fact that, to date, at least one-third of all corpsmembers have gone on to outside employment immediately upon leaving PCC.

In addition to marketable skills, corpsmembers have taken away with them the special satisfaction that comes from meaningful work experience carried through to a successful conclusion. The pride with which corpsmembers have shown me the fruits of their labor tells me that this may be the most meaningful experience of all. It is from such pride that there springs a sense of stewardship and of being a part of one's community and one's state. PCC builds not only cabins and trails, but also citizens. As one corpsmember said, "When I worked for PCC, I worked hard for my state and its people. That made me feel proud inside—to help all of us."

More and more, PCC is being recognized for the good work it is doing. PCC took first place this year in the state government category of the "Take Pride in Pennsylvania" competition. The corps was given an Environmental Achievement Award by the Searching for Success program in Washington, D.C. Finally, the PCC project in Carbon County was named by the National Association of Service and Conservation Corps as the nation's best project for a year-round conservation corps program.

PCC has been transferred to Labor and Industry to strengthen the relationship between the Corps and the governor's other youth service and volunteer programs. I am proud of PCC's many honors and accomplishments, and I feel strongly that the program's emphasis on conservation and natural resources is an integral part of its success. I look forward to working closely with Secretary Harris Wofford to build upon the solid foundation that now exists.

This report is submitted on behalf of the many corpsmembers, crewleaders and project operators who have made PCC one of the finest corps programs in the nation.

Sincerely,
ARTHUR A. DAVIS.
Secretary

The PRESIDENT. The report will be filed in the Library.

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 11, CALLED UP

Senator LOEPER called up Senate Resolution No. 11, entitled:

A Resolution recognizing the bravery and professionalism of the American armed forces personnel serving in the Middle East; and supporting the efforts of the President as Commander-in-Chief.

Senator Loeper asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of this resolution.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 11, ADOPTED

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt Senate Resolution No. 11.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Senator SHUMAKER. Mr. President, I rise this afternoon to support the resolution before us which expresses the Senate's respect and gratitude for the bravery and the sacrifices of American military men and women now on duty in the Persian Gulf. It is important today to express our unity in support of these brave men and women who are serving and will serve in the Persian Gulf area and to express our support of the President of the United States who bears the awesome task of the Commander-in-Chief of the American armed forces.

Mr. President, we therefore take this opportunity to send a strong signal to the men and women from this Commonwealth that the Senate of Pennsylvania is behind them 100 percent.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, if this resolution only said to the brave young men and women who are representing this country in the Gulf, sending them our best wishes for a speedy return, for no body bags, just come back the way you went over there, if that was all this resolution did, then I would have no problem with putting my name on it as a sponsor and I would have no problem standing before you today and supporting it. But this resolution goes one step further. It commends the President and supports him, and I want to tell you that there would be no need for those young men and women to be in the Middle East right now, in Saudi Arabia, if we were a nation that had people with the courage to stand up and say, what the hell are we doing? I will match my conservative record with anybody in this General Assembly, and I was one of the idiots who believed General Westmoreland and the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of State during the Vietnam War when they were lying to us day in and day out and day in and day out, through the Johnson years and into—I want to call the guy Reagan because they are so much alike—President Nixon who had to resign. We were lied to by a person who was given the Nobel Peace Prize, and he lied to us and we walked out of Vietnam and left half a million people over there to be slaughtered because we wanted out so badly. The debate on this issue should have taken place in Congress last August and September when the President on his own chose to start the escalation that ultimately sent close to half a million of our young men and women over there.

We are spending billions of dollars. We are a debtor nation today. The deficit for this year on the federal level is estimated to be $300 billion and we are spending money over there to bomb sand. The whole news media system in this country has been prostituted by censorship. There is not one reporter over there who has been allowed to go out and take a look at what they did with the exception of Mr. Simon from CBS who has been missing for ten days.

This is not easy for me to stand up and do this. This is probably the dumbest political thing I have ever done in my life. The compassion that I feel for the men who have been captured over there and the young men who are going to die over there and the young women who are going to die over there makes me want to cry, but that does not solve the problem. Instead of saying that President Bush continue to do this stupidity, we have to start asking him why? What are you going to do next? We hear this theme that the Senator Bells of the world like to tell us about—Hitler. The man tried for eight years and could not conquer Iran which is his next-door neighbor. How in the hell are they going to tackle Greece or Germany or Sudan? We are fighting against a philosophy that has been in the Bible for thousands of years, and we do not understand it. In fact, the most galling thing of this whole thing is that we have a President who refuses to pronounce the man's name right.

We did not understand the people of Vietnam, and we made a mistake that took us out of the history of being a successful nation. We do not understand what is going on over there now. We are protecting the Kuwaiti government and the Saudi government that have been the most horrendous in their treatment of their own people. You talk about the wealthy here in this country. All the wealth, all of it in the Kuwaiti government and the Saudi government was contained by very few people. The multitude of people who live in Saudi Arabia and live in Kuwait were never afforded human rights. Women do not have any rights at all, and we protected that country because we needed its oil. Look what has happened: The actions that have taken place over there are not all our responsibility, but some of them are. The bombing of Iraq, some 20,000 sorties, and what have we got to show for it? We do not have a picture showing one damaged Scud base because of the censorship and because I am not sure that we are hitting anything. We are spending a couple of billion dollars a day, people. For what? What we ought to be doing is saying to President Bush, Get us the hell out of there. What are we going to do when we finally catch Saddam and we win? What the hell are we going to do then? Are we going to leave those half million troops over there to protect sand? Do you think we are going to walk away from this immediately? Do you think that this is just one of those TV movies we watch that has a nice ending? The American people have to understand that you have a President who was a Vice President for eight years and has been President for two, and this country does not have an energy program. We have no program, a major country in this world and we have done nothing to save oil or gas. Nothing. We had one when Carter left and the first thing that Reagan did was destroy it. In my district they were going to build a Synfuels plant. The very first thing that Reagan did was, boom, put the scrubs to it. There is no energy policy in this country.

My next-door neighbors will never speak to me again because their son is over there. I want to tell you something. This is something that you better start thinking about. The politics of voting for a resolution supporting the troops is wonderful, but support getting them home. Do not give a President support who has shown such terrible decision making in this whole process. Do not do that. Start saying, Why are we there? When are we coming home? And what happens if we do not win? I mean, losing probably would be as bad for Hussein as winning is going to be for us. I cannot support this. I am prepared to take the criticism I am going to get from my constituency. I am prepared to take the criticism I am going to get from my friends. But whenever I took that oath on January 1st, it was to uphold the Constitution of the Commonwealth and of this country, and one of the things that has made this such a wonderful place to live in and made us grow to a nation of 250 million is that we have had the opportunity to stand up and be heard on issues. I may be a cry in the darkness, a voice in the wilderness, but I can tell you one thing, at some point in time, six months from now or a year from now, there are going to be a lot of other people who are going to stand up and say some of the things I said today and they are going to continue to ask questions that have never been answered, and there are going to be a lot of people that you commended and you asked today to take your very, very strong support and your gratitude who are not going to be with you any longer. I can remember the long, gray line of caskets that came off those B-52s coming back from Vietnam, and I can see the people today who have no legs and arms and eyes. Just read the book about the long, gray line written about the class of 1966 out of the West Point Academy. I want to tell you something: If you can then say that I am doing this for political purposes, that I am doing this to jump on the bandwagon today, then fine. Then vote "yes" and have your name on as a sponsor. I am not a sponsor of the resolution. If it defeats me four years from now, it will defeat me four years from now. These words I am putting on record. My dear friend Bob Mellow said to me, Bill Lincoln, it is good to feel this strongly about something, but remember what you are saying is part of the record. I will live with that record. I will live with it forever, but I have peace in my heart that I am saying what I feel. I want those kids home. I want those men and women back here, and when we ever have to go to war, I hope it is for a purpose other than saving a country like Kuwait or Saudi Arabia, and if that is not the purpose, then I do not know what the heck we are over there for.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I think it is very important that we sit here today and reaffirm the purposes and the intent of the resolution offered by the gentleman from Dauphin, Senator Shumaker, the gentleman from Franklin, Senator Punt, and almost all of the rest of us in this Chamber and reflect on really what we are saying is part of that resolution, that is that we are supporting the effort of our country, these United States of America, an action that was taken by our Commander-in-Chief, the President, an action that was ratified by the United States Congress after debate in a representative democracy. I do not believe that it is our job to stay here, Mr. President, and try to hamstring or second-guess the actions that are taking place now. I think all of us feel a lack of definitive information, and maybe rightly so at this point in time, because of the critical maneuvers that we are undertaking. But I think clearly of when the Governor was inaugurated just two weeks ago. Anyone who saw the Governor's Inauguration, unfortunately, saw there was a loud demonstration during that total ceremony that day. It was interesting that some of the people who were out there with me leaned over and they said, you know, if we were in any other country, they would be shoveling those people up by now. I think that is indicative of the democracy we live in, that each and every one of us has the right to say what we think and to participate in this democracy, and I believe it is incumbent that we support our President, our troops and the action taken by our Congress for the good of the United States of America.

Senator SCHWARTZ. Mr. President, I, too, would like to speak to this resolution, and I thank you for the opportunity to speak briefly to it. I am fully supportive of the public recognition and pleased to add my voice to the public appreciation of the bravery and professionalism of the women and men serving our country in the armed forces in the Persian Gulf, and I extend my personal support and empathize with the concerns of their families and share with those families a wish for the speedy and safe return of those men and women. Also, I am particularly appreciative of the efforts and commitment made by this country and the allied forces in the protection of the security of the State of Israel, whose people are threatened daily by the Iraqi aggression. However, I do wish to state publicly that my support, if I choose to support this resolution, is in no way intended to express my support for a long or protracted war in the Persian Gulf. I think we tend to speak about this war as though it were a football game, and it is not.

I also want to be sure that by passing this resolution, we in no way challenge the rights of Americans to speak out publicly about the United States involvement in this conflict. We did see protesters a couple of weeks ago here, and it is important for us to not just allow them to protest, but to listen to what they are saying, and the case is true here as well. It is critically important for those of us who do remember the conflict over our involvement in Vietnam, which seriously divided us in this nation, to work to prevent a repeat of this divisiveness. As elected officials we must be open to an ongoing public discussion of the American involvement in the Persian Gulf. While I, too, believe that we must stand together as a nation in times of war, we cannot and should not deny the very serious and real concerns many of us have in this country about our ongoing role in the Persian Gulf, and I stand with the many Pennsylvanians and many Americans across this country, men and women, black and white, urban and rural, who are conservative and liberal, who share these concerns. I say to you that my vote today on this resolution rests with whether you, my colleagues, share with me these concerns about our ongoing involvement in the Persian Gulf and share with me the protection of the dissent on this issue, or whether, in fact, you wish to deny them.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President, I rise in support of the resolution and want to say at the outset that I have tremendous respect for the previous speakers and those who will speak after me giving their opinions on this. I think it is frankly something that we did not expect to, perhaps, debate, that was expected probably to be a pro forma voice vote that turned into something that, perhaps, I think can be very positive for this Body. I have to say at the outset the tremendous admiration and respect I have for the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, because I know him to be one who does speak from his heart. I do not agree with him, but I know that when he speaks—and there are probably not two more emotional people in this Body than Billy Lincoln and I—and when he gets up and expresses his feelings that way, I listen and I have nothing but respect for his opinion. I think, Mr. President, it is likely that in state legislatures across this country that similar resolutions are being offered and debated, as well they should be because it is a national debate. But, Mr. President, the Congress of the United States has already debated as to whether we should be there or not and supported the United Nations Resolution that we be there with our allies and gave the President of the United States, the Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces, their will for him to wage the necessary war for what will hopefully be the peace in the future. We are not the Congress of the United States. We do not make foreign policy in this Body. Nevertheless, we as Americans, people living in a free society and in a deliberative Body, have every right and a responsibility to debate the issues of the day and, perhaps, on a day when there is virtually no Calendar, it is a good time for us to express those pent-up feelings.

At least I know that several of the previous speakers, including me, are parents of teenage sons who very well could be subject to a future draft and perhaps be over there, and there is never a night that I go to sleep that I do not think about that and pray for not only my son but for everybody else's sons and daughters who are over there and hope that it will be a quick resolution.

But I think we need to address ourselves to the resolution and, I think, the one message that must be sent to those brave people over there who are there because they chose to join the Reserves, that they believed they were to be America's backup forces to provide the manpower to keep the peace, and they believed in that for years to come. I listened to Secretary Jannetta this morning say pretty much the same thing, as he prepares to go to the Persian Gulf next week, that they were expected to be ready and they are ready, that we need to show a voice of support. That is all, Mr. President, I believe this Body should be doing, addressing itself to the resolution and to the President of the United States, to the Congress—and I do not think it is a partisan issue. We can debate the Johnson years, the Nixon years, the Carter years, the Reagan years and they mean nothing. We live now and frankly, I guess, as a student of history, I do look back and I do believe there are similarities between this mighty army in Iraq, the third largest in the world, and thank God Israel knocked out their nuclear superiority in that area a few years ago when they were severely criticized. Clearly there was a time when another dictator decided to take territory and move from country to country until we were into the slaughter of millions of Americans and Europeans and Asians. Hopefully, that will not happen. We do not know everything there is to know about this issue, but I can say, Mr. President, that I believe the resolution is appropriate. I believe there needs to be a strong signal of support from a deliberative Body saying to not just the President of the United States or the Congress of the United States, but the men and women in the Persian Gulf that we are there for you, we support what you are doing, America is going to stand behind you. To do anything less I think would be wrong. To do anything less would be to send mixed signals and those over there who put their lives on the line every day, every minute, every hour, would wonder, as they did in those last days of the Vietnamese conflict, whether indeed there was support back home.

I think we need to pass this resolution overwhelmingly. I think we need to say there is support back home, that we want you back. The lady from Philadelphia, Senator Schwartz, I think put it very well when she stated that it does not mean we support a long conflict. We hope it is over quickly but, whatever it takes, we need to have the resolve and the will to say to this madman, this dictator of all dictators, this modern-day Hitler, regardless of how we pronounce his name, this killer of innocent people, this person who would use chemical warfare, nerve warfare and nuclear warfare to annihilate nations and people, innocent as they may be, that the world is not going to put up with that. We are part of a multi-national force and we are going to expect that the continued financial support of those who are not involved as well as those who are will join with us so that there can be peace in the future. To do any less, Mr. President, I think would be the wrong signal, and I would hope as Pennsylvanians, as Americans, that we can support this resolution, recognizing that many people have strong differences, and if those differences are respected, certainly by me and should be by all of us, if, indeed, those differences exist.

Mr. President, these are very difficult times. They are difficult times financially at federal, state and local levels, and we are going to have plenty of time to debate that. But the issue at hand is this resolution and this resolution only, and I would urge each and every one of my colleagues to examine themselves and to say that it is important that we support the resolution for those brave people who are over there and the families who every night wonder if they are ever going to come back.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, indeed, the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, should be commended for beginning this debate. I know fully that he is a man who expresses his heart and I have never seen a clearer example of it than today.

Mr. President, I looked carefully at this resolution myself when I first heard it was being circulated, and the thing that allowed me to support it was that on page 2 the resolution does not say we support the commitment to the war of the President of the United States, but it says we support the President as Commander-in-Chief. Regrettably, Mr. President, we are coming in on this debate a little bit too late. We are there. We are joined in combat. We have troops whose lives are at stake and we now have a President who is the Commander-in-Chief of that Army, and I guess we are obligated to support those people there. Whether they should be there or not is a debate for another day, and perhaps it should have happened before this. Mr. President, we do not have all the information—I agree with the gentleman from Blair, Senator Jubelirer, on that—and we are getting what the Defense Department wants us to get. We are getting what those people who know how to manipulate the media best want us to get. Everything we get is censored either by the Israeli government, the Saudi government or the United States government or prepared by the Iraqi government. The sad fact about it is that there are little people, not governments, on those battlefields whose blood will be shed, be they Iraqi, American, British, or whatever.

Mr. President, I agree that our country is in bad shape financially, and I do not know why we are putting billions of dollars into this war to probably restore the Emir of Kuwait back to his kingdom. Somebody knows that answer. It is not me. But I do know something about the American public. We are very macho. We still think of the days of Daniel Boone, I guess, and the American public is also very fickle, and right now they are watching the most dramatic mini-series they have ever seen in their lives. I, too, have been watching it, as everyone has. I have seen television critics and analysts say that this is the most gripping drama that has ever been on television, and when we sit there and we watch this drama unfold, we watch it unfold through censorship. What are we to believe? What are the people to believe? Mr. President, I repeat, I do not know if we should be there. I do not think anybody does, but everyone is wrapped up in the emotion right now. I am greatly distressed that there will be no TV coverage of the bodies when they come back to Dover, Delaware. One of the things that brought this country to its senses during the Vietnam War was seeing the blood and seeing the bodies, and then we began to step back from our macho image and say, why are we there? Regrettably, it does not appear as if we will have the opportunity during this conflict.

Mr. President, I guess because we are there and I guess because we do not have the power to say get out and we do not have the information to know whether or not we should, I will support this resolution but with the caveat that it does not go far enough. It does not address the real problems that brought the conflict about. It does not address this nation's dependency upon oil and, quite frankly, it does not even address the most recent problems there. What about the POWs and their families? Families who are torn on one day finding out that their sons are missing in action, presumably dead, only to be buoyed the next day to find that they are alive, only to be depressed the next day to find out that they are prisoners of war of some idiot madman who now has them as strategic targets. If anything, we should be devoting our time today to the sympathy of those families and giving those people support and letting them know we understand and we care. That is what is really important because all of this comes down to human lives. I, too, have a son who is 21, who is a prime draft target. Regrettably though, I find he is caught up in the drama, too. He called me and told me how neat it was, and then I asked him if he thought that the POWs were having a good time tonight and then he came back to his senses.

This is not an easy issue to debate. It is probably one we should not be in, but I have no problem in telling the families of the people who are there we are with you. We do not know if you should be there, but you are stuck and we are going to stand behind you, and in particular I think we should remember those most recent POWs.

Senator GREENWOOD. Mr. President, as I think is the case with most of my colleagues, I would be reluctant to debate foreign policy on the floor of the Pennsylvania Senate, but the issue is before us and I think it is probably never as important as it is in war that the public's opinion be carefully guarded, and that is that the public be given the best information that we, as officeholders of any kind, have to offer and that we guard against giving misinformation. The gentleman from Fayette suggested that we start thinking about the implications of this matter, and I would suggest to the gentleman from Fayette that all of us have begun thinking about this a long time ago, that we have pondered this matter in our hearts and we have not come to our individual positions easily or lightly. Both the gentleman from Fayette and the gentleman from Philadelphia suggested that they do not know what this war is about. The gentleman from Fayette said, I do not know what the heck we are over there for if it is not to simply restore Kuwait and protect its oil. I do not think this war has anything to do with America's interest in Kuwaiti oil. I do not think it would matter if it was Iraq invading Kuwait or any other country invading another weaker country. I think both previous speakers know the history of the world is, if nothing else, filled with the carnage created when a larger and more powerful nation overtakes and brutalizes a weaker nation. It was true with the Soviets in Hungary. It was true with Hitler in Europe. It has been true with the Pol Pot in Cambodia, with the Spanish Conquistadors in South and Central America, but never before in the history of this planet have all of the nations of the world, in a legitimate and cohesive fashion, said that we will stand against aggression, that we will unite to prohibit the larger nation from brutalizing the smaller nation simply because it can do it and it wants what the smaller nation has, and that is what this whole idea of a new world order is about. Every other time in history when some nations of the world, peace-loving nations of the world, chose to combat aggression, the dynamics of international politics were such that there could never be a unity. With the end of the Cold War, we found for the first time in our history the ability to gain that unity. To me that is what is at stake here, not the oil. We do not need Kuwait's oil. This is not about energy policy. It is about whether or not the people of this planet are going to be able for the first time together to say to an aggressor, you cannot do that. You are going to stop. We draw the line here. I would not vote for this resolution and I would not support this policy as I do, except for the fact that I believe the future aggressors, whether they be in Asia, whether they be in Africa, whether they be in South or Central America or anywhere else will be deterred from this day forward from this kind of an action. The number of lives that may be lost in this war may be great, but I believe they will be far less than the number of lives that will be saved because the United Nations for the first time in history is able to take this action. I think that the speakers who opposed this resolution have spoken from their hearts, and I applaud them for that. I think they should not think they anguish any more than any of us do for the loss of life on either side, and I think no one should assume anything but that no one anguishes more than the President, and I urge a positive vote for the resolution.

Senator FATTAH. Mr. President, I do not rise in hesitation, as some of my colleagues have indicated, to speak on foreign policy matters here in the Pennsylvania Senate. It would seem to me that we have our citizens who are helping to finance this effort through our taxes. We have our sons and daughters who are in jeopardy on the front lines, and we should not hesitate as a Body to take a moment to air our feelings on this issue. I think we should absolutely support those citizens who are in the armed services, who are there because they have been commanded to be there. However, I think we can separate that from the policy at hand. It seems quite clear we have guided missiles in this country but I think we have misguided leadership. Two days before the invasion of Kuwait, as Iraq's troops amassed on the Kuwaiti border, we sent a $500 million foreign aid check to Iraq against the interest and against some of the inquiries of the members of the United States Congress. We have helped build up the capacity of Iraq's military over the last eight years, and it seems that what we have done is rather than to create a new world order, as we would want it, and to provide some leadership for that region of the world, we have just reacted to event after event, and we will react to this event and then we will, at some point, react to another event. We seem to not take note of the fact that Kuwait voted against the United States in the U.N. more often than Russia did over the last 20 years. They voted against us and accused us of naked aggression when we went into Grenada and into Panama. We are here with our daughters and sons there to protect and return Kuwait to its legitimate leadership in government, a government that, through the emir, disbanded the national legislature in 1984 and disbanded all of the municipal councils and disbanded all of the citizens' input into the operations of their government. That is not to say that somehow they should allow Iraq or anyone else to come beat them up, but it is to say that we should put all of the facts, I think, on the table, and we should demand of our government not just the opportunity to send our troops someplace, but we should send our American ideals someplace. To have our sons and daughters lose their lives for a country where women cannot even drive a car and do not have the rights that we would even begin to suggest in terms of being full citizens in that country, that we should be very clear and careful as we discuss this that we put it in its proper perspective, and that is that foreign policy in our country should have something to do not just with interest as it relates to oil and any discussion about this which would take note or suggest that this is not about oil in the final analysis, I think, misses a big part of the point. American ideals should be part of our foreign policy also, and we should be defending democracy around the world. I thought that was the tone we wanted to set, and that is not what we see even in Saudi Arabia or Kuwait or Iraq.

We have had many comments today on the floor about this subject. I do not want to be long, but I think we should be careful as a Body of elected officials. Luckily, we did not have to make the important vote of whether we would support sending our troops over there. We are not members of Congress, and I am glad that I did not have to make that vote. That was a very tough vote. But even in our comments about this, I think we should be careful and clear. What we should send as a message along with the fact that we support our troops is an encouragement to our national government and to the President that we should develop some attempt to not only win a war in the Middle East but devise a plan for peace in the Middle East, that we will have a situation where we will not have to, years and years from now, repeat this same kind of effort again and again and again. I think that is the real fear, that we can win a war and lose the peace, that we will never be able to arrive at a circumstance where we will not as a Body or other people throughout this country will not have to have similar debates out into the future about investment of billions of dollars and lives of American citizens on foreign soils and fighting for ideals and governments that we find repugnant on its face. I think that as we proceed here that we should also take a minute to talk about this issue, as the gentleman from Bucks County, Senator Greenwood, talked about, naked aggression. Naked aggression is going on in other parts of the world, and we do not have a half a million troops there protecting people. We should play by one set of rules. We should have one yardstick, and we should demand of our national government not just guided missiles that can hit their targets but some real leadership that can provide for one day the real hope of a new world order because I am not sure that we see one on the horizon at this moment.

Senator FISHER. Mr. President, I rise with great pride to support this resolution which certainly brings before us in this Body here today a portion of some of the debate this country has seen earlier this month that gives us a tremendous opportunity to rise not only in support of the brave men and women from across this country and our Commonwealth who are involved in the conflict in the Persian Gulf, but also it gives us an opportunity to stand with pride to commend and support the efforts of the leadership of the President of this great nation as Commander-in-Chief of those armed forces.

Mr. President, I certainly applaud in one sense the efforts of the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, in at least bringing this debate before the Senate on Resolution No. 11. I do not, however, agree with him on certain of his premises, but this is why this country and this state are great, in that we can rise with different opinions and we can speak out, not just here on the floor of the Senate of Pennsylvania, not just on the floor of the Congress of the United States but, yes, just as President Bush looks out his window every day at the White House, the American public is free to speak out in front of that very mansion which symbolizes all that is great about America. They have spoken out and everybody has a right to speak out. It is important, I think, as we speak out that we speak out with the facts, that we clarify the facts, and certain parts of that I would at least like to put my viewpoint of the facts on this record.

This issue has been debated. It was debated not only in the Congress of the United States, but it was also debated before the United Nations Security Council. The United Nations, in a display of their unity that has been unparalleled at least in my adult life, was able to get together and be able to take the leadership role on an issue that faced this world. They debated this issue. They debated it without nary a negative vote. The entire United Nations Security Council unanimously supported the resolutions before them to send a message loud and clear to Iraq and to their leader and to their people that not only did this country not, but the world did not support the aggression which we were all witnessing. That resolution was given time to work. Diplomacy was tried. We do not know the scope of the diplomacy. We can all surmise as to how delicate and how intricate it was. But we know that the diplomacy did not work by the date set of January 15th. Prior thereto we also had a great debate in this country, debate which was unclear whether or not it was absolutely needed under the Constitution, but our President welcomed that debate on the floor of the House and the floor of the United States Senate. That debate overwhelmingly provided support for the President and for our country to support the U.N. Resolution if, in fact, Iraq did not withdraw from Kuwait by January 15th. Our Members of Congress certainly took into account when they debated that resolution not only what this conflict stood for and not only what we stood for, but certainly took into account the financial side of this. We all must recognize that you cannot send 450,000 men and women to the Persian Gulf without incurring a significant tab, a tab that I say to you is being shared by many other great nations around this world. We see day in and day out the contributions that are being made from the budgets of those nations and certainly we welcome them. But our men and women in Congress supported this knowing that, yes, we had an obligation and a financial obligation, but this is something that the American people support. Let us not confuse the tab for this war with the deficits that have been built up. Let us not put the tab for this war at the foot of the President. Let us remember in context where the deficit came from. It did not come just from a Republican President or the last two Republican Presidents, but that deficit came from spending that was controlled by this Congress. Let us not confuse those issues when we look at the tab and the expense, but let us recognize that we should be as great, that we are and we will continue to be as great as those other nations that have continued and will continue to pay for the daily expenses of our men and women in the Persian Gulf.

I support our men and women. I support the President. I do not believe I have ever been prouder of a President than I was of President Bush throughout the course of this and for the way he has shown with a steady hand that he truly has had the breadth of experience, the depth of experience to preside as Commander-in-Chief over this war and preside at a time when we need the most stability that we can possibly get in the position of Commander-in-Chief in that White House.

I rise with particular pride because when I look at this I have a nephew who is on the front lines today right near the border of Iraq and Kuwait and probably will be drawn into battle. I recognize as I have toured my district in the last couple of weeks, as I am sure every Member of this Senate has, that I have run into an awful lot of people in my Senatorial District who have relatives over there. But I recognize that it is that pride, and it is that American support and valor, the willingness of our men and women to not only become part of our all volunteer army, but the willingness of our men and women and their families to stand up and to be part of this battle. That is what this nation is all about. That is why this nation is so great and that is why I believe that this resolution deserves the support of all the Members of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Senator SCANLON. Somewhere, Mr. President, in this debate I think I heard the words "old goat" bandied about a bit and I guess I qualify as an old goat. There are a few of us left in this Chamber who can qualify as old goats and old goatesses—I do not know the female of goat, Jeanette. I know it is not geese. But in any event, I was 18 years old when I went to war during World War II. I was 20 years old and commanded a company of 220 infantrymen in the Philippine Islands. I was about 23 when I got recalled and went back to Korea. I learned one thing as a young man and it still carries over, that it is ironic that wars are started by old goats and fought by little kids, and that is tragic. It is not only our little kids, it is Iraqi little kids, Saudi Arabian little kids and French little kids, and nobody in his right mind could vote against a resolution that indicates our support and our love and our concern for those little kids. But I do not think it is about Iraq or Kuwait. I think it is about the United Nations.

After World War I, President Wilson conceived the idea of the League of Nations, and it was ratified by every major country except the United States. The first concept of international collective security, the first concept of a forum to iron out international differences, we chose not to participate. Some people think that was the foundation which culminated in World War II. After World War II, President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill and others insisted on the creation of the United Nations. The United Nations was organized, ratified and the headquarters located in the United States as a forum where nations could settle their differences without bloodshed. In 1950, North Korea invaded South Korea. For the first time the Security Council of the United Nations authorized military intervention. The first troops that were sent in there were Americans because, let us face it, our Army was only 100 miles away in Japan. We were the closest. The media played it up as an American war with only United States soldiers, but that is not true. I was there and we operated under the flag of the United Nations. The blue flag of the U.N. flew above our stars and stripes. The blue flag was emblazoned on the jeeps and the tanks and the airplanes. There were Turks, Ethiopians, French, British, Australians, et cetera, very much similar to what we have today. I wonder, as an old goat, what would be the state of the world today had the United Nations Security Council not taken that action? Where would we be today if the communist countries were permitted to overrun South Korea without any opposition? Would I be here debating this resolution? I do not know. Nobody knows.

There were a lot of questions when Harry Truman sent troops in there. I remember Joe McCarthy said it was a product of too much bourbon and piano playing. He was criticized, but nobody today will criticize Harry Truman for anything he ever did. My point is everybody agrees that we owe those kids our support. But my heart goes out to George Bush, and I am a Democrat and I am an old goat as he is. He was shot down in World War II, and on the day he ordered troops into this battle, he walked a lonely walk in his garden, and I am sure he was thinking about kids, male and female, over there to solve a problem created by old goats. I am very proud to vote to congratulate and support our President.

Senator BORTNER. Mr. President, I intend to be very brief. Much has already been said on this issue, and as I have listened what strikes me most, perhaps, is that while we are hearing people take somewhat different views and somewhat different sides of this issue, I think frankly what I am hearing is pretty much people speaking on the same issue and with many of the same views. I think we are all troubled by the course of the war, by the uncertain future it may hold, by the prospects of American troops having to begin a ground attack to sustain the effort. I think we all support the troops, the young men and women who are representing us so far away. I think we all support the President of the United States, certainly in the sense that we want him to and hope that he will make wise decisions to try to bring this conflict to a speedy end.

I think we also certainly pray for a speedy return of all of the young men and women who have been sent over there to represent our country and who are putting their lives at risk. I would also like to say that I have been very moved by the debate that I have heard here this afternoon. I have been very moved by the words of my colleagues who I think have spoken, beginning with the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, with great conviction and to almost everybody who has spoken on this issue that they have been very sincere. They have spoken with compassion and they have spoken with true feeling. I am very proud to be here in one of the first debates that I have had an opportunity to be part of as a Senator. I am very proud to be an American and I think that as we consider this resolution—and I intend to support it but I do that with some of the same misgivings—that I have some of the same concerns and some of the same regrets that so many of my colleagues have so eloquently addressed.

Senator RHOADES. Mr. President, I think from all the debate, one thing is very apparent to us—only history will tell us whether we are right or wrong. As I listened to the debate, I looked at the two murals upon the wall of President Washington and President Lincoln, and I thought that the same decisions that they had to make, we to a degree are making here today. Heavy were their hearts, heavy were the decisions, and so only history will tell us whether we are right or wrong. But until that day I say, my country, may she ever be right; my country, right or wrong.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, much has been said during the past hour with regard to this resolution and how, in fact, we as Members of the Pennsylvania State Senate should be dealing with the most important thing that is facing Americans today, and that is a battle of our young men and women taking place eight or ten thousand miles from where we sit here this afternoon, in a desert that most people have no idea what it is about and, for the most case, have no idea why we are there.

Mr. President, I rise to enthusiastically support this resolution because I have been one individual who has been a very strong person with regard to the military. I have had the opportunity of spending a number of very happy years as a member of the Pennsylvania National Guard, both in active duty and at summer encampments, and I know of the camaraderie that is enjoyed and supported by all of our reservists, and I can only, from my perspective, give them a total amount of my support and congratulations and wish them well and wish them Godspeed and hope that each and every one of them return to their loved ones and to their chosen profession just as soon as possible.

Mr. President, I think that maybe we are losing something in this Body when we think it not important to set some time aside and to put some time away, perhaps every month, if you will, while this conflict takes place, to discuss right here in the Pennsylvania State Senate what some of our individual feelings are because, basically, we are reflecting the feelings of the people we represent. I realize full well that none of us here are experts on foreign policy. I question, Mr. President, of the 453 members of the United States House of Representatives and the 100 members of the United States Senate, how many of those members are experts on foreign government? I think, Mr. President, we would find out very darn few of them are. I believe when you start to think and reflect about what we have talked about here today, I think you have to look at the honesty and the sincerity and, yes, even the noble approach that was taken to get the debate started by the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, because I do not think there is any one Member of this Body who truly feels as strongly about his convictions, regardless of what the issue may be, than Senator Lincoln. Obviously, I am not the first person who is going to say war is hell because we all know that war is hell, and I am not the first person who is going to say that Saddam Hussein is basically a wacky Iraqi, and there is not a hell of a lot we can do about that. But I think there is a lot that we can say about it on the floor of this Senate, and I think maybe, Mr. President, the things that we are talking about do not have that much to do about what is taking place in Saudi Arabia or what is taking place in Kuwait, as it was stated before by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Fattah, that the family who has supported and controlled Kuwait for many, many years in the United Nations in the decade of the 1980s did not even support the United States on U.N. resolutions. But I think what is important that maybe we should talk about, Mr. President, is the way this great country of ours, since August 2, 1990, has basically come to a grinding halt, how the Congress of the United States has done absolutely little, if anything, with regard to our domestic policies, how the President of the United States, with regard to his performance on domestic policies, has been absolutely horrendous, how he has not done his job with regard to the people who live right here in this great United States of ours, not those who live in the Middle East, not those who live in Saudi Arabia, not those who live in Kuwait or not those who live in Iran or Iraq or Israel or Syria. It is about the people who live right here in this great country of ours. Mr. President, why has there been nothing advanced over the last five months about an energy policy, if you will? Or why in fact, Mr. President, has the high rate of spiraling inflation that has taken place over the last half a dozen months not been addressed, Mr. President? Or why, in fact, are we not dealing with the very important issues of child care and of day care that our people of this great country so badly need? Or, Mr. President, why have we totally ignored a family leave policy which President Bush decided to veto just not very long ago? Or, Mr. President, why are we not addressing the issue of a $300 billion deficit which, basically, whether they want to believe it or not, is the responsibility of President Ronald Reagan whom the current President of the United States referred to as voodoo economics during the 1979-80 presidential campaign? Or maybe, Mr. President, we should talk about the gap today that exists between the haves and the have-nots, or the decaying that is taking place in our inner cities and in our streets of our inner cities, or the scourge of drugs that is binding our cities and has grabbed our young people like never before. Maybe these are the issues, Mr. President, that we are frustrated about. Maybe these are the issues that our Congress of the United States should be dealing with or, perhaps, that great ugly thing that we see in our TV screen night after night after night. It is not the war in Saudi Arabia, but it is the war in our city streets. It is the homeless people of the greatest and the wealthiest country in the universe and the way the suffering is taking place right here in the United States of America. Maybe, Mr. President, that is the reason for the frustrations that have been discussed on the floor of this Senate today, and oh, yes, I very strongly encourage and support this resolution. I support the young men and women who are fighting and, unfortunately, those who are going to pay the ultimate price to protect our freedom of this country. I do support the President of the United States. He made a very strong decision to go in and to liberate Kuwait, and I think, Mr. President, we have nothing else that we can do as Americans except support him. I think the terrible downfall of the domestic performance of the President of the United States and, indeed, the Congress of the United States has us in this particular debate that is taking place right here, Mr. President.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, while we continue to finish the business of the day, I would ask that we call a recessed meeting of the Committee on Finance off the floor in the Rules room for the purpose of conducting our unfinished business.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, today has been a very difficult day for many of us, and I did not want to prolong the debate on the resolution that we very emotionally talked about. But I do want to enter into some further comments on some of the things that I think have worked on me since I stayed up for practically 24 hours, along with many other Americans, and watched the opening of this war that we are involved in. I have given this thought. I do not think that this war in the Persian Gulf has left my mind one minute, even sleeping. The concern that I have for the young men and women who are in the Persian Gulf, I think, was reflected in the fact that I went along with a voice vote and was recorded in the positive on a resolution that I really have a great deal of difficulty accepting, and I have not had the difficulty with it because of the President. I wrote some things down while I was sitting here and I just want to talk about our education system in this country. We have an education system that is not preparing our children for the 21st Century. Our students lack math and science skills, cannot locate major nations on a map and do not know when the Civil War started. They are not educated and they cannot think. The Japanese can and the Germans can, and while the Japanese and the Germans watched from the sidelines, we were preparing for this war, to go over and be the defenders of the world. I am not sure if the debate centering around whether to go over and do what we are doing or allow the economic sanctions to continue on for a period of time would have really made much difference in the financial cost. There definitely would have been a major difference in the number of people who are going to die because of this action. What course is in America's best interest? I have asked myself that many times. Will this war revitalize our cities and restore our families? Will it make our savings and loans solvent? Will it teach our children to read? Will it empty our prisons? Do we as a nation have the resources to fight a war in the Middle East and deal with these problems at home? If we do not have both, where does the greatest threat to our nation lie? Of course, Saddam Hussein does not have anything to do with America's domestic problems, and they will not be helped if a murdering tyrant gains control of a large percentage of the world's oil. It is sad though that the President of the United States has shown such energy and aggressiveness in dealing with Saddam, but he has been so anemic and ineffective in improving the quality of life in America. I believe that the results of what we are doing and what we are seeing are going to have such a long-term devastating effect on those of us who survive it. I believe that we have the responsibility as public officials to start facing those issues, speaking out on them and urging our President to be the kind of leader who could get the United Nations to vote en masse for a resolution to rid Kuwait of Saddam Hussein, and I believe he ought to use that same energy to convince the members of Congress whom he deals with—and he twisted arms to get the votes. In case you are not aware of it, the vote on supporting this position in Congress was not overwhelming. In fact, if my memory serves me correctly, it was 52-47 in the Senate, so it was rather close. If we do not start facing the seriousness of the problems that exist within this country, all of the people who are out there talking about how wonderful it is to have this incredible fighting machine are not going to be able to eat, educate, provide health care. It is so important. I think when this does end, whether it be six days or six months from now or six years from now, the resolve that the American people have shown in supporting President Bush in this action, I would hope that same resolve would be there to support him in making the very difficult decisions in finding ways of providing health care for 30 million Americans who do not have it, for providing the kind of educational system that we need to be able to compete so that our companies are not gobbled up by foreign investments—people who have absolutely no interest in this country whatsoever and do not care whether the guy who lives beside you or down the block from you lives in good, bad or no health at all. I would ask that we not forget this debate, that we come back when this war is over and we begin to start debating and talking about how important it is that we also take our obligations as elected officials serious enough to move us to the extent that we will force President Bush to face the serious issues that he has ignored almost totally for ten years—in fact, has contributed greatly to the problems. If any one in this room believes that having a $300 billion deficit for one year is not debilitating enough that it could destroy this great country, and if anybody does not believe that great nations go by the wayside, read history. It may take a couple hundred years, which we have been around, but we are on a course that is not the right course and we had better quit waving the flag and start respecting it by going to some extent and some length to making sure that the people who live under that flag, the ones who are in the shadow of it, can eat properly, can think, can read, can write and have the right to a decent way of living and jobs. I guarantee you there are many of us who represent people who have it a hell of a lot worse than the people in Kuwait had it before Saddam Hussein invaded them.

The PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows, and referred to the Committee on Rules and Executive Nominations:

MEMBER OF THE COUNCIL OF TRUSTEES OF MANSFIELD UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA OF THE STATE SYSTEM OF HIGHER EDUCATION

January 29, 1991.

CALENDAR

THIRD CONSIDERATION CALENDAR

BILL ON THIRD CONSIDERATION AND FINAL PASSAGE

SB 1 (Pr. No. 1) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, changing provisions relating to judicial discipline; and providing for financial disclosure, for budgeting and for the financial affairs of the judiciary.

Considered the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third consideration?

Senator SCANLON, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment No. A0031:

Amend Title, page 1, lines 3 and 4, by striking out “, for” in line 3, all of line 4 and inserting a period

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 22), page 13, lines 10 through 30; page 14, lines 1 through 15, by striking out all of said lines on said pages

Amend Sec. 3, page 15, lines 8 and 9, by striking out “, and paragraph (4) of section 1 shall be submitted as a separate question”

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Senator SCANLON. Mr. President, several years ago the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in a decision involving a suit filed by the County of Allegheny, ruled that under the unified court system, which was created by the Constitution, that the funding of the entire court system throughout Pennsylvania was the obligation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania rather than the counties. Some of the language in the present bill before us, Senate Bill No. 1, indicates that there is a danger that that language in the bill might overrule, in effect, the language of the Supreme Court in that case which mandated that the Commonwealth pay the costs of the administration of the unified court system. This amendment would strike that language and make it very clear that it is not the purpose of Senate Bill No. 1 to overrule the Supreme Court.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, in relation to the amendment, I would think that the particular language parallels language found in Article III, Section 24 of the Constitution which provides that, "No money shall be paid out of the treasury, except on appropriations made by law and on warrant issued by the proper officers...." This language has been viewed as governing access to the treasury and is generally prohibiting disbursements from the treasury, except that it might be pursuant to the appropriation. There was a concern that the court might sometime simply issue order for payments from the treasury without regard to the Commonwealth budgeting process and the General Assembly's control over the public purse. While there have been no court orders which have directed such payment, there was dicta in court opinions back through the 1970s that suggested the court might believe that it had the authority to order such payments, appropriations and budget limits notwithstanding.

Additionally, Mr. President, the courts have on a number of occasions ruled as though Article V was self-contained and that provisions of the Constitution not included in or directly referenced in Article V were not controlling on the judiciary. As a safeguard to assure the General Assembly's ability to protect the public purse, language was recommended for incorporation in that article to make that matter absolutely clear. This in no way interferes with the Supreme Court's ability to declare a state statute unconstitutional. Instead, it only assures that spending will be done with the blessing of the General Assembly.

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative, and the amendment was defeated.

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the bill on third consideration?
It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator GREENLEAF. Mr. President, I rise in favor of the legislation. As you know, this Body passed the identical legislation last Session, and by passing it this early, the Senate is then taking steps to ensure that it will be placed on the ballot for early consideration by the electorate of Pennsylvania and our Constitution will be amended. I think we can be proud of the fact that we have passed this legislation continually over the years and, finally, in the last Session the House agreed to it. Again, we in the Senate are leading the efforts to provide for a reform in all branches of government, including the judiciary. As you know, this legislation would provide for a more open and a more efficient way to handle matters that are brought before the now Judicial Inquiry and Review Board. It would change the name and provide for a two-tier system. It would be fair to the judiciary or those people who have complaints filed against them because some of them are frivolous. This provision would provide for a provision in which those types of complaints would not be open to public scrutiny, but once they are determined that there is a legitimate and a valid complaint, then there is a process provided in which those matters can be heard in a fair and open way. I would ask that this Body adopt this legislation.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Senator LOEPER asked and obtained leave of absence for Senator HELFRICK, for today's Session, for personal reasons.

LEGISLATIVE LEAVE CANCELLED

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the presence on the floor of Senator Williams. His temporary Capitol leave will be cancelled.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator BORTNER. Mr. President, I realize that this is a bill that has already been voted on once here, and the action that we take today, to a certain extent, I guess is anticlimactic, but I think it would be a mistake to let this issue go without emphasizing the importance of it. I think we are taking up one of the most important issues that has come before the General Assembly, certainly in my six years here, and I am very pleased to have been an original sponsor of this bill in the House. I had advocated and voted for it there, and I will now have an opportunity to do the same thing as a Senator. The gentleman from Montgomery, Senator Greenleaf, has explained and pointed out a number of the important provisions of the bill, and I assume, since it has passed here before, the Members are already aware of that. I do not want to address that. What I do want to do is just underscore the importance of this issue because what we are doing in passing Senate Bill No. 1, and doing it for the second time, is taking a very important step at removing what has become a veil of secrecy which has prevented public access to the discipline process and I believe has really tainted the whole issue of judicial accountability in Pennsylvania. The existing Judicial Inquiry and Review Board to aggressively investigate and properly discipline judges has been well publicized. I think it is always sad and distressing when any public official has abused their office or acted outside the norms or the standards of acceptable conduct. I think as Legislators, when that happens, we have a responsibility to make sure that when that occurs we act quickly because when it does occur I think we are all affected and we are all tainted. In my opinion, that is even more important when we deal with judges who not only have to avoid impropriety, but have to avoid even the appearance of impropriety. The purpose of the judiciary is to interpret laws in an even-handed fashion and to insure that those laws enacted by the Legislature are not contrary to or in conflict with the Constitution. In my view, in a democratic system—and I guess I say this somewhat cautiously as a Member of the Legislature in a legislative Chamber—the Judicial Branch above all others has to enjoy the confidence of the people. People need to feel when they go into court, they are going to have a competent, fair and unbiased determination of their problem. I think this is particularly true in those cases where you are fighting against the government itself.

We have a very proud history of our Supreme Court in Pennsylvania. I can remember my days as a law student. When you read a Musmanno Opinion, you knew you were reading something that was clearly going to set out some very important legal principles, and you paid attention to that. We have a very strong tradition in Pennsylvania of a very fine judiciary, and I think it is important to remember that the action that we take today is not really because of or not only for those judges who have been publicized and who have perhaps speeded this process along but we do this today for all those good judges, the judges in my Court of Common Pleas of whom I am very proud and also those other very fine appellate judges we have. We take this action so they can stand out and the public can have confidence in the system knowing that if a judge goes bad, if a judge acts outside the scope of his office, appropriate sanctions will be applied. I do not want to belabor this issue. I am pleased that information has been put on the record to clarify the issue of finance and the question of how this bill impacts on the existing Supreme Court case. It would be a mistake for us to delay this any further or to amend this bill which would set us back another two years. We need this legislation. We have passed it before. We should pass it again today.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution and were as follows, viz:

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

The PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following Senate Resolution numbered, entitled and referred as follows, which was read by the Clerk:

February 1, 1991

URGING THE GOVERNOR TO POSTPONE CLOSURE OF ANY STATE GENERAL HOSPITAL UNTIL THE PASSAGE OF THE 1991-1992 STATE BUDGET

Senators CORMAN, RHOADES, HELFRICK and STEWART offered the following resolution (Senate Resolution No. 13), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules and Executive Nominations:

In the Senate, February 1, 1991.

A RESOLUTION

Urging the Governor to postpone closure of any State General Hospital until the passage of the 1991-1992 State Budget.

WHEREAS, The nation has entered into a recession, and the closure of any State General Hospital will further precipitate the adverse effects of this economic downturn on some of the hardest hit areas within this Commonwealth; and

WHEREAS, The national unemployment rate has increased to 6.1%, the unemployment rate in the communities surrounding the State General Hospitals is up to 4% greater than the national rate, and the closure of any State General Hospital will only exacerbate the already deteriorating economies of these areas; and

WHEREAS, The action comes as the Commonwealth faces a $950 million deficit; however, the State General Hospitals account for less than .2% of the Commonwealth's budget; and

WHEREAS, The closure of any State General Hospital will result in an immediate medical vacuum so that the proper health care needs of the citizens in the affected areas will not be met; and

WHEREAS, The patient census has decreased in the recent past, a reason cited for the closure of State General Hospitals; however, patient censuses are down throughout the Commonwealth due to the declining economic conditions; therefore be it RESOLVED, That the Senate urge the Governor to postpone the closure of any State General Hospital until the passage of the 1991-1992 State Budget.

1991 PENNSYLVANIA DAIRY
PRINCESS PRESENTED TO SENATE

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, it is my honor today to renew a tradition that we have had in the Senate and that is to bring to the floor of the Senate the recently crowned Dairy Princess from Pennsylvania. It is my honor this year, Mr. President, to represent the area from which the most recent Dairy Princess resides and that is in Blair County, in Martinsburg, Pennsylvania. Her name is Kristin Metzker and she has been recently crowned Pennsylvania's new Dairy Princess. Certainly, with agriculture being the number one industry in Pennsylvania, it is a great honor for me and for this Senate to have the Dairy Princess of Pennsylvania be able to be with us today.

As a little background, Kristin is a Central High School senior and used her ability to speak extemporaneously to fulfill one of the very main requirements for winning the coveted title. Her success in the Future Farmers of America public speaking contest has indeed propelled her into the organization's state winners circle three times in previous years. Her parents are here. From her father, who is Jay Metzker, Kristin inherited an enthusiasm for breeding and showing Holsteins, and their combined efforts culminated in her intermediate heifer winning "All Pennsylvania" status. She acquired an interest in dairy promotion through her mother's activities—and she is here and her name is Debbie Metzker—as a member of the Blair County Dairy Promotion Board, long aspiring to be a dairy princess since she has been in early childhood. In addition to her farming activities, Mr. President, Kristin is editor in chief of the Central High School Newspaper and is actively involved with projects from 4-H and FFA, as well as being a disc jockey for a local radio station in the City of Altoona. She enjoys creative writing and was a semi-finalist for the prestigious Governor's School in her sophomore and junior years.

I have had the pleasure of knowing Kristin for many months now and believe that not only is she an outstanding young lady, someone who represents Pennsylvania agriculture so very well, but I believe that she brings great honor to the office itself and will represent Pennsylvania and agriculture across this Commonwealth in a very, very fine fashion.

Mr. President, I would ask at this time, if it would be appropriate, if you would invite Pennsylvania's new Dairy Princess, Kristin Metzker, to make some brief remarks.

The PRESIDENT. Would the Members of the Senate please join me in welcoming Pennsylvania's Dairy Princess as she moves to the podium for a few remarks. Ladies and gentlemen, Pennsylvania's Dairy Princess.

(Applause.)

Miss METZKER. Thank you very much. Ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, for a few moments I would like you to imagine the United States with long, crowded food lines, where Americans spend many hours each day waiting for food items that are neither of high quality nor in many cases are very safe. While this picture may seem impossible in the United States whose supermarkets are abundantly filled with safe, high-quality food products, they are a common occurrence in countries like the Soviet Union. That's right, the Soviet Union, a country held as a world power facing scarce food supplies and food lines each day. Many people often ask, What prevents the Soviet Union from becoming the major world power? And while the reasons may be many, may I suggest to you that it may have something to do with their lack of production of productive agriculture. The United States began with a few simple dreams of farmers, and today we still look to agriculture for our strength. In Pennsylvania agriculture is the number one industry, and the facet of agriculture which I represent, the dairy industry, is the largest area of that industry.

Because agriculture and the dairy industry play such an important role in Pennsylvania's past and future, perhaps each of you may ask yourself, as a Pennsylvania Senator, how can I better represent my agricultural and nonagricultural constituents by being a promoter of the dairy industry? The task at hand is a very large one. We need to promote the dairy industry to all ages and in various amounts of ways. The nutritional value of milk and dairy products needs to be revealed to all age groups. In today's fast-paced society, the traditional three balanced meals a day are sometimes an impossibility. Consumers need to be aware that although their lifestyles may have changed, their need for calcium and a balanced diet have not changed. No age group can be forgotten in our quest to strengthen Pennsylvania through good nutrition.

While the nutritional value of dairy products is an important area to focus on, the economic result of increased milk consumption cannot be overlooked either. As Pennsylvania's largest facet of the agricultural industry, or dairying, brings in $1.3 billion to Pennsylvania each year. This billion dollar business influences many other industries, including transportation, agribusiness, advertising, processing and many, many more. In Pennsylvania alone the dairy industry is responsible for the employment of over 56,000 Pennsylvanians in jobs in every step from when the product leaves the farm until it reaches the table of the consumer. By promoting Pennsylvania's dairy industry we can be certain that the continuous circle of agriculture remains strong.

My role as Pennsylvania Dairy Princess is perhaps as diverse as the industry that I represent. I serve as a spokesperson for every dairy farmer, as well as every individual and business whose careers are strengthened through the dairy industry. In essence, I have a statewide constituency that supports my promotional efforts through both personal and financial aid. Among my responsibilities are school visitations, speaking to civic and other non-farm groups, talking to and with farmers and utilizing newspaper, radio and television to get our message out to the consumers. I recently spent a week at the 75th Annual Pennsylvania Farm Show in the unique opportunity to promote milk and dairy products to a very large and diverse audience. My duties as Pennsylvania Dairy Princess keep me very busy, and I am aided by 40 county princesses from across the Commonwealth. However, there are some promotional matters that need the attention of our state representatives in the Senate. You may still be asking yourself, why should I support agriculture and the dairy industry? And while your large numbers of agricultural-related constituents and agriculture's role in the economy are both important reasons, perhaps the most stirring reason should be the vision of food lines, scarcely stocked shelves at the store with bad quality food. Your support will inevitably provide for the continuing safe, abundant and inexpensive supermarket checkout lines that have become an American way of life.

As Pennsylvania Senators, your support comes to the dairy industry in three important ways. First, your continued support of research through private and public institutions, such as Pennsylvania State University Cooperative Extension and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Secondly, I urge you to encourage and support legislative acts that protect and preserve proper management and use of agricultural land and practices, and, thirdly, and perhaps most important to the Pennsylvania dairy farmers in the times of falling milk prices, your continued financial support of dairy farm programs. The billion dollar industry affects a large portion of Pennsylvania's economy and employs thousands in occupations both on and off the farm. I believe that the largest facet of Pennsylvania's agriculture deserves the attention of each of us. Together we can stimulate Pennsylvania's economy and make certain that Americans will never have to face food lines that have become so common in other countries.

I thank you for this opportunity to share the dairy industry's feelings with you and look forward to seeing each of you at the cornucopia dinner tonight at the Hilton Hotel. Thank you.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President, if it would be appropriate, I would just like to introduce Debbie and Jay Metzker, who are her mother and father; Wesley Metzker, her brother; and Janet Harding who coordinates the Dairy Princess program and accompanied Kristin here today.

(Applause.)

CEREMONY IN COMMEMORATION OF GROUNDHOG DAY

Senator STAPLETON. Mr. President, first of all, the gentleman from Northumberland, Senator Helfrick, and I certainly congratulate the Dairy Princess, Senator Helfrick being Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture and Rural Affairs and I serve as Minority Chairman, for a job well done.

But, Mr. President, first of all, I want to go back to Saturday, February 2nd. It certainly was a beautiful day in Pennsylvania and a beautiful day in Punxsutawney where that notable event again took place at Gobblers Knob, the groundhog capital of the world. I have a Punxsutawney Spirit paper here that says, "A Patriotic Phil Emerges." Mr. President, the official Punxsutawney Phil, the international weather prognosticator, made his prediction for 1991 in his 104th year. The seer of seers, the most notable of all the famed groundhog prognosticators, emerged from his flag-draped burrow promptly at 7:24 a.m. This year he was decked in a yellow ribbon, and Phil eyed the huge throng. The crowd was estimated at a little over 3,000 spectators from all over the world. Even from down around Quarryville we had a few come over. He checked the weather signs and the information was passed to the President of the Groundhog Inner Circle, who with his top hat and his tails read the proclamation stating that, "Phil sees a shadow down there, not a dark and strong shadow, but enough of one to call for six more weeks of mild winter."

Mr. President, what more can be said? There were two days of activities and ceremonies and an international food event with Pennsylvania dairy products being used and then the annual groundhog banquet that evening. I certainly feel confident that the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Wenger, who is standing over there with his arms folded, will have some remarks for the record from the Quarryville groundhog who through research we have found to be a far-off relative of Phil, however, one that we do not recognize in Punxsutawney.

Senator WENGER. Mr. President, appearances can be deceiving. As mere humans, we are sometimes deceived by what we see or by what we think we see. And so I rise to set the record straight because we could have been tempted today, by looking out the windows and seeing sunshine and a beautiful day, to believe that spring is here when, actually, that is not the case. There will be six more weeks of winter.

On Saturday morning, February 2nd, at 7:04 a.m., groundhog standard time, Dr. James Pennington, the hibernating governor of the Quarryville Groundhog Lodge, stood on top of the pinnacle of prognostication, which, incidentally, is a manure spreader, and he announced the forecast of six more weeks of winter in Quarryville Orphie's name.

Lest anyone would make light of this exercise, I must point out that I cannot vouch for the authenticity of Punxsutawney Phil from my colleague's district in western Pennsylvania, but I do know that for some 80 years our weather prophet at Quarryville, Quarryville Orphie, has never been wrong. With that kind of a record, if we were that infallible in state government, we would probably be a lot better off than we are. Nevertheless, Mr. President, I want to point out that it is my understanding that my friend from western Pennsylvania concurs with our observation. One could wonder, Mr. President, if this is an indication of a new spirit of cooperation across the State of Pennsylvania. I certainly hope so, and I join my distinguished colleague from Indiana County, the Honorable Senator Pat Stapleton, in telling you there will be six more weeks of winter. To be forewarned is to be prepared. And so do not be misled, because there will be six more weeks of winter with a strong possibility of much snow. So, be prepared.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY MAJORITY LEADER

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, before I make a motion to adjourn today, if I could have the attention of the Members just for a few moments to talk about a little change in schedule for the week. Tomorrow, in my adjournment resolution, I will address the time of convening at 2:30 p.m. The reason for that, Mr. President, is many of the Members have expressed interest in attending the funeral services at noon tomorrow for the late George Bloom. Also, in Session tomorrow, we have scheduled the official Senate photograph for this Session, so I would ask all Members to be prepared and present on the floor at the beginning of the Session. In addition to that, there will also be members of the family of the late Senator Peter Camiel here tomorrow. We have a pretty full agenda, and I would ask that all Members try to be present on the floor promptly at 2:30 p.m.

At this time, Mr. President, before making the adjournment motion, I would also request that all Republican Members of the Senate report to the first floor Majority caucus room for a very brief caucus.

ADJOURNMENT

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I move the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, February 5, 1991, at 2:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 2:55 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

No. 8

SENATE

TUESDAY, February 5, 1991.

The Senate met at 2:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend CHARLES STOCK, Pastor of Word Fellowship Christian Center, Harrisburg, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Father, we speak to You this afternoon with great gratitude and with faith in our heart that You are a living God who hears our prayers. We acknowledge You this afternoon as the author of all government, the source of all authority. We thank You for life, we thank You for health, we thank You for soundness of mind and we thank You, Father, for reason in the legislative process.

I pray, Father, for every Senator here that You would give grace and You would give strength and You would pour out Your mercy upon this state through these Legislators. I pray that the laws enacted and the decisions made would be sound and would be just.

I pray for strength for these men and women who are assembled here to serve their constituency, that You would help them sort through the complex and difficult issues that face them.

I pray for their families that they would be strengthened and that the sacrifices demanded by public service would not destroy the family life.

I pray, Father, that this state would prosper and that justice, righteousness and equity would be the result of all the laws that are passed here.

I pray for soundness and reason in all debates and all controversy and, Father, again today we remember the young men and women from this State of Pennsylvania who are serving their country in the Persian Gulf region. We pray for protection, we pray for safety, we pray for a speedy end to this matter and we pray for the families who are left behind, that You would comfort them and that there would be an abundance of support from the surrounding community.

We pray all this with faith and we pray believing that you have heard. In Jesus' name. Amen.

AND FINAL PASSAGE

SB 346 (Pr. No. 391) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 4, 1971 (P. L. 6, No. 2), entitled "Tax Reform Code of 1971," extending certain personal income tax deadlines for certain members of the armed forces.

Considered the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I would just remind the Members that Senate Bill No. 346 is the bill of the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Armstrong, dealing with the Tax Reform Code to provide an extension on the income tax deadlines to members of our Armed Forces who are serving in a combat zone or who are hospitalized outside the United States as a result of injuries received while serving in that zone. I think there has been much discussion, Mr. President, in the last several weeks as to the merits of this proposal, and I would ask for an affirmative vote on it.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, it is my understanding that Senate Bill No. 346 is something that both caucuses have agreed to and, basically, I stand to support the proposal.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution and were as follows, viz:

PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator MADIGAN. Mr. President, I am honored today to have a group of young people in the gallery who have been chosen to represent our Commonwealth in the Washington, D.C., City of Washington Bicentennial this September. This group is made up of the officers and senior band members of the Hughesville High School Marching Band under the direction of Samuel Arnone. Accompanying the members of the band is the Principal of Hughesville High School, David Reese, and several parents of the band members. They are in the balcony and I would ask the Senate to give them its usual warm welcome.

The PRESIDENT. Would all the guests of Senator Madigan please rise so we could welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

GUEST OF SENATOR MICHAEL E.
BORTNER PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator BORTNER. Mr. President, also in the gallery with us today is Miss Kathy Brungard, a Penn State York Campus pre-law student from my district. Kathy plans to serve an internship with my office over the next 12 weeks. I would also ask that the Senate extend to her its usual warm welcome.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS*GUESTS OF SENATOR MICHAEL A. O'PAKE PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator O'PAKE. Mr. President, on this auspicious occasion I would like the Chair to extend its greeting to the young lady who has managed my Reading District Office for the last 20 years or so. She is visiting the Capitol today, Mrs. John Kepley. In addition, another of my Reading employees, a new employee, Mrs. Alice Kutz is with her. I would appreciate the Senate thanking these young ladies for the job they do for me back home.

The PRESIDENT. Would the Senate please join me in thanking and welcoming the guests of Senator O'Pake to the Senate Chamber.

(Applause.)

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS*GUESTS OF SENATOR ROY C.
AFFLERBACH PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator AFFLERBACH. Mr. President, I have the pleasure also today of introducing some very special guests from Lehigh County. These students, members of their families and their teachers are visiting Harrisburg today on this, as the gentleman from Berks, Senator O'Pake, has said, auspicious occasion of the official Senate photograph. They, incidentally, the students, are winners of this past fall's 16th Senatorial District Essay Contest commemorating National Children's Day, which was held in October. The essay contest asked the students to complete this sentence: "If I were an elected official, the most important thing I could do for young people is..." I am very pleased to say that these articulate students, ranging from grades six through ten, responded very positively to that challenge and had some very interesting things to say. They accepted the responsibility of believing in themselves and made some strong recommendations which will be shared, incidentally, with all Members of this Body, as we are putting these essays together in pamphlet form for distribution at a later date. The winners were, from the fifth grade, Sean Wolf; the sixth grade, Kristy O'Connor; the seventh grade, Laura Rothermel; the eighth grade, Marisa Henriquez; the ninth grade, Jolie Somishka; and the tenth grade, Raj Kannan. Again, I would like to thank the students, their parents and their teachers for that effort. To be honest with you, I cannot see past the lights to know exactly where they are up there.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests of Senator Afflerbach please rise so we can commend you and welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania. We know you are up there someplace. Would the Senate please rise and join me in welcoming the guests of Senator Afflerbach.

(Applause.)

CONSIDERATION OF CALENDAR RESUMED*SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 13, CALLED UP

Senator LOEPER, without objection, called up from page 1 of the Calendar, Senate Resolution No. 13, entitled:

A Resolution urging the Governor to postpone closure of any State General Hospital until the passage of the 1991-1992 State Budget.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 13, ADOPTED

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt Senate Resolution No. 13.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Senator CORMAN. Mr. President, this resolution deals with the continuing saga of the Philipsburg State General Hospital and the State General Hospitals at Shamokin, Ashland and Coaldale.

I was at this very same microphone several years ago asking for your support and your vote to allow the Philipsburg State General Hospital out of the state system. They had a private company, the Forbes Group, from Pittsburgh in the Allegheny County area that wanted to take it over and continue to provide hospital services and much needed medical services in the Moshannon Valley of Centre and Clearfield Counties. That community, Philipsburg, lost that vote at that time, and we in the Senate said we wanted that hospital to stay in the state system. Now this small town of Philipsburg is in real trouble because, I think, as you all know, on January 7th Governor Casey gave notice that the hospital in Philipsburg would close in 73 days—March 31, 1991. Philipsburg has 73 days to put together a new plan. I know this subject probably is not one that stirs the hearts of everybody in this Chamber, but certainly to the town of Philipsburg it is a very vital kind of thing. Seventy-three days is certainly not a period of time that Philipsburg could put together a plan to have some new company come and take over the hospital. Philipsburg State Hospital is a much needed health provider in this particular part of the state, as well as it is a major employer in the Moshannon Valley, at a time when the Rushton Coal Mines are also closing and unemployment is probably going to be seeking 20 or 25 percent. All we are asking for in this particular resolution is time, time to let this community try to find some other organization that might be willing to come in and examine the facts of the Philipsburg State General Hospital and see if they might want to take over this hospital and continue it. We do have interest. It is not that we are asking for time where nothing will happen, but, in fact, we have several organizations looking at that hospital at this time. So, I am asking you this time to support this community in Pennsylvania. Help Philipsburg by voting "yes" on this particular resolution that I have offered at this time.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I rise to support the resolution being offered. We all know these are difficult budgetary times for Pennsylvania, and there are going to be many more difficult decisions to be made between now and the end of the fiscal year. This is but the first series of them, and how the final outcome will finally be arrived at and what the conclusions will be are right now pretty much anyone's guess. I agree with the gentleman from Centre, Senator Corman, in that, in this particular case, with Philipsburg being the state hospital slated to be the first closed, it should at least be given the same amount of time as everyone else who is subject to budgetary cuts, budgetary action, between now and the end of the fiscal year to work out some strategies, to work out some arrangements by which either some other entity could take over the hospital or, at the very least, work out some game plan for the employees and, more importantly, the patients who are in that hospital to be relocated. I would urge an affirmative vote on Senate Resolution No. 13.

Senator RHOADES. Mr. President, it seems like a short time ago—it happens to be 10 years ago—I broke my teething ring here in the Senate on the closing of Locust Mountain State Hospital. At that time I thought it was a cruel and indifferent administration. Now, with the closing of Philipsburg, Ashland, Coaldale and Shamokin and a different administration, I still think it is a cruel and improper thing to do. What the resolution does simply is gives Philipsburg the chance to find, to locate and to have health care in their area. Nothing more, nothing less. A fair chance. This administration in April of '87 came into Ashland and the Secretary of Public Welfare said, We are going to divest Ashland. Another study was done by Touche Ross. It basically did the same thing as other studies before. Nothing happened until January of 1991 when the Governor announced that he was going to close the hospitals. Maybe we should say this: As Philipsburg goes, so go the rest, but we supposedly have until March 31, 1991. What this resolution very simply and fairly does is ask the administration to give Philipsburg an opportunity to preserve its health care in its area. If we are here to serve the people, can we do any less than afford them that opportunity? I ask for a positive vote on this resolution.

Senator O'PAKE. Mr. President, I, too, rise in support of this resolution. The Ashland and Coaldale Hospitals have been a fixture and a mainstay of the coal mining communities of that area for many, many years. The investment in terms of money, personal sacrifice and commitment of the people in that area is legendary and is deserving of more consideration by any executive branch before a closing is contemplated and even mandated. Those of us who have relatives in that area who have been treated at one or both of these hospitals know that if these hospitals are shut down, there will be a terrible absence of emergency care facilities and other medical treatment facilities in that part of Schuylkill County. Because of the mountains, the terrain, and the roads, it is quite a distance and takes a lot of time to get an emergency care patient to the nearest hospital, be it Pottsville, Good Samaritan or Geisinger or even the Reading Hospital.

What we are asking for is time. We are asking for time for the people of that area and those who are concerned about the medically needy of that area to come together and perhaps work out some arrangement whereby one or both of these facilities can be taken over and that the kind of health care that is now available will continue to be made available to the people who live in that hard-pressed area of Pennsylvania. I urge support for the resolution. We are asking essentially for at least five months so we can work this out, perhaps over the budget process, and let the people of that area feel confident and secure that they will have some type of emergency and other medical facilities available in that part of Schuylkill County.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I do not want these remarks that I am going to make to be political because I probably made the same speech when we had Republican governors. I do not think the Governor's Office alone, without working with the two Houses of the Legislature, should take it on themselves to close a state hospital. The next thing they will take on themselves is to close a state mental hospital. The next thing they will take on themselves is to close a state university—we call them state colleges. I believe that Pennsylvania is not governed by the Governor, but by the Governor and the House of Representatives and the Senate of Pennsylvania, and something like this, closing of a hospital, should have been processed through the Legislature, subject to the approval or the disapproval of the Governor.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I respectfully have to disagree with so many of my colleagues concerning this issue, and I think that now is the time, perhaps, to start to frame these issues. This is one of many issues we are going to have to look at this year regarding choices. We are all fully aware of the massive deficit that we are looking at in Pennsylvania, and the choices are going to have to be made. Do we want to raise taxes, or do we want to decrease or maintain services? From my experience here, Mr. President, in the last few years there does not seem to be a general mood that is very sympathetic to raising taxes. Everyone seems to at least want to follow not the example in action but the example in words set by the President when he said, read my lips. Mr. President, you cannot—"read my lips"—have no tax money, run deficits and continue services. This is one of the choices that has to be made.

Mr. President, with regard to the Philipsburg State Hospital, there are a number of facilities nearby. Tyrone Hospital is 17 miles away. Clearfield Hospital is 17 miles away. Centre County Community Hospital is 24 miles away, and the Moshannon Valley Medical Group is only 300 yards away from this facility. Mr. President, we would all like to have hospitals open. We would like to have them in our backyards or next door. I welcome you to come to the City of Philadelphia when we have hospitals going bankrupt that are not even state owned. Mr. President, it is a time for choices, and I do not think that we can afford this in the overall scheme of things. Certainly, if the people who are so anxious to keep this facility and all the others open are willing to step up to the plate and say, I will vote for new taxes, how much do you want, maybe we could resolve this. I do not see anybody clamoring to fight their way to the microphone to say that they will vote for taxes to keep this facility and so many other things open. I will vote for taxes, Mr. President, this year because I think it is necessary. None of these facilities are in my district or even near me, but I do not have a problem helping people. But I do not see anybody coming to the microphone, fighting to get it to say that they are willing to vote for taxes. I fully anticipate that before this budget cycle is over, we will vote for some taxes and we will eventually have a majority voting for some taxes, but it is going to be a long, tough pull. If, during that process, some of these issues come up and people are willing to say they will vote for taxes to keep Philipsburg Hospital open or the whole myriad of other programs that are coming down the pike, then we will be glad to talk about it. But in this time, in this fiscal crisis we are in, for us to sit here and complain bitterly that the Governor is trying to balance the budget is demagoguerish and foolish.

Senator BORTNER. Mr. President, I intend to support the resolution, but I would like to briefly clarify and make clear why I am taking that position. I believe, actually, that the Governor is correct in proceeding to close these state general hospitals. As a House Member I voted with Governor Thornburgh when this first came up. I supported Governor Casey as the Scranton State Hospital was closed. I believe it is appropriate to either phase out these hospitals or turn them back to the local communities. If this resolution called for opposing that position, I would vote against the resolution. It does not do that. It asks for a postponement, and while I intended originally to vote against this resolution or to consider voting against it, I have been persuaded by the gentleman from Centre, Senator Corman, the gentleman from Berks, Senator O'Pake, and others who are asking for some additional time to allow the communities to make arrangements so there will be proper medical care and people will not do without the kind of care—particularly emergency care—they may need. So while I will be voting for the resolution, it is with that as a background. If we were back here again considering this issue in a year, I suspect that my vote would be different.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I agree with my colleague, our chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, that this may come down to the decision on many of our parts to vote for or against taxes. But as we all know, and as he well knows, those decisions rarely come to us until June. Philipsburg is slated to be closed March 31st. By the time I get to make a decision whether or not to support taxes for Philipsburg or any other program in the budget, Philipsburg will have been closed. This resolution simply asks the Governor to extend that deadline to the end of the fiscal year so we have the opportunity to make that decision as we formulate the budget and/or any tax program for fiscal 1991-92. That is what we are asking for and, again, I would ask for an affirmative vote.

Senator REIBMAN. Mr. President, I have mixed feelings on how I am going to vote on this resolution. I have read in many of the newspapers that general hospitals in many cities have been asked to make room for possible casualties as the result of the Persian Gulf crisis. I have written to the Governor and suggested that consideration be given to transferring these four hospitals to the Veterans Administration to be used for those purposes as well as for veterans homes in the future.

I guess what I am going to have to do is to vote in favor of this resolution pending a response to my suggestion to the Governor and also to give him time to try to negotiate with the federal government as to whether they would take over these hospitals. They are already there. They are outfitted as hospitals. They will not overcrowd hospitals in our cities which have already been asked to make room for casualties. I guess I will end up supporting the resolution under those conditions.

Senator CORMAN. Mr. President, another good suggestion that others have thought of as well, and I appreciate your suggestion of writing to the Governor, but these kinds of things take time, more than the 54 days that are remaining between now and March 31st. One of my colleagues mentioned that there is within 300 yards of the hospital, the Geisinger Medical Group, and it is, but that is a doctors' office. In fact, the Geisinger Medical Group is a group that is considering if they want to take over the operation of the Philipsburg State General Hospital. They, too, recognize a need for a hospital in this community, and I would ask all of my colleagues not to turn this community down twice. Let us vote in favor of the resolution today.

Senator RHOADES. Mr. President, my colleague from Philadelphia brought up a number of interesting points, and I guess the concern I have comes down to the policy and how it is applied and whether it is applied equally and fairly throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I have in my hand an article from the Philadelphia Inquirer dated Monday, August 13, 1990. Headline, "Unprecedented state 'bailout' rescues two hospitals." Now it did not say two state hospitals, two hospitals.

"Under a plan approved more than two weeks ago, most of the assets of St. Joseph's are being merged with the assets of Girard Medical Center, at Eighth Street and Girard Avenue, to form a nonprofit hospital corporation, the North Philadelphia Health System (NPHS). The plan allowed both hospitals to emerge from bankruptcy proceedings."

Let me keep on: "To keep St. Joseph's alive, state officials"—I assume they are the same ones who deal with the state hospitals—"have agreed to provide unprecedented financial backing for North Philadelphia Health System. That support consists of:

"Payment of revenues at a rate 'significantly greater' than other comparable hospitals in the state receive, according to court documents.

"A guarantee of annual revenues, rising from $37.9 million in 1991 to $47.7 million in 1995, in return for meeting certain admissions goals.

"Bonuses totaling nearly $10 million, starting in 1991 and ending in 1993, also tied to meeting admission goals.

"A $1.5 million advance as 'temporary loans' to stave off cash-flow problems. The loans have to be paid back within a year after they are made."

Let me add to that, too, because I get accused of this with the state hospitals. St. Joseph's Hospital had a relatively high cost structure. The number of employees as compared to occupied beds was high. Wages and salaries for management and professional and nonprofessional employees were also high. Employee benefits were in excess of those provided by competitors. You say, What does it mean? I guess what I am saying is, if you can give an exception to two private hospitals, then why in God's name can you not give it to four state hospitals? We are not asking for any money in this resolution. We are not even asking for a special deal. We are only asking for time to solve our own problems. That does not require a tax increase.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I realize the consideration of this resolution, by and large, can be a very emotional thing to go through. I can also realize, Mr. President, that this is not the first time it has been suggested that our acute care hospitals in Pennsylvania should close. I can recall during the 1970 budgetary discussions that we had, on a number of times when a budget was sent to the General Assembly, no funding whatsoever for the operation of the state general system, and the understanding with the Members, although never written but absolutely understood, is that there would be no funding for the state general hospitals, and this would be a part where the administration eventually would consider keeping the state general hospitals open for the purpose of trying to resolve the issue of a budget. So the closing of state general hospitals is nothing new. I would like to submit to the Members of the General Assembly that the Scranton State General Hospital, which was in my Senatorial district, was an acute care hospital in the vicinity of a number of other acute care facilities. It had the same thing going for it that took place in Ashland, Shamokin and Coaldale and in Philipsburg and in Nanticoke before we closed the Nanticoke State Hospital this year. In its last year of operation, Mr. President, which was 1987, the Scranton State Hospital in itself lost $7 million, and I worked with Governor Casey for the purpose of trying to go ahead and to save some money for the taxpayer. If we look at what has happened in the state general hospital system since the 1987-88 fiscal year, if you will, in the year of 1987-88 the state general hospitals in question today—Ashland, Shamokin, Coaldale and Philipsburg—lost $7 million. Mr. President, in the fiscal year of 1988-89, those same four hospitals lost $13 million, and in the year of 1989-90, which was concluded in June of 1990, those same four state general hospitals cost the taxpayers of Pennsylvania $18 million. What this is telling us, Mr. President, is that the medical profession in these particular communities, in fact, is not sending their people to state general hospitals. They are not sending the indigent or they are not sending the people who have the means to pay or a third party reimbursement.

Mr. President, just in the year of 1989-90, of these particular hospitals, Ashland lost $8 million, Shamokin lost $3 million, Coaldale lost $4 million and Philipsburg lost $3 million. I realize this is a very emotional issue and I agonize with the Members of the Senate who have a state general hospital in their Senatorial district because it is very difficult to go into an established facility, something that has been here from time immemorial, institutions that have provided a service to people of Pennsylvania when, in fact, those services were needed, but, unfortunately, Mr. President, it is sad, but the state general hospitals today have outlived their usefulness. I think the lady from Northampton, Senator Reibman, has a very appropriate suggestion about the possibility of the conversion of a state general hospital into some form of a veterans home because we, in fact, in Scranton have been able to do that. But, unfortunately, Mr. President, for the Scranton State General Hospital the federal government insisted the facility that was there must be torn down and that a new facility, in fact, must be constructed. Mr. President, this is a problem that has been around here for the better part of 15 years, and we can go ahead through a resolution, which, incidentally, is not binding and does not really mean a great deal, and we can pass this resolution, but we are being a little bit dishonest with people because the resolution is meaningless. We know full well this is an issue that every Governor who has served Pennsylvania for the last 20 years has tried to get the people of Pennsylvania out of and that is the acute care hospital business, because we just do not do it properly. Mr. President, I would ask for a negative vote on the resolution.

Senator O'PAKE. Mr. President, this resolution does not cost a dollar. All this resolution says is we do not like the process that resulted in the edict to close down four state hospitals and emergency care facilities. I do not think that any Governor would want to mandate the closing of an emergency care treatment facility when the nearest one was an hour away. That could literally mean the difference between life and death. I think that any closing of any type of emergency care facility should await the formation of some kind of takeover, at least of the emergency care treatment operation, so the people of that area who, by history and tradition, have relied on this institution do not have to worry that their family has to be driven to the Reading Hospital or the Pottsville Hospital, which is going to take them an hour, and in a heart attack you do not have an hour very often to save a life. We are asking for time. We are asking for the kind of negotiation, the kind of participation that should have gone into the decision in the first place so the communities and those who care about the people in those communities have a say in whether or not emergency treatment should be available in some of these remote areas of Schuylkill County.

SENATE RESOLUTION

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Williams, Senator Fumo, Senator Lynch, Senator Jones, Senator Salvatore, Senator Fattah, Senator Schwartz, myself and all the Members of the Senate, I offer the following condolence resolution and move for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Senator Mellow asks unanimous consent to offer the following condolence resolution on behalf of the entire Senate which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 5, 1991.

WHEREAS, Peter J. Camiel, prominent political leader, passed away on January 31, 1991 at the age of eighty-one; and

WHEREAS, The son of Polish immigrants, Mr. Camiel grew up in the riverfront area of Philadelphia and was educated at Brown Preparatory School and Ursinus College. He served with great distinction as a member of the Pennsylvania Senate from 1953 to 1964, as a longtime Philadelphia democratic chairman, and as a state committee member; and

WHEREAS, Nominated to the Turnpike Commission in 1975 under Governor Milton J. Shapp, Mr. Camiel was renominated in 1987 by Governor Robert P. Casey. During his service with the commission, he was instrumental in several major turnpike undertakings, including a seventeen-mile widening project in the Philadelphia area and the construction of the Mid-County Interchange in Montgomery County. He also played a key role in the turnpike's affirmative-action program and the computerization of its toll-collection system; and

WHEREAS, In addition to his illustrious political career, Mr. Camiel had dedicated himself as a farmer, a former boxer, a pilot and a student of history. His vision, leadership and charismatic presence will be sorely missed by all; now therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania note with sadness the passing of Peter J. Camiel, distinguished statesman and political leader; extend condolences to his wife, Nina Gumen Camiel; his sons, Peter J., Jr., and Valentine Richard; his daughter, Nina Christina Owens; his grandson; his sister; and his brothers; and be it further RESOLVED, That a copy of this document, sponsored by Senator Robert J. Mellow and the Philadelphia delegation comprised of Senators Hardy Williams, Vincent J. Fumo, Francis J. Lynch, Roxanne H. Jones, Frank A. Salvatore, Chaka Fattah and Allyson Schwartz, in behalf of the entire Senate, be transmitted to Mrs. Nina Gumen Camiel.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, we rise in this Chamber today to pay tribute to Pete Camiel, a former Member and a friend and a colleague to many of us in this Body. We honor Pete Camiel in passing as he honored us with his presence. Senator Camiel may be better known around Harrisburg today for his outstanding work as a member of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission. To our Members from Philadelphia, however, he was known as the Democrat leader of the Fifth Ward, a job he held for not less than 45 years of service and attention, longer than a few Members of this Body have been on this earth.

To those of us who have had the honor to know him personally, he was also known as a unique individual in the work of government and politics, where such a status is sought by many and achieved by a few. He was yet another example, Mr. President, of the fabled American dream, a man who was able to make it, the son of Polish immigrant parents, one of 12 children. He was raised in a Philadelphia row house and began his early life as a noted prize fighter. As with many young men of his day, the Great Depression sent him wandering across this nation where he had to look for work as a cowboy, a prospector, a farmhand, a stagehand and his entry into politics and, yes, as a union organizer for a west coast longshoremen local, he was able to distinguish himself.

He returned to Pennsylvania, Mr. President, and to Philadelphia to become a ward leader, a businessman, if you will, a farmer, a pilot, a patron and, most importantly, a husband and a father and a Member of this very distinguished Body. His knowledge of the issues and his commitment to the workingmen and women of this state produced many gains over the years for those who previously had little clout in these halls of government. His superior management and contribution to the operation of the Pennsylvania Turnpike was recognized by two Governors and his confirmation by this Body here in the Pennsylvania State Senate. His service in the Senate has retained a direct link in our distinguished colleague from Delaware County, Senator Clarence Bell. Here in the Capitol that link goes right to the Governor of Pennsylvania, Robert P. Casey. The two remaining Senators from his era continue the government service that Senator Camiel has left to our charge.

We are honored to share this tribute with his wife and his son and his grandson and his daughter and his son-in-law and also several other people who were very close to Senator Camiel: his nurse, Dora Ramsey and his Administrative Assistant, Joann Zucker.

On this day, Mr. President, we also count ourselves among the members of his family. And just as the first experience that I had with Senator Camiel, as he always wanted to be known, took place in Senator Martin Murray's office when I was running for the Senate for the first time in 1970, I was introduced to the Chairman from Philadelphia, better known as Senator Camiel. There are those of us today who share that title with him and there are those of us who have had the opportunity of sharing many pleasures of life with him, and today we will always remember not only Pete Camiel as the member of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, not only Pete Camiel, the ward chairman from the Fifth Ward in Philadelphia, not only Pete Camiel as the Democrat city Chairman or Senator Camiel as a Member of the Pennsylvania State Senate but, most importantly, Pete Camiel for the type of individual that he was and for the legacy he has left not only with his family but also with the Members of this Body.

I am privileged, Mr. President, today to serve as one of the sponsors of this resolution.

Senator SALVATORE. Mr. President, I, too, join in with my colleagues from the other side of the aisle in remembering Senator Camiel.

I guess I go back many more years than any of you with the late Pete Camiel. Both of us started a beer business many, many years ago, and I got to know Pete from the beer business. He was always a gentleman, always kind and caring and even though we became political opponents many times later on in life, we were always friends. The only regret I have is that I was not able to attend his viewing Sunday night because I was away. I extend my condolences to Mrs. Camiel who I had talked to right before Christmas and kept in constant contact with her about her late husband.

All I can say is he had many, many virtues. He was a humble, hardworking individual who gave of himself. He gave a lot to a lot of people that people never knew about—his contributions that he did not want anybody to know about, the things he did that he felt he had to do because God had been good to him.

I have known Pete, the late Senator Camiel, his brothers and the family, Pete, Jr., if he is here today. I extend my condolences to each and every one of you, and I hope and pray and I say in my letter to you, Mrs. Camiel, that he is in heaven, right there where he should be.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, with my respects to the family of my former lifelong friend, Pete, I would like to go back when I was first in the Senate 30 years ago. I came over from the House a lot younger than I am right now. Pete Camiel was extremely polite to me. We were the Minority, Pete was the Majority and he was just a very fine person. His word was good. He worked hard. He held the respect of everybody in this Senate Chamber, and when God took him, we lost a gentleman.

Senator FATTAH. Mr. President, I did not have the opportunity to serve with Pete Camiel in the Senate, but became friends with Pete as I came to the Legislature in the House first and now in the Senate. I just want to take a minute and reflect. It was Emerson who once said that a man who does not involve himself in the passion and the action of his times risks being judged not to have lived. Pete Camiel was, as I am sure Vince will tell us, very involved in the passion and action of his times as a young high school student. I remember reading about his exploits and his fights with the former mayor and others but, more importantly, as I got to know him here in Harrisburg, he was someone we could always depend on and call on and count on to be helpful in a variety of matters. He was a son of Philadelphia who will truly be missed and someone who has made a contribution that I think if any of us have the opportunity to give a similar level of contribution, we would all be better off for it. I just wanted to add my words to the record.

Senator JONES. Mr. President, I rise to also give my condolences to the family. I did not serve with Peter Camiel in the Senate. However, I served with him in a different way. I think it would be remiss of me if I did not stand and let you know perhaps another side of Pete Camiel.

Years ago I was Chairman of the Philadelphia Welfare Rights Organization, an organization that fought for people who were on welfare who wanted an opportunity to do better in life. Pete Camiel was a person who astounded me because he was a person I could talk to. He was a contributor because we did not believe in accepting state, city or federal funds and yet we ran an organization. As a matter of fact, I was chairman of that organization for six years and subsequently he supported me in the Philadelphia Citizens in Action Organization. It was not just his money that he helped us with, but it was the advice that he would give me and also the encouragement. And I want you all to know that Pete Camiel was very much concerned about the little people in every aspect, and I would hope that we would remember that in his time and in his space, Pete Camiel made a difference to a lot of people.

Senator WILLIAMS. Mr. President, I would like to add to the remarks of my fellow Senators on the occasion of remembering Senator Camiel. The thing that jumps out at me in knowing Senator Camiel for several years is that he was probably the most understated statesperson and political figure that we have had in Philadelphia. We are all well aware of people who are active in politics and active in government and promote that image and perspective until it becomes larger than life, and there is nothing wrong with that. Senator Camiel, from where I saw it, was a giant of a person and a participant and one who had a full scope and full breadth of interest, information and activity, and he put it to work and it impacted on people. Having all of those qualities and being excellent in all of them, I guess it is natural to sort of be understated, but here now I will say from my own perspective, I saw him on many fronts. Indeed, he was a giant of a person. The Philadelphia community and I am sure the State of Pennsylvania owes him a significant debt. To be a politician, of course, is a role where you are looked at in a thankless manner, as we all know. No one ever appends to that, that one may be a statesperson together with that. One may never think that you may be a connoisseur of the arts and promote that. One may never think that you help people individually in their causes for meritorious and beneficial things to people. One may never think that you are the connecting link with people who can get an overall job done. One would never think that your style and your impact just changes the growth of a party and the growth of a community because your style is not to impose but to lead by doing, and Pete Camiel, obviously, had all of that. I watched, I guess, several Democratic Party chairpeople in Philadelphia, and I do not know one who impacted on so many areas as Senator Camiel did. He had a gentleness and a toughness. He would engage with everybody. Race did not fit in his political conversations. He just got the job done. I would just like to add my small experience with the Senator and to state here now, with his family present and with his peers present, that his loss was a significant loss, an understated loss, and I think at this time perhaps we say words that may help to not just uplift the stature of a full-scoped person but also to imprint on the here and now the lessons that he taught as he participated and as he lived.

Senator LEWIS. Mr. President, as each of us goes through our public experience, there are those who impact upon it in different ways. I doubt that many have had the kind of individual experience and impact as I have in the presence of Pete Camiel. I do not know of any person who has had more of an impact and who has made a greater impression upon me in the 17 years in which I have been involved in public service, and I rise to share these comments because I think that one of the truly great aspects of Pete Camiel was this intense personalism which he could generate. Those of us who had the opportunity to work with him knew that the interest he took in us was genuine and it was deep, and he really encouraged us to respond to him in a similar way. There are not many who do that. For me public service may well never have been a reality had it not been for Pete Camiel, a man whom I met, who discussed with me the challenges of serving in public office, and as the result of those meetings determined that he had enough faith and enough confidence in me to give me his support in my first bid for elected office. I worked hard and I was lucky, but I would not say to anyone that those elements alone would have carried the day. I know that I would not have been successful without the initial opportunity and support that Peter provided for me, and I have been grateful for that for the 17 years now in which I have had the opportunity to serve in this Senate, grateful because his influence went far beyond merely that beginning. I looked to him to really begin to try to establish a sense of personal value. I had no experience in the political or the public arena, and what I quickly came to understand was that at the core of Pete's life was a fundamental sense of values that were really right on target. I knew that his manner of dealing with people and with problems was to be absolutely forthright and, yet, while doing so, there was really a gentleness, a considerateness about him that showed a true care and compassion for people in whatever circumstances they might have found themselves.

Probably the most important thing that I learned was to live by a word that you have given. In the business of politics, I think we all know there is nothing more valuable than a commitment that is given, and Peter taught me that when one does that, one has to honor those pledges. Indirectly, what he also taught me was that one should not give commitments indiscreetly. Make sure you understand what is being asked. Make sure you are prepared to meet the obligations and, if, after that reflection, you feel it is the right thing to do, then do not hesitate and become known by the fact that when you have made a commitment that you are going to honor it. I think that those values really have served me enormously well, and I have to say to you that in the last few days as I have heard words said, and as I have read articles that have been written, there have been references to Peter as a politician. On some instances, those references had overtones of derogation. I have been saddened by that, because to me those who have published those thoughts did not understand the man and do not understand the true requirements of a public and political system. I am proud to be associated with politicians who are willing to be defined by the virtues and the values that Pete Camiel set.

Peter, I want to thank you, and while I am sad at your parting, I hope that all of these things I have mentioned which you have really helped me develop are legacies that I can take and share with others. I can think of no greater tribute to any individual than for one of us to be able to say the things which he held so dear and which he shared with us will, in fact, span the generations, and I make my commitment and give my word to you that I will attempt to do that in the years that lie ahead.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I may not have known Pete Camiel for 30 years, but I knew him for almost 20, and I was probably closer to him than anyone else in this Chamber. I first met Pete in 1972 when I got a phone call at my home about midnight from the Governor, then Governor Shapp, saying to me there were some problems and he wanted me to go down to city committee and work with Pete Camiel. I had heard of Pete but never worked with him. I popped up in his office. He looked at me a little bit suspiciously. I looked at him a little bit confused, but we went on from there. We had been together through the highs and the lows and the ups and the downs that always come with every political career. I could tell you stories about Pete Camiel that you would laugh about, stories that you would cry about. Pete was a very loyal person, and I guess I really saw the caliber of the man during those very tumultuous years in Philadelphia during the so-called Rizzo-Camiel wars. I watched Pete beat Frank Rizzo. I watched Frank Rizzo beat Pete. I remember all the people—and I am sure that Nina does as well, she is with us today—that Pete helped, made, as a matter of fact, people who probably could not get elected to anything without his help, and I watched them turn on him and leave him when they got scared when he lost. Pete would never believe it. He stood to the end saying they will be back. But some of them and many of them never did come back. Yes, he was persecuted, he was ridiculed and we all know what the media has done. There was a time when he was the hero of the media, when he was fighting Frank Rizzo, because he was not the hero of the media, and there was a time he was not the hero of the media. But through it all, Pete was consistent. He was a self-made man, a person who came from very, very humble beginnings, knew what poor people went through because he was poor and, yet, made his mark on this earth not only politically, but financially and successfully.

Pete was a pilot. I used to listen for hours in amazement, and I have to admit sometimes after a while in boredom, when he would tell the stories about how he found Fatland Farm, flying over it in a plane, hidden behind so many trees. He bought it and pulled all those trees out and made it into a showcase right next to Valley Forge Park. Pete was a farmer, a real farmer. I remember going out and watching him drive a combine, farming corn. He was real, he loved it. It kept him in shape. I remember he smoked. He smoked Camels. You could not get him to stop and if he did not have a Camel, if he had a filter-tipped cigarette, he would rip off the filter and smoke that. He was the real Marlboro man, I guess, and the real man from Camels. In the end I guess it did him in. He was a hero for organized labor of Jewish causes honored by Histrut. I remember one time he got Ted Kennedy to come into Philadelphia for the Allied Jewish Appeal when no one else could. I remember that very well because the night before was the night he got elected chairman in one of the most raucous chairman's elections that ever hit Philadelphia. I remember when he lost the Primary to Frank Rizzo. I was a young kid working in the back, and I remember the real powerhouses of Philadelphia Democratic politics—George Schwartz and Herb Fineman. Pete always had this mystery, and people believed in him. I sat there and I knew the truth sometimes and I remember one time in particular George Schwartz called me up. It was after the devastating Primary, and he said, "All right, what's Pete's plan?"

I said, "George, there is no plan."

He said, "He has to have a plan, he has to have a plan."

I said, "Well, if I hear about it, I'll tell you."

Then I remember Herb Fineman calling me up. "All right, Vince, what's the plan?"

"Herb, there is no plan. We're just sitting here."

Pete had a strength about him that people were attracted to, and when there was nothing left, they still held onto his charisma. We have lost—and when I say "we" I mean all of Pennsylvania—a great servant in Pete Camiel. I guess, although death is never something fitting, but if it is, it is fitting that he and Mr. Republican, George Bloom, had passed away in such a short span, because Pete was Mr. Democrat. I know that he and George Bloom had a deep respect for each other because political parties did not make a difference. Pete was a professional politician and that meant a lot more to him than a party label.

I think that I would like to close my remarks today on behalf of my good friend by reading into the record a Daily News editorial that was written yesterday. It is entitled, "The Last of the Bosses. Flesh-and-Blood Democracy."

"At first, it seems kind of sad that a man who contributed as much as Peter J. Camiel did will be remembered mostly for passing the lie detector test that Frank Rizzo flunked.

"But after thinking about it for a while, it's an almost perfect memorial to the last of the city's effective political bosses.

"Pete Camiel wasn't like the new breed of politicians, who deal in quick slogans and think patronage is something to be dealt out to pinstriped lawyers and brokers.

"Camiel was flesh-and-blood democracy the way it really works, charming and tough and totally human. We will miss him."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Will all those who support the resolution please rise for a moment of silence.

(Whereupon, the Senate en banc stood in a moment of silence in solemn respect to the memory of Senator PETER J. CAMIEL.)

DESIGNATING JANUARY, 1991, AS
"PENNSYLVANIA CRIME STOPPERS MONTH"

Senators SHUMAKER, HOPPER, BELL, BRIGHTBILL, PETERSON, MELLOW and RHOADES offered the following resolution (Senate Resolution No. 14), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 5, 1991.

A RESOLUTION

Designating January, 1991, as "Pennsylvania Crime Stoppers Month."

BUDGET MESSAGE

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the following communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

1991-92 BUDGET MESSAGE OF
GOVERNOR ROBERT P. CASEY
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1991

Lt. Governor Singel, Speaker O'Donnell, President Pro Tem Jubelirer, members of the General Assembly, the Cabinet, and my fellow citizens:

Last month at my Inauguration, I spoke of the national recession that threatens both our people and our institutions, compounded by the threat of war, and by growing human needs here at home.

The very next day that war began.

Transfixing the world.

Uniting our nation in prayer for a speedy end to the conflict and the safe return of our brave young men and women.

And making judgments on our state's economic future even more uncertain and difficult.

We meet today to chart Pennsylvania's fiscal future. In setting this course, I commend to you the direction I set out for our people on Inauguration Day and in my State of the Commonwealth message last week:

I said then that we understand the difficulties and trials which lie ahead, but we also look to the future with confidence; and will respond to our present situation with energy and a belief in ourselves.

That the recession is no reason to lower our sights, but only to renew our efforts.

That we must get the most out of every dollar entrusted to us; and that we would not ask our people to pay more without first making government spend less.

That we will not let this economic downturn turn us away from our best hopes for Pennsylvania's future, because we're not here just to manage problems, but to make more progress.

And, finally, I stated my determination to overcome the challenges of the recession with strong and decisive action.

The budget I propose here today is built on the bedrock of these statements.

It responds to the fiscal challenge we face. But not at the expense of our children, our schools or our jobs. In fact, this budget recognizes that our economic future depends on our continued investment in both our human capital and our physical infrastructure. In the essential building blocks of a thriving economy and a more fair society.

I. Responding to the National Recession

To understand our challenge, we must understand clearly the nature of the recession and its impact on our revenues and expenditures.

Falling like a giant hammer blow in the final quarter of calendar 1990, the recession simultaneously drove state revenues sharply down, and state expenditures sharply up.

The hammer blow having fallen, the recession deepened with lightning speed all across the country. And because of it the fiscal landscape is literally shifting almost daily beneath everyone's feet, including our own. Some 40 other states are now struggling with what California's new governor called "unprecedented" revenue shortfalls.

No wonder. California's deficit jumped from seven to 10 billion dollars in just the past several weeks.

Connecticut's deficit increased 10 percent in just three weeks, to 2.4 billion.

New York's deficit for this year grew by $900 million in a single month. And its projected deficit for next year doubled since last October from $3 to $6 billion. This, even after $2.3 billion in new taxes and $1 billion in new budget cuts.

New Jersey's projected deficit grew from $300 to $800 million, even after $2.8 billion in new taxes.

These states and others still face multi-billion dollar deficits even though they've already had multi-billion dollar tax increases, coupled with massive service cutbacks, over the past several years.

Clearly, Pennsylvania's in a much stronger position to respond to the present challenge. Thanks to our tight spending controls and prudent management, which have seen us through the last four years without any tax increase or significant reduction in services.

We're in better shape for a simple reason. We've spent less. Except for New Hampshire, since 1986 we've held increases in state spending lower than any other state in the region. While our state budget has grown by only 22 percent in that time, most of our neighbors have increased spending anywhere from 30 to 95 percent.

We continue to have the lowest number of state employees per capita of any state in the nation. And despite major new commitments we've made in staffing state prisons and protecting our natural environment, we have fewer state workers on the payroll today than four years ago.

What will be the recession's estimated cost to Pennsylvania this year and next? Billions of dollars in lost revenues and increased expenditures—compounded by sharp federal cutbacks and new fiscal burdens from a society shattered by a drug epidemic and the crowded prisons which are its by-product.

What has been our response this year?

A bare-bones budget, hiring freeze, management salary cuts, employee layoffs, the closing of hospitals, program reductions, cuts in grants, subsidies and non-preferred appropriations, adding up to $700 million in cuts and savings this year alone.

I've already directed that we take a hard new look at every aspect of government spending and management: Contracts. Inventory. State properties. Revenue collection. And personnel.

In each of these areas, and others, we'll cut our expenses even more. Work harder and smarter. And save the taxpayers' money.

We'll continue to work diligently, right up to June 30, to further reduce this year's budget gap as much as possible. And to do it in ways which at the same time will save us money in the years ahead.

What, then, will our response to the recession be in the budget I present today?

The painful reality of sharply declining revenue and sharply increasing costs has forced me to impose in this budget the toughest cost-cutting measures ever invoked by a Pennsylvania governor. Squeezing more than $750 million in operating and program costs out of a budget that was already lean.

We'll cut over $55 million from our own operating expenses. Including $10 million from agency administrative costs. Thirty million from new personnel cuts. And $16 million from the closing or consolidation of additional state institutions.

We've subjected every program to stern and unrelenting scrutiny. Some face outright cuts. In others, we discovered how we can avoid certain costs in the first place.

We've made the tough decisions to gain control over critical areas of explosive spending growth. But I cannot do this alone. These areas will also require your legislative action if we're to have any chance of keeping our future budgets under control.

Medical assistance, which is rising at a rate of 21 percent a year—and where we'll trim $81 million.

Hospitals and nursing homes—where we'll save $135 million through new pooled reimbursement systems.

Special Education—where I'll ask you to enact urgently needed reforms that will produce $141 million in savings.

Scaling back non-preferred appropriations will save another $34.7 million.

Plus more than $200 million in costs that we've cut from dozens of grant and subsidy programs.

And I also recently used the line-item veto to cut some $1,431,000,000 from the bloated capital budget.

In short, I've done my very best to get the most out of every dollar, and haven't asked our people to pay more without first making government spend less. These tough actions to reduce spending and save taxpayer dollars are unprecedented in the history of the Commonwealth.

But even this extraordinary effort hasn't been sufficient to overcome the fiscal tidal wave caused by this recession.

Because unlike the recession of 1982, this one comes on top of a decade-long federal retreat from helping our states and cities. On top of a crack epidemic which caused an explosion in costs on virtually every page of our budget: Not only for more drug treatment and law enforcement, but for new prisons and prosecutors, for abused children and battered wives, for emergency rooms and AIDS programs.

It's a tidal wave which we cannot survive by spending cuts alone. The legitimate needs of our people continue to grow. More cuts would only jeopardize essential services and the fiscal integrity of the state. To close the budget gap this year and next, our heavy spending cuts must be supplemented by new revenues.

But to raise these revenues, I do not propose to increase the rate of the sales tax, the gasoline tax, or the personal income tax. Rather, I propose that these revenues be raised by a fiscal plan which is fair and equitable, and will not unduly burden working families in our state.

II. Major New Reforms in Education Funding

We're not just here to manage problems, but to make more progress toward realizing our vision of Pennsylvania's future. A Pennsylvania that's alive with economic vitality and opportunity for all our people. To make that vision a reality we have to invest in those crucial building blocks of future growth. Starting with our schools and our children.

Because we know that education is essential to giving every child the chance to make the most of themselves in life and to compete for the jobs of the future. Jobs which increasingly demand improved levels of literacy, high technology skills and mastery of complex tasks.

Together, we've responded to the need. We've increased state support for public education by a billion dollars over the past four years. And made major new investments in literacy and higher education.

And this year, despite the severe budget constraints we face, I'm recommending that we increase state aid to our local schools by another $188 million. Bringing our total commitment to basic education up to $4.8 billion in this budget.

This substantial new investment will help our children, while at the same time relieve the burden on local homeowners whose property taxes also support our schools.

But what's important isn't just "how much" we're investing, but "how" and "where."

Today I suggest we do more than simply increase our financial investment in the education of Pennsylvania's children. Today I propose we take a revolutionary step toward giving all our children in every community the chance for the best possible education. By fundamentally reforming the way we fund our local school districts.

I recommend a change in our basic education subsidy formula to take greater account of the special financial and educational challenges our poorer school districts face. This new approach will sharply increase assistance to districts with larger numbers of poor children. And it will narrow the existing gap in spending per student among the state's 501 districts.

Every school district in Pennsylvania will share in the added funding, receiving more total state dollars this year than last. But poorer districts will receive comparatively larger increases. The amount depends on the level of need, not the accident of geography. Because the state education subsidy formula will better reflect those local needs.

The result of these important changes will be to allow even the most hard-pressed community to boost what it spends on each student's education to a level closer to that of far wealthier districts.

Ours is a vision of greater educational opportunity for all of our young people. And especially for those starting out life with the steepest hills to climb.

We'll also invest another $3 million in our school performance incentive program which over the past three years has already awarded $15 million in grants to hundreds of Pennsylvania schools which have improved performances in math, reading, drop-out prevention, and preparing students for college. It ensures greater accountability by shifting funding priorities toward rewarding measurable success, not mediocrity.

At the same time, I propose that we invest $476 million in special education, including a $59 million increase. But only if we once and for all draw the line on its runaway cost.

We must fundamentally alter the way we pay for special education services—right now—in this legislative session. By placing the responsibility for special education right where it belongs: With locally elected school boards.

A new reimbursement formula I will reintroduce this session will produce substantial—and almost immediate—reductions in special education's annual cost to the taxpayer. Cost overruns which last year reached $99 million more than you appropriated.

My proposal will ensure better management, tighter fiscal accountability and most importantly, improved services for children with special needs. It will also include a one-time payment of $160 million to cover all of the outstanding special education costs from the current school year.

This year, we must once and for all come to grips with these runaway special education costs. I urge you in the strongest possible terms to enact these crucial reforms. Because if you don't, you'll be subjecting our taxpayers to runaway costs and potential budget deficits in the future.

This budget also expands economic opportunity by making sure that we have the skilled work force Pennsylvania companies will need to remain profitable in the future.

Our state's community colleges provide a crucial point of access to better jobs and a better life for many students. Enrollment is up sharply across our state. So I've recommended that we increase state funding for community colleges by $8 million.

We must continue to help families bear the burden of paying for a college education. I believe that one of the best ways to support higher education and expand opportunity for all young people is to give direct financial help to students and their families and let them decide on the college of their choice.

So for the fifth straight year, I recommend that we add another 10 percent to the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency scholarship program. This will bring our five-year increase to an unprecedented 55 percent.

And I propose that we do not reduce funding for Penn State, Pitt, Temple and Lincoln Universities and the State System of Higher Education. But rather, that we provide the same amount appropriated last year.

Altogether, we'll invest some $1.3 billion, or 10 percent of our total state budget in higher education.

Over the past four years, we've created Pennsylvania's first statewide literacy program. And we've funded it with some $26 million. This year, we'll continue to make sure that more of our people can realize their potential in life by helping them learn to read. With another $7 million appropriation for adult literacy.

And we'll invest $300,000 in creating the statewide school-business partnership that I announced last week in my State of the Commonwealth message. The partnership will allow our companies and our schools to join together in new ways to improve education and ensure that more of our young people are equipped with the skills they need for success. And at the same time reduce the growing expense that business now pays to train the increasing number of workers who simply aren't prepared for the modern work place.

III. New Approaches to Caring for Our Children

In addition to education, the wisest investment we can make in our future is in caring for our children from the very dawn of life. And like education, these are the investments we cannot afford not to make.

We will begin by improving how we care for abused, neglected or delinquent children. Last week, in my State of the Commonwealth message, I told you I would propose a completely new approach to the way we reimburse counties for these critical services.

I recommend a $42 million increase—22 percent—in what we spend to take care of children who need our help. With the state agreeing to reimburse every county a fair amount for every child who receives care, based on solid estimates—so long as the care is consistent with state standards and goals.

Our aim is twofold: To create a fair system that ensures that every child who needs care receives it. And at the same time to control our spending.

We'll also continue to expand our historic investment in the programs which help our children grow up healthy and strong, well-nourished and well-educated.

Once again I recommend that we invest state funds in the Women, Infant and Children nutrition program—better known as WIC. In the face of recession, some other states have cut back. That's a mistake. I propose we increase our investment by $2 million—a 13 percent increase—so WIC's vital services will help 3,500 more women and their children each month.

We'll add $6.6 million to our Healthy Beginnings program, which brings prenatal and early childhood medical care to young mothers and their children. This will open the door to medical care for 32,000 additional poor pregnant women and young children—bringing the program to a total of 150,000 people all across the state.

We'll also invest $9.6 million new state dollars in our early intervention program for young children. It's an effort to catch developmental problems early, when it can make the biggest difference in improving a child's chances to succeed in school, and in life.

These are all investments which we know save us big dollars in the long run. According to Congress, for every one dollar invested, WIC saves us three dollars or more in health care costs. A dollar's worth of prenatal care saves an estimated $3.38 in special care for low-birthweight babies.

That's why we're supporting these early interventions even at a time of tight budget constraints. Because we simply can't afford not to do it.

We will also strengthen our safety net for disadvantaged children whose families are either impoverished or struggling on the lowest of incomes.

With the help of $38.8 million in new federal funds, we'll create Pennsylvania's first comprehensive child care system. Now, thousands of parents who've never had access to this kind of child care before will be able to work without worry.

And we'll add about 3,400 children from low income families to a new At-Risk Child Care Program that offers special help to children who come from families on the brink of dependency. Altogether, our expanded day care commitment will dramatically improve the lives of nearly 6,900 children and their families who up to now had no help at all.

Investing in our children is essential if we're to define our own destiny. But meeting the human needs of all our people defines what kind of state we are today. So in spite of the recession, in this budget we've held the line on funding for many other programs at the same levels as last year. And even provided some important improvements. So we'll still be there to help people in the greatest need who count on us the most.

Funding for most human services will remain stable, as will community mental health and community mental retardation. Along with our programs for the homeless and for the innocent victims of rape and domestic violence.

We'll continue PENNFREE's anti-drug programs that we so successfully launched together 18 months ago. While also sparing our other anti-drug abuse programs from any reductions. And increasing state and federal money to fight AIDS.

And to chart a course for the future, I've asked the Governor's Drug Policy Council to develop a long-range set of anti-drug abuse strategies that will guide our policies, programs and spending through the rest of the 1990s.

This budget also maintains current levels of funding for our nationally acclaimed environmental programs. With your help over the past four years, we've made unprecedented financial commitments to these efforts. Commitments which will allow us to continue our unmatched record of environmental protection and enforcement, recycling and toxic waste cleanup, even in this year of tight budget constraints.

IV. Reining-In Exploding Medical Assistance Costs

We must also rein in runaway medical assistance costs. For in the past year, two seemingly unrelated events have conspired to compound this chronic problem into a potentially devastating fiscal and human crisis.

First, federal mandates have significantly increased our costs, but without the extra federal dollars to pay for them.

Second, the recession claimed its inevitable human toll, with more and more people falling into our safety nets as they lose the ability to take care of themselves.

Medical assistance caseloads jumped 70,000 through just part of last year. Now that we're fully in the recession's grip, we're adding as many as 11,000 new cases a month. And the bill is soaring right along with them: Up $290 million in the past year.

Every month we recalculate the totals upward. But we can slow the numbers down without disrupting services.

I propose to save at least $216 million in medical assistance expenses by imposing stringent cost containment measures in this budget. Including asking Pennsylvania's nursing homes to join in a pooled reimbursement system similar to that adopted by 170 hospitals across the state just two weeks ago. These reforms will save the taxpayers $135 million.

Legislation is needed if we are to get control over these costs—which are eating us alive. If we don't put the brakes on now, the cost of medical assistance will jeopardize the financial stability of the Commonwealth.

Without your action, next year's medical assistance price tag will soar to almost $2 billion—consuming nearly one-fifth of the entire budget that's on your desks this morning.

Even with tough controls, many of these costs will continue to increase unless the federal government stops mandating new programs without giving us the financial support to pay for them.

V. Preserving the Lottery Fund and Supporting Older Citizens

Though not nearly as daunting as medical assistance, our programs for adults and older Pennsylvanians are also straining under the parallel pressures of recession and human need.

But we will not turn away from the older members of our families, from the frail or disabled, from those who need our protection and care.

We're already proceeding with construction of a fourth veterans' home in Scranton—and the 250 jobs it brings with it. And we're going forward with plans to build the fifth and sixth veterans' homes in the southwestern and southeastern areas of the state.

We'll also move forward with our program of personalized services that enable older people to live at home instead of in an institution. With an increase of almost $10 million—39 percent—we'll expand attendant care services so physically disabled older citizens will have access to health care, delivered meals and adult day care, all in their own home. And $4.2 million to extend intensive in-home services and the Family Caregiver Support Program statewide.

And we must continue our program to keep the Lottery Fund fiscally sound. We must get control over the skyrocketing costs of the PACE prescription drug program. If we don't take action now, the future of the Fund itself will be in danger.

I am today proposing a plan to maintain the fiscal stability of the Lottery while at the same time continuing to meet the priority needs of older Pennsylvanians. This requires that we realize nearly $140 million in cost savings this year. To do it, we will ask a little of everyone and not a lot of anyone.

First, we will protect the eligibility of people in the PACE prescription drug program who've received a raise in their social security payments. But it will only work if cardholders share in a higher co-pay. We will reduce the price of prescription drugs so we can limit the co-pay increase to just $2.

Second, I propose legislation to require drug manufacturers to pay the same rebates for PACE that federal law now requires for medical assistance. For a savings of $40 million.

Third, we'll cut $35 million from the cost of the Free Transit and Shared Ride programs. And we'll turn over Shared Ride's operations to the Department of Aging; together with a guarantee that vital transportation needs still be met: rides to the doctor, to adult day care, to the grocery store. And fourth, we can save another $3 million by asking older drivers to pay what everyone else pays to register their cars.

I will continue my long-term commitment to keep the Lottery Fund solvent, too. Over the past four years, we've shifted $337 million in program costs to the General Fund, where they belong. And this year we'll help the Lottery even more by moving an additional $20 million in costs for long-term care out of the Lottery into the General Fund.

VI. Protecting Citizen Safety

More than ever, we need to ensure that our streets and neighborhoods are safe. Made no mistake about it: Even though the war in the Gulf has pushed our own war on drugs off the front page—drug-related crime is still a major problem in every Pennsylvania community.

Together, thanks to PENNFREE, we're fighting back. With the greatest investment this state's ever made in law enforcement. More than $87 million in state and federal dollars in the past two years alone. Money for the biggest expansion ever in the state police and attorney general's office. Money that helps communities band together in local drug task forces. Money for municipal police departments that are hard-pressed to mount drug offensives on their own.

And we've backed it up with some of the toughest anti-drug legislation in the country. Laws you passed and I signed. Laws that brought the President's own drug czar to this very chamber to tell us in person that, together, we're national leaders in the fight to free our people from the ravages of drugs.

With this budget, our fight continues unabated. We'll reinforce PENNFREE's historic war on drug dealers by pumping 27 million in state and federal dollars into drug law enforcement. Providing new PENNFREE grants to urban police departments. Adding eight new local drug task forces. Upgrading State Police crime labs to keep up with the record numbers of drug-related arrests and prosecutions.

We will press forward with the largest prison expansion program in the state's history. Constructing seven new prisons. Adding 9,000 prison cells between now and 1994. And creating more than 24,000 new, permanent jobs all over the state in the process.

With 37 million new dollars, this budget will help keep our prisons secure and our communities safe by adding 1,000 corrections personnel statewide. We'll staff a new 500-bed prison in Crawford County. And we'll bring the capacity of our community service centers to more than 200.

It's time for the criminals to pay part of the price of justice, too. I propose legislation to generate $24.5 million in fees that will force criminals—including drunk drivers—to pay for their crimes. With the money going to help pay the high costs of county corrections and parole supervision, and programs to aid crime victims, including notification when the criminal is to be released from prison.

VII. Investing in the Building Blocks of Economic Growth

We're not just here to manage problems, but to make more progress. And that's exactly what we've been doing over the past four years. Across the board, we've made Pennsylvania a place for business and families to grow and prosper. Our companies have been the direct beneficiaries of billions in state investments in our schools, our physical infrastructure, our tax policies and our nationally acclaimed economic development strategies.

After years of deadlock, we paid our state's unemployment compensation debt to the federal government. That meant tax cuts for Pennsylvania business totaling $815 million over the past two years. And even more important, a level playing field with companies in other states.

We've already made an unprecedented investment in the new highways. Airports. Water and sewer systems that support economic growth. In every corner of our state.

Nearly $730 million already committed through our PENN-VEST clean water program.

A record-breaking $4.2 billion in new roads, highways and bridges.

$93 million in our ports.

An historic four-year, $223 million commitment to developing high technology.

Including an unmatched $115 million invested in research and development through the Ben Franklin Partnership.

Through our Commerce Department, we give Pennsylvania business a quarter of a billion dollars in low-interest loans each year.

And this year, we'll continue to make Pennsylvania an even better place to build a business and create new jobs.

Last week, I announced our accelerated $500 million capital investment program to create new jobs and give our construction industry the jolt it needs to come out of this recession. Jobs from building new roads, bridges and airports. New mass transit, water and sewer systems. New state corrections and higher education projects. All the new public infrastructure which makes private investment possible.

But to keep this momentum going, it's vital that you approve the legislation I also proposed last week to issue $300 million in bonds to underwrite the Pennsylvania Economic Revitalization Fund. I will soon send you that legislation to put the necessary referendum on the ballot this May so our people can again vote to revitalize Pennsylvania's economy.

Armed with these funds, we'll continue to expand our investment in high technology. With a $7 million—40 percent increase for our nationally renowned Industrial Resource Centers...which put technology to work for Pennsylvania's small and medium-sized manufacturers.

We'll add another $1 million to our ongoing investment in the Pittsburgh Supercomputing Center. Another $1 million for engineering school equipment needs. And $400,000 to develop Light Microscope Imaging and Biotechnology at Carnegie Mellon University.

We'll add more than $23 million to all our key job creation funds: including a $5.5 million increase for Business Infrastructure Development grants; a $12.5 million increase for the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority and $5.3 million increase to our business Machinery and Equipment Loan Fund.

We're requesting $37 million for Housing and Redevelopment, much of it earmarked for economic development projects.

This year, we'll also invest another $15 million in our Regional Opportunities program. An effort that has successfully targeted the full range of state programs to help communities make the most of their unique assets. And to create new jobs where a few years ago there was only lost hope.

These business incentive programs compliment our $28 million Sunny Day Fund, a program that has already used $87.5 million to create over 9,000 Pennsylvania jobs over the past four years. Including the new jobs that Sony will bring to New Stanton in Westmoreland County. That Ford Electronics brings to Montgomery County. And that Lord & Taylor brings to Luzerne County.

We'll invest $75 million in the kind of job training that will help more of our young people enter the work place. Including a $2.5 million increase for the Pennsylvania Conservation Corps. Two-point-eight million dollars for Job Centers. Almost thirty-nine million for Vocational Education programs. And $24.8 million to prepare public assistance clients for the jobs they need to get off the welfare rolls.

And we'll maintain agriculture's position as Pennsylvania's number one industry, by building on the new investments we've made over the past four years in agricultural research, promotion, animal health, farmland preservation and our famous Farm Show arena. This year, our General Fund commitment to agriculture will be 25 percent higher than it was five years ago.

VIII. Spreading the Burden More Fairly

Better schools. New roads, water and sewer systems. Expanded job creation efforts. Improved programs that give all children the chance to grow healthy and strong. These are the public investments which make our state a place where business and families can prosper.

While our brave young men and women use old-fashioned courage and high tech hardware to do what President Bush called "the hard work of freedom" in the Persian Gulf, we will do the hard work of freedom here at home.

But we're seriously handicapped in doing that work by federal policy which has forced Pennsylvania—and other states—not only to make up the difference in billions of lost federal dollars, but also to keep up with the explosive new costs of human services, health care, prisons, and more. We are the ones who must step forward to prevent further decay of our physical infrastructure and decline of our families.

But we will not let this economic downturn turn us away from our best hopes for Pennsylvania's future. Instead, we're taking strong and decisive action. We're squeezing the most value out of every dollar that's entrusted to us. And, as this budget shows, we're not asking our people to pay more before ensuring that government spends less. Instead, we're paying for the public investments we must make by doing without the things we don't need.

Because of our strong fiscal policies, Pennsylvania's had no new taxes for four straight years. And believe me, if we could do it again this year, we would. Yet it's clear that new revenue will be necessary if we're to support essential services and invest in a better future.

I do not propose to raise the necessary revenue by increasing the rate of the sales tax, the gas tax or the personal income tax. These fall most heavily on working families, who are already feeling the brunt of the recession. Rather, I'm recommending a plan that's both fair and equitable.

I recommend that we increase the tax on cigarettes. And there's a sound reason for this. Smoking is costing us all billions of dollars every year in medical costs, lost productivity and increased public spending. It's fair to ask that cigarette smoking, which is causing so much of this cost, help pay for it.

Just last week, the federal Center for Disease Control reported that 434,000 Americans died in 1988 from health problems caused by smoking, an 11 percent increase over the 1985 total. Cardiovascular disease remains far and away the number one cause of death in our nation. And smoking is a key contributing factor.

In Pennsylvania, our own public health experts estimate that in 1985, the latest year for which statistics are available, the growing tab from smoking was $2.9 billion in direct and indirect health costs. With what's happened to health care costs, we can only guess how high that number is today.

At the same time, we know state medical assistance costs are out of control. Increasing at a rate of some 21 percent a year.

Yet the current cigarette tax yields only a fraction of these costs.

So if the tobacco lobby wants to give us the label of being the number one state in the nation when it comes to taxing cigarettes...so be it.

Over the past decade, corporations have been paying less and less of Pennsylvania's overall tax burden. Due primarily to exemptions, loopholes and lower corporate tax rates.

In modern Pennsylvania history, there's generally been a 70-30 split in our revenue base between taxes contributed by individuals and those paid by companies. While the share paid by corporations was up to 34 percent in 1970, it hovered for years around 28 percent.

And in the 1980s, that corporate share of our tax burden dropped to a mere 23 percent. Leaving consumers and working families to pay the other 77 percent.

No one has a stronger interest in developing a better trained, better educated, more productive work force than business. In building new roads, airports and water systems. In expanding our investment in our children's education. In the key public investments that will be receiving new state funding this year.

So it makes good economic sense to bring the corporate contribution to our revenues into a more equitable balance with consumer taxes. I propose to do this by increasing the rates, eliminating exemptions and closing loopholes in our corporate taxes.

We'll also reform the administration and enforcement of the existing system. So we have both greater fairness and additional revenue.

Finally, I propose that we close the sales tax loophole for such non-essential items as liquor sold in restaurants, cable TV and long distance telephone charges.

If we take these steps to make our tax system more fair and equitable, then we should be able to ensure a balanced budget and maintain Pennsylvania's fiscal integrity both this year and next. Subject to two conditions. One we cannot control. And one we must control.

First, the Persian Gulf war. No one can predict the economic effect of a long conflict. We can only pray for the fighting to end soon so that our troops can return to their homes and their families.

Second, we can only balance future budgets without new taxes if you adopt the vital cost control measures I've outlined for medical assistance, special education, the PACE program and children's services. Your action is imperative to our success.

IX. Joining Together to Make the Tough Choices

This is a tough year and a tough budget. Beginning today, you join me in facing some of the most difficult decisions we've ever had to make. Decisions that will define what kind of state we are and hope to be. For even as we share our people's concern about the future in these uncertain times, so too are we the custodians of their hopes.

The measure of our stewardship in the weeks and months ahead lies in our actions and in our unity.

As President Roosevelt said in the midst of economic hardship nearly two generation ago:

"We refuse to leave the problems of our common welfare to be solved by winds of chance or hurricanes of disaster...We all go up—or else we all go down—as one people."

So I urge all of you, on both sides of the aisle, to join me in meeting our common challenge.

To join together in continuing Pennsylvania's record of fiscal integrity.

To join together in giving Pennsylvania the resources to meet the essential needs of our people today; and to realize our vision of the Pennsylvania of tomorrow.

At this moment, our nation is at war and our economy is in recession. It's time for us to join together and do the right thing for Pennsylvania.

And we must reach out to our people for their support, as well.

But to do what this difficult year demands of us, we must together bear the responsibility of leadership. And together embrace the opportunity which leadership offers.

That's what we came here to do. All of us. Democrats and Republicans.

We came to make the tough choices that this budget presents. So our children can live a better life in a better state.

We've been challenged before. And we have prevailed. By working together, we will prevail again. So let's get to work.

LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1991

SESSION OF 1991 175TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 10

SENATE

MONDAY, February 11, 1991.

The Senate met at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend KARIN CARROLL, Associate Pastor of Camp Hill Presbyterian Church, Camp Hill, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty and ever-living God, Maker of every good and perfect gift, Your blessings refresh us without fail. We give thanks on this day for new opportunities to serve, for continued freedom to speak openly and for the privilege of representative and orderly government.

God of power and might, in this time of war we pray for peace—not the peace which draws lines in the sand and cries for vengeance, but the peace which heals ancient hatreds and reconciles ancient foes. We lift up in prayer those leaders of many nations who at this hour must make decisions about events in the Persian Gulf. Grant them wisdom and compassion, integrity and humility. We also lift up in prayer those soldiers and civilians of many nations whose lives and futures depend on the decisions of others. Grant them patience and humor, courage and trust.

God of past, present and future: In this time of uncertainty we pray for vision. May those who serve in this Chamber today be inspired by a vision of the future of this Commonwealth, a vision of what is good and just, a vision of what is life-affirming and healthful, a vision of what is fair and merciful. Then may we all be led to do justice, love mercy and walk humbly with You, O God.

For the companionship of colleagues, for honest disagreement, for lessons learned from the past and the challenges of these perilous times, we give You thanks.

Praise be to You, O God, now and forevermore. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks Reverend Carroll who is the guest this week of Senator Hopper.

A RESOLUTION

Expressing the deep sadness of the Senate of Pennsylvania at the death of George I. Bloom, a good friend and respected politician.

WHEREAS, On February 3, 1991, George I. Bloom, one of Pennsylvania's political legends, died at the age of 92; and

WHEREAS, George I. Bloom voted in every election since 1919, a fact of which he was very proud; and

WHEREAS, His love for politics developed early when, at the age of 13, he distributed handbills for local candidates in his native Washington County; and

WHEREAS, He served as secretary to Governor Edward Martin and then accompanied him to the United States Senate as his chief of staff; and

WHEREAS, He became Secretary of the Commonwealth under Governor William Scranton; and

WHEREAS, He was appointed to the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission where he served as chairman for ten years; and

WHEREAS, George I. Bloom was known as "Mr. Republican" for his dedication to and hard work for the Republican party, including over 50 years as a member of the Republican State Committee with over six years as chairman; and

WHEREAS, George I. Bloom had the respect and friendship of many persons in both political parties; and

WHEREAS, George I. Bloom was a compassionate man who was always ready to take time to help people, to listen, give advice and do whatever he could, an approach that brought him many friends, some powerful and some not-so-powerful, from all around the State; and

WHEREAS, George I. Bloom had close ties with the Senate of Pennsylvania. A Senate seat was the only publicly elected office that he ever sought when he ran for the Washington County seat in 1938 and was narrowly defeated. He had many good friends in the Senate from both sides of the aisle. In 1988, on the occasion of his 90th birthday, the Senate held a ceremony honoring him which he and his wife, Luella, attended; therefore be it RESOLVED, that the Senate express its deep sadness at the death of George I. Bloom, a good friend and respected politician, and direct that copies of this resolution sponsored by Senators Robert C. Jubelirer, John D. Hopper, J. Barry Stout and John J. Shumaker, on behalf of the Senate be transmitted to his niece, Carol Sue Kaminsky.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

RESOLUTION ADOPTED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt this resolution.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President, I might add before I make remarks on the life of George I. Bloom, that many other Members of the Senate have signed the Memorial Resolution. I would ask the Secretary of the Senate to hold it for a short time after the Session for anyone else who has not had the opportunity to sign the George I. Bloom Memorial Resolution to have the opportunity to do so.

Mr. President and Members of the Senate, Pennsylvania truly has lost one of its greatest citizens. Our party, the Republican Party, has lost its captain or legend, if you will. A true Member, as I have talked about halls of fame in the past, of a hall of fame—the Pennsylvania GOP Hall of Fame—and a friend to all. Someone who, although he was identified and has been honored as a Member of my party, nevertheless, I think each of us knows very well that George Bloom had friends on both sides of the aisle, very deep friendships, both personal and political.

The hallmark of George Bloom as I listened to the eulogies at his funeral, and certainly anytime I talked with him, it always started out with, "What can I do for you?" George I. Bloom was known for those six words, not just saying them, but he truly did many things for other people both in the political world we live in and in what I will call the real world where he was very active in charitable organizations and in giving of himself. That was really the hallmark of this legend, George I. Bloom.

I first got to know George Bloom when, I guess, I was nine or ten years old. He graduated from law school with my father. They were fraternity brothers and close personal friends and so my first introduction to politics at home outside the home area was by someone by the name of George Bloom. When I got to know this man, I realized what a very special human being he was. He was very compassionate, very dedicated, very committed, very close to the things he loved most—close to his religious faith, close to his party, close to his community, close to his family, and that family was an extended family. George Bloom married late in life. He was 60 years of age when he and Luella got married. They never had children, but he had nieces and nephews. Most importantly, George Bloom's extended family were the many people he came into contact with, the many people to whom he was able to say, "What can I do for you?"

How many people at their funeral will have the kind of turnout that a George Bloom has to be able to pay their respects? There were two governors there and a third one would have been there if he had not been in California. There were Senators, there were Congressmen, there were people from all walks of life, from the political world to the outside world of the person who just happened to come into contact with George Bloom but who wanted to come and pay their last respects.

We are very fortunate to have had the opportunity in this Senate to have honored this great legend in our Body, and I think it was most appropriate to do so. You see, Mr. President, I believe that George Bloom truly gave the term "politician" the very best sense of that word. I grew up in a household where I was taught that my word was my bond and when I gave my word I had better keep it or else I had better not give it. That is the kind of world that George Bloom lived in, the professional politician, the politician who befriended people of all walks of life in both parties, even though he was a partisan in the sense that he served a governor and he served his party as its leader. But the most important characteristic about him was his honesty and integrity. Regardless of whether you liked him—and there were many certainly who did not like him because he fought with one governor pretty regularly—George Bloom was an honest, decent human being, a person who lived by his word and as I said, gave our profession a fine reputation, a name that the politician could say that is the truest sense of the goodness in that meaning. Unfortunately, the term "politician" has very much slipped in the public's eye. People like George I. Bloom are not around anymore. There are very few left. It is the last of a breed, the last of that person who committed his life to the dedication of his community, his family, his congregation and his party. They do not exist anymore and it is kind of sad, but I would like to, at least on this day, remember in this Body, a Body he loved from the bottom of his heart, a very special human being. George, wherever you are, you had a great impact on my life and I will never forget you for being someone very special. I am sure as each of us reflects on George Bloom we will always remember that, George, you may have asked us what can you do for us, but you gave so much more of yourself than just that and it was more than just words. I hope that as time goes by the name George Bloom will not be forgotten in this Body or outside of it as the person who brought honesty, integrity, dedication and commitment to a profession that each of us has chosen to follow.

Senator SHUMAKER. Mr. President, I look back to a few weeks ago when George Bloom called me on the Friday before he died. He invited me to lunch that Friday and he called to go over the menu to see if I agreed with it. That does not sound like much to people, but George had people to help him at the house and yet he called to be sure that in his home he was going to have that which I liked. George Bloom was that way in life all the time. When you say he was beloved by Republicans and Democrats alike, sometimes that is a rhetorical question and sometimes it is a statement made only because people like to hear it, but not in the case of George Bloom. Friendship to him was probably the greatest thing in the world. He was a great believer and a great supporter of his party. I know that the people on the other side always held this man in the highest respect. Often I would be asked by people, if I saw them out of town, How is George Bloom doing? They were not Republicans, they were Democrats.

He was quite a man. He was not only a politician and a statesman but something much more. He was a friend to many, many people in this Body and to many people in Pennsylvania. In the last years of his life he was in a wheelchair, but that did not stop him from doing anything. He would come to functions. If invited, he would come to any affair and he would come in his wheelchair. We never acknowledged that he was in a wheelchair because we never thought of him as being in a wheelchair. George Bloom was there and that made the event, and it is going to be a long time in Pennsylvania before we see men like George Bloom in politics again. It would be wonderful if in every generation we could have those kinds of people leading us.

The gentleman from Blair, Senator Jubelirer, mentioned that he was proud of his family, he was proud of his party and he was proud of his religion. There was one other thing: He was terribly proud of his friends. He never boasted about them, but if you called George Bloom on the phone, it would take him five minutes to get into action to see if he could help you. A call would come back and he would say, John, this is something that maybe I could look into—this is before I even considered elective office—and then he would come back and he would say, this cannot be done and he gave you the reason why.

A returned phone call from George Bloom was kind of like a returned call, for me at a young age, from God because I grew up respecting him as much as any person in politics, and I rise today to pay my respects to this gentleman. I shall never forget him personally because he made me feel, every time I was near him, as though I was the most important thing he had to do for that day, that I was the most important thing in his life, as a matter of fact, and anybody who has had that contact, in either party here, when you were with him there was some glow, there was some radiation, there was something in that man that made you feel you were in the company of greatness. He said he only ran for public office once, but what he did for this state he did for a lifetime. So, Mr. President, I rise in the greatest respect for one of the finest men I have ever known, to a great friend, and I say, George, we will never forget you because Pennsylvania is a lot better because of you.

Senator BAKER. Mr. President, I rise to support the resolution and to express my appreciation for what George Bloom did for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. As a former chairman of the Republican Party myself, I have a unique appreciation for one who served in that position for six years. I served in that position for four years, which is longer than anybody since George Bloom, and the job of the state chairman is an unsung, unheralded and sometimes thankless task for which George Bloom set a standard which we, in the Republican Party, and I am sure all Pennsylvanians, respect for not only his commitment to a party, but also to serving a party for the greater good of his community and for the state. I appreciated the advice and support that he gave me as a state chairman and as a politician, and I would like to mention three areas in which I think that George Bloom draws a contrast with the situation that we have today.

I think today the term "politics" as a profession and the term "politician" are often terms of ridicule. They are terms of skepticism, and yet George Bloom was proud of being a politician, as we should be proud of being politicians, because it gave him an opportunity to serve and to work with people. He often indicated his pride in his profession. He was a true grass roots politician with his roots in Washington County and his understanding of local politics in the sense that all politics is in a sense local.

Another unique thing about George Bloom was that he believed in the political party, and today it has become routine for candidates and for those who aspire to political favoritism to attempt to bypass whichever party, to work around it, to use it as a tool for ambition and, yet, without commitment to the institution itself. George Bloom was an institution builder and his commitment to the party was not just for a moment, but it was for the long term for the party as an accountable institution, for an organization that could function to achieve policy and to achieve good for the people.

Finally, the third thing I would like to say that is different about George Bloom was that he liked to call people or to be called just to say hello and just to share thoughts and not necessarily waiting for the time when you wanted something or when he wanted something. I think that is a little different from the way a lot of people are in politics when they call when they do need something or want something. George believed in keeping the lines of communication open. In the process he was often able to do good for people and to ask for the things or the tokens of politics and yet he was always a gentleman, always someone who dealt on the basis of a mutually shared commitment to ideals.

So, it gives me pleasure to second the eloquent comments of those who have preceded me and I will not try to reiterate the aspects of George's life, but simply say that we do need people like George Bloom in politics. I think if we had more people like George Bloom in politics we would have a system in which we could see a brighter luster on the politician's image.

Senator STOUT. Mr. President, as a Washington Countian, I rise to support the resolution in memory of a distinguished Washington Countian, George I. Bloom. The relationship between the Stout family and George Bloom went back for many, many years. My late father started teaching school in the Burgettstown area during the hard times of the Depression, when the Bloom family was located there in Burgettstown. My father had told me of many times in which George was helpful to people within that community during the dire straits of the Depression, and George went on to distinguish himself in politics throughout the Commonwealth. I remember as a freshman House member in 1971, one of the first people to greet me here in Harrisburg and call and offer their help was George Bloom. Over the years when Mr. Bloom was serving as Chairman of the PUC, two or three times a year George would call and ask me to come over to his office there in the PUC and have lunch with him. What he wanted to do was catch up on Washington County politics. Literally, he would clean off a little space at the end of that long conference table piled high with correspondence and bills and so forth, and his memory always amazed me. He would go back literally precinct by precinct starting in northern Washington County and through the City of Washington and down into the Lemont Valley area talking about the upcoming election, who was running for office and so forth. He wanted to keep in contact with his many friends there in Washington County. When you stop and think about it, that was kind of unique, Washington County being a heavily Democratic county, nearly four to one in registrations, and here this Republican had so many friends. In fact, the Governor who the gentleman from Blair, Senator Jubelirer, alluded to who had difficulty with George, as a House Member one time there was a piece of legislation that the Governor at that time was supporting that would have put a crimp in George's power—I forget the details now since it has been nearly 20 years ago. I remember getting called into the Governor's Office as to why I was not supportive of that legislation. I said, "Well, Governor, George Bloom is from Washington County and, quite frankly, he has more friends out there than you do." So as a practical politician I was supporting my friend George Bloom. Many times on other occasions I was trying to deal with a utility problem. I had gone through all the channels and was getting nowhere to help my constituents. One visit over to George, and he picked up the phone and in a matter of five or ten minutes the problem was solved. And it is very true, he would always ask you what he could do for you. He had many, many friends from Washington County who were saddened by his death. He continued to be respected over the years as a person whose word was good. If he could help you, he would do that. And he never forgot the people in Washington County and was always there to support and help them.

Indeed, it is fitting that this Body honor the memory of George Bloom, and as long as there are people here who remember that, George's memory will live on.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I also rise in support of the resolution and unlike some of the previous speakers, never really had the opportunity to get that close to George Bloom but certainly by reputation knew of his outstanding contributions to our party and to the many candidates throughout the state and to the people of Pennsylvania.

I took some time to just quickly peruse some of the clips that had been written after Mr. Bloom's death recently. I think some of the things that were said in there really highlight what kind of a man George Bloom was. I think just the fact that he began his first political work at age 13, getting involved in his first campaign, says something about an almost natural instinct for getting involved politically, trying to work for other people and trying to help other people. I think it is interesting and one thing I saw was that after completing his PUC term in 1975, Mr. Bloom remained not only a State Committee Member and attended many of the National Conventions of the Republican Party, but each time he went to any kind of a meeting, he would always receive a standing ovation from his fellow party members whenever he was introduced. I think after he retired from the PUC it was quite telling when he said at his retirement that, "I am not going to sit in a rocking chair and rust." He was going to continue that commitment and remain involved through the rest of his life. I think it was indicative of the kind of man George Bloom was that he really never considered himself a power in the political process even though we all know that certainly was one of his hallmarks and one thing he was. He had been a member of the Republican State Committee from 1939 until 1981, and at that time in 1981 George Bloom was named as a State Committeeman Emeritus in recognition of his long involvement with the state party. I thought it was telling also what kind of a person George Bloom was that he was always an affable man in public, but was neither a long-winded speaker nor a back-slapping fun lover after hours, so to speak. He nevertheless had a private sense of humor, and I think that one of the incidents I noted was when his law firm's automobile he had been using was stolen during a state committee meeting in Harrisburg, back during the 1950s, and he had to call his brother in Little Washington. He telephoned his brother to say, Izzy, your Cadillac has been stolen, send mine immediately, and I think that indicates the kind of person and sense of humor that George Bloom had. I think if we take a look, too, we will see that this past November George Bloom voted, once again, this time by absentee ballot, for the 71st consecutive election that he cast his ballot, and I think that is a record that many of us would have a hard time to try to match in the years ahead. Again, I think that those who worked along with George Bloom remembered him as a person who was certainly an up-front man whose word might be as good as a legal contract. If he gave you his word, it was binding and you knew you could count on it, and that certainly earned George Bloom the bipartisan praise that prompted a Special Session of this Senate in 1988 in his honor. I think that for all the dabbling in the high level political rooms and hallways of democracy, friends of George Bloom always said that he never forgot the common men and women who had formed the foundation of Pennsylvania, and for George Bloom it made no difference whether you were a Republican or a Democrat, a black or a white, or something in between. He felt his obligation in life was to help people, those people who had problems. As was said earlier by some of the previous speakers, George Bloom always said to people, What is it I can do for you? I think that Pennsylvania will certainly have a hard time replacing a gentleman of the characteristics of George Bloom and the contributions that he made to this Commonwealth, but we wish those who are still in his family well. Pennsylvania is going to miss a true gentleman and public servant in George Bloom.

Senator STAPLETON. Mr. President, I did not intend to speak, but I recall back in 1970 when I first came to the Senate of Pennsylvania, I was up on the fourth floor in a little cubbyhole and a fellow by the name of George Bloom asked if he could meet with me. I believe I was just in the Senate for a couple of weeks. I met with him not knowing what he had in mind, but he came in and told me that he felt I should join the Grand Old Party, coming from a district that is all Republican in all of my counties, that I would feel much more comfortable with him and his people than where I was. We certainly talked a great deal that day, and I am going to say that at least every year, from then on until the last couple of years, we would meet at least once for lunch. He would inquire about his many good Republican friends back in Indiana County, Mrs. Bennett in Jefferson County and friends in Clarion and Armstrong Counties, and he had friends in all of the counties. He continued to call me every now and then to remind me of his feelings and the feelings of some of his close Republican friends and some of their views on some legislation, and what have you. I did not know the gentleman that well, but whenever we would see each other we would have a discussion and I am sure to this day he probably still felt that I should have joined the Grand Old Party and been a part of George Bloom.

Senator HOPPER. Mr. President, I, too, rise in support of this resolution before us, and I agree completely with the remarks made by our colleagues who preceded me. George moved into Camp Hill some years ago and was a good friend of mine for many years. In the mid 1970s he assisted me greatly when I was trying to make a decision on whether to get involved in the governmental process or not, and that assistance has lasted for almost 15 years now and, I say, Thank you, George, wherever you are.

The PRESIDENT. Would the Members of the Senate, on the question of the adoption of the resolution, who wish to support the resolution please rise and join in a moment of silence.

(Whereupon, the Senate en banc stood in a moment of silence in solemn respect to the memory of GEORGE I. BLOOM.)

LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1991

SESSION OF 1991 175TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 11

SENATE

TUESDAY, February 12, 1991.

The Senate met at 11:30 a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend KARIN CARROLL, Associate Pastor of Camp Hill Presbyterian Church, Camp Hill, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Gracious and mighty God, judge of all nations, You have given us another day rich with blessing.

We thank You for all those who labor in this Chamber to govern and to guide, and we ask Your blessing on what they accomplish here.

God of our ancestors, in every age You raise up leaders to guide us in times of peril. On this day we remember especially Abraham Lincoln, who gave the last full measure of devotion and public service to this country. In these troubled times, we lift up in prayer his plea for peace:

With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as You give us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations.

These and all our prayers we lift up in the name which is above all names. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding Session of February 11, 1991.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding Session, when, on motion of Senator LOEPER, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS*GUESTS OF SENATOR VINCENT J. FUMO PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I am very proud today to introduce my daughter Allison who has come with us today. For all the old men in here, this is my daughter, not my granddaughter, and I am quite pleased to have her with us. I urge all my colleagues who are around my age not to worry about it if you have another child, that you will be 67 when she graduates from high school, but she has been a joy to my life and my wife's life, and I would like to introduce her now as well as my wife and her nanny, Barbara, and ask the Senate to give them its warm welcome.

The PRESIDENT. Would the Senate please join me in welcoming young Allison and Jane Fumo and the guests of Senator Fumo to the floor of the Senate.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT. The Chair cannot help noticing that she must be a Fumo since she is aggressively reaching for the microphone.

Senator SALVATORE. I wanted to say that Senator Fumo should not attribute that baby to himself, but to Jane and how beautiful Jane is. That is why they have a beautiful baby, because if it were not for Jane, there would not be a beautiful baby.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks the gentleman for that necessary correction.

GUESTS OF SENATOR F. JOSEPH LOEPER AND SENATOR RICHARD A. TILGHMAN
PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, while we are under the order of business of introductions, I am also very fortunate to have two special friends who are Delaware Countians here visiting the Capitol today. One is our Superior Court Judge, the Honorable Stephen J. McEwen, and also a constituent of Senator Tilghman from Havertown, Mr. Tom McCue. I was wondering if the Senate would extend its warm welcome to those two gentlemen.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests please rise so we can welcome you to the Senate.

(Applause.)

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS*CEREMONY IN COMMEMORATION OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Senator HART. Mr. President, the tradition of the Lincoln Day Address goes back a long way, not just here in the Senate of Pennsylvania, but throughout the nation as Republicans harken back to the roots of our party and our philosophy and all Americans honor the memory of one of our greatest leaders and pause to recall his ideals. The audience today is a bipartisan one, and I would be remiss to ignore the fact that our friends on the other side of the aisle have a similar and equally important tradition in honoring the memories of Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson. In fact, Lincoln himself partook of that tradition. Lincoln, Jefferson and Jackson—men from widely diverse backgrounds who led this nation at uniquely challenging periods of our history, yet, all three represent the best of what we are as people and what we are challenged to be in government. Each of these men put their faith in the basic common sense and wisdom of individual citizens, the men and women who form the backbone of our nation—our constituents. And they believed in the great things that individuals can do if they are given the right tools. From this belief in the people sprang a commitment to support, protect and expand the freedoms and the opportunities available to all the people of this nation.

As Lincoln once said, "Our reliance is in the love of liberty which God has planted in us. Our defense is in the spirit which prized liberty as the heritage of all men, in all lands, everywhere. Destroy this spirit, and you have planted the seeds of despotism at your own door." What sets Lincoln apart in the American mind was not only his deep belief in the dignity of every person, but his commitment to turn those beliefs into action. With a bold stroke of his pen, Abraham Lincoln offered a share of the American dream to men and women who had spent their lives in chains under the tyranny of slavery. Lincoln chose to end this abominable institution because he believed that the primary aim of government was to uplift citizens, to help them improve their lot in life, not to force them to live their lives as another man's property. After all, Lincoln was a living embodiment of the American dream, rising from humble beginnings, teaching himself to read, learning the law, seeking and losing election to public office and enduring merciless public criticism to become one of the greatest leaders this nation has ever seen. Just as he believed that he could rise from poverty, so he believed that government should work to help others find the path to prosperity and opportunity. He said, "The legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but cannot do at all or cannot do so well for themselves." The aim of government, as he said, is the elevation of mankind. But while this aim is a simple one, helping people to live their lives in an increasing degree of comfort, achieving that is difficult, and as history has proven, it is quite elusive. When you examine the course of so many debates, not only here in this Senate but across the history of our nation, so much centers on the best way to offer a helping hand to the poor, the young, the elderly and the ill.

As we look across this Commonwealth today on the 182nd anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, we see so much of his work and philosophy remains unfulfilled and economic chains remain on far too many citizens—black and white, urban and rural. They are all around us, if we would just look: the fatherless family in public housing projects; the children who need an extra push to get a start in life; the former steelworker who is still searching for a steady job that will keep his family afloat; and the elderly who worry about how they will gather the funds to pay their next property tax bill, let alone to pay for their next major operation.

If we believe that this government is "one of the people, by the people and for the people," then we must search for the most straight and sure path that will lead all the people of Pennsylvania toward the American dream. While these times are surely far different from the Pennsylvania of the 1860s, the path of freedom and opportunity is hardly different. To walk that path, men and women must have the means to control their own economic destiny. This is not a new idea. During Lincoln's administration, in order to put enterprising Americans on the road to prosperity, homesteaders were granted 162 acres of land, allowing them to set out in life with a real stake in the nation they were to settle in. This landmark policy authored by a Pennsylvania Congressman, who, by the way, was the first Republican Speaker in the U.S. House, tapped into the powerful ideals of the Free Soil movement. Simply put, it empowered Americans to better their lot while building and developing the vast American West. Homesteading worked because the land belonged to the people, and it was their own hard work that made a difference between success and failure. Frankly, for them it meant the difference between eating and starving. The formulas of yesterday are not obsolete today merely because the times have changed. When we talk about housing in the 1990s, there is no question that the temptation is for us to simply build more public housing projects where families can rent a limited number of small units at a rock-bottom price. But what investment does a family have in that building and what kinds of roots can they put down in a complex that is so large that it needs its own zip code? Without a stake in their own homes, residents have less incentive to halt the rising decay and violent crime that have become synonymous with large housing projects. We must do all we can to encourage the transformation from tenant to owner or from unemployed worker to entrepreneur, to give people a chance at owning a small slice of the American dream instead of being chained to a future that grows darker day after day. But it is not only through home ownership that we can put the citizens of Pennsylvania back into the economic driver's seat.

Whole communities in this state are still reeling from a loss of manufacturing jobs. In my area the product was steel; in the northeast, textiles; in other areas the product was glass. Yet these communities, once vibrant, must not be written off. There is too much physical capital there and, more importantly, there is too much human capital there. So we must redouble our efforts to create economic opportunity, not through government fiat but through the free market and entrepreneurial spirit that built this nation.

And that's not all we can do. Whether we talk about expanding opportunities in education or improving health care in other areas, the bottom line is that we must create incentives and flexibility, not rigid mandates. The time has come for us to return to the philosophy of Abraham Lincoln, a philosophy that says that individuals are the world's foremost experts on the proper course of their own lives, a philosophy that we in government must respect. It reminds me of an old saying, "Don't give a man a fish, but teach him how to fish." We must, as Lincoln said, listen to the "better angels of our nature" and help the citizens of this nation end their dependency on government, not by cutting them off, casting them away or ignoring their plight, but by offering them a path towards progress and prosperity and by giving them power over their own future. It won't be easy, yet we cannot be deterred from proposing bold solutions simply because those ideas may draw fire or be set upon by naysayers. As Lincoln said, "Let us to the end dare to do our duty." We can take inspiration from the leadership of Abraham Lincoln, who was able to move this nation forward at a time of great national crisis. Even as he managed one of the most devastating and divisive conflicts this nation has ever seen, he still believed in meeting all of the challenges before him.

Today, as brave American men and women are on the front lines in defense of freedom, we know that our task in government is to meet all the challenges that lie before this state and nation, and when our troops return home, as we hope and pray they will very soon, we want them to return to a land that has continued to grow and create new opportunities for its people. I really believe that we in the Senate of Pennsylvania can be the agents of a new Emancipation Proclamation for the people of Pennsylvania, young and old, rural and urban, black and white. We can meet the challenges not only of today, but of a new century that offers opportunities to those who, like Abraham Lincoln, are bold enough to seize them.

(Applause.)

LEGISLATIVE LEAVE CANCELLED

The PRESIDENT. Ironically, Senator Lincoln has just arrived and his temporary Capitol leave will be cancelled.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, for years I have been in the General Assembly and listened to the Republican Party one time a year take credit for Abraham Lincoln, and particularly during the '80s through campaigns for President. Reagan got elected by quoting Truman, by quoting Roosevelt, by taking credit for half of the things the Democrat Party did in this century. Bush has done basically the same thing, and thank God that Abraham Lincoln was born like the rest of us or the Republican Party probably would never even acknowledge he was around. The civil rights records of the Republican Party during the 1980s and through the Bush Administration have been atrocious. If Abraham Lincoln were alive today, I can assure you he would really, really love the speech that was very well given by the Senator from Allegheny County. But I think he also would shudder at the record of the Republican Party on what we have seen in the last ten years on the attack on civil rights that was so hard fought for through the 1950s and 1960s. I personally am offended because at some point in time my family probably had some relationship to Abraham Lincoln.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator BRIGHTBILL. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, I resent the interruption. I never interrupted the gentle lady from Allegheny, Senator Hart, one time, and I disagreed with everything she was saying.

The PRESIDENT. If the gentleman would yield for just a minute, let us find out why Senator Brightbill rises. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Senator BRIGHTBILL. I rise to a point of order, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lebanon, Senator Brightbill, will state his point.

Senator BRIGHTBILL. The speech that was given is a traditional ceremonial speech of the Senate, and I would suggest that the gentleman's comments ought to be made during Petitions and Remonstrances.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, I think that is when the speech should have been given.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would advise the gentleman from Fayette that, indeed, the tradition that has been established is to allow this Lincoln Day Address to occur as a special order of business in the middle of the agenda, and the gentleman is further correct that the Chair really should have sought unanimous consent for Senator Lincoln's rebuttal-type remarks at this time.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, I have no problem with that, and I think if Senator Brightbill would have objected immediately to this, I would have said that. But I think once the truth started to come out and the salt was rubbed in the wounds a little bit is when the objection came out.

The PRESIDENT. If the gentlemen would all yield, let me attempt to clear this up. At the moment, the gentleman's remarks are out of order inasmuch as we are on the order of business of consideration of today's Calendar.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, I would object to that ruling on the basis that the objection was not timely made by the Republican Senator from Lebanon County.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks the gentleman for that, but the fact remains that if there is an objection at all, the gentleman is denied unanimous consent to proceed at this time. His remarks are perfectly acceptable under Petitions and Remonstrances and I would suggest that that would be the proper forum.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, I am not aware of any motion or any question being raised or any consent being asked for before Senator Hart spoke, and I do not remember, and if you check the record, I do not believe that she had unanimous consent to make her remarks.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, will state it.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, is the gentleman appealing the ruling of the Chair?

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, I am not. I think I have made my point.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, prior to the next order of business, I would like the record to show that a number of years ago Senator Tom Lamb, who was at that time the Democrat Majority Leader, admonished Senator Hager, who was a newly elected Republican Senator, for his very partisan remarks with regard to the same topic that the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, was rebutting, and I believe there was precedent for the rebuttal to have taken place, if you would have the Secretary of the Senate research the legislative history.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair agrees that there, perhaps, has been precedent. The Chair would simply point out that the speeches occur by unanimous consent and there has been a unanimous consent objection issued here, and we will continue with the Calendar at this time.

CONSIDERATION OF CALENDAR RESUMED

THIRD CONSIDERATION CALENDAR

BILLS ON THIRD CONSIDERATION AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1 (Pr. No. 166) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, changing provisions relating to judicial discipline; and providing for financial disclosure, for budgeting and for the financial affairs of the judiciary.

Considered the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, surely this is a day long awaited by many who were concerned and care about the state's judicial system. It is sometimes difficult to appreciate that a good government constitutional amendment has such a long road to passage. I think it is regrettable that it took a series of events somewhat negative in nature to make judicial reform a popular proposition. Nonetheless, our approval this Session, following last Session's action, is a substantial victory for the public interest. This package revamped judicial discipline with more open proceedings, clear-cut judicial ethics requirements and greater financial accountability for the Judicial Branch and is worthy of legislative approval and voter approval of inclusion in our State Constitution.

The Senate has contributed a great deal to this process, Mr. President, repeatedly passing bills Session after Session. Stalwart advocates of judicial reform are former Members such as Senator Dick Snyder and Senator Jack Stauffer and my colleague, the Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary, Senator Stewart Greenleaf, and others, who have played leadership roles, and longtime backers in the House of Representatives led by the Majority Leader, H. William DeWeese, joined with new champions to give the needed push for passage in that chamber.

Mr. President, I think it is very important that we acknowledge the Members of the Committee on Judiciary who commendably and forthrightly have embraced this cause, as well as the public interest groups, the editorial writers and the concerned citizens who helped keep the issue alive. I would like to point out, Mr. President, that we have an outstanding judiciary in this state, both at the county level and at the appellate level, and I believe those members are enhanced by this legislation. Obviously, there are exceptions and the public needs to understand those exceptions, that they be done in the sunshine. I believe, frankly, today we are represented here by one of the most outstanding members of the appellate judiciary in Judge McEwen, and it is an honor for me to talk about this issue with a distinguished member of the Appellate Court in attendance.

It is also good that the move toward reform was not detoured by the late breaking controversy over county court funding. This proposed amendment is neither the cause of the problem nor the solution to that issue. That the General Assembly must act on judicial funding is a matter of history merely reaffirmed by this amendment. Today, finally, is a beginning. It is the start of our appeal to the people of Pennsylvania, Mr. President, to overwhelmingly support this proposition on May 21st, an appeal that should be and I am sure will be broad based and bipartisan. Judicial reform is not the end of our quest to give our citizens a quality judicial system that they trust and respect, but it is a notable milestone, a necessary foundation for public confidence and a proud moment for every Member of this Senate who has supported that over so many years.

RECONSIDERATION OF HB 1

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed on third consideration.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third consideration?

Senator FUMO, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment No. A0124:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 22), page 13, line 30; page 14, lines 1 through 4, by striking out "No" in line 30, page 13, and all of lines 1 through 4, page 14

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, this amendment would delete from the bill language which appears at the bottom of page 13 and the top of page 14, the clear intent of which is to prohibit the Supreme Court from being allowed to mandate missed monies. Mr. President, we already have an opinion of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court ordering us to fund county court costs. The Supreme Court has not enforced that order because we in the General Assembly, through informal channels, have advised them that we are studying the situation and attempting to define what is meant by court costs at the county level. When we first began to look into this, we found out that for the 67 counties of Pennsylvania, each one does it differently, each court charges different things. For example, the sheriff in some places charges the court costs to the probation department and others, and there are 67 different varieties out there of what county court costs are. Pursuant to our attempt to try to unify the accounting system so we could comply with the court order, this General Assembly published in the Pennsylvania Bulletin, I believe a year or two ago, a request for proposals and did, in fact, receive a number of proposals from major accounting firms throughout the Commonwealth to come in and study the court systems so they could come back and advise us so that we could adequately determine what would be county court costs on a uniform basis.

Mr. President, we started to do that. The leadership of the four caucuses met and discussed it. We drafted the RFP. We even received the RFPs and then the whole thing kind of died. Mr. President, I think it is our obligation to comply with that order because our counties throughout this Commonwealth are suffering severe financial hardship in funding a state unified judicial court system, and we have not given them adequate aid to do that. In Philadelphia alone, the county court costs of our city are over $100 million a year and growing. It is only this year, through the efforts of Justice Papadakos and Justice Cappy, that the Supreme Court is trying to help us in Philadelphia to curb some of these costs. Quite frankly, Mr. President, if you read the media accounts of this effort, political forces have attempted to block them at each and every turn of the road. Those political forces include those who want to keep the outrageous political patronage in the Philadelphia Court System alive. Mr. President, I do not think it is wise for us to order—by constitutional amendment or otherwise—and restrict the Supreme Court from mandating missing money. It is a basic, fundamental constitutional principle that was embodied in our United States Constitution, and I do not know why we in Pennsylvania want to break from that precedent.

Mr. President, if this bill goes forth as written, it would clearly prohibit the Supreme Court from ordering us at the state level to fund those county court costs, and that would inure to the detriment of all counties in Pennsylvania, every single one of them. We have an obligation to fund this system. We should meet it. I know for a fact that politically we will never meet it unless we are ordered to do so by a nonpolitical Supreme Court which has done so. It is unfair for us to take advantage of their understanding of our problems by now attempting to sandbag them and attempt to pass a constitutional amendment such as this, Mr. President. Therefore, I ask for an affirmative vote on the amendment so we can rectify this situation for our counties.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I rise to oppose the amendment. As the Members may recall, a few weeks ago we dealt in this Chamber with the issue of Senate Bill No. 1, which was exactly the same legislation, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Scanlon, at that time offered a somewhat expanded amendment essentially covering the same broad category of material that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Fumo, has offered today. At that time it was indicated there was no direct relationship between the bill and any intent or implication as far as court funding. I think what we saw at that time was that county commissioners had suggested that language contained in the version of either Senate Bill No. 1 or House Bill No. 1 overturns a 1987 Supreme Court decision in the Allegheny County case relating to county court funding. In particular, it seems that concern has focused around the language on page 13 of the bill, lines 26 through 30, which says, "No money shall be paid out of the State Treasury for the operation of the unified judicial system except pursuant to an appropriation approved by the General Assembly and upon warrant issued by the proper officer." It is suggested, Mr. President, that this language was developed by the General Assembly to overturn the Allegheny County court case. This charge, by a history which I am going to try to develop here, simply is without merit and is false. Suggestion has been made that this language was inserted into Senate Bill No. 1 in the House on June 29th in a last minute attempt to overturn the Allegheny County case. This also is false, Mr. President. The Allegheny County case was filed on March 16, 1985, was argued in the Supreme Court on September 18, 1986 and decided by the Supreme Court on December 7, 1987. Reargument was denied on January 19, 1988. Identical language to the language that is incorporated in Senate Bill No. 1 was included in Senate judicial reform proposals as far back as 1983. Senate Bill No. 792 was introduced on June 1, 1983 in response to considerable controversy about the operation of the Appellate Courts. The original bill was introduced by Senator Stauffer and was joined by Senator Snyder, Senator Shumaker, Senator Stapleton, Senator Howard, Senator Bell, Senator Moore, Senator Corman, Senator Pecora, Senator Wilt and Senator Brightbill, and an even more comprehensive judicial reform bill, Senate Bill No. 1100, was introduced on October 21, 1983 by Senator Jubelirer, Senator Stauffer, Senator Fisher, Senator Moore, Senator Tilghman, Senator Howard, Senator Shumaker and Senator Helfrick. It included the identical language and was approved by the Senate on June 19, 1984 by unanimous vote. Subsequent to that date, Mr. President, another judicial reform proposal was approved by the Senate on June 29, 1984, which once again included the same provision. The legislation was approved twice by the Senate in the 1985-86 Session and once again in the 1987-88 Session and again in the 1989-90 Session, and the development of this language clearly preceded the Allegheny County court case. The particular language that parallels language is found in Article III, Section 24 of the Constitution, which provides that "No money shall be paid out of the treasury, except on appropriations made by law and on warrant issued by the proper officers...." This language has been viewed as governing access to the Treasury and is generally prohibiting disbursements from the Treasury except pursuant to legislatively approved appropriations. There was a concern that the court might sometimes simply issue orders for payments from the Treasury without regard to the Commonwealth budgeting process and the General Assembly's control over the public purse. While there have been no court orders which have directed such payment by the Treasury, there was dicta in the court opinions, back through the '70s, that suggested the court might believe it had the authority to order such payments, appropriations and budget limits notwithstanding.

Additionally, the courts have, on a number of occasions, ruled as though Article V, the judiciary article, was self-contained in the provisions of the Constitution not included in or directly referenced in Article V, and were not controlling on the judiciary. As a safeguard to that, to assure the General Assembly's ability to protect the public purse, language was recommended for incorporation in Article V to make that matter absolutely clear. This is in no way, Mr. President, intended to interfere with the Supreme Court's ability to declare a state statute as unconstitutional. Instead, it only assures, Mr. President, that spending will be done with the blessing of the General Assembly. Even though this language has been before the General Assembly ever since 1983 and has been approved by this Senate repeatedly since 1984, the commissioners failed to raise the spectrum of the impact on the Allegheny County case in any serious fashion until June of 1990. Concern apparently emerged after an analyst for the House Appropriations Committee included a line within the House fiscal note on Senate Bill No. 1 that said, "In effect, it repeals the County Court decision." Since that time the matter has been reviewed at senior levels in the House Appropriations Committee and the final note has been revised at the senior levels in the House insofar as that statement was concerned. I think it is very important to note for the record that, in fact, on January 29th of 1991 the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee quoted, unfortunately, that the statement was wrong when it was written, and I believe that it remains wrong in its conclusion. Therefore, the statement was not based on a legal opinion available to the analysts who drew the conclusion at the time. Therefore, Mr. President, it is my view that this amendment is not necessary, and I would ask for a negative vote on the amendment.

Senator BORTNER. Mr. President, I also rise to oppose the amendment and perhaps we have a difference of opinion on what the language of this amendment means. I have talked to a number of lawyers who have researched the issue and I have looked at it myself, and I am satisfied that it is the position of the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, that is the correct one in terms of what the language of this amendment not only was intending to do but regardless of what it might have been intended to do, what the effect of that language would be. The language we are referring to appears in what would now be Subsection (b) of Section 22, Article V, of the Pennsylvania Constitution. It says that "No moneys shall be paid out of the State Treasury for the operation of the unified judicial system except pursuant to an appropriation approved by the General Assembly and upon warrant issued by the proper officer." This language does not amend Article V, Section 1, which establishes the unified judiciary system. Rather, the amendment deals with the financial affairs in the budgets of only portions of the unified judicial system: the Supreme Court, the Superior Court, Commonwealth Court, the Court Administrator of Pennsylvania and other statewide court agencies. Again, I would emphasize that this proposed amendment is simply silent with respect to the finances of the remainder of the unified judicial system. I think it is also stretching the language of the amendment to argue that it does, in fact, overrule the County of Allegheny. The proposed amendment does not amend that section which the court hung its hat on in making that decision and does not in any way mention funding of the Courts of Common Pleas which was, in fact, the subject matter of the County of Allegheny. Thus, in order to have that effect on the Supreme Court's decision, as was stated in the County of Allegheny, the proposed amendment would need to be interpreted as overruling that decision by implication. I think in interpreting a provision of the Constitution, that is a step the Appellate Courts would not be inclined to take. While we could disagree, I suppose, or argue more about the language of the amendment, the real problem is that by adopting this language we would be going back to step one. We would not be able to get this constitutional amendment on the May Primary ballot. We would be postponing at least for another Session of this Legislature the time in which we move ahead with what I believe is a very, very important issue, an issue concerning changing the system by which judges are disciplined in this state. For the reasons I have stated, that it does not, in fact, make that change, and secondly, it is the importance of this issue on our judicial system, I would urge my colleagues to oppose the amendment.

Senator SCHWARTZ. Mr. President, just briefly I would like to speak in favor of the amendment. I feel very strongly that we do not in any way want to overrule or voice opinion against the County of Allegheny suit, and I feel strongly that we need to move ahead in some fashion on a unified court system and to address quite directly the funding issue. Certainly the court problems in Philadelphia are not alone. There is a system across the state that needs attention from those of us in the General Assembly, and I would, while being a strong advocate for the judicial reform on the judicial discipline bill and will vote for it, want to certainly set on record my support for the fact that we will and should attend to the issue of funding a unified court system in the state.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I had not intended to further speak on the amendment. However, I think the remarks of the gentle lady from Philadelphia would indicate in her support of this amendment, essentially what we would be doing if this amendment was adopted is killing judicial reform, an eight-year effort for the voters to have an opportunity to vote on in the May Primary ballot. I think we have laid out the history. It has taken eight years to get us to this point where this question could go before the voters. The question will go before the voters in a two-part question, one dealing with judicial discipline, the other dealing with the funding of the court system, and it would be up to the voters to determine again what the progress of that would be. I think that to amend this today, to put ourselves in a position where eight years of work on judicial reform legislation would not have the opportunity to go to the voters, is certainly a disservice to the public and the people of Pennsylvania.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, it was not my intention to speak again, but I just want to remind the Majority Leader of a saying from my Irish-English mother, "Haste makes waste." If we look at the way this bill came to us in the middle of the night on the 29th of June in a trade for a vote on the State Song, an amendment was stuck in the House by a Member who was in Russia at the time. You know, Mr. President, we have really run this thing through in a haphazard fashion and I do think in this particular instance haste will make waste, and if we have to delay this process for a little bit longer to get it right, I think that is what we are obligated to do. But the way in which this bill came to us the first time was horrendous and now to see it fast track just because we have to do something because we have been trying for eight years, in my opinion, is absolutely no excuse whatsoever to let this thing happen and hurt the counties of Pennsylvania which are already suffering and having to raise local taxes just to meet their burdens to deliver their regular services, Mr. President.

LEGISLATIVE LEAVE CANCELLED

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the presence on the floor of Senator Jones. Her temporary Capitol leave will be cancelled.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative, and the amendment was defeated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third consideration?

It was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I rise to oppose this bill and I recognize when we passed a similar piece of legislation a week or so ago the vote was 47-1. I am proud that I was the one. Mr. President, I rise to oppose the bill most importantly because our amendment did not go in, and I think would wreak havoc upon the county courts of Pennsylvania to allow that to happen. Quite frankly, that was my major interest. But having looked at the bill I think there are some other areas which we really should look at. I doubt if we will because there seems to be this stampede to the gate so everyone can wrap themselves in the cloak of reform and halos and everything else that goes with it. I think this bill is obnoxious. It is obnoxious to the Judiciary and I think it is obnoxious to us that we would even consider it.

Mr. President, let me point out just a few examples. On page 3, it states that any member of the commission, after his term is over, may still sit on a case provided that case was started while his commission was still there. We had a situation recently with the current Judicial Board where one member of that board so hated the judge in front of him that he knowingly convened the meeting when he knew that all sides were going to request a delay of that hearing because no one was ready. The day before his term expired, Mr. President, he convened that hearing to allow for a three-month continuance of the case so he could vent out his personal vendetta against that particular judge after his term had expired. We seem to have this great belief that everyone who sits on these commissions is holier than God Almighty and their motives are untainted. That has not been the case. What we have seen already, we should not allow it to continue in law. When a person's term is over, it is over regardless of what shenanigans they attempt to use to stay on the case.

Mr. President, on page 4, it says, "The Governor may remove any member only for cause." What does "cause" mean? Nowhere in here does it say what "cause" means. Mr. President, I have seen vindictive governors who have politically been vindictive and who were deeply upset at some rulings of the court and who might very easily be persuaded to find some "cause" to remove a member who did not agree with the philosophy of that governor. As I read it, the governor can remove any member, even one appointed by the Supreme Court, not just his own. That is a dangerous precedent, Mr. President.

Mr. President, another particular piece of language is very interesting. It appears on page 7 when we talk about the confidentiality of the proceedings. The bill is very clear that when the allegation is first made against the member of the judiciary, that allegation is confidential until and only if there are enough grounds to go further. But the bill says—and I cannot believe that there is this language in a constitutional amendment—or "...in any case in which, independent of any action by the Judicial Conduct Board, the fact that an investigation is in progress becomes public...." Is that not terrific, Mr. President? The person who makes that public in many cases is the unnamed source who most times is on the Judicial Conduct Board who would like to leak it to the press. In that event, Mr. President, we would cover this constitutionally? Constitutionally we admit before we even start the system is flawed. In that instance we say the judge is free to comment or he can ask the board to comment for him. What kind of arrogance and hypocrisy can we be dealing with today when we have now legalized leaks? How many of us would like to stand trial on a complaint from a constituent by a court of legislative conduct appointed by the Governor on which sits more regular citizens than, let us say, two Legislators and three members of the public? Would that not be a lot of fun? We do not do that for ourselves, but we do that for others. Again, Mr. President, any one of those people can sit past his term, provided the hearing has been started.

Also on page 10, we have the fact that there is now a standard of proof that is very weak that requires removing this person from office. It is not beyond a reasonable doubt, it is not preponderance of the evidence, it is "clear and convincing evidence," a new standard to me. Maybe I am not that well versed in some of these standards, but, Mr. President, I think in a case like this it should take a lot more than clear and convincing evidence to remove anyone from his officially elected position. Mr. President, these people are elected by the people.

Lastly, Mr. President, we are so sure that we are going to administer this bill fairly and justly in a reasonable and sophisticated fashion that on page 13 we talk about if a justice of the Supreme Court wants to appeal a hearing here, it will be tried by seven judges picked by lot. Are we not all confident in that procedure? Mr. President, this is a slap in the face to the judiciary and it is a slap in the face of good government. It keeps some editorial writers happy. It does do that because maybe they are upset with some of the opinions of the Supreme Court as well on some libel cases. What we should be striving for in this Commonwealth is a free and independent judiciary. There is a way to remove members of the court by impeachment that we constitutionally have the power to do. That is the way our forefathers felt this should work, and it is a valid way to do it. We always try to emulate the federal system. That is the way they do it in the federal system, but here, no, we do not want to get bogged down in that stuff. We want to have a kangaroo court to remove those judges who we do not really like. Mr. President, I will grant you there always are some rotten apples that spoil the barrel, and I submit to you that those people have been dealt with and they have been dealt with severely, although maybe not as rapidly as some people would like because the court is mindful of the civil rights of those individuals. Maybe we do not like that. Maybe we are rapidly approaching a society where we would like to have dictatorship and empower the dictator to remove people instantaneously, the way they just did in China. In China you cannot hire a lawyer until you get the charges put against you, and then you have three days to go to trial. That is a quick way to do it.

Saddam Hussein, I am sure, does not have many courts that he has to worry about either. If he does not like a judge or a member of the general assembly, he is gone. Granted, it is not done through any legal process, it is just a bullet to the head usually, but it certainly is efficient. Mr. President, democracy is fraught with problems, and by definition it should be. We should not look to streamline this process to the degree that we embarrass ourselves by trying to do this.

Mr. President, I rise and ask for a negative vote on this bill and ask that it be defeated and sent back to wherever it came from. Maybe we can trade it again for another state song at 4:00 o'clock in the morning when we do the budget this year, Mr. President. That is the amount of consideration we have given this bill thus far.

Mr. President, I rise today to join my colleagues in support of House Bill No. 1.

Our action today means that Pennsylvania's voters, on May 21st of this year, have the unique opportunity of changing our state Constitution to promote a more open, a more just system of justice in Pennsylvania.

That this proposal has garnered broad-based bipartisan support in both Houses of this General Assembly, in two consecutive Sessions of the General Assembly, is indicative of the need for this reform.

And while a key part of this proposal is to change the method by which judges and justices are disciplined, I think, it is most important to point out that this measure promotes a new degree of ethical conduct to help keep our judges and justices—at the outset—from being led astray. In particular, with the approval of Pennsylvania's citizens, this constitutional change will require all justices, judges, justices of the peace and other officers and employees of the courts to adhere to financial disclosure requirements equal to those that apply to all other state and local public officials.

When Pennsylvania's first ethics law was enacted by this General Assembly and went into effect in 1978—some 13 years ago—our courts said it did not apply to them. Well, this constitutional amendment will change that. With approval of the citizens, it will apply to our courts. Just like every other public official in Pennsylvania, our court officials will be required to disclose their finances, avoid conflicts of interest and meet the same ethical standards of official conduct. This proposal says, very simply, that absolutely no one—including members of our judiciary—is above the law. I not only urge an affirmative vote today, but call on Pennsylvania's citizens to approve this constitutional provision when it reaches the ballot box in the form of a referendum this spring.

NAYS—1

Fumo

A constitutional majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Secretary of the Senate return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

An Act amending the act of October 28, 1966 (1st Sp. Sess., P. L. 55, No. 7), known as the "Goods and Services Installment Sales Act," reenacting and amending provisions relating to service charges and restricting collection activities.

Considered the third time and agreed to,

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, prior to taking the roll on House Bill No. 67, I would just like the Members to realize that this is the bill we have talked about for many years dealing with installment sales. If we pass House Bill No. 67, we will maintain the monthly rate of installment sales at 1.5 percent per month or 18 percent annually. If House Bill No. 67 is not dealt with, it will drop to 1.25 percent per month or 15 percent annually. It is something that a number of the Members were so very much interested in, and I just wanted to bring to their attention that House Bill No. 67 is that particular proposal.

Senator ANDREZESKI. Mr. President, we are here today to argue the politics of the rich and poor and, unfortunately, once again it is a familiar story. We have the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer. Today we are asked to protect an interest rate level that is currently at 18 percent. We are asked to protect those institutions that charge 18 percent as their installment interest rate. This is not the first time we have done this since 1982, and it probably will not be the last time that we will do this. Today before we vote I hope we please consider the enormity of what our vote will do. If we vote in favor of House Bill No. 67, we will allow banks and credit institutions to charge consumers double the prime rate of interest until June of 1994. Mr. President, the prime rate today is 9 percent. When we first voted to allow banks, department stores and other retailers to exceed the 15 percent maximum allowable interest rate which we held by law up until 1982, when we first allowed the rate to rise the prime rate was 16.5 percent. Who could not make an argument that these poor banks and retailers were losing money on money they borrowed? Stop and consider that for a moment. We passed legislation to lift the 15 percent cap when the prime rate was 16.5 percent. Then three years later when the prime rate dropped to 10.5 percent, we extended the 18 percent cap again, just as we are prepared to do again today.

Then you can say, well, why? One of the answers that comes back is, well, we will hurt the little guy if we allow the interest rate to drop to 15 percent. A lot of retailers would have to lay off people in their credit departments. Banks might lose business because they might have to sell their credit card business, and so we have the poor banks and the poor retailers being hurt.

Today we have the same line of reasoning and the same type of argument that we have heard before. Most recently we have heard the argument applied to the minimum wage in Pennsylvania and on the national level, we argued a minimum wage bill. We were told, do not raise the minimum wage, it will hurt the little guy because he will lose his job. You really will not be helping someone because raising the minimum wage will eliminate jobs and could cost them their minimum wage jobs. So goes the logic, Mr. President. We are hurting people by helping them. We are hurting people by putting more money in their pockets, and we are hurting them by lowering the interest rate on their credit card purchases. We are hurting them because it will cost jobs here in Pennsylvania, and we are hurting them by trying to help them, by trying to allow them to keep a little bit more, just a little bit more of their hard earned money. If you say something long enough, it becomes believable, and if you make the same statements long enough, they sort of sink in. Sooner or later, Mr. President, some people are going to think that is true. I personally do not think it is true, not when the prime rate is 9 percent and not when the prime rate was 10.5 percent. If this bill would allow a ceiling of 15 percent instead of 18 percent, it is reported that we would free up $125 million in consumer spending here in Pennsylvania. That is $125 million that I guarantee you would not go into CDs. It would not go into Savings Bonds. It would go directly back into our economy. Unfortunately, we live on a credit card economy. Poor people spend 100, 105 and 110 percent of their income. What we would be able to do is provide an economic shot in the arm. We would be able to provide those people whom we represent a little bit more money so they could go out and buy things they need. We are living in a recessionary time. People talk about the downturn of the economy. What better time to free up $125 million in consumer spending. Would that not help the retailers? Would that not help the banks in having more money back in on credit? I think so, Mr. President.

I would also ask my colleagues to please consider all of the people whom we represent, not perhaps those who just organize the best. It is my own personal opinion that if the poor were as good at organizing as the rich that half of us would not be here in this Chamber today, and this would simply be a perfunctory bill that brought the interest rate down to 15 percent and everyone would agree with it. I would like to thank you for the time to present this, Mr. President, and I hope that at some point, perhaps not now, but in the future, they will be able to say to everyone we represent that we are lowering the interest rates, that we are going along with a trend that we should have been going along with for a number of years.

Senator FISHER. Mr. President, I stand here not only as the Senator from the 37th District, but also as a Pennsylvania consumer. I, too, pay those credit card bills as does everyone else probably in this Chamber and across the Commonwealth. Certainly I would like to think that maybe something we could do here would keep the rates down to the point where maybe my rate might be a little lower than what it normally is. But when we look at what we are voting on here today, we look at the setting of an interest rate ceiling. I do not think we can be totally blind to what is going on around us. When I say around us, I mean not only what is going on here in Pennsylvania, but also what is going on around us in other states, particularly those states immediately adjacent to Pennsylvania. We cannot look at ourselves as an island unto ourselves, but we have to look at what our neighbors are doing. The State of Delaware to our immediate east is a state that, quite frankly, has been the most aggressive state in this nation in trying to attract incorporations and trying to attract new jobs, and it has worked. Today I have in my possession a brochure which was recently published by the State of Delaware which is entitled "Incorporating in Delaware Where American Business Incorporates." We know that you can incorporate there no matter whether you are their neighbor or whether you are all the way across the country. The one thing that has happened in Delaware and one thing they point out in their brochure, one example, is their Financial Center Development Act which was passed in 1981. One of the things it does is removes all usury ceilings from anyone who is subject to those laws within the Commonwealth. What they point out in this brochure is that that act has been directly responsible for 35 out-of-state financial institutions, including eight of the top ten U.S. banks, opening offices in Delaware and leading to the direct creation of 11,000 new jobs in that state.

I recognize that some of our leading banks have also gone over there, but yet there are some other banks and there are other credit card businesses that have remained in this state and have continued to keep those jobs here in Pennsylvania. I know of one bank in western Pennsylvania which has remained a Pennsylvania chartered bank and continues to offer credit below the interest rate ceiling which is allowed today. But they too support the enactment of this legislation. I think really what we are doing with this legislation is sending the signal to the entire business community that: one, Pennsylvania wants them to continue to locate here; two, we want companies to consider coming back to Pennsylvania as their site of incorporation; and three, we are not setting the interest rate for all the consumers of Pennsylvania, we are setting a ceiling. I think it is through competition, through the banks and through the other financial service companies, that if they stay here and continue to offer that difference in interest payments, we are going to see their actual rate come down somewhat below the ceiling. I think it is a responsible piece of legislation. It is one that can continue to help us stay competitive, and it is one that when we look at the other things that are going on around us—last week's message in the budget—we cannot be oblivious to a piece of legislation that may, in fact, either keep jobs here, or if we go the wrong way, cause more jobs to leave our Commonwealth and to go to the State of Delaware. This is the big picture. It is the big picture that means more than the interest rates that I pay and you pay and the other people pay, and it is one of supporting this legislation which I think is the responsible way to go in 1991 and for the next few years here in Pennsylvania.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I heard the gentleman's argument spoken on the floor a couple of other times, that they were going into free enterprise and through free enterprise the rate will lower. I have not found it lowering at all. I find that the banks are getting every dollar they can get out of this thing. My only regret—and I am going to vote against continuing the 18 percent interest—is that our law is not so written that it goes down to 12 percent. When this 18 percent went on, the going rate was 16 percent. We gave them two percent extra. Now, at nine or ten percent, they do not need eight percent extra. I could tell you a few stories about Delaware, too. I am glad I do not live in Delaware.

Senator SCHWARTZ. Mr. President, in 1982 the General Assembly responded to the problems of inflation and rapidly rising interest rates in other sectors by increasing the ceiling on the interest rates. It was intended to be temporary as, of course, the law allows. Now while this action may well have been necessary at that time, this year's review of interest rates, as has been discussed previously, does not warrant the continuation of an increased ceiling. The fact is that interest rates have been declining. The cost of money has declined from 16.5 percent nine years ago to 9.5 percent today. The prime interest rate has dropped to 8 or 9 percent. Thus, in my opinion, it is unnecessary and possibly detrimental for the General Assembly to approve a continued interest of 18 percent ceiling on the credit card interest rates. Now is the time when we must do all we can to stimulate the economy in this Commonwealth, and one way to do that is to stimulate consumer buying. Lowering the interest rate ceiling on credit card charges could have this beneficial effect on the economy in Pennsylvania. Interest rates in Pennsylvania and across the nation are coming down. The lowest rates in Pennsylvania are now 12.9 percent and the State Employees Credit Union is at 14 percent. Consumers, particularly working middle-class families, need our help in assuring that they have the purchasing power without an undue interest burden. For these reasons I will vote against House Bill No. 67 and instead cast my vote for both economic growth and for the consumer in Pennsylvania.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, on March 23, 1990, U.S. Senator Arlen Specter sent a letter to Saddam Hussein offering his best wishes and expressing hope that they could work together for peace and security. On January 7, 1991, Senator Specter wrote a letter to me taking credit for six single-spaced pages of accomplishments of the 101st Congress. The letter to me, which I somehow suspect was not an individual effort, is almost as silly as the one sent to Saddam Hussein. While I read in the newspaper that the junior Senator is red-faced about the letter overseas, I wonder if he is appropriately embarrassed about his grandstanding here at home. In his letter Mr. Specter takes credit for federal deficit reduction in 1990. Either his memory is faulty or he is choosing to ignore the fact that since he was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1980, he and his Republican Presidents have worked up an accumulative deficit of $1.3 trillion. He takes credit for introducing legislation which would strengthen the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act by allowing the U.S. to retaliate against unfair trading practices in Japan and other nations. Either his memory is faulty or he is choosing to ignore the fact that since 1980 when he was elected to the Senate and Ronald Reagan was elected to the White House, American manufacturers' share of the world consumer electronics market has shrunk from 70 percent to five percent and that decline has more to do with misguided economic policies of his party than with unfair trading practices. He takes credit for the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Education Act Amendments of 1990 and the Paul Douglas Teacher Scholarship Program, both of which are named for great Democrats who are leaders in the field of education. He takes credit for the 1990 Crime Control Act, but neglects to mention that Senator Joseph Biden, Democrat of Delaware, was chief sponsor of that legislation and that he, Senator Specter, was actually thrown out of the conference committee meeting when he had tried to address it. He takes credit for cosponsoring a bill to extend through 1995 energy tax credits for solar geothermal and ocean thermal energy development. How can he ignore the complete lack of an energy conservation plan from this and the previous Republican administrations? Every advance initiated by President Jimmy Carter was halted by Ronald Reagan, and the ball has certainly not been picked up by President George Bush. Senator Specter, in his zeal to take credit, neglects to mention that his bill went nowhere, in part because of lack of support from his administration. And in the most ironic and self-serving section of all, he takes credit for an additional $4.1 billion for programs such as Head Start, Maternal and Child Health Grants and Childhood Immunizations. Has he forgotten the enormous reductions in spending for housing, employment and training, mass transit, education and health programs which have characterized his time in the Senate? In fact, what Arlen Specter has actually done in the 101st Congress is the following: He introduced 37 bills of which four were passed into law. They were the National Neighborhood Crime Watch Day, which passed in both 1989 and 1990, the National Rehabilitation Week and the National Domestic Violence Awareness Month. All important issues, I submit, but all unimportant pieces of legislation. Like his letter, they are all puffery and no substance. In addition, he and Representative Goodling introduced identical legislation to adjust the boundaries of Gettysburg National Military Park, and the Congress enacted Representative Goodling's bill.

Politics has not changed much. In the 16th Century, in another country, in a play about the Thane of Glamis, William Shakespeare wrote the following:

"Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage,
And then is heard no more; it is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, Signifying nothing."

No description could be more appropriate to our junior Senator here today.

I am standing here to protest Senator Arlen Specter's letter, not because I have never seen a piece of self-serving political puffery before, but because I have seen too much. At a time when our nation is at war abroad, and we should be at war at home against poverty for 19 percent of our children, against inadequate education, dying inner cities and crumbling infrastructure, against deteriorating industrial capacity and rapidly escalating crime, our nation needs leaders of courage and strength, not leaders who pat themselves on the back for hollow victories.

We at the state level are being asked to pick up the burden for the failed domestic agenda that our national leaders have abandoned. While we struggle with our own deficit, while we struggle with balancing our budget by reducing programs which are ever more desperately needed or we are raising taxes which are ever more unwelcome, I deeply resent this shallow, self-serving political gimmickery.

My message to Senator Arlen Specter is this: Give the State of Pennsylvania the money you spent on printing and postage for this piece of claptrap and let us at least feed, clothe, house and educate at least one Pennsylvania child.

Senator FISHER. Mr. President, in my ten years here on the floor, I know that during times of Petitions and Remonstrances and at other times during the course of debate on bills and amendments, we have often had the opportunity to engage in debate that sometimes to the listener or the onlooker might sound like a little bit of a gubernatorial debate from time to time, particularly when we got to those years when the Governor and Lieutenant Governor were up for reelection or election, but never before have I heard Petitions and Remonstrances used for what maybe is going to be a new first on the floor. That is a discussion upon issues that might reflect upon a future election for the office of United States Senate. But I guess that is where we have embarked today with the remarks that have been previously delivered by my friend from Fayette County, Senator Lincoln.

Certainly, Senator Specter's record is well known to all of us. Many have seen the Senator all across this Commonwealth. I know in Pittsburgh we seem to see him with frequency at least once a week, and although I read the letter—I do not have the letter in my possession that Senator Lincoln referred to—I was, quite frankly, pretty pleased to get that response from my friend, Senator Specter, because I think he has been a Senator of accomplishments. But, here we are on the floor of the Senate and there are many issues that impact our country and our world. I do not profess at this stage to be one who feels that comfortable in debating the issues that are debated daily on the floor of the Congress and on the floor of the United States Senate, but I do feel a little more comfortable in addressing the issues that affect us here in Pennsylvania, particularly with the budget and the record of this administration, the Casey-Singel Administration.

Last week the Casey-Singel Administration brought before us a budget that all of us recognize was presented in very, very difficult economic times. There has been a lot of debate over the past week as to what the Governor said last week versus what he said in October and what the Lieutenant Governor said last week versus what he said in October and what, in fact, our candidate for Governor said in October. There have been comparisons. KDKA-TV did a rather effective comparison of the words of the Governor when he spoke about the billion dollar deficit last week versus how he spoke about the billion dollar deficit in the course of his debate. But yet, when we continue to look at the package that was presented—and I know that is going to be a continuation of that review, particularly in the next three weeks as the Senate Committee on Appropriations begins a thorough review of the budget requests from the departments—one of the things which strikes us in the presentation that was made last week—those documents do, in fact, take time to review—was the review that we made at the end of last week which says that really the recommendation for new taxes, when it is fully calculated and fully stated, is far more severe and asks for far more money from the people of this Commonwealth than was actually divulged in that budget statement. We found that the additional money being requested in new taxes by the Casey-Singel Administration is really a sum of almost $180 million more than the $1.7 billion that was announced. It surprises me in the calculation that was made that the Governor would have understated the amounts collected by particularly the cigarette tax, because that cigarette tax, if enacted, will produce an additional $18 million because on top of that is the Pennsylvania sales tax. So when you take six percent of $300 million you come out with another $18 million.

There are various other items that were included and when you add them up showed additional dollars. But I think the importance of that close examination of the budget on the revenue side shows that as we are addressing it over the next four months we not only have to look at today, we have to look at tomorrow and what those revenues are going to mean in future years. We also need to look at the level of spending that has been proposed this year versus a level of spending last year and the amount of money that will actually be spent in this year's budget. Quite frankly, I find the Casey-Singel budget, which calls for an increase of spending of 6.5 percent over and above last year, rather shocking. We are asking the people across this Commonwealth to spend less but, yet, we can say it is okay for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to spend 6.5 percent more.

Now I am sure that this debate today is not going to resolve the issues of this budget. I am also cognizant of the fact that three weeks of hearings on the budget are not going to resolve and bring forward to the people of Pennsylvania a General Fund Budget, but they are going to get us a lot closer to the real record of the Casey-Singel Administration over the past four years. It is going to get us a lot closer to whether or not the facts which were presented in last year's campaign were really facts or were really fiction. I believe that when we look at what we are faced with in this Commonwealth, when we look at the fact that the recommendation was presented by the Casey-Singel Administration, when we look at the impact it is going to have on the business community, we have to recognize that that impact is devastating. A lot of people do not understand the capital stock and franchise tax, and it is easy in a budget document to say that we recommend the increase in the capital stock and franchise tax of one mill and that does not sound like much to anyone. When you look at the calculation on the sheet of what one mill provides, we really are talking about a sum of less than $100 million. When we put in the extra half mill for the refueling of the Rainy Day Fund—which I believe is rather unprecedented at a time when it is raining—that $100 million is really nothing when you look at what the subtleties, what the small changes of such things as the repeal of the manufacturing exemption will mean to the business community—a sum of $425 million—when you look at what the increase in the minimum tax under the capital stock and franchise tax will mean—the sum of close to $100 million. But when you look at how that is arrived at, we are going to tell all of those small business people that the Casey-Singel Administration has tried to cultivate and bring to Pennsylvania and keep in Pennsylvania that they are going to pay a sum not of $75.00 that they pay as a minimum tax today, but the sum of $900.00, no matter how profitable their corporation is. That is a shocking statistic to the little people across this Commonwealth who have that Pennsylvania corporation, who might only be hiring one or two people but are providing jobs for Pennsylvania, jobs for their families all throughout this Commonwealth. Those shocking statistics I think tell a lot about the story of where the Casey-Singel Administration has taken us and where the Casey-Singel Administration intends to take us not only during the next year but the next two years and over the next four years.

Mr. President, I think we ought to leave the debates of what is happening in the Congress and the Senate of the United States there, but I think, clearly, we have an obligation to the people that we were elected to represent here in Harrisburg in the State Capitol to fully and thoroughly debate the issues which not only have us where we are today but are going to take us into the future. I, quite frankly, think that the results of what we do this year will have as much impact on the future of this Commonwealth in the 21st Century as anything we have ever done during the period of time that I have represented the people of the South Hills of Allegheny County during the past 17 years. It is not going to be easy for any of us, no matter whether we are Republicans, no matter whether we are Democrats, but I think it is important to recognize that we have enough work to do here. We have enough state issues facing us, and we do not need to debate the issues that face the Congress and the Senate of the United States.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, there are several points I would like to answer of the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Fisher's very fine deflection of the problems that are at hand, and the Republican Party is wonderful at deflecting problems. But the first thing I would like to make very clear to Senator Fisher and all those who may have some interest in listening to this is, in his early opening remarks he seemed to indicate that there was some potential I was going to be a candidate for the U.S. Senate. I would like to say to him and the whole world that the most remote possibility in my life is to be a candidate for the U.S. Senate. I have absolutely no interest in being a U.S. Senate candidate and, in fact, I think probably the reason that Senator Fisher is here answering this challenge today is that he has some ulterior motives of being a candidate either for Governor in 1994 or potentially one of the row offices on a state level in 1992. His record of running statewide has a great deal more credibility than mine does, and I mean credibility in the fact that he has done it once and was rejected very soundly by the voters and, I think, probably would find that to be the case again if he tries to run on the same basis that he ran in whatever year that was.

Anyway, I think the real issue today is what the federal Congress has not done, what the federal leadership under three successive terms of Republican Presidents has not done, and the bearing that that has on our state problems is that we are not getting funds from the federal government in a manner that we need them for some very important issues. I am prepared to debate that at any time that Senator Fisher or anybody else on the other side wants to, but I also will tell you that we will be at these microphones many, many times over the next five or six months and we will talk about all the very difficult issues facing Pennsylvania and the Pennsylvania General Assembly. I also want to let Senator Fisher know that this record will reflect, from this microphone, the fact that in the 1989-90 Session alone, Senator Fisher forced through this Senate, because of his being in the Majority, spending bills that totaled $35 million, $35,458,000 to be precise, that was beyond the budget agreement that was passed back in June or early July of last year. In fact, his colleagues in the Senate passed in this General Assembly $314,598,000 worth of spending bills that were not included in the agreed-to budget, and that history is one that could be reflected through the past several Sessions. I would also like to say to Senator Fisher that we will have an ample opportunity to debate this budget through many hours that we both probably do not want to be here to do, but that is what we have chosen. The most important thing that I did not hear in Senator Fisher's remarks was any indication whatsoever that the Republican Majority in this Senate is willing, ready and able to work towards a resolution and not continue to be partisan, to be so enamored with their hatred of a hell of a good Governor, Bob Casey, who has a four year record that I will stand and defend, not only defend, but talk to people about how wonderful it has been and put it forward as a stepping stone for the Democrat Party here in Pennsylvania. I can remember and I will have facts and I will have names and I will have dates of votes when Members of this Republican Party in the Senate of Pennsylvania voted to transfer hundreds of millions of dollars from the Lottery Fund during the previous administration. The same people who are at the microphones now, including my dear friend Matt Ryan in the House, have a record that cannot be changed. The Majority does not change records, and the record shows that the lottery program is one area which the Republican Party in this state has practically destroyed by transferring the responsibility of General Fund spending to the Lottery Fund. This Governor in each budget that he has proposed has put money from the General Fund back into that Lottery Fund, and it is damned well good he did it, because we would really be in trouble if we did not have that money, if the lottery did not have what this administration has recommended and received in each budget to try to solidify it somewhat. I am not going to do it today, but I am prepared to stand here and give you the dates when everybody in this General Assembly voted for tax increases over a period of eight years that totaled well in excess of what this Governor has asked under a much different set of circumstances. I can tell you that I said, when we walked away from this budget process last summer, that I would take a lie detector test with every Member of the General Assembly that was there, and the one question that I wanted asked to that individual with those electrodes on him is, did you know that there was a problem with the budget that was passed and we walked away from? Did you know that it was not funded properly? Did you know that the Republican Majority in the Senate who drove that budget, who controlled that budget—did you know, Senator Fisher, when we left here last year that that budget was not going to be totally adequate to fund a full 12 months? We in the General Assembly did that and walked away from here acting like we did a wonderful job, but I would challenge any Member in this General Assembly who was in service and in office last year, that I will take a lie detector test, and when that question is asked, I am going to answer it truthfully. If they do not, I am sure that electrode is going to go ba, ba, ba, ba, ba. We gave Governor Casey the budget he has. In fact, if it was not for his insisting that we cut $100 million—which drove this place crazy, the roof blew up in the building—because Governor Casey asked us to reduce spending by another $100 million at the last minute because he knew that revenues were being reduced. Then the war starts in the Gulf and oil and everything else goes up. No, it is not as simplistic as, we do not have to face the things coming out of Washington. They are only proposing a budget this year that has a $300 billion deficit. We are talking about a budget in Pennsylvania that is less than one-twentieth of that amount. Our total budget is one-twentieth, what we are going to spend to operate state government, of what this administration in Washington has continued now for the eleventh consecutive year, proposing deficit spending. Three hundred billion—hear that number—$300 billion, and that does not even incorporate what it is costing to fight the war. So do not tell me we should not be interested in what is going on in Washington, and do not tell me I should not take the time I have to research Senator Specter's record to show how phony it is. There are two people in Pennsylvania out of 12 million who go to Washington to represent us in the U.S. Senate. If we have people down there who are more concerned with their own political future and their own looking good in the press, then I will tell you what, I do not care whether I am a Democrat or Republican, but I am going to tell you something. I care about those two people because they are the most important people who we have representing the people of Pennsylvania. If one of them is more concerned about running to Pittsburgh and Philadelphia and holding town meetings and talking about all these wonderful things that he never takes part in, then it is time. I do not care if it is Mike Fisher who runs against him in a Primary and defeats him and gets elected, because he would be one hell of a better U.S. Senator than Arlen Specter has ever even thought about being or ever has a chance of being. But do not tell me that we do not have a right to question his actions and his activities, because one of the reasons why we are getting hurt as a state is because of a lack of leadership coming out of the U.S. Senate members we have. One of them is going to be running next year, and I can tell you that I see people lining up to run against him in your party. Something has to happen even if we just shock him into starting to do his job. I guarantee you one thing, anything he sends me in the mail he better be prepared to answer for because I sure as hell am not going to throw it in the garbage without reading it real good and taking a look at it. I spent a great deal of time analyzing what he told me he did, and I do not think I have heard you say one word in defense of what I said in criticism of his record for that one particular piece of mail that he sent to me, and that was the only purpose for which I stood here today and took my time and your time. I am prepared if you want to stay here until 9:00 o'clock tonight and debate the budget. I think it is foolhardy because we will have ample time to do that. As far as I am concerned my only purpose here today was to point out to the people of Pennsylvania to the best of my ability how their Senator is not telling them quite the truth in the big mailer he just put out and how we ought to be taking a little bit harder look at him. Why this is so important to us is because of the billions and billions of dollars that we have not gotten from the federal government during the time that Reagan, Bush and Specter have been in office.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I am sure that the remarks of the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, will insure that he is removed from Senator Specter's mailing list. But, in any event, Mr. President, I am not here to debate the merits of his remarks, nor of the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Fisher, concerning Senator Specter. I have only come back to the floor because there have been a number of statements made about the budget.

Mr. President, I feel obligated to remind this Chamber to take a look at the Legislative Journal for June 30, 1990, specifically at page 2431. These were the remarks that were made prior to us passing the budget of last year. It starts out with the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, and he was the only one, I might add, from the Majority who spoke that evening who felt there were some problems with the budget. Mr. President, I answered Senator Loeper after a long and arduous period of time of negotiation and reminded him as I reminded the media and everyone else who was listening that that budget was a negotiated budget, that despite the fact the Republicans only put up a token number of votes, that budget could not have been enacted without the support of the Republican Majority in this Senate.

Mr. President, we all share the blame if, in fact, that budget was not balanced. It is not just Governor Casey's fault. It is everyone's in here who voted for that budget, and everyone's here who participated in the discussions on that budget, including the House Minority and Majority and the Senate Minority and Majority. I said that night if the Majority felt that that budget was not in balance, that I was fully prepared to put up tax votes from my caucus to balance that budget. There was no answer. Mr. President, I challenged the Republican Party in the most blatant form I could think of that if they did not believe the budget was balanced to stand up and say so. The Majority Party and the Republicans in this Commonwealth cannot have it both ways. They cannot vote for a budget at midnight on the 30th of June, and at 9:00 a.m. on the 1st of July say that that budget is wrong. They share the blame with everyone else if, in fact, there is any blame to be shared. The problem, Mr. President, is that we are all starting to catch that "read-my-lipitis" that was started by George Bush. As I pointed out that night, regrettably my Governor was catching onto that same disease, but at least he kept his promise for four years. So I am not impressed, nor should anyone else be by any outcry from the Republican Party about the fact that the budget was not balanced. They participated in making it that way.

Then, Mr. President, after that occurred the big spending liberals of the Republican Party passed through this Chamber $314 million in spending over and above what was in a budget which we all now agree was unbalanced. Senator Greenwood passed a bill for $44 million; Senator Jubelirer, $36 million; Senator Fisher, $35 million; Senator Salvatore, $26 million; Senator Shaffer, $26 million; Senator Brightbill, $26 million; Senator Rhoades, $21 million; Senator Loeper, $19 million; Senator Corman, $13 million; Senator Tilghman, $13 million; Senator Peterson, $13 million; Senator Greenleaf, $10 million; and Senator Hess, $8 million. That does not even count the frivolous expenditures of $1 million and $2 million that were passed on bills sponsored by Members of the Republican Party who at the same time complained, the budget is not in balance and we have to cut it, have proven themselves to be the biggest spenders in Pennsylvania's history. Mr. President, the time for the games playing has to stop now. We have reached the end of the line. We can no longer balance the budget with smoke and mirrors. The only way it could be done now is with tax votes and cuts. We are going to enter into a process which I think will yield tax votes rather than substantial cuts because the Governor has already cut the budget probably beyond where it should be cut. There are appropriation cuts in there that I disagree with and I know the Republican Majority disagrees with. How can we cut the University of Pennsylvania 60 percent in one year? How can we cut the New Bolton Veterinary Center the way we have done it? How can we cut all those higher educational institutions? Mr. President, the budget is also designed to take care of poor school districts on the ESBE formula. I know before we are done that those Republican Members from the affluent districts are going to want a little piece of the pie to take home to their constituents so they can show they have done their job back home, and that will cost money too. That is going to be added in before we are done, Mr. President. I fully anticipate by the time we get this budget done, if we think $1.6 billion is a lot of money, we will be over $2 billion in spending deficits and they are going to have to be met by taxes. How should those taxes be imposed? I happen to agree with the Governor that business has not paid its fair share over the years. During the time when the Republicans controlled the front office and this Chamber, business's burden as it is opposed to those of the individual taxpayer has decreased substantially. I am not one of those crazies who said, let us tax business out of the Commonwealth, but I do believe there is an adequate amount of responsibility that they must bear for the services they get. The hundreds of millions of dollars we put in the economic development programs, which are welfare for the wealthy and the business community, have to be paid for by someone. Mr. President, I share the remarks of the gentleman that I do not think CNI ought to go above 10 percent either, but where are we going to find this money? It does not grow on trees and it certainly does not come from Washington. Where does it come from? It comes from our constituents. Until that side of the aisle is prepared to come forth with a budget that makes even deeper cuts than the one Governor Casey gave us, do not come in here and cry the blues. If you are prepared to fund that budget the way it is, as meager as it is, it is going to cost $1.6 billion. Let us stop kidding, let us stop the political rhetoric, let us stop campaigning for 1994 and 1996 and beyond and let us worry about the fiscal problems that this Commonwealth faces today. Albeit many of those problems may have been caused by us in our failure to own up to our responsibilities, but let us stop the rhetoric and get to work, Mr. President, and start to discuss what we are going to do in raising taxes because taxes will be raised in Pennsylvania. We know it. Let us all stop trying to be heroes and go home and say, I do not want to do it. It has to be done unless the Republicans are prepared to cut that budget further, and I am willing to listen. Mr. President, I say now, before we start budget hearings, that I am fully prepared to listen to any argument the other side of the aisle has concerning budget cuts or new taxes. The fact of the matter is, we are not going to play with smoke and mirrors this year. It is going to be a tough year. I hope the other side of the aisle will be responsible at least to the degree that we can have the budget done on time. I know I am being overly optimistic in that hope, but I will still pray to God that it happens, that all the rhetoric will not take us into July, August, September, November or December, that we will own up to our responsibilities on time and stop kidding the public and stop trying to kid each other. It will not work.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (John E. Peterson) in the Chair.

Continued

Senator FISHER. Mr. President, I am sorry that the President had to leave to get to another meeting over in his office, and I recognize that the duties sometimes for the President of the Senate do require him to leave the floor. That seemed to have been an issue of debate a few years ago in this Commonwealth, so I do recognize that there are times that you cannot sit tied to that seat. But I want to make sure that the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, understood what he said. I did not suspect for one moment until you said that, Mr. President, that you had any inclinations on running for the United States Senate. I really never suspected that. I do not think anyone on our side of the aisle ever suspected that and that was not the purpose of my remarks in rebuttal to yours. But I did find it curious at a time when we really have so much facing us in such a short period of time that we should have dragged in here the issues of what is going on before the Senate of the United States, particularly at a time when the President of the Senate has avowed intentions, or at least some intentions, of becoming a candidate for the United States Senate against Senator Specter. My remarks were directed in a fashion that I hope will head off, if that in fact is the case, constant debate on this floor, either at this time of the proceedings or earlier, of what could be a full scale debate across this state between the Lieutenant Governor of this Commonwealth and our sitting United States Senator, Senator Specter. Obviously, what Senator Specter has done as a record of achievement has gotten him elected and reelected a number of times by the people of Pennsylvania, and I am sure that Senator Specter is obviously willing and able to defend that record against all comers, whether they be of our own party or of the Democratic Party. I am glad that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Fumo, returned to the floor. I did not realize that my remarks would bring him back here so quickly, but they did. I am glad he returned to the floor to make a couple points about what happened last year because we have really been wondering what happened last year. It is ironic that the gentleman from Philadelphia, the Minority Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, pointed to the very page of the Legislative Journal which I had open to respond to the comment by Senator Lincoln about the lie detector test. On that same page the Majority Leader, Senator Loeper, said last year on June 30th on the debate on final passage of this budget, "I think what we have seen is really a budget that is heading toward fiscal disaster before the end of the next fiscal year." That statement, a statement which is officially part of the record, was a statement that had been uttered by the gentleman from Montgomery, Senator Tilghman, and the Appropriations staff for months before June 30th. It is a statement that all of us left here with on the night of June 30th. I know many of us, such as myself, included it in remarks we sent to all of the residents of our districts, that we were facing troubles. But, lo and behold, the last people in this Commonwealth, other than the taxpayers, to find out about the problems that this Commonwealth faced were apparently the leaders of the Casey-Singel Administration, the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor, because in August and September and October, after the Wharton School predicted in figures which we had and figures which I am sure they had—I cannot believe that Secretary Herschok would not have passed that data along—they predicted where we were going. They predicted what we had been saying in April, May and June was, in fact, going to be correct. But, no, we had to disavow those figures. We had name calling in a debate which tried to discredit our candidate, but we had a failure to recognize up front the problems that faced this Commonwealth. I too hope, as Senator Fumo has said, that we can wrap up this budget and the budget debate on time on June 30th. The people who like to see it that way, obviously, the employees of this Commonwealth, the people who count on this Commonwealth, would want to see it that way. I am fearful with just the short four to five months that we have, rather than 10 or 12 months to have dealt with that issue if we had been forthright last June, that that might not be enough time. Had we had frank and candid discussions all throughout 1990, had we had a level of spending throughout 1990 that was consistent with the revenues coming into the Commonwealth, we would not be anywhere near as bad off as we are today. That is our principal complaint today. That has been our principal complaint over the last seven months and, quite frankly, I think that is going to be the principal roadblock that all of us face in trying to come up with a resolution of this budget, not because we are going to stand here and continue to say, "We told you so." We recognize that is going to ring stale real soon. Clearly, we are going to have to continue to remind people that we told you so, because the level of spending that this Commonwealth has been on since the beginning of this fiscal year was a level of spending that we just could not afford. We spent more than we had coming in. We spent more than we knew we had coming in, and it is going to make the problem we are faced with today twice as difficult as it would have been if we had dealt with it last year. That is my regret, Mr. President. That is the regret I have in this budget debate, and I recognize we are going to have to stand up and we are going to have to come and make some difficult decisions—all of us on this side of the aisle, all the Members of our party in both Chambers and across the state. I just wish the people of this Commonwealth, the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor who are the two top people responsible for the administration of this Commonwealth, would have been just a little more candid with the voters and with the people when they spoke throughout the course of the year. They were not. Many people are holding them responsible and justifiably so. That process is a process that I think is going to make it all the more difficult for us and probably all the more difficult for us to come together in a final resolution. I think like the rest of my caucus. We stand ready, we stand willing and we stand able, and I think it is going to take a little more candor and a little more frankness by the people who helped to craft and shape this budget, Governor Casey and Lieutenant Governor Singel, when they are dealing with us not only this year but in the future if they want the cooperation. We all owe a responsibility to the people who elected us, but they, too, owe the responsibility to the people whom they were asking to elect them to be fair, to be honest and to be candid. I am not sure that they were.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, so that the people of Pennsylvania understand completely the need for candor, the candor does go just a little bit below Lieutenant Governor Singel. This budget process that we have been involved in for the last half a dozen years or so here in Pennsylvania, each budget for at least the last six years—I am not sure beyond that because I was not personally involved in it prior to that—has been negotiated by representatives of each caucus in the General Assembly and that negotiating process generally starts sometime in early May and goes on through to whenever we finally get it finished. The product that negotiation brings about is a conference committee report. So the people understand that that is not like a bill that we passed today, like House Bill No. 67. It is a conference report which means that some bill passed that one House and then something was amended and then the House that sent it to us refused to accept the amendments and it went into a conference committee, which happens with a lot of different pieces of legislation, but on the budget it is done deliberately. A bill is picked and some very bad amendments put in it so that the other House cannot accept it, and they refuse it, we insist, if it came from the House, then a conference committee is named which represents all four caucuses, but in this manner: There are three Senate Members and there are three House Members. The Majority Party in each Body gets two of the three and the Minority Party gets one. Before that document can be brought back before the House or the Senate to be voted on for final passage, two people from each Body have to sign it, placing their signatures on a front cover showing that they approved of that particular conference report. In this case, two Republican Senators signed that conference report, along with the other four parties, a Democrat from the House, a Democrat from the Senate, the two Democrats from the House, and I am not sure whether the Republican over there did or not because the Senate Republicans have almost ignored the House Republicans in this whole budget process. But it takes two signatures in each. The Republican Members of the conference committee in the Senate did, at a public meeting, sign the conference report and then voted on having that report reported out of committee to the Senate floor and House floor. Those two people did not say at the time that I am doing this under duress, that I am doing this not knowing what is in it, that I am signing this report, knowing six months from now there is going to be one heck of a battle over whether it is accurate or not. No, they signed it. It came up on the floor and it was passed, and every Member of the Republican Senate took their legislative initiatives that were part of that package and went back home and told everybody how wonderful they were, what they brought back for them, their education increases, or whatever else. There was not one word spoken until somewhere along the line, down the campaign, the Republican candidate, who did not need any help in denigrating the position I think, did a really, really good job in making this election easy just by the actions and the particular name calling, like the "red-neck Irishman" and a few other things, that people in Pennsylvania kind of reacted to in a manner that they just would not vote for that candidate. That person had the same information, according to Senator Fisher, but evidently did not have the ability that Senator Fisher has to articulate that so the general public believed it. I think that was a difficult task for that person to do because at that point in time the seriousness of this matter did actually not exist. Since October until now, the situation on the federal level, the impact of the six-month occupation of Saudi Arabia and our efforts to force the Iraqi troops out of Kuwait have started to take their toll on a lot of different areas. U.S. Air last night decided to cut back 3,500 employees, and one of the main reasons they gave was because the war in the Gulf has scared people into not flying and has made their expenses become considerably higher. One of our major auto makers yesterday decided to lay off thousands and thousands of American workers. So, I think to say that Bob Casey left here in July, after this budget was passed, and deliberately went through a campaign trying to mislead people is a really harsh and a really unfair way of characterizing the position we have gotten to today. I think that is totally ridiculous because if anybody is forthright and candid, I have never met a public official more forthright and more candid and more honest than Bob Casey. I believe that in the conclusion of this budget, everything that has been accomplished by this administration will have a fair opportunity, and I think that he has a hell of a lot better record to defend than Senator Specter, which started all of this particular debate. I know that I am prepared to come before this Body and before the 12 million people in Pennsylvania and tell the truth. I am prepared to do whatever it takes to solve this problem and I am prepared to make the hard votes that jeopardizes one's political career. I say to the other 49 Members of this Body, including my Democrat colleagues, that I challenge you to think in that manner, to think about what happens 10 years from now, to think about what happens two years from now, because our actions over the next six months are going to greatly determine whether Pennsylvania continues to grow in stature nationally and continues to grow economically and our children have a place to stay and our children have a place to be educated and we have health care benefits for those who cannot provide. Those are the important things that have to come out of this debate today, that we can disagree with one another and we can have our fun politically and we can be partisan and we can do all the other things, but in the final analysis the challenge that lies before this General Assembly—because it is in our hands now, it is not in Governor Casey's hands—is to see that our actions, the actions we take, the manner in which we keep ourselves busy and the manner in which we accomplish and the manner in which we finally vote to solve these problems will have such a long-term, very serious impact on every Pennsylvanian who now is residing here in the state and all of those who will come in, through birth or through moving, in the next few years.

There is a very, very difficult task that lies before us, and I can tell you that I am willing to take whatever extra steps it takes from my caucus viewpoint to see that those problems are resolved in a manner that is not discriminating to any citizen, whether it be business or an individual taxpayer, but that it is also fair in its application to how we spend their money, too. I would ask that the Republican caucus in the Senate particularly join in that effort with the sincerity that I know they have and the feelings they have for the constituency they represent.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend JOHN FERICH, Pastor of Grace United Methodist Church, Carlisle, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God, we gather to praise Your holy name and to ask Your blessing upon the Senate of Pennsylvania. You have created us in Your image and breathed into us the breath of life. You have given us minds to reason, hearts to love and souls to have eternal fellowship with Yourself. You have given us dominion over the beasts of the field, the birds of the air and the fish of the sea. You have made us a little lower than the angels. In You we live and move and have our being. For all these precious gifts of life, we give You thanks.

Bless all the men and women who grace this hallowed Chamber and work for the well-being of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Give them keen minds and understanding hearts. Help them to fulfill their duties to the best of their abilities. Guide their footsteps in the paths of righteousness and truth. Help them, O God, to use their minds and talents in creative ways that will benefit our state and nation. Fill their hearts with love for their fellowmen and inspire them to work for the common good of all mankind. Free them from the chains of self-pity and cynicism and strengthen them morally and spiritually for good leadership and service to our great State of Pennsylvania and to the world. Help them in all their work and labor during their tenure of office to call upon You for divine guidance and spiritual help so that their words and deeds may be worthy of You and worthy of the trust placed in them by the citizens of Pennsylvania.

Bless the homes and families of our Legislators with love and peace, and keep our Legislators and their loved ones close to Your heart.

All these favors and blessings we pray in Your holy name. Amen.

MISS PENNSYLVANIA PRESENTED TO SENATE

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President, today we have a very special guest visiting the Senate, and it is my honor and privilege to once again introduce to the Members of the Senate Miss Pennsylvania. As most of you know, the home of the Miss Pennsylvania Pageant has been for these past many years the great City of Altoona, and we are very proud to host that pageant. We always give it enthusiastic support, and this year, like every other year, we are indeed honored as Pennsylvanians to have an outstanding young Pennsylvanian represent all of us across the Commonwealth. Miss Pennsylvania this year is Marla Wynne who is from Senator Reibman's district in Easton, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, and she was crowned Miss Pennsylvania at the 1990 pageant, a three-day pageant, in which 21 contestants from across the state participated. Marla Wynne is the daughter of Gary and Marlene Wynne who are here with her today, along with Susan Carothers from the Miss Pennsylvania Pageant. She is a 23-year-old college student. During the contest she placed first in the swimsuit competition and the talent competition in which she performed ventriloquism, an act with a cockatoo puppet. She also, Mr. President, was so outstanding that she was one of the ten semi-finalists in the Miss America Pageant, and we are indeed very proud of the talent and the poise that she has exhibited as she traveled across the Commonwealth presenting herself as Miss Pennsylvania.

I am sure that perhaps Senator Reibman would want to add to these comments as she, indeed, is the home Senator. Mr. President, I know that I have had the opportunity to meet her before and I am sure as we travel across my district, since Altoona will be her home for the next year, we will be cutting many a ribbon together and I look forward to that. She is indeed a talent and a person who I believe will make her mark as one of the more outstanding Miss Pennsylvania contestants. Mr. President, I am pleased to introduce to the Members of the Senate Miss Pennsylvania after Senator Reibman has an opportunity to offer some brief remarks.

Senator REIBMAN. Mr. President, I am very pleased to join with my colleague from Blair County in welcoming Marla to the Senate of Pennsylvania. I am sure that Senator Jubelirer certainly is looking forward to appearing with her at many functions in his area because she is a very delightful person. Not only is she very poised, she is also very beautiful and very talented. We in Forks Township and Northampton County are extremely proud of our candidate, our beautiful Marla, and we know that she will have some very good remarks for the Members of the Senate of Pennsylvania. I share with Senator Jubelirer, and I am sure with all of my colleagues in the Senate, our pride in Miss Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDENT. Would all of the Members of the Pennsylvania Senate please join me in welcoming Miss Pennsylvania, Miss Marla Wynne.

(Applause.)

Miss WYNNE. Thank you very much. One thing they neglected to mention was that I was also the one Larry King called ugly and, yes, we can bring that up if you would like to. We can all write letters to him like you write letters to your Congressmen and Senators. Let us write to Larry King.

I am honored to be here today, and I am sure that you have had several Miss Pennsylvanias come and speak to you. Pretty many of us carry the same message, but we do want to tell you a little bit about our world, the world of the Miss America Pageant. Thank you for letting me interrupt your world and learn a little bit about yours.

The Miss America Pageant every year awards over $5 million in scholarships. For someone who is seeking a Doctorate Degree in Education, I will take any money that the Miss America Pageant will throw my way. When I won the Miss Pennsylvania Pageant after several tries, I was awarded $5,000. As a senior in college I was very happy. My parents were upset only because I was a senior and I could not win in my freshman, sophomore or junior years in college because they already paid for three and a half years of school. When I went to the Miss America Pageant, the minute they named me into the top ten I was awarded $7,000. Not too bad. At every school district that I have traveled to this year I have been offered a job. At every appearance that I have been on I have been offered a job, and I hope that this appearance is no different. That is a joke, guys, that is a joke.

But I think what a lot of you do not know and what a lot of people do not realize about the Miss America Pageant and the Miss Pennsylvania Pageant is that for one year I work every day. I work seven days a week, 24 hours a day as Miss Pennsylvania, and for me as Marla, also, because it has been my honor to represent the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I have had the opportunity, as I said, to speak on behalf of education, and I am an education major. I also was awarded for a program that I work with in affiliation with the American Cancer Society. I developed an anti-smoking program for children, and prior to becoming Miss Pennsylvania I was allowed to do that in my county. Now that I have been named Miss Pennsylvania I have been asked to do it throughout the entire Commonwealth so I can make a larger impact. The reason I got involved with the American Cancer Society is my mother, who is with me today, was a smoker. About 15 years ago she was diagnosed with cancer. She did not stop smoking. About eight months after that she was diagnosed again with cancer. Then she stopped smoking. She is with me today because of the fight that she had. She taught me an awful lot and, as Miss Pennsylvania, I can give that message. Last year we lost my grandfather to lung cancer. To this day my 30-year-old brother smokes two packs a day. This is why I work with the American Cancer Society and this is why being Miss Pennsylvania was something very special to me. Not only is it the glamour that you see on television, but there is an awful lot more that goes into it, an awful lot of blood, sweat and tears.

At the Miss America Pageant this year there was an award entitled the Quality of Life award sponsored by Fruit of the Loom. They were awarding over $13,000 in scholarships. When I arrived in Atlantic City we were there for 15 days, 15 long days. I was informed that I had made the top twelve. There was only supposed to be a top ten for Quality of Life, which awards our contestants throughout the United States for their volunteer efforts for what they have done, how they have impacted society as volunteers. I was honored to make the twelve, and that evening I had my interview. I walked in and they said, "Why did you do it?"

I said, "Well, I would love to sit here and tell you the money was an incentive, but it was not. You can keep your money. This is something I did long before I was Miss Pennsylvania, and this is something I intend to do long after."

What I do as a ventriloquist, if any of you have seen my act, I have Oscar. He would not come here today as he only likes appearances where there are more women than men, so this was my day to shine with more men than women and so Oscar is in my trunk. But Oscar is a fluorescent cockatoo and we do a program called the Huff and Puff program. It seems very simple, but packs a big wallop, we say. It is based on the story of the three little pigs and the big bad wolf. I go into elementary schools and day care centers and we perform this. Our big bad wolf smokes, so he cannot blow the house down and he cannot chase the pigs. The children do not realize they are getting the message, but they are getting it. We knew that showing them pictures of dirty lungs was not going to do it. We knew that telling them mortality rates was not going to get our message across, but we found a way to do it. With affiliation with the American Cancer Society, they helped me put this program together. I went into the interview and I told them, keep your money, thank you for recognizing me. I did not do it for the recognition, but it means an awful lot. I walked out of there. I could not believe I told them to keep the money. My parents could not believe I told them to keep the money. About eight days later I received a phone call in my room from a representative of the Quality of Life Committee and they said, we would like to award you as second runner-up in the Quality of Life Competition. I was awarded an additional $2,000 in scholarships for my efforts. Not too bad for someone who will be entering the work force next year—the real work force. They tell me this is not a real job. My mom thinks I am surfing for the year. She said, I wish you would just hurry up and graduate. So I am looking forward to returning to school. I am sure the last thing you wanted to see when you all got back in Session today was Miss Pennsylvania, but I thank you for letting me come here. I hope you know a little bit more about Marla. I hope you understand a little more about the Miss America Pageant, and I wish you all very, very good luck and very, very good health. Thank you.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks Miss Pennsylvania.

BILLS IN PLACE

Senator REIBMAN presented to the Chair several bills.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Senator FATTAH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Senator FATTAH. Mr. President, I wanted to let my colleagues know that as part of Act 6 we required that the State Insurance Department conduct a study of a concept related to a single carrier in Philadelphia. That study was released today to the public and released yesterday to the leadership. I will later on in today's Session be introducing a bill to create a single-carrier system program for Philadelphia based on the study in part and based on the comments in the cover letter from the Insurance Commissioner that suggest that the best way for us to proceed at this point is to create the opportunity for insurance companies, for profit, to step forward to bid on the City of Philadelphia so we can determine further the feasibility of this concept. This bill will create the opportunity for companies in our state to produce proposals as to how they would cover the Philadelphia market. Those of my colleagues who want to co-sign this bill, if they could indicate that to me, we will make sure their names are affixed prior to the introduction of the bill.

The PRESIDENT. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

RECESS

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, before we proceed with consideration of today's Calendar, at this time I would ask for a brief recess of the Senate for the purpose of a Republican caucus to take place immediately in the Rules room at the rear of the Senate Chamber, with an expectation that we should be back on the floor within 20 minutes.

The PRESIDENT. For the purpose of a Republican caucus which will take place in the Rules room at the rear of the Senate Chamber—please note the change of location for the caucus—the Senate will stand in recess.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS
GUESTS OF SENATOR PATRICK J.
STAPLETON PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator STAPLETON. Mr. President, it is indeed a pleasure for me to introduce a group of men and women from Indiana County here with us today. They are visiting the Capitol. They are guests of former Representative Paul Wass and I would appreciate it if the Senate would show our warm welcome.

SECOND CONSIDERATION CALENDAR

BILL ON SECOND CONSIDERATION

SB 166 (Pr. No. 175) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 10, 1982 (P. L. 454, No. 133), entitled "An act protecting agricultural operations from nuisance suits and ordinances under certain circumstances," authorizing direct commercial sales of agricultural commodities.

Considered the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be printed on the Calendar for third consideration.

BILL REREFERRED

SB 275 (Pr. No. 284) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 1, 1988 (P. L. 82, No. 16), entitled "Pennsylvania Infrastructure Investment Authority Act," extending the act to include storm water projects; and providing for a referendum to incur indebtedness for such projects and the issuance of notes and bonds if authorized by the referendum.

Upon motion of Senator LOEPER, and agreed to, the bill was rereferred to the Committee on Appropriations.

BILL ON SECOND CONSIDERATION AMENDED

SB 303 (Pr. No. 469) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

An Act amending Title 42 (Judiciary and Judicial Procedure) of the Pennsylvania Consolidated Statutes, providing immunity to program administrators and supervisors.

The bill was considered.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second consideration?

Senator BORTNER offered the following amendment No. A0221:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 8340), page 1, line 9, by inserting after "officer": or agent of the Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 8340), page 1, line 12, by striking out "authorized by law" and inserting: approved by the court of common pleas

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Senator BORTNER. Mr. President, the purpose of this amendment is housecleaning in nature. In general terms this amendment would complete the coverage of civil immunity for all levels of the criminal justice system involved with placing offenders in the community to perform community service as part of a criminal disposition.

In 1987 the General Assembly enacted Act 21 which made similar amendments to Title 42, under Section 1520. Specifically, this amendment amends Section 8340 of Title 42 relating to civil immunity for program administrators and supervisors involved with supervising or administering restitution or community service programs. The amendment does two things, Mr. President. It adds agents of the Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole to list those persons provided with immunity. Secondly, it deletes the language "authorized by law" and replaces that language with the phrase "approved by the court of common pleas" when dealing with restitution or community service programs. This language makes it more clear in authorizing a judge of the Court of Common Pleas to have the ability and discretion to utilize the community service option as a disposition. Currently, that language does not state that community service can be used as a disposition. These proposed changes are supported by county volunteer service coordinators, members of the statewide community service committee of the county chief Adult Probation and Parole Officers Association of Pennsylvania and the association representing the Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole.

Mr. President, these changes will help us cope with the increasing problem of jail overcrowding and community based alternatives which we are trying to offer and make vital to the expansion of these services in Pennsylvania. I would urge the support of other Members for these amendments.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second consideration, as amended?

It was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND CONSIDERATION

SB 304 (Pr. No. 314) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

Ordered, To be printed on the Calendar for third consideration.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Senator PUNT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Senator PUNT. Mr. President and ladies and gentlemen, one of the resolutions which was just adopted that we are holding for additional signatures commended the forces of the United States and the coalition for their herculean effort which they just concluded in the Persian Gulf. Never, never before has there been such an array of armaments of weaponry to stamp out injustice and naked aggression by a foreign country to a small neighboring country. A coalition of this magnitude, in the history of mankind, has never, ever been formed. We are all deeply grateful to all of our men and women who have served in the Armed Forces in the Persian Gulf operation and, in particular, the tens of thousands of Pennsylvanians who have given of themselves toward this effort. And we must not forget those who have paid the ultimate price to provide liberty and freedom to a nation and its people. We are reminded of the sadness and sorrow of those Pennsylvanians who have fallen. In fact, I read a report last week which showed that more Pennsylvanians died and were killed in the operation than from any other state. Pennsylvania has a long history of defending principles of freedom and individual liberties. At the same time we must not forget those families who were separated from their loved ones, who had to worry with the fear of uncertainty of their spouse, friend or loved one being 8,000 miles from here, and for those who have lost a member of their family. No greater tribute can be given to freedom, to liberty than those who have paid the ultimate price. Though the war has been completed successfully at a minimal cost of casualties of human life with the coalition forces, we must not forget those who have been wounded, who will be returning home in time, as they will bear the scars of that war, but, more importantly, of that effort of liberation of a nation and its people. President Bush as Commander-in-Chief, Secretary of Defense Cheney, Joint Chief of Staff Chairman Colin Powell, the Commander of the Desert Shield and Storm Operation, General Schwarzkopf, and all the men and women of the Armed Forces of the United States deserve the praise and commendation of all Pennsylvanians, of all Americans and of all free liberty nations in the world that strive to maintain those principles.

When we circulated the resolution and submitted it here, we had 42 sponsors in the Senate. For those of you who have not attached your name to the resolution, I would urge you to do so and would appreciate a total unanimous concurrence of signatures on the resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, late Monday I, along with other Democrats, introduced Senate Bill No. 686, the so-called PERF bill which basically allows for a $300 million bond authorization to fund various programs in the PERF program—such things as the Ben Franklin Partnership, PIDA, the business infrastructure development program, industrial communities, PENNPORTS, machinery and equipment loans, the Pennsylvania Conservation Corps and the DCA Commerce set-aside program, among others. Mr. President, these are extremely important programs. The Governor has asked this year that we fund them via a bond issue. I have heard from some opponents that that is not the way we should do this. Why should we fund an operational expense from the Ben Franklin Partnership over a ten or a twenty-year period?

Mr. President, the answer to that question is, that is how we started this program in 1984 under the Thornburgh Administration. There was a $190 million bond issue that was put in place to start these programs off. Over the years we have tried to pay for these things out of the budget and operational expenses, but this year we find ourselves in a very tight year. In fact, I was quoted today with headlines as saying that the budget is at least $2.2 billion underfunded.

Mr. President, for those who do not want to do this by a bond issue, there are only two choices. Either we cut out the program, or we increase the Pennsylvania Income Tax or we find some additional business taxes. There is no money from heaven. There is no money from Washington. There is no money from anywhere but through tough votes on this Senate floor. While I might philosophically agree that it might not be the soundest business policy in ordinary times to do it this way, Mr. President, but when your back is to the wall, you have no choice. The precedent was set not by Governor Casey, but by Governor Thornburgh. Mr. President, to those people who do not want to move this bill on time, the blood of these programs will be on your hands. I note that the bill has not yet even been referred to committee in two days. April first is a deadline in which we are advised that will be a comfortable period of time in order to get this on the spring ballot so there is no disruption in these programs. If we do not put this on the spring ballot, Mr. President, we are looking at either funding this through operational costs which, I repeat, will be about a one-tenth of one percent increase in the income tax just for this alone, or cutting back these programs, which hurts Pennsylvania's economic future. We have no choice, Mr. President. I would hope that responsible leadership would dictate that we move this bill quickly. I call upon the Republicans in the Majority of this Chamber to move this bill expeditiously through the process next week and, if necessary, keep us in Session until we can pass this bill on time, rather than let these most important programs die on the vine because of partisan political politics.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, very briefly, in response to the gentleman, I would simply note that the April first deadline is also April Fool's Day.

ADJOURNMENT

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I move the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, March 18, 1991, at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, unless sooner recalled by the President pro tempore.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 12:12 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

In the Senate, March 18, 1991.

A RESOLUTION

Urging the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (AMTRAK) to rescind its decision to terminate service to McKeesport via the Capitol Limited Route.

WHEREAS, The National Railroad Passenger Corporation (AMTRAK) has announced that service to McKeesport via the Capitol Limited Route will be discontinued as of April 7, 1991; and

WHEREAS, October 3, 1990, the Senate adopted Senate Resolution No. 193, Printer's No. 2554, entitled "A resolution urging the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (AMTRAK) to work with local officials to increase ridership on the Capitol Limited Route in order to preserve rail passenger service to McKeesport and the Mon Valley"; and

WHEREAS, Since last fall when AMTRAK postponed for six months a decision to discontinue service to McKeesport, Federal, State and local officials have worked diligently in an effort to convince AMTRAK to cancel its decision to end service to McKeesport; and

WHEREAS, Since the McKeesport stop is unmanned, it costs very little for AMTRAK to operate it; and

WHEREAS, The McKeesport Transit Center, where the Capitol Limited Train stops, is handicapped accessible in such a way that it allows those with handicaps to gain independent access to the train and rail service that is not available in other unmanned stops along AMTRAK's line; and

WHEREAS, AMTRAK has done nothing in the last six months to promote the McKeesport stop; and

WHEREAS, A decision by AMTRAK to cease operation of the Capitol Limited Route would cause significant, negative ramifications for the Mon Valley, which is poised for revitalization following a long period of economic decline; and

WHEREAS, Loss of service to McKeesport will seriously hamper economic recovery in the Mon Valley; and

WHEREAS, Loss of AMTRAK rail service will exacerbate highway congestion and air pollution and increase consumption of expensive gasoline; therefore be it

LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1991

SESSION OF 1991 175TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 16

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 19, 1991.

The Senate met at 1:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend SIDNEY C. STEWART, JR., Pastor of Beaver Valley Allegheny Wesleyan Methodist Church, Beaver Falls, offered the following prayer:

Shall we pray.

Dear Lord in Heaven, thank You so much for the privilege of opening this day in prayer. We were thinking, Lord, yesterday and today how we just do not want to come with flowery words or doctrinal phrases, but we came, Lord, to humble ourselves. We came to say that we need You.

We remember, Lord, a few years back how a little girl was stuck in a pit deep beneath the earth and, Lord, it seemed that there was no hope, but there was outside help that came. And, Lord, we need outside help. We are thankful, Lord, that that is provided through Your only begotten Son.

We pray, Lord, for our State Senators. Help them as they help us, and guide them as they guide us and be with them as individuals. Be with their families, their children and their spouses but, Lord, be with them through temptation and sorrows. Help them, Lord, through their failures and their successes and, Lord, for all these things we will be sure to praise You. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding Session of March 18, 1991.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

The PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following Senate Resolution numbered, entitled and referred as follows, which was read by the Clerk:

March 19, 1991

ESTABLISHING A SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE MEANS OF GENERATING ADDITIONAL SOURCES OF REVENUE NEEDED TO MAINTAIN THE INTEGRITY OF THE STATE LOTTERY FUND

Senators ANDREZESKI, BELAN, PORTERFIELD, SALVATORE, LYNCH and STOUT offered the following resolution (Senate Resolution No. 37), which was read and referred to the Committee on Finance:

In the Senate, March 19, 1991.

A RESOLUTION

Establishing a Special Committee to investigate means of generating additional sources of revenues needed to maintain the integrity of the State Lottery Fund.

WHEREAS, The Pennsylvania Lottery was established by the General Assembly under Act 91 of 1971 "for the purposes of providing property tax relief for the elderly" and "for providing certain free fixed route local transit services to persons sixty-five years of age or older"; and

WHEREAS, Since that time, the State Lottery Fund has been called on to provide more funds for more programs that benefit older Pennsylvanians; and

WHEREAS, The State Lottery Fund now pays for Property Tax and Rent Rebates, Inflation Dividends, Free Mass Transit, Elderly Vehicle Registrations, Area Agency on Aging Grants, the Pharmaceutical Assistance Contract for the Elderly (PACE) Program, Abuse Intervention Services for Older Pennsylvanians, the PennCARE Program and the general government operations of the Pennsylvania Department of Aging; and

WHEREAS, The State Lottery Fund has also been used to pay for existing programs that were formerly funded out of the General Fund, providing almost $173 million in funds to such programs in 1986-1987; and

WHEREAS, The expansion of the State Lottery Fund, coupled with the growing costs of funding existing programs for older Pennsylvanians, has now reached a point where the State Lottery Fund is projected to show a negative ending balance in the next fiscal year; and

WHEREAS, Even with the continued transfer of line items from the State Lottery Fund to the General Fund and other preservation initiatives, it is estimated that the deficit in the State Lottery Fund will reach $200 million in fiscal year 1993-1994; and

WHEREAS, The deficit in the State Lottery Fund would seriously jeopardize the continuation of existing senior citizen programs at their current levels; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the preservation of the State Lottery Fund and those lottery-funded programs that serve older Pennsylvanians be the highest priority of the Pennsylvania Senate; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Senate take steps necessary to protect the integrity of the State Lottery Fund by establishing a Special Committee to investigate means of generating additional revenues to keep the State Lottery Fund solvent; and be it further

RESOLVED, That this Special Committee specifically study what impact various other options of gambling in Pennsylvania would have in terms of generating additional moneys to keep the State Lottery Fund out of deficit; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Special Committee make a thorough examination of all forms of gambling as they now exist in Pennsylvania by utilizing public opinion surveys, focus groups and public hearings, as well as the means by which the Commonwealth operates, licenses or regulates these forms of gambling to the benefit of its citizens; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Special Committee investigate what impact other existing forms of gambling, including, but not limited to, sports betting, video poker, small games of chance and off-track betting, would have on enabling the Commonwealth to be in the premiere position to realize additional revenues that will enable the State Lottery Fund to remain solvent; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Special Committee examine existing forms of gambling in other states, which may be similar or dissimilar to those forms which exist in Pennsylvania, and evaluate what social and economic impact they have both in that state and potential impact, if any, for the Commonwealth; and be it further appointed by the President pro tempore and that the expenses incurred by the Special Committee in carrying out its responsibility, including the hiring of an actuary, be paid from appropriate accounts under the control of the Chief Clerk; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Special Committee make recommendations to the full Senate based on its analysis of the potential for generating additional revenues from various other options of gambling and the potential fiscal impact of these additional revenues on preserving the integrity of the State Lottery Fund in terms of:

- (1) continuing existing programs to benefit senior citizens at current levels;
- (2) expanding certain programs to keep up with the demands placed on State services by an increasingly aging population; and
- (3) creating new programs to meet unmet needs in the areas of long-term care and catastrophic medical coverage for older Pennsylvanians.

PREFERRED APPROPRIATION BILL ON THIRD
CONSIDERATION AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 546 (Pr. No. 598) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

An Act making appropriations from the Tax Stabilization Reserve Fund for the fiscal year 1990-1991.

Considered the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I would just bring to the attention of the Members that the bill before us, House Bill No. 546, is a measure that we have termed our Rainy Day Fund in Pennsylvania. It is a fund that we now have and our vote today will release approximately $133 million, and it is going to go to pay some bills in Pennsylvania, particularly bills that have piled up in the area of special education and medical assistance. I could not help, Mr. President, to take this opportunity to just mention that it has only been a couple of weeks ago that the Governor of this state had called for legislative cooperation, and he called for our cooperation on four items of budget significance: One, the Rainy Day Fund; additionally, also, budget bond bills; thirdly, a federal supplemental appropriation bill; and fourthly, a General Fund supplemental. I would indicate, Mr. President, that we did receive a draft of the Rainy Day legislation and we are being cooperative. We are doing it. We believe that this legislation needs to be considered and needs to be passed in order that some of our bills can be paid. We have not yet received any kind of draft of legislation on the bond issue, and we have not seen any particular drafting from the administration dealing with that issue. I think that we have received, however, a draft on the federal supplemental, and it is my understanding that the House is considering it today and will probably act on it, and it will be over here for us to look at sometime after we return from the Easter recess. But, yet, even now as we consider the Rainy Day Fund before us today, we have yet to receive a draft of the General Fund's supplemental bill that, again, was one of the items that was listed as needing legislative cooperation.

The point of my remarks today, Mr. President, is simple. It just seems to me that it is ludicrous to ask for cooperation on one hand and not even receive proposals on the other. I think it is also not altogether certain why the Governor has waited until the bills were due before setting a process in motion. The administration faces at this time enough of a current fiscal crisis without trying to set up deadlines or showdowns in order to secure any type of legislative action. I think, also, it is important to note, Mr. President, that the record shows that during 1990 the Governor repeatedly insisted that the Rainy Day Fund was not needed to carry his budget through this current fiscal year. This was a call that we had made on many occasions during the course of the budget deliberations late last spring and early last summer. Yet spending this money will still leave the administration two months more short of reaching the end of this current fiscal year. This is a short-term step, the Rainy Day Fund that we are going to be voting on today. It is certainly not by any means a long-term solution. It seems to me, Mr. President, that the House and Senate have acted promptly and cooperatively on this particular request.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Mellow, will state it.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, in all due respect to the Majority Leader, I am having a very difficult time just hearing what the gentleman has to say standing on this side of the room because of the noise that is in the Chamber. The issue is something that is extremely important and I think it would be appropriate if we did have some order in the Body.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks the gentleman. Would the Members of the Senate please desist from their conversations on the floor. Would the Members please take their seats, and the Chair thanks all of the Senators for their cooperation. The gentleman may proceed.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, in finishing my discussion on the Rainy Day Fund issue that is before us, I would simply indicate to the Members that the House and the Senate have acted promptly and cooperatively on this particular request by the administration. Now the Governor must realize that this is the end of the line for readily available answers to the budget deficits that we face between now and June 30th, and the answers to come have to be better conceived policy than issuing bonds to pay salaries or arbitrarily shutting down state facilities on justification that is quite questionable.

I think we all realize there are tough choices ahead of us, but they do not have to be bad choices in the name of political convenience. And the Governor, who said he was in the market for better ideas, I believe needs to come forward with some better ideas of his own to present for mutual cooperation.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I guess cooperation means different things to different people. Perhaps it is in the eyes of the beholder as to what cooperation, basically, really amounts to. When you talk about legislative cooperation, Mr. President, there has not been a great deal of that demonstrated in this legislative Body for quite some time, although I do compliment the Majority on taking action as soon as possible on House Bill No. 546 which will allow the Rainy Day Fund to be spent, according to the letter that was set forth by the Governor. But, Mr. President, when we start to talk about cooperation and we start to talk about fiscal responsibility, I think they are kind of one-in-one and hand-in-hand. I do not think you can separate one from the other. And is it not quite ironic, Mr. President, that on the day we are considering an expenditure of well over $100 million to go ahead and to pay bills from a fund that has been known as the Rainy Day Fund—it needs a two-thirds majority vote here in this Body because of the importance of the appropriation of this particular type of money—that we find on the same Calendar, Mr. President, of Tuesday, March 19, 1991, substantial expenditures of monies for the fiscal year of 1990-1991 which were negotiated by, basically, that same spirit of cooperation by the Members in this Chamber and the Members of the other Chamber, was negotiated some seven or eight months ago. Yet we still find ourselves, Mr. President, in a position where the Majority Party in Pennsylvania is trying to go ahead and use the Calendar we have today to increase the deficit in Pennsylvania by even a greater amount of money. Mr. President, it is no secret that if we go ahead and we do just a little bit of research as to what has happened over the last several months, possibly within the last year, you will find out that same Majority has asked us to go ahead and to spend monies of nearly $315 million with no provision for funding. That is the type of cooperation we have had in this Body. So I think cooperation, as I stated before, maybe it is in the eyes of the beholder or perhaps it means different things to different people, or maybe, as a former Senator used to say, it depends on whose ox is being gored.

I guess right now, Mr. President, it is time to go ahead and to gore the ox of the administration by talking about the expenditure of the Rainy Day Fund, but there is only one Member of the General Assembly, in the Senate at least, that I know who even talked about, on this floor and in proposal, the expenditure of the Rainy Day Fund, and that individual was a Democrat, during the last budget negotiation, not a Republican. So, I think it is great that we now have a new expression of cooperation on the part of the Majority Leader. I think the only way we are going to resolve our financial differences over the next several months is through that same spirit of cooperation by all 50 Members of the Senate, but the important thing today is that we have needs that must be addressed, we have money that must be spent, we have people who are in dire need of appropriations that are due to them, that will be made available by the passage of House Bill No. 546 and that in itself is a tremendous amount of cooperation. I think it is important, Mr. President, that we stop taking advantage of the political bickering and the political partisanship that, unfortunately, is shown here so many times, that we take and we try to restrict, if we can, our need for putting legislation on this Calendar that is going to cost money. If you look on the Calendar, on page 4, Senate Bill No. 653 is going to cost $7.5 million of money that has not been part of a negotiated process. Further, we have an amendment today that is going to be offered to a proposal that if you vote against it, it is probably going to be like voting against apple pie and motherhood, in Senate Bill No. 443, which is going to increase already an appropriation to take care of those people who have served the country in the Gulf War by an additional $50 a month, having no idea, Mr. President, where this money is going to come from. So, I think when we talk about a spirit of cooperation, that has to be an entire, comprehensive program. We must, Mr. President, try to the best of our ability to resist the temptation of further expenditures of money because when you look at the type of money that has been proposed by the Majority Members of this Senate since the 1989-90 Session and has been put up there by the Republican Members, it is absolutely astronomical. In fact, one individual Member of this Senate has introduced legislation that has appeared in some form on this floor of an additional expenditure of $86 million, money that had never been negotiated; one of $44 million that was never negotiated; one of $26 million; and the litany goes on and on—$26,200,000, $26 million even, $26,685,000, $19,759,000, $13,654,000, $13,389,000, $13,224,000, and the litany continues, Mr. President. In fact, one Member who is no longer a Member of this Senate asked us to spend $8.3 million that had never been negotiated, and that individual is not even here to try to raise the type of revenues that are necessary to go ahead and to pay this particular deficit off.

To the credit of several Members of the Republican side, and I believe there are six of them in total, they have not introduced any legislation that would call for any increase of any money. Maybe it is kind of ironic that those individuals who did not take the political advantage of making those types of introductions also, I believe, did not vote for the bill so they were true to the appropriations bills; so, by and large, they were true to their own convictions. But the frivolous type of spending that we have been asked to do in this Body over the past year, Mr. President, is just short of $315 million, so when we talk about cooperation, if we are going to resolve the problem and our differences with regard to a budget and with regard to revenues, we need total cooperation. It has to be extended way beyond what we are dealing with here, the Rainy Day Fund, and I would ask for an affirmative vote on this proposal.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (Robert C. Jubelirer) in the Chair.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. We welcome all of you who are here to watch your state government in action.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I rise, too, to support the bill and also to respond to the Majority Leader's comments. The Majority Leader says that he has not yet seen a draft of the PERF bill. I would suggest to him that he look at Senate Bill No. 686 that I introduced last week and spoke about during Petitions and Remonstrances. It is currently stalled in the Committee on Appropriations. That is the PERF bill, and we can give him an analysis of that.

Mr. President, also, regarding the PERF bill, we did a little bit of research on that. We found out that this bill that is currently being stalled in the Committee on Appropriations, if you take a look at where PERF funding has gone during the Casey Administration on a per capita basis, the five counties that have benefitted the most from these programs are McKean County, Clearfield County, Luzerne County, Cameron County and Mercer County. If we look a little bit further, Mr. President, we will find out that the seventh county to have benefitted from this is Blair; Lycoming is number ten; Franklin is number eleven; Schuylkill is twelve. Mr. President, these are Republican counties. I do not know why you want to kill economic development in your own counties, unless you want to fund these programs through an increase in the income tax. I do not care how you fund them, it is up to you. But you had better damn well decide pretty soon. Mr. President, one and one equals two, and this is the year we are going to learn that arithmetic lesson. When we did this budget last year, there were many critics who said it was not balanced, but not one critic from the other side of the aisle who was complaining that the budget was not balanced dared step forth and offer a solution to that unbalanced budget. Not one Republican took to the floor and said he wanted to cut money from that budget in order to balance it. Not one Republican took to the floor and said he wanted to increase taxes in order to balance it. In fact, Mr. President, I made the challenge just before we voted on that budget that I was prepared to vote for taxes on our side of the aisle if the other side of the aisle was willing to cooperate. That challenge fell on deaf ears, so I do not want to hear now that we have this problem that no one knew about.

Mr. President, this problem has been coming a long time, and today's Rainy Day Fund will help solve this year's deficit. We are all optimistic that this year's budget will be balanced by the time we close the books, but it is not going to be balanced without a lot of pain. We find that we want to close hospitals. People do not want to close hospitals. They do not want to vote for taxes to keep them open either. We wanted to close the Scotland State School. We cannot close the Scotland State School; we do not want to do that. But we also do not want to vote for taxes to keep it open. Mr. President, I submit to the other side of the aisle, if you have a better idea, talk about it here. Let us hear what your ideas are. If you do not like the Governor's budget, tell us in an open forum, what do you want to cut, or what tax do you want to raise to balance it. This is the year we will learn the arithmetic lesson that one and one equals two. This is not the United States Congress, which through a bipartisan effort, I will admit, on the part of a Democratic controlled Congress and a Republican Executive Branch, have worked together to give us the biggest budget deficits known in the history of the world. We do not have that luxury here, Mr. President. We may have played some games last year, but this year we are not going to be able to do that. I suggest to the Members of this Body that they be prepared to vote for taxes or they be prepared to vote for cuts. From the way I see the other side of the aisle spending money, it is obvious that they do not want to cut anything. Yesterday in the Committee on Appropriations, we pumped out more bills that cost money, albeit all wonderful things. "Where are you going to get the money to pay for these things?" I asked of the Republican Majority. Their Committee on Appropriations put out a bill for $17 million yesterday. It would give forgiveness of county liabilities for forensic costs. Hey, that is a nifty idea. Where do we get the $17 million in a budget that you charge is not balanced, you charge is in a deficit position? Where do we find this $17 million? You do not know because you do not have a clue. I submit to you that this is the year that the Pennsylvania public will look through the games-playing. Not everyone can be a hero. At some point in time you cannot be for everything and not want to pay for it. This is the year we will pay for that or we will take it back. There is a very simple way to do this. Do not push this legislation out of the Committee on Appropriations. Put a lock on all future spending until we get the budget balanced, but do not have the audacity to come into this Chamber and complain that the budget is not balanced and still want to spend more money. What happened to good old conservative Republicanism? Where did it go? The Republican Party in this Chamber has become the most liberal spenders in the history of the Commonwealth—$300 million you guys tried to spend last year to throw the budget into a worse deficit. You have to learn some responsibility. Do not come into this Chamber and complain about deficits as long as you want to make them deeper. And I am talking to the people in the gallery and I am talking to the people in the media, because they are the ones who you are trying to fool. I know what you are doing. It is a great game. Let us pass wonderful spending bills so maybe the Governor will veto them and he will look like a bad guy because he does not want to help these people. Let us also not vote for the taxes that have to be paid for these things, because we want to be a friend to the taxpayer. Mr. President, this is the year that all that stuff comes home to roost. This is the year that, like it or not, when we do this budget, that side of the aisle will be voting for the tax increases that are going to have to do it. We will be prepared to do our fair share, but you are going to have to help. If you want to spend an extra $300 million, I do not care. Give me some more votes for an extra two-tenths on the income tax. If you do not want to run the PERF bill as a bond issue, I do not care. Give me an extra one-tenth percent on the income tax. But let us recognize the equation. Let us recognize what we are doing. It is great to come in here and talk great philosophy—I do not want to have bond issues pay for salaries, that is absurd. That is terrific. Tell me how you want to pay for the salaries. I will listen to anything, as crazy as it might sound, but I get silence from that side of the aisle when I ask, where do you want to cut? Where do you want to tax? The only thing I get is the Republican rhetoric. We are in a deficit. How did this happen? By the way, pass this bill for an extra $100 million.

Mr. President, that does not play in any place except maybe Farview State Hospital for the criminally insane. Mr. President, it is about time that we started to get realistic. It is about time we stopped the partisan rhetoric. It is about time we learned basic addition, it is about time we get along with the business of government and it is about time we recognize we are going to have to vote for taxes or cuts. It is a wonderful thing to have a debate on which we are going to do, but let us stop the silliness of that side of the aisle constantly complaining about a budget deficit that it charges this Governor created when it knows that is a lie, but at the same time wanting to spend more money so we can go into a deeper deficit. As I say, there are buses that will take you to Farview if you want to go up there and preach to those people. They might believe you.

LEGISLATIVE LEAVES CANCELLED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair notes the presence on the floor of Senator Belan and Senator Fattah and their temporary Capitol leaves will be cancelled.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I will be very brief in my remarks at this point, but I cannot help but wonder after listening to the Minority Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations. Apparently he has been hanging around the front office too long and is starting to believe his own rhetoric he is hearing out of there, that maybe he does not recall exactly what we went through in trying to put together a budget this time last year and talked about the deficit that we believed we were going to face in this state. However, I would remind the gentleman that adequate revenues for that budget were certified by the Budget Secretary and attested to by the Governor that they were going to be in place, and we had called that they were going to need to use the Rainy Day Fund, that we were going to experience a serious shortfall in revenue and be in a deficit position this year. When the gentleman talks about an additional $300 million in spending bills, I think it is interesting to note that is exactly the same amount the Governor had proposed that we put in the bond issue that the gentleman now tells us he has proposed. I guess he is the administration representative in this Chamber. We have not had any contact from the administration at this point as to any draft legislation concerning that. And when he talks about one and one equals two, Mr. President, I think that really characterizes the epitome of what our concern is. One and one does equal two, and that is exactly what we are going to be paying for and our children will be paying for in the years to come, and that is two dollars for every dollar of operating expense that we are going to expend from a bond issue this year.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, briefly in response, contrary to popular opinion, I may be Casey's guy, but it was not by my direction.

Mr. President, we did argue last year with the Governor. Most vociferously did I carry on that charge, and it was because we were negotiating the budget and felt that it was already in a deficit. The Governor came back and wanted to cut another $100 million, and our argument was, Governor, it is already out of whack a half a billion dollars. What are you going to do by cutting another $100 million? The Governor responded that he did not believe it was out of whack by a half a billion, but he still wanted to cut the $100 million. He forced that discipline on us and we did not like it. I did not like it. The Majority Leader did not like it. But we did it, and if we had not done it, the deficit would be even higher today. It is very enticing around here to spend money. Every politician in America has been hooked on that addiction because they think it is the key to reelection. Spend, spend, spend. But regrettably now, we have to tax, tax, tax in order to spend, spend, spend. The surpluses are gone, and we could have a great and very long philosophical argument as to why. I had people ask me today, in fact, gee, how is it when Thornburgh left he left a $300 million surplus? The Democrats got in and all of a sudden it is $1,700,000,000 short. Boy, you guys must be pretty lousy managers. Then I explained to them that when Governor Thornburgh was here he raised taxes. Everybody forgot that. Governor Thornburgh raised taxes but, politely, before he left, he lowered taxes and left the guy coming in the door with a smaller revenue base. I wonder how that happened? In addition, on this Senate floor—and I was the one who asked the question of my colleague, the gentleman from Montgomery, Senator Tilghman, when we did it—this General Assembly and this Senate for the first time raided the Lottery Fund. Under Thornburgh we went into the Lottery Fund to get operational money. We did that. That is less horrendous than the bond issue we talk about. We went into that Lottery Fund, and guess how much we went into there for? Three hundred million. And guess how much the Thornburgh surplus was? It was $300 million. It does not take a fifth grade rocket scientist to figure out where that money came from. But during this administration, yes, I will plead guilty because I participated in it, Governor Casey and the Democrats in this administration decided that we could not keep raiding the Lottery Fund because we would bankrupt it, so now we are paying back the $300 million a year that Dick Thornburgh, Dudley Dorigt that he is, stole from the senior citizens. That cost 300 million bucks. When you start to look at this nonsense, you start to find out that maybe we did not do that bad a job. Yes, Governor Casey made a promise not to raise taxes for four years and he did not, much to my chagrin, because I think proper budgeting would have probably dictated that we should have had a tax increase maybe a year or two ago. But we did not do that, and guess what? Nobody around here really fought that hard with him because nobody likes bad news. What are we kidding ourselves about? We are all participants in this conspiracy. We all knew what was going on. Some of us played cute, and more so on that side of the aisle, and said, I am not voting for this budget but, by the way, I need this project. Get this taken care of, but I am not voting for that budget. I am going home and telling my people I was responsible. Take a look at the money they spent though. They got away with that. That is fine. You only need 26 votes to pass a budget, we do not need 50. But reality is that in most times it is all 50 of us who agree. It is just which lambs are we going to send to slaughter to vote for the taxes or the budget that week. It is about time the public understood this. We have a big problem in Pennsylvania also regarding this deficit that those same turkeys in Washington, granted, Democrats in the Congress and Republicans in the Executive Branch, have cut off the money that we used to get from that source. But at the same time they tried to balance their budget by increasing the taxes of every American as much as six percent. They took money from our people and did not give it back to us. But we now know what they did. They beat Saddam Hussein and we are all happy for that. I suggest to those people, as I have suggested continuously, charity begins at home. We have states that are going bankrupt, be they Democrat or Republican controlled. California has a Republican Governor, $6 billion in deficit. We even have a Democratic Governor who just took over in Texas; she just walked in the door with a $9 billion deficit left to her by a Republican Governor.

So this is not a partisan issue, it is one of people recognizing responsibilities. There is no free lunch. Contrary to what Ronald Reagan sold the American public, there is no free lunch. The sad part about it is that we at the state level have to pay for the lunch he gave away. Let us remember who did it and let us stop the partisan nonsense, but let us get on with solving the problem. Let us stop taking shots of who struck John. We all did it, and everyone in here who wants to be honest knows what his role was in this conspiracy. We all know it. But let us at this point in time, having committed this horrendous act, let us stop the bleeding. Let us stop the hemorrhaging. Let us stop the spending. Go back. Send those bills back to the Committee on Appropriations that you reported out yesterday. Send that $26 million in new spending as of yesterday back to the Committee on Appropriations and let it die there, but do not dare come on this floor and tell me about deficits and keep spending, spending, spending.

I will sit down now, Mr. President. I see my eloquent friend from the rural areas will get up to say how he does not agree with me and how he is so conservative, but I sit in those hearings and watch him beat up every cabinet secretary—"Why do we not have more rural programs?" Now we will see where we go with this one.

Senator PETERSON. Mr. President, now that you know what I am going to talk about, maybe I can keep it short. It is interesting today as we listen to both the Senator from Philadelphia and the Senator from Lackawanna. The first issue I want to address is the one that if we as lowly rank and file Members of the Pennsylvania Senate vote or support a bill, that we are wild spenders. I think the general public understands the process. The Governor's budget that is now before us has his priority list. His priority list treats a lot of people better than some of my priority list. Every time any Member of this General Assembly proposes legislation, he is proposing his priority list of what he thinks is important, not only to his district but also to all the citizens of the Commonwealth and that is this process. I take some offense to anyone who says that when I am putting up my priority list, I am a budget buster, because that is not true and it is not true of any of my other rank and file colleagues here either. The present budget that is before us does not treat rural Pennsylvania well. It does not treat the counties very well, the local governments very well, rural higher education very well, economic development, as far as the counties and the regional development commissions, and it eliminates programs like community facilities that are for communities under 12,000 population.

It appears to me that in this whole debate process we have to have the ability for those of us who do not serve what I call the big eight, who make up the budget in late June or early July or August or September—I am told it is the big six, along with the administration—those of us who work out here in the trenches ought to have the right to propose what we think ought to be in that budget. Yes, if you want to ask me personally what I would take out, I will tell you. There are a lot of things that I would take out of the budget. There are a lot of priorities that are different than the one that has been given to us from this administration. But in this whole budget process, how did we get to where we are? Because we lacked honesty in the process. The first thing we have to get to today is where are we today financially, how far in the hole are we. I just want to give a quick account of how I view it as a rank and file Member.

When I first came to the General Assembly to the House about 14 years ago, one of the processes that I went through was to help people get paid—county agencies, local groups that served the poor. Anybody who sold gasoline or auto parts to the state had a hard time getting paid. We went through that process for a number of years. I was told that as recently as two years ago people who bought auto parts for PennDOT at a store, they got their check within 30 days, as they should. We all know that in '89 the process of paying our bills on time, which was a good process which government should do, started to slow down. I started to get comments from agencies, counties and businesses who did business with the Commonwealth that their payment schedule was starting to slow down. When you have a $12 billion general budget and a $20-some billion budget when you include federal money, when you slow the payment process down a month with just our own money, we save a billion dollars. So the process was starting in '89 of slowing down the bill paying process. Last year's budget tries to blame it on the rank and file Members. I thought we were running into a deficit. I thought we were having a problem coming up. But who in state government, different from the federal government, controls the aces? In the federal government the President does not have the line item veto. The President's budget goes to the Hill and goes to the shredder. Congress drafts the budget and it seldom even resembles the President's budget. Is that true in state government? No. Most Governors get 98 percent of what they ask for in their printed document that they give us, far different than the federal government. What do we do? We tinker with the edges. We tinker with a few priorities. We argue about where a little less money ought to go here and a little more money ought to go there. And that is the process we should do. But who holds aces? The Budget Office and the Governor. They certified last year's budget as being balanced at the end when Mr. Hershock admitted in the hearings of the Committee on Appropriations that they changed their accounting procedures. Sure, we know how you change accounting procedures. Instead of a $421 million deficit last year, we had a slight surplus, and that was not a true surplus. What happens when you put $421 million on the table to spend? That is what the Budget Secretary did when he said we were even last year, when we were not. We rolled a half billion dollars into this year's budget and turned around and put it on the table and spent it again. So you have a billion dollar deficit right there. We all knew that welfare costs were going to be much higher this year than last because the number of people in the system was going up. Every week and every month there were more people in the system. But those figures were artificially low because you can hide $100 million or $200 million or $300 million there. We all knew revenue estimates were too high. Everybody knew that in here, but who certifies that the money is there to spend? That is not true in the national government, but in state government the Budget Office and the Governor certify those figures and, yes, this General Assembly then spent the money. But I think the whole general public should know that the budget process in state government is dominated and most of the aces are in the hands of whoever is in the Governor's Office and whoever sits in the Budget Office. I think the best thing that can happen from this day forward is that we start working with honest and true numbers. Yes, we are going to have to deal with revenues. We are going to have to deal with cuts. We are going to have to deal with changing priorities. I urge my colleagues to be a little cautious when general Members of this Senate have bills and programs that cost money. That is their priority list. It is not that they necessarily are busting the budget.

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 35, ADOPTED

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt Senate Resolution No. 35.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, prior to the adoption of Senate Resolution No. 35, I would just like the Members, especially on this side of the aisle, to know that the resolution opposes the closing of the Scotland School for Veterans' Children and urges action by the Secretary of Education. There was some debate about this resolution yesterday in the Committee on Rules and Executive Nominations, and I, for one, would like to be voted in the negative against the resolution and perhaps we should either consider taking a slow roll call or at least ask for the negative votes, because this goes along with all the other budget negotiations and budget discussion, and perhaps it should be part of the actual budget negotiations. It is just a simple resolution opposing the closing of the Scotland School without regard to if, in fact, it has a use and useful purpose; if, in fact, it is a prudent expenditure of tax dollars and, in fact, where the revenue is going to come from. Mr. President, in view of the new spirit of cooperation that was established in the Chamber by the vote of 48-0 on House Bill No. 546, we either should be putting Senate Resolution No. 35 over or, basically, we should be reconsidering any support for this proposal.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I echo the remarks of the Minority Leader and I went into this in extensive detail at the hearing of the Committee on Appropriations and maybe, just briefly, for the Members, they should be aware of what is going on here. The Scotland State School for Veterans' Children is not an institution, as many people think it is some kind of crippled children's type. It is a regular school, a very good school. It is a private boarding school run by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The problem, Mr. President, is that when it originally started out, it was started out with some very good intentions. It was supposed to give a free education to the orphans of veterans who fought for our country. There could be nothing more admirable than that. Mr. President, later it was expanded to include indigent veterans' families and that certainly is admirable. Then, I guess after the Vietnam War, there was a lull in the number of veterans who had children who were either orphaned or indigent and, yes, we in the General Assembly voted to expand the authority of that school, I guess to keep it open. So that now, Mr. President, what you have is an institution where if you have any connection with veterans, if you served with the Reserves and you want to send your child to this institution, you can do that. I have seen numbers as high as $27,000 per year per student to as low as $22,000 per year per student, which was printed, I think, in the Chambersburg newspaper in their editorial column when they talked about $27,000 being too high of a number. Mr. President, I received a letter from a constituent regarding this school in which she made a very strong argument to keep it open. I read in the letter, however, that her condition was as follows: She and her husband had decided to divorce 12 years ago. Their children have been in this place for 11 years. She has a very good job at a bank in Philadelphia. Her husband is a Philadelphia police officer. Two people earning good money, probably middle class or upper middle class by our standards, but yet they have two children there receiving an education that is costing the taxpayers somewhere between $44,000 and $54,000 per year.

Mr. President, I suggest to this General Assembly and to the Senate that the time has come to take a look at what is going on there. The time has come to reassess these programs, and I am a very strong advocate of helping out the children of veterans who are orphaned or indigent who need this help. We should be able to send them to any institution they want to go to. Mr. President, it was brought out during the hearing of the Committee on Appropriations that Valley Forge Military Academy would take 80-some of these students, at a price of $17,000 per year. Mr. President, I think the public is being ripped off here and I think that the charade that this is going to hurt veterans is being used to keep a bureaucracy open in a rural area of Pennsylvania that may need that employment, but that is not the proper use for taxpayers' monies. If we are going to help the children of veterans, we should help them in a meaningful way. I submit to you that sending a child to the Valley Forge Military Academy might just be a better education than the Scotland State School. I am not positive about that, but I think it might very well be. In addition to the monies that are needed to keep it open on an operating basis, there is $20 million needed for asbestos abatement there. Mr. President, again I say to those people who are advocates of keeping this school open, I hope you give me your tax vote when we have to vote on taxes. I hope the Senator from that area will very freely vote for taxes, and I hope the House Member from that area also will vote for taxes. And this gets back to what the gentleman from Venango, Senator Peterson, talked about earlier, a list of priorities. I am certainly very open-minded to individual Member's priorities, and if you have a priority project, you are entitled to get it. However, you have to pay for it. You cannot come to this Chamber and say, I am not voting for taxes, but here is my priority list, you had better do this. Oh, no. It is a two-way street. If you want these programs to keep rolling on, we need the money to do it. Have the courage to stand up to vote for the taxes and we will gladly talk to you about your priority list. That is what is done in negotiations. Mr. President, this is not just the Governor's priority list, it is everyone's. But in order to get in line to get on the list, you have to have the courage to step up to the plate and vote for taxes or you have to have the courage to step up to the plate and vote against some sexy items. You do not get in the ball park and you do not get in line to get your ticket punched unless you are ready to pay the price. There is no free lunch in this process. There is no free lunch in America, and the sooner we learn it the better.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, about five minutes ago the gentleman from Philadelphia said the Legislature ought to look into this matter. Well, that is what we are doing. I was there and you were there when the Secretary of Education said that only 70 of the children met the requirements of the statute. This resolution states that the Secretary of Education shall enforce the statutory law and the children shall be, number one priority, a child of a veteran with no living parents; number two priority, a child of a veteran with one living parent; number three priority, a child of a parent who is without fiscal means. That is what the law says and that is what the Secretary of Education is not enforcing. I had this resolution written. I did not think I should go as far as to tell the Secretary of Education he ought to try to run that institution in a manner that would not cost $27,000 per student, because it was only a few years ago—I believe three years ago and I do not have my figures like the gentleman from Philadelphia always has—it only cost $10,000 a year per student. So it is time for the Secretary of Education to clean up his act, but do not close Scotland School.

Senator PUNT. Mr. President, much is being said about Scotland School and as the Senator from the home county for Scotland School, I think a few additional things need to be said. The Secretary of Education's comments were false, inaccurate and incomplete. The administration wants to close Scotland School solely to help balance its budget deficit, period. The Secretary of Education has said that 287 students appear not to meet the criteria for admission. That may well be so if I had to use his information, because when Frank Frame received the inquiry from the Department of Education, he was given specific guidelines based upon what information the Department of Education wanted, so he provided that information to the Department of Education based upon the criteria as the Department of Education said.

Ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, here are the facts. There are 356 students currently enrolled at Scotland School. Of that number, 262 of those children are sons and daughters of a World War II veteran, Korean veteran or a Vietnam War veteran. Of the remaining 94, those parents are peacetime veterans and of those 94 students, four are half orphans while the other 90 qualified for enrollment under the criteria of destitute children. The criteria that the Department of Education had asked for was based upon the initial charter of Scotland School. What they did not ask for was the legislative change that was made in 1980. They did not ask for that criteria, nor did the Department of Education ask for the criteria which the Department of Education's legal office approved on December 14, 1984, additional requirements for Scotland School as was approved by the Board of Trustees. It is one thing if we are going to talk about facts, but let us talk about all the facts and not the picture the Department of Education is trying to paint regarding this issue. The cost I have seen varies from $25,000 to $27,000. There are two other schools like Scotland School in the entire country. They are in Indiana and Ohio, and those costs are indeed comparable to Scotland School's cost. It is a question, ladies and gentlemen, of principle. Are we going to continue the mission as defined or are we going to alter the mission of Scotland School or are we just going to close it? Nowhere, if you look at all of the information, does it justify anything as Secretary Carroll has said or the Governor has said. In fact, if you look at the whole picture, it points out just the opposite. The department wants to close it simply because of budgetary reasons. Do you really think for one minute that if this had been going on since 1984 this administration or anybody else would have let it go? Do you think the Auditor General's Office in years past would have let it go? No. In October—and I just got my hands on this last week—even the Department of Education was still planning to continue the operation. It is a good operation. They submitted to the Governor's Budget Office a request for an additional $1,214,000 appropriation for additional improvements at Scotland School. If the Department of Education wanted it to close down, that it was not fulfilling its mission, why would they have asked for an $800,000 appropriation to renovate the main tunnel utilities system and why would they have asked for $414,000 to maintain the dining facility? It just does not make sense if you look at the whole picture. What the real picture is is simply budgetary issues to balance his budget deficit on the backs of those children, our veterans' children, and I defy anyone to show me one specific child at that school who is not legally entitled to be there and, in fact, is not a child of a veteran under the definition of both statute and the admission requirements. It just is not so. I would not ask the Members of the Senate to support this resolution. The Governor is wrong. He is dead wrong. As I have said before, he may have, in fact, launched a SCUD missile aimed directly at Scotland School and our veterans' children, but there are patriots here today who are going to fire back. It is just not right.

LEGISLATIVE LEAVE CANCELLED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair notes the presence on the floor of Senator Schwartz and her temporary Capitol leave is cancelled.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Senator ARMSTRONG. Mr. President, I guess as a veteran I can speak against this because everyone wants to take care of the veterans' children. But, there is "x" amount of dollars and there are 356 students. All you have to do is divide the number by the students and you come out with a number, and the number is $27,000 per student. I guess we have to weigh whether it is worth $27,000 of our money to send a student to Scotland School for Veterans' Children. Politically, I guess you can say well, that is worth it, because as election time rolls around you are going to be facing this issue if you vote against this. But we cannot afford it. Twenty-seven thousand dollars per student is too much money. Why not send them to Valley Forge or some of the other good academies out there for far less money? It just does not make sense to me. They have a full time recruiter there going out trying to search for students to go to that school. You would think there would be lines of people wanting to get in there. I also understand, as someone told me, that if you have high SAT scores when you come out of there, you can get two years of college. I do not know if that is true or not, but it was told to me by reliable sources. I think there are good educational opportunities available in other schools. We are not trying to take advantage of veterans' orphans at all. We just do not have the money, so we have to look at $27,000 per student. You can go to Harvard University for that cost, and I think we have to start looking at this and be responsible, and I think we should let the Governor do it and not turn it back over to the General Assembly because we do not want to cut anything because it affects our districts. None of us wants to lose jobs in our districts. But, folks, the money is not there and we have to look at this very seriously.

Senator WILLIAMS. Mr. President, I did not want to get in on this debate, but the last remark by the gentleman caused me to stand up. We have sheltered markets. I am a veteran and a lot of veterans are here and we have spent money because of that. I do not need to refer to cost overruns in the military and all that. All I am saying is that here we have a program that is solid and that works. The philosophy behind it is consistent with principles of this country and I do not think we need to go back to an argument. I would like to add one thing, however. That is that many of the students who go there are students who are just not able to receive an education in our public schools that we pay a lot of money for also, and I do not know what the per capita rate is for that. But if you listen to some of the stories, children just cannot go to the public schools because of violence. Good students, good parents, children of people who fought for this country cannot go to a public school because they go to war, and I do not know, but I have heard those stories, Mr. President. I would just like to comment that the fiscal input on this issue is just not applicable if, indeed, we look at the principle for which this institution was set up and is running solidly on target with the principle behind it. So I would think that for anyone to put it in where we need to save some money now, this is just not one of those programs that is a back burner program. It is a front burner program that has been embedded into the hearts and the minds and the spirits of some valiant Pennsylvanians, and there is no alternative where some of these children are going anyway and we are spending that money anyway.

Senator BORTNER. Mr. President, I have listened to the debate on this issue and I noted the remarks of the sponsor of the resolution who indicated that what we were calling for here through this resolution was a study of this issue, and if that is all that we were doing, I would have no problem supporting this resolution because I have some doubts. I have some confusion as to what our mission, what our future course of action ought to be with regard to the continuation of the Scotland School. I attended the education portion of the Committee on Appropriations hearing, and I listened to the Secretary of Education answer questions, a lot of very difficult questions that were put to him by members of the Committee on Appropriations, and I listened to the exchange involving our Democratic Chairman of the Committee. I heard today some very different figures from the gentleman from Franklin, Senator Punt, concerning the Scotland School, figures that I would like to have an opportunity to check out and ask some questions about, the ones concerning cost, the ones concerning the profile of the students who attend the school. If we were asking for a further study of this issue and some further consideration, I would be for this resolution, but that is not what the resolution says and that is why I have some difficulty supporting it. The resolution states that the Senate, that we vehemently oppose the closing of the Scotland School for Veterans' Children and that it compels the Secretary of Education to begin corrective action with regard to the admission standards. I think that a resolution of this nature is premature at this time, at best. I think that the issue does require further study, and I might suggest that we consider a resolution that would, in effect, provide that study, perhaps by one of our own committees, perhaps by a special committee, to see whether or not further continuation of the school is justified and whether, in fact, it is something we can afford, I think, following up on some very, very good questions and comments made by the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Armstrong.

Senator SHUMAKER. Mr. President, a lot of the issues have already been discussed and I am not going to reinvent the wheel. But I do want to relate to you something which happened after the hearing of the Committee on Appropriations when, obviously, in response to the questions asked at the hearing, a representative of the Education Department who, incidentally, is also the person in charge of the liaison between education and the Scotland School, came in and gave us a pamphlet called, "Information Pertaining to Scotland School for Veterans' Children." He said to us, the reason we said there are only a few young people there who actually are eligible to be there is because there are only three criteria, and on his paper he says, children both of whose parents are deceased, children with only one living parent or destitute children not being in either of the two previous categories. That is very interesting because if you look at Purdon's Statutes, the amendment was referred to in 1980, and the first one is: "Children whose parent or parents served in the armed forces during any war or armed conflict in which the United States has been, is now or may hereafter be engaged, or in any movement or campaign in connection therewith or resulting therefrom."

I said to him, "Sir, I want to read to you Purdon's Statutes."

Before I could even read Purdon's Statutes to him, he said, "You must realize this pamphlet is in law and Purdon's Statute is not."

I was shocked. I said, "You mean to tell me the Education Department has the right to overrule a statute of the Commonwealth without it being done by the Legislature?"

He said, "That is our policy and that is the law."

I think that is one of the problems we have in this whole issue. The Education Department has given misleading information and also they have come out and said, in effect, we do not need this school because it is too expensive. That to me has not yet been proven, and I think there are a lot of things that can be done. I think this school should be maintained, and the Education Department should come out with the correct information. I think it is misleading, and it is only an example of what is being done in an effort by the administration to get short-term money. I have no doubt in my mind somewhere down the line they will probably try to sell this.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I want to make it very clear that I am not, although I have now been characterized as Casey's guy, here to defend the Secretary of Education. I was equally upset with what I thought were at least misguided remarks, to be kind, when he testified before the committee. However, Mr. President, this resolution is very strong. On page 2, lines 9 and 10, it says "...the Senate vehemently oppose the closing of the Scotland School for Veterans' Children." Mr. President, I do not vehemently oppose the closing of that institution. If this resolution were going to ask a committee of the Senate to reasonably investigate what is going on there, if there is a dispute, is it $25,000, $27,000, $22,000, if we want to find out what the real number is, I would support that. If we want to assess who is entitled to these benefits and whether we should look at that, I would support that. Mr. President, but to back him and say that we vehemently oppose the closing of that school, even from the worst case scenario of the facts that we currently have before us, again I think is irresponsible. I would hope that the gentlemen who have spoken in favor of keeping that institution open are here with us sometime in June, July, August, September, whenever we do the budget—I have heard a number of different predictions—standing tall and lending their vote to taxes. I submit that they probably will not be, and again I repeat the admonition, if you want to keep this type of a pet project—and that is really what I characterize it as, pork barrel legislation—I am more than reasonable when it comes to doing a deal. In fact, if anything, I have been criticized heavily by editorial writers because I am too quick to do a deal to get things done, but do not come to me with pious dreams about a piece of pork barrel legislation. If you want your piece of pork, pay for it. As one of our Senators on our side of the aisle talked about whole hog sausage, in order to get a piece of that whole hog sausage you have to pay the price, and the price is tax votes.

Mr. President, this is a very costly piece of legislation, and as was said at those hearings, the Department of Education had already contacted the Valley Forge Military Academy which is willing to take 80 to 85 of these children to the Valley Forge Military Academy, the alma mater of General Schwarzkopf, certainly a prominent member of the military today, at a cost of $17,000 per student. Mr. President, I submit to you that we are doing a number of things at the same time by continuing this pork barrel piece of legislation. Number one, we are wasting money and, number two, we are denying the people who are entitled to a good education the right to get into some of our finest academies. I would be willing to send these children to Switzerland, to the finest private schools in the world, and we would save money. Now, granted, that would not keep alive that bureaucracy down there in Franklin County, I believe it is, where those people are making a living off our tax dollars. No question about it. Those jobs might go out the window. Private industry might be doing this better. That is usually a big Republican cry these days—privatization, privatization, privatization. Mr. President, I submit to you that we would be giving a good education to these children, a far better one than they are getting now at a lot less cost. But again I submit, if you want your pork barrel, I am realistic, I am reasonable. Make sure you are standing up here with us when we vote for taxes, specifically the Senator from the area. I know he is a fiscal conservative. I would hope that he would bend and I will give him his pork barrel any day of the week, but you have to pay the price to play the game.

So, Mr. President, in short, I am not here to defend the Secretary of Education for his performance in front of the committee, the same way, quite frankly, I am not here to defend the staff of the Committee on Appropriations of the Majority with their cockamamie grab, those of you who were there. I cannot defend that kind of nonsense either. What I am here to defend is reasonableness. Should we in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, should your taxpayers in your district be paying $27,000 per year to send to this institution the children of veterans or those people who are in the Army Reserve, regardless of their fiscal condition, regardless of whether or not they can afford to pay for this themselves? Should the people in your district be paying for that? I submit that if you went home and told them about it, they would not be that happy about it, and that is what you have to defend here, Mr. President. We are no longer defending the right and the important goal of giving orphans or indigent people who are connected with the military an education. What we have expanded this benefit to, in an effort to keep this school open to protect the jobs in that county, is anyone remotely connected with the military can send their child there for $27,000 a year on the taxpayers of Pennsylvania. I submit to you that is not a proper use of taxpayers' money. We should get back to those people who need these benefits and take care of them. Furthermore, if you really believe in this resolution's intent and say that the state urges the Secretary of Education to make known to veterans and veterans' organizations the availability of these opportunities, your costs are going to increase tenfold. It costs you $90 million a year to keep that place. We will probably have to have ten campuses. Maybe they will have to go in other Senators' districts. We will see a lot of people coming up for that pork barrel too. Again, I submit to you, if you want to pay the price for the whole hog sausage, I am willing to sell it, but you are not getting it for free.

Senator SCHWARTZ. Mr. President, I would like to say, first of all, there are constituents in my district who are parents of students in the Scotland School and I do want to say that I very much sympathize with them and with their feeling very strongly about keeping the Scotland School open. The fact is that they are seeking a quality education for their children and believe they have found it at the Scotland School. I would also like to say that I do plan on supporting House Bill No. 244 which calls for public hearings on this issue as well as others. I do believe we need to have what I would consider an appropriate public and legislative dialogue about schools like the Scotland School, facilities supported with public dollars like this. However, reading this resolution and looking at the words, I do agree with some of my colleagues that it is, in fact, irresponsible to state that we want to keep up and open this school no matter what, that we believe vehemently that it ought to only take children who are veterans' children, that it needs to revert back to an inflexible policy for admission criteria. My understanding, in contrast to the gentleman from Franklin, Senator Punt's, is that the school has been flexible and has, therefore, been able to move with the times and provide a good education to a wide variety of children. I think it would be irresponsible to support this resolution because it does not engage in either an adequate public or legislative dialogue on what really ought to be done about the Scotland School, and I, for one, will speak to keeping it open at a later date or at least keeping open the possibility through public hearings and the budgetary process, but this resolution is extreme in its intent and I think closes off that opportunity. I would actually encourage my colleagues to vote against this resolution.

Senator WILLIAMS. Mr. President, I rise to express my vehemence. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Fumo, seems to find something wrong with that as he began to get very vehement in opposition to this resolution. I think his vehemence sort of confused the issue somewhat. The Scotland School is proposed for elimination and those who support it, assuming it is a good solid thing, ought to be vehement. I do not know that the governess schools are just special schools for which we spend some millions of dollars, a sheltered market where only certain people can get in, but once proposing to close that, this is outright discrimination. I would assume that all those who are opposed to this discrimination against children of veterans, patriots of this country's sound program, ought to step up and be very vehement. This is not to be mixed up with pork barrel and sausage. This is a solid American and Pennsylvania stable tradition. The people from the districts in Philadelphia and all over this state come to tell you the stories about their children who cannot go to school because they go to war. I do not know whether it is $27,000 or $50,000 that we are giving Philadelphia and all these other places so children can be educated. That is what we are vehement about: the singling out and the discrimination of this program that has lasted for years. And you want to have some hearings?

Let us study this a little bit because he is vehement. Well, we ought to be vehement, I would suggest, and we ought to understand that to pick this out is the wrong thing to pick out because we are veterans. We fought for this country and our children should be able to go to school. Someone talked about who could afford it. I do not know anybody who can afford it, but so what? We run governess schools in this Commonwealth already. Do you mean the governess school has some special tract? Eliminate them. Have hearings on them. Let us have some sanity on this issue. The gentleman from Franklin, Senator Punt, is absolutely right. It is discrimination. Do a study next year. Why do a study all of a sudden?

Mr. President, I just want to state that those of us who support the continuation of this proud program are very vehement, and we suggest all you Americans and Pennsylvanians here ought to be vehement, and do not fall for that little trick about let us get into a pork barrel thing. We are talking about priorities. The Governor said it. The education priority is a successful program. That is very consistent, and so I urge us to support this resolution in the most vehement of terms.

Senator PUNT. Mr. President, for the life of me, some of the things that I have heard are very difficult to believe. I do not hear anyone saying that spending $30,000 to $35,000 a year to keep a child, a juvenile, in a YDC operation is too expensive and that is pork barrel. I do not hear anyone saying that to spend $43,000 a year to keep someone in a prison is pork barrel, but to spend $25,000 to $27,000 a year to take a child out of that environment and to give them an environment where there is love, care and education that when, in fact, they do grow up to adult age, they will be a productive, contributing member to our society, it is just mind boggling.

We have heard about the budget. You talk about pork barrel, here is a good pork barrel. If the school were going to close and it was not fulfilling its purpose, and it was so costly, why did the superintendent leave on December 28th? He retired as superintendent. But ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, he did not retire. He went off the payroll of Scotland School and went onto the payroll of the Department of Education until March 8th so he could have his ten-year vested pension. Now that is pork barrel, and that is a fact.

Now the numbers, the $27,000, the gentleman from York, Senator Bortner, asked for some information. Right here it is. You are welcome to it. It is laid out item by item that I went down to obtain. Of the appropriation of the $8.3 million, $6.4 million is geared toward the education and the living environment at Scotland School; $1.9 million in this fiscal year is for capital improvement projects. Excluding the capital improvement projects, it gives you a difference of $6.488 million, and that as an average cost is $18,433 a student. That is a fact.

With that, Mr. President, we are talking again about principle. I believe that these folks who have paid and given deserve such. If it is a question of principle and costs a little more, then do we not owe it?

I might close by adding that last week at the meeting of the Senate Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs I asked the Minority Chairman of the committee if he would like to hold a hearing on the issue of Scotland School, to go down to Scotland School and pay a visit, to review the operation there, and I have further requested the interim superintendent to submit to me areas of cost reduction and, at the same time, maintain efficiency in providing those services at Scotland School. That is in the works. But the issue at hand right now is that the Governor does not want to phase it out over a two-year period. The Department of Education is calling right now to place kids by the end of June so that next year the skeleton crew remains to phase it out and close down the entire operation. We have heard a cost about Valley Forge, yes. I have also had calls that they have contacted Milton Hershey School, and the Milton Hershey School costs are over $30,000 a year per child. So, if we are going to tell part of the story, let us say it all. I would ask of the Senate to support this resolution and at the same time, I commit to you that we will, the Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs, go down and we will do a thorough review of the operation of any waste, any inefficiencies and any Member of the Committee on Appropriations is by all means welcome to come along.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I know the debate is prolonged and all this and that, but I want to put into the record that the gentleman from Philadelphia who is vigorously opposing this resolution was one of the leading lights which resulted in Scotland School last year getting a 15 percent increase in their appropriation. I do not think Penn State got that much. I can understand where the honey pot is open, people like to dip their fingers in it. I am going to come right back to what I said during the hearing of the Committee on Appropriations, and I say it now. This school can be run at far less cost.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative and the resolution was adopted.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Fumo, will state it.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I just want to commend the Chair for having the foresight to at least take the roll again in the proper way. I have been in here in this Chamber when nobody said anything and it passed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I would like to insert these remarks into the record concerning the PERF bill.

The PRESIDENT. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

PERF Bond Issue

Just before the conclusion of Session last week I expressed my disappointment at the refusal of the Majority Party in this Chamber to consider a bill I sponsored at the request of the Governor to place a referendum question on the May primary ballot to authorize bond funding for state economic development programs.

As I stated last week, this refusal to consider the PERF proposal will leave the Commonwealth with only two undesirable alternatives. We can raise taxes an additional $150 million, a one-tenth of one percent increase in the PIT—a $16 increase for the average Pennsylvania taxpayer—or we can reduce state assistance for economic development initiatives.

If we choose the latter of these two alternatives it may be enlightening to my Republican colleagues to see what areas of the Commonwealth would be impacted most heavily. An analysis of Commerce program funding during the first four years of the Casey Administration reveals some interesting results.

I offer the following statistics: On a per capita basis the five counties that have benefited most from these programs include McKean, Clearfield, Luzerne, Cameron and Mercer.

Not much further down the list ranking number seven is Blair County, with Lycoming County number ten, Franklin County number 11 and Schuylkill County number 12. What do these rankings mean for the local communities? They represent hundreds of millions of dollars in financial assistance that have helped to create or retain thousands of jobs in their local communities.

In Blair County over $23 million has been provided, including more than $14 million from the PIDA program alone. For Altoona Fabricators, Inc., $2.2 million in state funds helped to create 75 new jobs. Besteel Industries received $924,000 from state programs, creating nearly 250 new jobs, while more than 500 existing jobs were saved at the F.L. Smithe Machine Company, Inc. with the help of state financing assistance.

Firms in Schuylkill County have received more than $21 million during the past four years. With help from PIDA and the Capital Loan Fund the Miller Group, Inc. was able to invest more than $500,000 in state funds to create nearly 200 new jobs and save more than 1,000. Gould Pumps, Inc. used nearly $7 million in PIDA and PEDFA funds to create 127 new jobs and retain another 287 full-time positions.

In Mercer County, the state's much publicized effort to help Sharon Steel used $2.3 million in state financing to create 200 new jobs and save over 2,000 jobs at this mill on the verge of permanent shutdown. But lesser known projects have also provided $2.5 million to Clairson International, creating 500 new jobs and $2 million to Trinity Industries, Inc. to create 325 new jobs.

In Franklin County small businesses have been especially successful at receiving state assistance. Capital loan funding there has totaled more than $2.4 million during the past four years.

Larger firms have also benefited. A Sunny Day loan was combined with BID and PIDA financing to create 180 new jobs and retain 171 more through assistance to Loewengart and Company, Inc. Meanwhile, $3.7 million in BID assistance to the Food Lion and Hills Department Store chains will create another 425 jobs in Franklin County.

I use these examples to illustrate my point that the money we provide for state economic development programs are investments in the communities and workers of this Commonwealth. Moreover, as the previously mentioned statistics suggest, investments have disproportionately fallen in Republican legislative districts.

The Casey budget proposal recommended the prudent use of bond funds, authorized in a public referendum, to fund our economic development programs until the economy rebounds. I again call on the Majority from across the aisle to act on Senate Bill No. 686 which currently remains in the Senate Committee on Appropriations.

This discussion is particularly fitting today, since economic development professionals from across the state are meeting this week out at the Marriott Hotel here in Harrisburg. This annual gathering of the members of the Pennsylvania Economic Development Association provides a perfect audience for Republicans to reaffirm their support for these programs.

Rather than the lip service that may be offered at PEDAF functions during the next two days, I challenge everyone in this Body to demonstrate their true support for continuing significant state funding for our economic development programs by acting on Senate Bill No. 686.

Without such action, in the face of necessary tax increases that we all privately agree will total more than $2 billion, it is highly unlikely that these programs could receive the level of support recommended by the Governor in his proposed 1991-92 budget.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, one clarification. When we voted for the chiropractic nomination, we at the desk had made a mistake on Senator Belan's vote. We voted him in the affirmative. He was on leave and we were advised that he should have been voted in the negative. We just want to spread those remarks across the record.

The PRESIDENT. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1991

SESSION OF 1991 175TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 17

SENATE

TUESDAY, April 2, 1991.

The Senate met at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend PAUL GYSON, Pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, Pittsburgh, offered the following prayer:

As we gather on this day, the day after April Fool's Day, within the history of the church yesterday was the Feast of Fools, the day that the altar boys became the Bishops and the Bishops became the altar boys. There was a reversal of positions within all of society.

You reconvene once again, having gathered here on March the 19th. You have been able to rub elbows with constituents, to have your ears bent to the phones, to be sensitive to the needs of others. We are also aware of Christ who was in flesh to become one of us, to serve as you are called upon to serve, and as you public servants begin this Session today, I invite you to put on the mind of Christ and join with me in this prayer that is attributed to St. Francis of Assisi.

Let us pray.

Lord, make us instruments of Your peace.

Where there is hatred, let us sow love;

Where there is injury, pardon;

Where there is discord, union;

Where there is doubt, faith;

Where there is despair, hope;

Where there is darkness, light;

Where there is sadness, joy.

Grant that we may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood as to understand; to be loved as to love. For it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks Reverend Gyson who is the guest this week of Senator Fisher.

LaVONNE GYSON PRESENTED TO SENATE

The PRESIDENT. I would point out that the pastor's lovely wife, LaVonne, is in the gallery. Would the pastor's wife please rise so we can welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania. Thank you for joining us.

(Applause.)

THIRD CONSIDERATION CALENDAR RESUMED

BILL ON THIRD CONSIDERATION AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 244 (Pr. No. 922) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177, No. 175), known as "The Administrative Code of 1929," requiring notice and public hearings prior to the closure, sale, lease or transfer of any State-owned institution.

Considered the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third consideration?

MOTION TO REVERT TO PRIOR PRINTER'S NUMBER

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I would move that we revert to prior Printer's No. 767 on House Bill No. 244.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Stewart moves that the Senate do revert to prior Printer's No. 767 on House Bill No. 244.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Senator CORMAN. Mr. President, I would oppose this motion to revert to prior Printer's No. 767. If we revert to prior Printer's No. 767, that means we put back into the bill the State General Hospital in Philipsburg, which happens to be located in my senatorial district. Philipsburg has been trying to disengage itself from being a state facility for some years. We fought that battle on this floor of the Senate approximately four years ago when we had an organization from Allegheny County called Forbes, which wanted to provide quality care service for the people in the Moshannon Valley, and we turned them down on a vote of, I believe it was 26 votes. We now have another opportunity and we have several very capable private providers who would like to lease that facility and run quality acute care for the people of the Moshannon Valley if we only give them an opportunity. I would urge, I would beg all of my colleagues to support the community which supports this idea of having the hospital being run by an organization that will consider the medical needs of the community and not have political decisions being made concerning that hospital as had happened over all the years of its existence. I would urge a negative vote on this proposal.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I would also support the gentleman from Centre, Senator Corman, in his efforts and ask for a negative vote on the motion to revert.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, my motion to revert, as stated by the gentleman from Centre, Senator Corman, does indeed restore Philipsburg to the same status in this legislation as all of the other state institutions and state hospitals. We have before, via resolution, asked that Philipsburg be treated the same as all of the other state hospitals that are in similar financial circumstances, and this reversion motion simply continues that theme in asking that this state hospital be treated the same as all of the others. I would ask for an affirmative vote.

LEGISLATIVE LEAVE

Senator FISHER. Mr. President, I would request a temporary Capitol leave for Senator Brightbill.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Fisher requests a temporary Capitol leave for Senator Brightbill. The Chair hears no objection. The leave will be granted.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Senator STEWART and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Afflerbach	Fattah	Mellow	Schwartz
Andrezeski	Fumo	Musto	Stapleton
Belan	Jones	O'Pake	Stewart
Bodack	LaValle	Porterfield	Stout
Bortner	Lewis	Scanlon	Williams
Dawida	Lincoln

NAYS—24

Armstrong	Greenleaf	Jubelirer	Rhoades
Baker	Greenwood	Lemmond	Salvatore
Bell	Hart	Loeper	Shaffer
Brightbill	Helfrick	Madigan	Shumaker
Corman	Holl	Pecora	Tilghman
Fisher	Hopper	Punt	Wenger

Less than a majority of the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative.

LEGISLATIVE LEAVES

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, Senator Hopper has been called from the floor and I would request a temporary Capitol leave on his behalf.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, Senator Lincoln has been called from the floor to his office. We would like to place him on temporary Capitol leave as well.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Loeper requests temporary Capitol leave for Senator Hopper and Senator Fumo requests temporary Capitol leave for Senator Lincoln. The Chair hears no objection. The leaves will be granted.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third consideration?

It was agreed to.

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, on House Bill No. 244, I think the record has to be clear in that there are many of us who feel that while this may be an emotional issue and something which no one wants to be for, i.e., closing hospitals and other facilities, the fact of the matter still remains that this current budget deficit is growing by the day and the other side of the aisle does nothing to help stem the flow of blood from that budget in red ink. In fact, just today in the Committee on Appropriations they probably added another $20 million or $30 million to the problem. Mr. President, at some point in time there has to be some reality. If we do not want to close facilities, if we do not want to make cuts in the budget, then we have to raise taxes. But I do not hear anyone clamoring at the microphone saying they want to raise taxes. We cannot have it both ways, Mr. President. This is not the United States Congress. Here one and one still has to equal two and, like it or not, this is the year that simple arithmetic is going to come home to roost.

Mr. President, we cannot support, on this side of the aisle, House Bill No. 244 because, in addition to the budgetary problems that this would create, there are some basic constitutional principles involved, one of which is the role of the Executive Branch of government vis-a-vis the Legislative Branch of government. Mr. President, the enactment of House Bill No. 244 would put the Legislature in the management process of running government, a role which was never envisioned by our forefathers, and, quite frankly, I do not think it is a role we really want to be in, although today it is nice to be able to go home and tell our constituents we stood up to the Executive Branch and we are not going to let them close hospitals or schools or anything else. The reality is, Mr. President, that is simply not our role. I would urge a negative vote on House Bill No. 244 and, again, I would urge this Body and the other Body across the hall to start seriously considering this budget as if it were something that is real because, in fact, it is. We have to stop playing games. We have to stop being political in the process and we have to stop spending money because we do not have it to spend, Mr. President, and it is about time we started to realize that or else it is going to be a very long, hot summer for all of us. I, for one, and we on this side of the aisle do not want to participate in that kind of charade. We would rather that there be some sound logic to this process and some hard decisions made. We cannot avoid them forever, and I submit to you today that House Bill No. 244 might be a nice place to start dealing with the budget problems of the Commonwealth.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I would like to direct my remarks today directly to the content of House Bill No. 244, that I think if we were to take a look, Mr. President, over the years, we have seen that most of our state-run institutions have been affected by changes in state policy. Some of those institutions have been converted to other uses, but they still remained under state control. I think we have seen in other cases that those institutions have been transferred through an orderly process to private operators and I think these efforts have not been shaded by particular partisan political concerns. There were actually occasions that we have worked jointly on together in order to make that orderly transition. For example, a conversion in the district of the gentleman from Blair, Senator Jubelirer, took place during the Shapp Administration. A transfer in the district of the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, took place during the Thornburgh years, and I think there are other worthy examples we could cite to follow the same type of transition that has taken place over the years. I think though, Mr. President, it is well to note, however, Legislators from both sides of the aisle have rallied to preserve institutions that were prematurely or unwisely targeted for closure by various previous administrations. I think this history is very important that we lay out on the record today when we are considering House Bill No. 244, particularly because if this was followed in this particular case, these procedures that traditionally have been followed, it would not be necessary that we have legislation like that contained in this bill before us today. It seems to me, however, Mr. President, that the effort by the Governor to abruptly close four state general hospitals as well as the Scotland School for Veterans' Children changes the pattern that we have just talked about. It was not announced as a well-considered change in state policy, and there was no apparent effort to arrange for any kind of an orderly transition in those closings. There was no consultation with either the affected communities or with their representatives and, rather, these seem to be budget bombshells that were dropped as part of an act of fiscal desperation. The General Assembly participated in the creation of these facilities and the growth of state support for their efforts, and it certainly seems to be proper that we have a say in their final fate, and I would ask for an affirmative vote on the bill.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Senator STEWART. I would like to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27

Afflerbach	Greenleaf	Loeper	Schwartz
Armstrong	Hart	Madigan	Shaffer
Baker	Helfrick	O'Pake	Shumaker

A constitutional majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Secretary of the Senate return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which concurrence of the House is requested.

BILL ON THIRD CONSIDERATION, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

SB 444 (Pr. No. 715) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

An Act amending the act of October 15, 1980 (P. L. 950, No. 164), entitled "Commonwealth Attorneys Act," classifying the State System of Higher Education, the State Employees' Retirement System and the Public School Employees' Retirement System as independent agencies entitled to appoint and fix the compensation of legal counsel.

Considered the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 444, which is before us, creates an office of independent counsel specifically for the State System of Higher Education. As I had mentioned in the Committee on Education when we were considering this legislation, the state system was created essentially to keep some independence from the Executive Branch of government and particularly so the 14 state schools, or now universities, could have more control over their own destiny. Certainly, the lady from Northampton, Senator Reibman, who was a champion of this idea for many years—it just happened to be that my name was on the bill as it went all the way through the system in 1982—created this system, and the system has functioned very well in that period of time, and through the Board of Governors and also the independent counsel at the 14 state universities, the system has functioned extremely well. Unfortunately, we have now faced the first of a series of problems with the system and that is, Mr. President, the Board of Governors' current reliance on the Office of General Counsel, and it seems to me that to have the Office of General Counsel render legal opinions to the state system of the Board of Governors compromises their independence, particularly in this case when the administration is intent on forcing the schools to act against their own best interests and the interests of the students that each one of those 14 universities serve. The schools do not have much chance of winning disputes when they have to count on the prosecutor for their defense. I think, Mr. President, that the independent counsel ensures that this system has an independent line of defense against the general incursions from the Office of General Counsel. I think, particularly, as we view the current situation we are in, that we have seen the repeated pressure of the administration that it has applied to the two retirement boards as well on budget and policy issues, and it also makes it imperative that these boards would have independent counsel as well. I think if we were to see if the State Tax Equalization Board or the Historical Museum Commission are entitled to independent counsel, and they are under the Commonwealth Attorneys Act, then certainly the retirement boards and the SSHE system should be entitled to the very same type of independent counsel that those agencies enjoy at this time. It seems to me, Mr. President, that the independent counsel is a small investment in substantial protection of the educational missions that we are looking for among our 14 state universities and certainly the fund integrity that we have seen in each of those retirement systems, both the State Employees' Retirement System as well as the State School Employees' Retirement System.

You know, Mr. President, with the bottom line really this year—and we have heard the gentleman from Philadelphia, the Minority Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, talk about the budget and deficits—I think it is important to note that the retirement systems and the State System of Higher Education were not created to be super money access machines, and that seems to be how the Office of General Counsel and the administration view each one of these boards, and also the State System of Higher Education. They simply go when they are short on cash, call in the cash from the machines of either the retirement system or the state system but at the expense of many people throughout this state, and I would ask for an affirmative vote on the bill.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I do not know why the gentleman wants to make these three agencies different from every other independent agency. The law is clear in 71 Purdon's, Section 732-401, that each independent agency may appoint counsel. But, yet, all of a sudden in this bill we will not even give these three agencies the right to pick whether or not they want to appoint their counsel or not. We are mandating it.

Mr. President, I take issue with the gentleman as to the motivations of the front office. In fact, with regard to at least one of these agencies, I think much rumor has been going around the Capitol for a number of years about increasing pensions, and I think it has been the Governor's Office and the Governor's counsel that has kept a lid on that. I have heard much discussion that if one of these boards can get control of counsel, they can issue legal opinions that would fatten the pensions of many Members of the General Assembly. Mr. President, I think that as independent as these boards may be, we should not play around with it this way. I think that we have been served well by having the Governor's General Counsel provide legal advice to these boards. It has kept some rationality to the process, rather than letting everyone into the cookie jar who wants to get into it.

Mr. President, I would urge a "no" vote on this so as to save the Governor the trouble of having to veto the bill if it ever got to his desk anyway. This is pie in the sky and while it looks very nice on paper, let us have this independent agency really be independent. We really ought to ask the question, why, all of a sudden, when pensions are an issue among Members of the General Assembly, do we need independent counsel at some of these boards. Mr. President, I think the answer speaks for itself, and the General Counsel of the Governor's Office, while we may not like it, has certainly kept the lid on some of the grabs that some people would like to pull off.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, why do we raise this question? I am glad this gentleman from Philadelphia asked that because I never in my time up here, and I have been here quite a while, have heard of raids upon the schoolteachers school employees' pension fund or the public employees' pension fund until this year, and I am talking about the decision of the school employees' pension fund to lend money to the City of Philadelphia. I think that was this year, was it not? I have just been reading in the papers during the last two weeks that the Governor wants to lower the contribution to the schoolteachers school employees' pension fund. Was it from 18 percent to 14 percent? And the counsel apparently feels this is adequate.

I do not know about others in this room, but the public employees' pension fund is sacred to those of us who have money invested in it, and I want to have a pension fund with its own lawyer, not one who can be hired and fired at the mere political whim of the Governor, and I will speak for the retired school employees. They do not want anybody diddling with their pension fund either.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I think it would be inappropriate if I did not respond to the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia as to the intent of this particular legislation. I think, Mr. President, for the gentleman to characterize it as a smoke screen for a pension grab is just simply ludicrous. Mr. President, we are talking about our Commonwealth university students, the tuitions those students have to pay across this Commonwealth. I think we are talking about the increase of tuition, that we are saying with the Governor's grab out of the state system this year, is going to cost each student at least an additional $600.00 per student next year. We are talking about a board that needs to be independent, that needs to keep the resources that are allocated to them by this General Assembly. And particularly, Mr. President, if we are concerned about a pension grab, I think that certainly the Governor himself, who will have 20 years in that system at the end of this term, would be the person to benefit from such a grab, and I do not think it is in the best interest of the General Assembly or the people of Pennsylvania, and I would ask for a "yes" vote on the legislation.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, in response, the Governor's pension is fixed, and it is with many of us, and I recognize the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Bell, is not in this problem. He already has the fat pension system going for him, but there are a lot of younger people a little bit upset about that, and what I have heard is that this is one way to solve that problem. Fortunately, or maybe unfortunately, we have not been here as long as Senator Bell.

Mr. President, also to straighten the issue with regard to PSERS and the loan to the City of Philadelphia, I happen to sit as the Democratic caucus appointee to PSERS, without a vote I might add. We do not have legislative votes there. That is probably the best deal PSERS ever got, 27 percent interest,

Mr. President, with a very safe investment. I do not know where they could have gotten that return anywhere in the country.

Furthermore, as far as the counsel, Senator Bell ought to be advised that it is not the counsel who has said that a reduction in the pension contribution from 18 percent to whatever it is supposed to be is okay. It is the independent actuaries who rule on those issues, not counsel. I submit to you that the money is safe there and it has been very safe under this administration. I also want to know why the Republicans were not out making these same arguments when Governor Thornburgh demanded that the Governor's counsel be at those two boards. But now that we have a Democratic Governor, our whole perspective changed. Not only do Republicans spend like there is no tomorrow, but now they want to grab back all the things that Dick Thornburgh told them they had to do. Mr. President, you have to have some consistency in life, although I do not expect much in this Chamber, but at least a little bit. Let us be honest about it, Mr. President, this is a power grab in its rawest form. And as far as the State System of Higher Education, the lawyer being the difference as to whether or not tuitions go up, nothing could be further from the truth. That will be determined by how much money this General Assembly wants to give them to run that system. Again, I come back to the hard, cold facts for my colleagues on the other side of the aisle. That will be determined by how much taxes we increase. There is no manna falling from heaven. One and one is two and if we decide we want to raise taxes even more to give a totally free education, this is certainly our prerogative, but counsel has nothing to do with that. It is our appropriation power, and as much as the other side of the aisle likes to continue to make the deficit worse than it is, they cannot do it without tax votes and, certainly, the counsel to that board has nothing to do with tuition increases. Those tuitions will be increased if this General Assembly, Republicans included, do not give more money to that system. That is the simple fact of the matter. And also we cannot give more money to that system unless we are prepared to vote for taxes over and above what the Governor has suggested. Reality has set in, and I enjoy saying it every day. We are going to have to step up to the plate sooner or later. Let us start now and stop the silly nonsense and worry about realities. The lawyer for that board is not going to determine the financial situations of any of these institutions, but the lawyer for that board can write some very favorable opinions that affect our pensions, and we have to hold the line somewhere, Mr. President. I urge a "no" vote.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I want to remind the gentleman from Philadelphia that I have been here a long time but my feet are not in the grave yet.

Back in Governor Shapp's time we had a Secretary of the Commonwealth by the name of C. DeLores Tucker, and she was on the retirement boards. She came up with a grandiose idea that would take all of the flow of the money out of the pension boards, the funds, and invest it in inner city mortgages. I told her that each and every one of you on the pension board are fiduciaries, and you owe the duty of a fiduciary as to the investments. What happens? Again, I am glad to hear that it is the actuary who determines how much money has to go into the school pension fund. I think you ought to tell Secretary Carroll that, because publicly he said he is in favor of the raid of Governor Casey on the pension fund. Who advises a board as to whether there is a breach of fiduciary duty? It is the lawyer for the board.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, finally, I would just like to respond to the gentleman from Philadelphia once again. The gentleman has his facts wrong as far as the state system board is concerned, that it was this General Assembly that made an appropriation to that system in order to operate that system and its 14 state universities for the current fiscal year. It was the Governor who then came and told that board that they had to reduce that appropriation by 3.5 percent. In the same action, the Governor also withheld every bit of tuition challenge grant money from the Department of Education to the state system and that, Mr. President, is what is going to force a tuition increase. It is not what the General Assembly appropriated for those institutions. It is what the Governor has taken away, and that ruling was upheld by the counsel to the state system board which was the opinion of the Office of General Counsel and the Governor's Office, and that, certainly, Mr. President, represents a conflict in independence and one that is going to cost our students in the state system dearly in the year to come.

In the Senate, April 2, 1991.

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Directing the Local Government Commission to organize a task force to codify the statutes relating to real property assessments.

WHEREAS, The real property assessment laws are currently scattered throughout numerous laws that create a patchwork of assessment requirements and guidelines; and

WHEREAS, Many provisions of the act of May 22, 1933 (P.L.853, No.155), known as The General County Assessment Law, have become obsolete because the separate laws applicable to different classes of counties and third class cities take precedence; and

WHEREAS, Real property taxes are based upon real property assessments; and

WHEREAS, It is important that real property assessments be as accurate and uniform as possible to ensure that real property taxes are fairly applied; and

WHEREAS, The present real property assessment laws create confusion and contradictions in an area that is already complicated; and

WHEREAS, The consolidation of Pennsylvania's statutory law begun in 1970 would be furthered by the inclusion of a codification of the real property assessment laws; therefore be it

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly direct the Local Government Commission to organize a task force to codify the laws relating to real property assessments and modernize their format as a part of the consolidated statutes; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Local Government Commission report its findings and recommendations, along with appropriate legislation, to the General Assembly by November 1, 1991.

WHEREAS, The people of this Commonwealth should remain eternally vigilant against all tyranny and should recognize that bigotry provides a breeding ground for tyranny to flourish; and

WHEREAS, The Pennsylvania Department of Education in 1990 published "The Holocaust—A Guide for Pennsylvania Teachers," in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Jewish Coalition; and

WHEREAS, Publications of this type are useful and important tools to educate our teachers and their students in eliminating the prejudice and bigotry which leads to discrimination, persecution and, ultimately, to genocide; and

WHEREAS, April 11, 1991, has been designated internationally as a Day of Remembrance of Victims of the Nazi Holocaust, known as Yom Hashoah; and

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President, yesterday the people of Pennsylvania suffered a serious setback. By virtue of Judge Craig's ruling on the challenges to judicial reform, the public will now not have the chance to vote on the question in the Primary Election of this year. Changes in judicial discipline, involving lay people and opening up the process, in financial disclosure requirements, in funding accountability, the issues that constitute what is rightfully called judicial reform, are now effectively delayed at least two years. The delay and the nature of the challenges will only, to our regret, further erode public confidence in the system.

There is an overwhelming sense of disappointment, Mr. President, especially for the many who have toiled in the fields for over a decade, for while the public interest is often talked about, the proposed constitutional amendment was clearly directed to the public interest. It would be one thing to lose on the merits, Mr. President, but this did not even reach the merits.

The most tragic aspect of the situation is the reason why judicial reform will not appear on the ballot. Although Judge Craig did object to what he termed an improper delegation of authority on determining the time of the election, that was not the central problem. In fact, since similar language has been used in proposed constitutional amendments through the years, at least 15 years, the same language, Mr. President, the case can be made there was no real defect in legislative consideration. But what derailed judicial reform is the incomprehensible ineptness with which the Department of State fumbled what should have been their utmost responsibility. How could they so badly handle the required advertising, not once, but twice? Certainly not for lack of practice, for they had to advertise Governor Casey's local tax plan in previous Sessions. Why would the Budget Office jeopardize such a consequential matter by not paying bills? Why was the administration not working to make certain the matter was handled properly? The Governor has to answer to the people for these questions, Mr. President.

Mr. President, this is not just a partisan observation. If you review accounts of the hearings, the testimony by department officials is absolutely appalling. Some might describe such details as technicalities, but they were large enough to kill judicial reform this year. A great opportunity was lost, and the people pay the price.

The final chapter has not yet been written on either story. We will be back on judicial reform, for it is a compelling good government issue. The public deserves to voice their opinions as to whether these provisions should be embodied in our State Constitution, as we believe they should, and I would certainly hope the administration would not be satisfied that they gave it the good old college try. There is no margin for error on constitutional amendments. Even if close counted, they did not come close. That is not acceptable to the public, which expects state government to perform properly. It is not acceptable to us as Legislators, who have seen a major reform effort undone by bureaucratic bungling.

LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1991

SESSION OF 1991 175TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 18

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, April 3, 1991.

The Senate met at 11:00 a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend PAUL GYSON, Pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, Pittsburgh, offered the following prayer:

In the Rotunda of the Capitol stands a painting of Lady Justice. Her eyes are blindfolded. In one hand she holds the scales, in the other a sword. Words around her state that, "Justice is the end of government." In the Seventh Century B.C. a prophet by the name of Amos, speaking to Israel said, "...let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an everflowing stream."

Another prophet in the Twentieth Century worked for justice. We gather today on the eve of his assassination, the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., one who sought to unmask blind justice and to work for justice within our country and world.

Let us gather then in prayer.

O God, as we gather this day we pray for an outpouring of Your Spirit upon each one here gathered that enlightened they may work for justice. Bless all those who make, administer and judge the laws so that we may as a Commonwealth, as well as a nation, continue to let justice roll down like waters. Grant each one gathered here this day joy in Your service and blessings upon each one of their ministries, and we pray this in Your most holy name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding Session of April 2, 1991.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding Session, when, on motion of Senator FISHER, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

As the report reflects, we are committed to carrying out the Act's enforcement requirements and to ensuring that problems incurred by seasonal farm workers are properly and fairly resolved.

If you have any questions about the Seasonal Farm Labor Report or if you would like more information about Pennsylvania's Seasonal Farm Labor Act, please let me know, or contact Helen Friedman, Director of the Bureau of Labor Standards at 717-787-4670.

No. 19

SENATE

MONDAY, April 8, 1991.

The Senate met at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (Robert C. Jubelirer) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend ROBERT M. FRANCO, Pastor of the Church of St. Cyril of Alexandria, Pittsburgh, offered the following prayer:

Heavenly Father, as we come together in mourning the loss of Senator Heinz and Senator Tower, we realize the implication of Your importance in our life. To be a leader in these difficult days is not secure. The problems are many, the solutions are difficult and painful. The appreciation for our efforts is scant indeed. Give us the courage to go on, to do the difficult, to seek after truth and justice. Let expedience never be our dominant trait, but let the good guide us. Teach us that duty, honor and integrity are not words but are the very fabric of public life. Without them, no pride or praise will ever fill these halls. Let what we do here bring happiness and security to Your people and glory to Your name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair thanks Reverend Franco who is the guest this day of Senator Scanlon.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, we oppose this bill, and I think there is a little bit of misunderstanding about this. We have tried to tell our counterparts on the other side of the aisle, but there seems to be no real desire to face up to the truth. The argument that has been coming from the Majority is that we should not be spending capital money, i.e., long-term money, to pay for operating salaries. Mr. President, in most instances I would agree with that philosophy, except for the fact that the salaries they are paying here are salaries that are directly related to long-term projects. These are the people who are, in fact, going to inspect the projects and make sure that they get built. It is quite analogous, Mr. President, to taking out a 30-year mortgage on a house that you are going to build and some of the money from that 30-year mortgage is going to the general contractor for his operating expenses in his day-to-day living. Those salaries are, in fact, allocated to capital projects and, therefore, should be paid for out of the proceeds of bond issues.

I recognize the game of the Majority. They have been continually, and I add, continually very relentless in their drive to make this budget even more unbalanced than it is, and this is just another tactic to do that. Mr. President, all these games-playing exercises are going to come back to haunt us some day when we have to step up to the reality of this budget deficit and fund it. Now there is absolutely no real basis, in fact, for their claims concerning this legislation, and I would urge this Chamber to reject this bill and let us get back to reality and start really trying to solve the budget crisis rather than making it worse.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, unlike the previous speaker, the games playing is not quite as clear to me. I have a more mundane type question. I would ask to interrogate the Majority Leader or the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, or someone on that side of the aisle.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, permit himself to be interrogated? Senator LOEPER. I will, Mr. President.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, if I have a flood control project, for instance, in my district that is a capital budget item and it is funded from the capital budget, are the contractor and the engineer and all of the people necessary to bring that project to actual construction currently paid out of that particular capital bond item?

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, this bill would not prohibit the payment in a case like the gentleman had mentioned where it was, in fact, a state contract. However, what the bill would prohibit is the payment of regular services and salaries of Commonwealth employees.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, if DER engineers that project, currently are they paid out of the proceeds of the bond that was floated to fund that project?

Senator LOEPER. No, Mr. President. This was only effective to Department of General Services personnel and not Department of Environmental Resources.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, so even if this legislation were to become law, the DER engineers who worked on that particular project would still be paid out of the proceeds of the bond issue to fund that project. Is that what you are saying?

Senator LOEPER. No, that is not correct, Mr. President. The engineering services provided by the Department of Environmental Resources would be paid out of General Fund revenue, and that is the current practice.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, one more question. Would the gentleman clarify what he just said, that that is the current practice that they are paid for out of the General Fund?

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, that is correct that any services provided by DGS or DER by their departmental employees are paid out—excuse me, Mr. President, I am corrected that only in the case of DER, the Department of Environmental Resources, services of those employees are paid out of the General Fund budget, and that is current practice.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, again, it has been alluded to that there may be some politics involved due to the problems we are having with our budget, but I just see, having dealt with a great number of capital projects in my Senatorial district, some trouble down the road if this becomes law in what appears to me to be some sort of complete switch in how we do business with capital projects, and I would ask for a negative vote.

Senator TILGHMAN. Mr. President, I would like to speak on this bill for a minute and explain its genesis and what we are trying to do with this piece of legislation.

Years ago in Pennsylvania there was a thing called the General State Authority and it was the authority that did the building within the state. The General State Authority really got to a position where the abuses relative to the employment in the number of people in the General State Authority was done away with by the General Assembly. It was an authority where it was shifted from Democrat to Republican and back again and everybody was very fair, but the number of personnel who were being put against various projects in the General State Authority really got out of hand and the General Assembly did away with it.

This legislation is trying to correct the same problem that is now arising in Pennsylvania in the Capital Facilities Fund, and it is recognized as being bad government to put a lot of people on the payroll and against the bond issues that are not involved in the project. What happens today in this fund is if there is a bond issue, the bonds are sold and all the income from the various bonds—there might be ten of them—are put into one fund. The good faith and credit of the Commonwealth are the collateral behind the bonds. Now as things go, I have the payroll here of the various people who are put against these building projects, and I have no particular problem if there is an engineer who is actually working on the project, but we have clerk typists, we have accountants who have nothing to do with the project, we have a storeroom clerk and hundreds and hundreds of other people who have nothing to do with the project but their salaries are being paid by bonds. This came up during the hearing of the Committee on Appropriations and I wrote to Secretary Jannetta relative to this problem. He answered me on March 6th when I said to him, "What is the cost of an annual salary of $35,000 amortized over ten years or over 20 years, depending on what it would be?" This is the answer to the questions that many of you on the Committee on Appropriations know we asked, and they sent back the answers. We have confirmed that the current interest rate on capital bond funds is 6.8 percent. At that rate a $35,000 a year salary—that $35,000 is including 41 percent benefits—amortized over ten years is $48,000, and over 20 years it goes to $64,000. That is what we are paying for storeroom clerks in Pennsylvania when they run out of this bond, $65,000.

Above and beyond that, there was a meeting on June 28, 1990, after the budget of last year, in the office of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Fumo, and Secretary Hershock was there and Secretary Hershock gave his commitment that he would not again propose paying salaries out of the Capital Facilities Fund and benefit costs to the Department of General Services employees. Secretary Hershock promised that. In return for that commitment we said, okay, for 1990-91, that is to say this year, you may continue to do it and phase out, and for 1989-90 you may continue to do it retroactively.

He said, okay, let me do it through this year, if you will, and we will not do it again.

That meeting took place, as I told you, on June 28th. We are simply asking you to confirm what Secretary Hershock said when he admitted that it is a very bad policy. Now we are talking about a fund that is for building various projects in which all of us have an interest, and you might be interested to know how many dollars we are talking about that are paid out of that fund in salaries. In 1989-90 there was $7,322,000. Seven million dollars, that is a lot of people. In 1990-91 there was $7,254,000 and in 1991-92 the estimate would be $8,562,000.

Ladies and gentlemen, that is what we are trying to stop. Part of that may be perfectly appropriate. If I had copies I would send them to you, but I do not. If you would look at this listing of job classifications, the number of positions and the percent of time charged against the project—there are two pages—oddly enough, in every single case with a few exceptions, the percentage of time charged for hundreds of people is 60 percent. It is the same all the way down the list—60 percent. I would ask for your support of this legislation. The Secretary of the Budget realizes it is a bad policy and said, give me a chance to work out of this and we will stop doing it, and this legislation would back us up on that. I think it is good legislation and I think it will help the building projects. I do not know how much damage this would cause to the rest of the budget at this precarious time, but I ask for your support for this legislation.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, there are just a few areas of the remarks of the gentleman from Montgomery, Senator Tilghman, that I would like to address. First of all, the General State Authority, GSA, was created because at one time there was a million dollar cap on the amount of money under the Constitution that we could finance in this Commonwealth, and they needed an artificial vehicle to get around that cap. That is why GSA was created. Then we changed the Constitution and increased that debt limit to a much more reasonable number, and that is why GSA was sort of phased out and there was no longer any need for it. It continues in existence to pay off some of the bonds it had floated.

As to Secretary Hershock saying that this is bad policy, I never heard him say that, Mr. President. In fact, we maintained that this is good policy because, as I said before, while you can say they are operational, they are capital items, and the Secretary, when I spoke with him, never remembers giving a commitment to stop doing this practice and, quite frankly, I do not remember him ever doing it either, but we checked with him personally and he said he never gave such a commitment. More importantly, Mr. President, if, in fact, he did do that, why does the gentleman include this year's numbers in it as well? If he has an arrangement with the Secretary covering this year's budget, why is he then going back on his word and trying to stick it to him in the 1990-91 budget? Certainly, we on this side of the aisle intend to keep our budget commitments. We voted that way in the Committee on Appropriations today concerning the State Police, over the objections of the State Police, I might add, but we felt morally obliged to honor a commitment we had made to House Republicans and we stand by that.

Mr. President, I repeat again, this bill is bad public policy. If you have someone who is a clerk typist and someone who is an inspector who is working on a capital project, that time allocated to the work on that capital project is, in fact, capital time, and there is nothing wrong with paying for that out of bond proceeds for that project. Again, it is very similar to my building a house and taking a 30-year mortgage out and paying for it when I know full well that some of that money is going to the general contractor for his wages on a daily basis and he might even be paying his accountant out of that money. These are capital items. Therefore, they are entitled to be paid for with capital dollars. We know the games the other side is playing. We watched them play it even on the veterans bill, and we will get to that one later today or tomorrow, or whenever. Mr. President, this is just an attempt to make the budget crisis even worse. This year, according to the front office, it will cost at least $1.9 million for the remaining three months, and we are just not going to go along with it. Again, I must repeat, it is not good public policy if you have people working on capital projects to pay for them out of operational dollars.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I would just simply remind the gentleman in talking about budget agreements last year and living up to them, one area of concern we had raised during that budget process last year was the very financing of these salaries out of capital bond monies, and it was the gentleman from Montgomery, Senator Tilghman, at the table who expressed this concern and we had agreement that we would stop that practice in the coming years, and I think it is the obligation also of the Minority, Mr. President, to live up to their budget agreements.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I listened to the other side talk about the agreements it made during that budget process and how they should be honored. If that, in fact, is true, then why have they pumped out over $300 million in additional spending for this year? I would hope they would keep their word and not try to spend more money than they negotiated they were going to spend, but they do not want to hear about that. We will keep our commitments on this side of the aisle. We are famous for that, Mr. President. Obviously, if they made an agreement on the budget, they should not be playing around with it the way they are right now. Let the facts speak for themselves, Mr. President, as to who has been more honest in giving their word and keeping it.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I will be very brief. Apparently, some people met in a room and decided what is good for Pennsylvania. We are meeting here today to vote, the Senate of Pennsylvania, what is good for Pennsylvania.

Senator PETERSON. Mr. President, I just want to make one quick comment. It seems to me as you look at this issue where we now are charging departmental functions dealing with capital projects into the cost of the project, we are going to have a problem that maybe we have not thought about. We never have enough capital projects to serve the needs of this Commonwealth, whether it be educational capital projects or new prisons, or whatever. The more departmental labor costs that we include in the capital funding, the more we are going to limit the ability we have to build these needed facilities. It may help us in this budgetary crunch time to roll as many costs as we can into capital projects, but we have a very limited amount of capital money. Each time we roll costs that were normally department costs into those projects, that is one, two, three more projects down the road that we will not be able to build but may be very necessary to educating our young people or providing infrastructure to our communities, and I do not think that is good public policy and I think this bill is very appropriate for the long-term future of Pennsylvania.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, very briefly, what I am concerned about are not so much the budget problems and how this may fix it or not fix it. I am concerned, like the rest of you should be, that we have redevelopment authority directors and redevelopment authorities out there that handle a lot of these capital budget items—we have colleges, and I am not clear if my redevelopment authority director is asked to administer a project by General Services or DER, or whoever, if this is saying that he and his staff back home cannot charge off his administrative costs to handle that particular project from the proceeds of what funds the project or whether we are going to tell him that he has to wait for the General Fund to pay him for those administrative costs. I am afraid we are going to have redevelopment authorities just saying, thanks, but no thanks, because we do not know whether we are going to get our administrative costs covered. If I am wrong, I wish somebody would correct me. But I am worried not so much about the personnel here at General Services or state employees, I am worried about a lot of the people back home who administer these projects for the Commonwealth and expect an administrative fee for doing that. If this is going to mean we have to tell them, you build the project and we are going to pay for the cement and the mortar and the bricks and everything, but you are going to have to wait for a resolution of the General Fund before they get paid, a lot of them I am sure are just going to say, thanks, but no thanks for the project.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, just a final point of clarification to the gentleman's question is that this only deals with a change in the Administrative Code and only deals with the salaries of state employees in the state departments. It would not affect any contractual obligations on the part of any agency that has a contract with DGS as far as charging their administrative costs to that money.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—26

Baker	Hart	Madigan	Salvatore

In the Senate, April 9, 1991.

A RESOLUTION

Directing the Local Government Commission to undertake a codification of the statutes relating to real property assessments.

WHEREAS, The real property assessment laws are currently scattered throughout numerous laws that create a patchwork of assessment requirements and guidelines; and

WHEREAS, Many provisions of the act of May 22, 1933 (P.L.853, No.155), known as The General County Assessment Law, have become obsolete because the separate laws applicable to different classes of counties and third class cities take precedence; and

GUESTS OF SENATOR F. JOSEPH LOEPER PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I would like to introduce to the Members of the Senate today some visiting guests who are from Nigeria. They are visiting our Capitol and they are legislative clerks in Nigeria. They are here to obtain information on the administrative, financial and legislative procedures and activities of the Senate and the workings of our institutional offices. They have been with our Chief Clerk, Gary Crowell. The government of Nigeria is in the process of establishing both a national as well as state assemblies in its effort to formalize the creation of a federal system of government that is modeled after the system that we have here in the United States. We hope their experiences here will certainly prove beneficial to that endeavor. I would ask the Senate if it would extend a very warm welcome to Chief Clerk Crowell's guests.

The PRESIDENT. Would our distinguished visitors please rise so that we could welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

GUEST OF SENATOR ROBERT J. MELLOW PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, we also today have a young man who is with us as a guest page. He is a young fellow who is 12 years old and is in the sixth grade at Cumberland Valley Middle School. His name is John Martz. John Malady, who is Neil Malady's brother from our staff, serves as his big brother, and I would just ask if the Senate today would extend its cordial welcome to John Martz who is serving today as a guest page. John, would you stand.

The PRESIDENT. John, please stand so we could say hello to you and thank you for your help.

(Applause.)

GUESTS OF SENATOR ALLYSON Y. SCHWARTZ PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator SCHWARTZ. Mr. President, I would also like to ask my colleagues in the Senate to welcome two representatives from a hospital in the Fourth Senatorial District. They are from Roxborough Memorial Hospital. We have Christine Jackman, who is the Director of Public Relations, and Grace Heywood, Director of Volunteers, and they brought many of their colleagues from the hospitals across the state, I believe, who are visiting with us today, and I believe they are in the gallery. I ask you to offer them a warm welcome as well.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests of Senator Schwartz and, indeed, all of the representatives from the Hospital Association please rise so that we can welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

GUESTS OF SENATOR D. MICHAEL FISHER PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator FISHER. Mr. President, visiting us today in the gallery is the Bethel Park Gold Card Club, a senior group from my district. I would appreciate it if you would give them our usual warm Senate welcome.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests of Senator Fisher please rise so we can give you our usual warm welcome.

(Applause.)

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS BITUMINOUS COAL QUEEN PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator STOUT. Mr. President, it gives me great pleasure to introduce a special guest to the Senate today. For the past 37 years the King Coal Association of Carmichaels in Greene County has held a Coal Queen Pageant in conjunction with the King Coal Show. The purpose is to select a young lady to represent the bituminous coal industry of Pennsylvania.

The 1990 Coal Queen, Jonella Wozny, is from Carmichaels, Greene County, a resident of the 46th Senatorial District. Senator Lincoln and I are pleased to have Miss Wozny and her parents, Jane and John, with us today. Jonella is also accompanied by the Chairperson of the Coal Queen Pageant, a duty that she has performed for the last 14 years, Connie Shoaf. Also with the group from Greene County are Connie's husband, Frank, and a young man, Scott Groves, from Greene County who has escorted the queen at various functions.

At this time I would like those who are accompanying the queen to stand to be recognized. Would the family please stand. Give them a good Senate welcome.

(Applause.)

Senator STOUT. Mr. President, early this morning Jonella had an opportunity to meet with Governor Casey and discuss the importance of the coal industry in Pennsylvania and had a photo opportunity with the Governor. Later this morning she will be introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative DeWeese. At 12:30 p.m. today she will be honored at a luncheon in the House of Representatives Majority Caucus room, and this evening she will be the guest of honor at a dinner at Casa Rillo, hosted by the Pennsylvania King Coal Association. Miss Wozny is an outstanding senior at Carmichaels Area High School. She is a member of the National Honor Society, student council, Spanish club, senior committee, drama committee, campus life and chorus. In addition to her many school activities, she is also very active as a counselor in the CYF youth organization.

Mr. President, at this time I would ask that the Senate extend its usual warm welcome to Miss Jonella Wozny, 1990 Pennsylvania Coal Queen, and afford her an opportunity to address this Body.

The PRESIDENT. Would the Senate please join me in welcoming Miss Jonella Wozny, the 1990 Pennsylvania Coal Queen, and would you favor us with a few remarks.

(Applause.)

Miss WOZNY. Good morning, Mr. President and distinguished Members of the Senate and guests.

When I first began preparing this speech, I wondered what I could say to make it different from Coal Queen addresses you may have heard in the past. So I have decided to tell you about three things that I have not found enjoyable so far during my reign. I like to call them the three "H's"—hair-spray, humidity and high-heeled shoes. But there is one "H" that I have found to be quite rewarding, not only during my reign as Coal Queen but also throughout my entire life, humility. God did not save me to be a sensation. He saved me to be a servant. Becoming Coal Queen has provided me with many opportunities to bring cheer to the lives of others. I share the philosophy of E. A. Guest when he penned, I would live this life so well, strangers of me praise might tell. Somehow I would like to be cherished here in memory, not as one whose skill was great; or as one who mastered fate; not as one who rose to fame, and left behind a remembered name, but as one who met some need with a timely, kindly deed.

Helping others is a rewarding experience. Yet many people who really need assistance are often overlooked. The recent surge of patriotism in America following the Gulf War has been magnificent to experience. Now is the time to turn our sights upon the wars raging at home. We must focus on such atrocities as drug and alcohol abuse, homelessness, illiteracy and teenage pregnancy. We must set a moral example for the future of our country through our words and deeds. More jobs need to be created to deal with delinquency in juveniles. We must not only focus on the crimes committed by young people, but the circumstances which led to the lawbreaking. In Greene County alone, one probation officer is responsible for over 160 juveniles. There is no chance to discover the cause of crime under these circumstances. To correct the crime we must learn its cause. Jobs are required if we are to reduce crime among young people. We must also ensure the well-being of our future by taking steps to save our planet. Recycling and conservation should be foremost in our minds. Everyone thinks about conserving energy, but we need to be concerned about the very air that we breathe. Steps must be taken to reduce air, water and soil pollution if our children are to have a healthy planet. I have chosen to share these concerns with you because they are important to me, rather than bore you with a stale speech full of fake words. I hope I have encouraged you to continue thoughtful and careful policy-making. Your decisions affect us all.

Thank you for your time. I am having a wonderful day here in Harrisburg and I am learning a lot about the way our government works. Best wishes to all of you and God bless you.

(Applause.)

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 45, ADOPTED

Senator PECORA. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt Senate Resolution No. 45.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Senator PECORA. Mr. President, it is a great honor to be here today to speak on behalf of an individual who has been a close friend and a constituent of mine in my Senatorial district. John Heinz and I met many years ago in the 1970s when he was a candidate for Congress. When I sat down and discussed the reasons why he wanted to be a Congressman—and remember I grew up in the City of Pittsburgh in a poor community—it was difficult to understand a person of wealth being interested in representing the people of Pennsylvania and representing our country. But when he explained to me his concern for the poor people, the senior citizens, the needy and other persons, I was a little dubious at that time, trying to realize that here is a person who has everything. How can he be so concerned about the working people, the poor people and the senior citizens? But he made a believer out of me because when we won that election his first actions were to help these people who he explained to me he was interested in. Of course, he then sought the position of United States Senator and, again, we had meetings in Penn Hills. He explained his accomplishments, what he had accomplished for people whom he respected and was concerned about. He then became our United States Senator and he never changed. He still was available in our town hall meetings and he still was available to help the people who needed help. He was a great tribute to us politicians, as many people consider us, but he considered himself as I do, a servant of our constituents, not a politician. When you are elected to office you are elected to serve, and it was a great honor to meet someone who had so much wealth and so many things to live for and had, really, no reason to be a politician because he was financially able to just enjoy life. But John Heinz became a symbol—a younger person than I—to me of respect because what he said he did, and Pennsylvania's loss of our U.S. Senator John Heinz was a loss for all the people because he was such a credit to our Commonwealth. Today I can only say, God bless John Heinz and may God watch over his family.

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, I would like to begin by offering my condolences to the Heinz family on this sudden and terrible loss. I also would like to speak about my relationship with Senator Heinz and, being of a different registration, it became a little bit awkward at times dealing with it, as we do have our friendships here. But I can remember back in 1977, in February, we had 20 straight days of sub-zero weather in western Pennsylvania, and my particular Senate district was very badly affected by that. The rivers froze. We were unable to move coal barges. We were unable to bring in oil and we had a very short supply of natural gas. We had people who were actually delivering kerosene in little five gallon cans, and the only person on a state level or federal level who responded to the pleas of an awful lot of public officials in my county at that time was John Heinz. Not only did he respond just by listening to us, he came into the district and within 48 hours had 8,000-gallon tank trucks coming into Fayette County from someplace in New Jersey, met with Anchor Hocking Glass, which is a major employer in my county, and got them back in operation because it was an energy problem for them. I was a very young House Member at that time and he was just a very young beginning Senator, but I think he proved to me at that time, and continued to prove to me throughout his whole career, that you can be a statesman and a hands-on person at the same time, and I think that probably best describes my view of John Heinz. He was a statesman but he also put his hands on things and got them done. I think we lost a tremendous public official here in Pennsylvania, someone who had accrued a great deal of experience and had used that experience to some great extent to help everyone here in Pennsylvania. I think it is a loss that is going to take a while to recover from, and I am as saddened by that as I would be if he were the closest personal friend I have. I am sure that the family is probably going to take a long time getting over the really serious shock that came to them. I wish them well in that, and I hope that they get through these days as best they can. The memory of John Heinz will be one that will be there with his family and with all his friends and his constituents.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President, we have seen perhaps one of the great tragedies of our time. I remember very well the tragedy of 1963 when President Kennedy was suddenly taken from us through a violent act. I remember the tragedy of Treasurer Budd Dwyer who left through a very violent act. This tragedy is, perhaps, so great that we cannot possibly realize the impact of it right now. Truly the course of history has been changed. Truly a family has been left without a father, without a husband. The state and its constituents have been left without one of its greatest advocates and, perhaps, its most popular elected official in modern history. The country has been left without a spokesman for issues that were vitally important to this nation, to the elderly, to the environment, to people, to educators and those who believed that some of the most sensitive human service issues were clearly carried in the hands of John Heinz. To say I have lost a great personal friend is truly an understatement.

I was state chairman of the Young Republicans of Pennsylvania from 1972 to 1974. As the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Pecora, put it, Senator Heinz at that time was Congressman Heinz. I remember very well meeting him as a speaker at one of our Young Republican meetings and becoming involved in his U.S. Senate race in 1976, truly an experience when you sit with someone at 6:00 o'clock in the morning next to him after he just barely eked out a victory and screamed, "It is a landslide, it is a landslide, John, you have won," and see the recognition of his constituents, because at that time he carried 94 to 95 percent of Allegheny County to win that election and became Pennsylvania's United States Senator after the retirement of the person he worked for for a number of years, former Minority Leader Hugh Scott. To work with that person on a regular basis and see the tremendous growth of a human being who learned his craft, who certainly did not come into the Senate with the tremendous credentials, perhaps, but with the desire, as Senator Pecora said, to serve those most vulnerable, the very young and the elderly, those who were least able to fend for themselves.

Yes, he was a man of wealth. He was a man of position. He could have done anything he wanted in this world. He had a beautiful family, a supporting wife who certainly was and is an outspoken individual in her own right. One can only remember her support of George McGovern in 1972 and John Heinz supporting President Nixon at that time, but recognizing that Teresa Heinz had every right to speak for herself and take the important issues of the day and be just as outspoken.

One never knows what will happen tomorrow. Nobody has a contract with God. Fate steps in and plays a role and we all recognize our own mortality. John Heinz never got a chance to know that his time was up. I think, as one looks back on history, in those short 52 years John Heinz has probably accomplished more than any of us could ever hope to expect to accomplish in a lifetime. He will never die on the face of the elderly, on that senior citizen who has benefited because John Heinz was there for him or her. I can remember not too many years ago in a snowstorm in the City of Altoona, the city he was in the day before his tragic death, where he was snowed in and he could have easily gone to a hotel and gotten away from the constituents he was meeting with at a town meeting at a senior citizens center, but instead he propped his feet up and spent the time with those senior citizens, talked to them at length and just worked to relax and enjoy himself with the people he loved the most, those people who he called his constituents. Whether it was a town meeting, whether it was a political dinner, whether it was a call from his colleagues in Washington, it did not matter. He was a tireless worker. He was not a member of the club, though. He was independent, perhaps too independent for some other members of the club. He did what he thought was right and he did it for his constituents in Pennsylvania, and he never lost sight that he was a servant of the people, someone who had been served all his life and the opportunity, if one would say born with a silver spoon, was a true servant of the people.

Mr. President, the loss I feel today, the emptiness I feel, the shock I had—I was away when I learned of this terrible tragedy—I will never, ever get over. Life is for the living and we will all get on, but the void that John Heinz leaves to his family, to his constituents in Pennsylvania and to this nation will always be remembered. I know Teresa and the boys are very strong because they had two strong parents, and they will survive and they will move on with their lives. But how fortunate they were to have had a husband and father the likes of John Heinz, and how fortunate we have been, if only for a short period of time in the overall scheme of things, to have had John Heinz, first as a friend and as our senior Senator and somebody who cared so much about us. He will never be forgotten. He will always be that warm personality, that caring person, a guy who had a great sense of humor, who loved to tell jokes. He did not do very well at telling them but he laughed at himself when he did it, and he will always be remembered as a very, very special human being.

Mr. President, it is with a deep sense of sadness but a great privilege that I second this resolution.

Senator FATTAH. Mr. President, I just want to add to what has already been said. I remember Senator Heinz from his first campaign, as my dad worked on his campaign in Philadelphia and I wondered why. I remember John coming into Philadelphia and playing in an urban league tennis tournament, but more importantly I remember him as someone who, over the years, had always found a way to be supportive of a number of issues, that it was interesting, to say the least, that he would be concerned about—housing authorities in Philadelphia and Allegheny County and all across this country. Public housing authorities knew that they had one friend in the U.S. Senate, and that was John Heinz. For some reason he had a unique concern about affordable housing, and public housing in particular, and was authoring now the Heinz amendments to the National Housing Act so that in Philadelphia we could move families out of high rises. He was someone who would call you up and spend an hour or more on the phone walking through the intricate details of various public policy positions on programs. I remember a couple of weeks ago he invited me and my staff to Washington to meet with Secretary Kemp and to also have lunch in the Senate dining room. He was someone who, irrespective of party, irrespective of geography, was very, very concerned about a number of issues, and he worked very hard, which is unique in our business, I think, and really got into the nuts and bolts of how to make life better tomorrow than it is today.

I just wanted to add my few words to the record. It was Emerson who said that, a man who does not involve himself in the passion and action of his times risks being judged not to have lived. We all know that John Heinz lived and he still lives in the hearts and minds of many people who are not Republicans or from Allegheny County or from Pennsylvania. He was someone who did so much for so many, when others given his own circumstances would have opted to do something else, that I think it is important the record clearly shows that all of us in some way feel a loss in Senator Heinz's tragic accident.

Senator FISHER. Mr. President, I rise with a great sense of loss and a great deal of sadness over the tragic and untimely death of our good friend, Senator John Heinz.

My career in politics began at or about the same time that John's did, he at the federal level, myself at the state level, back in our home county of Allegheny County. I had the privilege and the great opportunity to serve with John during most of the past two decades and to have been able, over that period of time, to develop what I believe was a great friendship. We did not see one another a lot. We did not consult with one another a lot, but I think we both knew that each other was there. We had a number of good times together. Our paths crossed a tremendous number of times, particularly back in our home county, and for me, five years ago when I was crisscrossing the state, I ran into John in many places when he was there on my behalf.

John Heinz meant a tremendous amount to, I know, all the people of Pennsylvania, but he was even more significant to the people of our county. He represented Allegheny County first in the 18th Congressional District and then as the Senator from Allegheny County during a period of time when our county and all of southwestern Pennsylvania were particularly hard hit. The people in our home county realized that they always had a friend in Washington, a friend who was helping certainly the entire state, but a friend who particularly knew what the problems were in southwestern Pennsylvania and knew what the problems were in Allegheny County because he lived through them. He was part of them. He came from a different social strata than most, but yet, as Senator Pecora and others have said, he cared so much about the poor, the elderly, the sick, the infirm. He cared about such issues as housing, and he cared about the very problems which the people who elected us really expect us to deal with and to deal with in a responsible fashion. Certainly the people of our region recognized the great job he did time in and time out. In fact, although many have said and many recognize how easily and how heavily he carried not only the state and Allegheny County as a Republican, he is the only Republican in modern history to carry the City of Pittsburgh, the only Republican in modern history. Not even Dwight Eisenhower at the height of his prime carried the City of Pittsburgh, but John Heinz did in at least his last two Senate races.

Many here today and other places talked about his attributes and his skills. He was a person who certainly did a lot. He had a wide range of activities. I had the opportunity to be with him just, I believe, twelve days before he died. We chatted at our Republican dinner in Allegheny County and, as he typically did, in his typical style, I think what made everyone who knew him remember him so fondly was, he was always interested in what you were doing. He was always interested in what other people were doing and he was never too important for anyone who not only needed him, but wanted to talk to him. He spent a considerable amount of time in public gatherings talking as he talked with me, as he talked with my wife and as he inquired just twelve days before he died and asked me about a number of political issues that were pending in our county and inquired as to how we were doing here in Harrisburg and wanted to know some of the ins and outs of what was going on.

Many people who saw him in that intervening two weeks or twelve days said that in their memory of John Heinz they never saw him more cheerful. In fact, one of the people who did a television show with me last Friday on a program which I really have to give WTAE a lot of credit for putting on, Pittsburgh Talking, A Tribute to John Heinz, one of his tennis partners, David O'Laughlin, said that in his opinion John Heinz died at a time when he was at the top of his game in life. John was a person who cared about people. He cared about his job. He worked at it. I was always amazed, and I did not attend all of his public meetings, but I always remember one time I was attending a public meeting in Carnegie, which is in my Senatorial District. John was there one night in the middle of summer. It was about 85 degrees in a hot room on the second floor of the library and he was there taking a lot of flak from people about some particular issue, and I sat in the back of the room, as I was not the target of their wrath but he was, and I shook my head to myself saying how marvelous it was that this man was there at a time when he did not need to be there. He could have been back in Washington or his home, and we all knew that he would have won by the same resounding majority that he won by. But he enjoyed that and he realized that it was part of his role as a Senator, and he did that up to the time that he died. When you look at where he was last week, a week when many of his colleagues may have been on vacation, may have been in Washington, he was back in his home state. He was touring the state on his way to, I believe, one of those town meetings in Delaware County because he enjoyed his work. He wanted to help the people. He wanted to know what the people were feeling and he was there working to the very end.

On that show that I referred to, the host asked us as a last question to all the panelists who were on, "How will you remember John Heinz?" I would like to give the same answer that I gave at that time. I said the night before, the night that John died, I called my son since just two months before we were at Congressman Santorum's swearing-in in Washington and John spent about five minutes talking to my son and my daughter. When I told my son about Senator Heinz's death, whether he knew it or not, his reaction was, "Dad, he was a good man, wasn't he?" That is how I will remember John Heinz. He was a good man.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I would be remiss if I did not, for the record, offer condolences on behalf of many of my constituents and myself who experienced the devastation of the 1977 Johnstown flood. I too was a freshman that year in the House of Representatives as John Heinz was a freshman that year in 1977 in the United States Senate, and I remember him showing up on the scene that morning. We were introduced—I had not met him before—and there was a great deal of confusion and devastation and we discussed about how each of us were freshmen and brand new at this. John Heinz, I recall, said to me, "I am not sure exactly what we are supposed to do here but, by God, we are going to do something." It was not long after that that the area was declared a federal national disaster area. Not long after that several tractor-trailer loads full of baby food showed up, and I saw Senator Heinz later in the recovery and I congratulated him for being, even though a freshman in the United States Senate, powerful enough to get a federal disaster declaration. He said, "No, no, no, Bill, the disaster declaration was Dick Schweiker, Jack Murtha and Jimmy Carter. The baby food was mine." That is the kind of pragmatic person John Heinz was to us, and I think the people who he helped in my district during that terrible tragedy would certainly want to offer condolences to his family.

Senator HART. Mr. President, I feel compelled as do many of my colleagues here today to speak our condolences to the Heinz family and also because he touched our lives in so many ways. As one who was born and raised in the Pittsburgh area, I became acutely aware of John Heinz at the tender age of nine. Up until then the only thing that I associated with the name Heinz was the corporation that made ketchup. At that point when I began to read the newspapers and began to become aware of the political scene, John Heinz was one of the first politicians who really struck a chord with me, and over the next twenty years he meant so much more to the people of his state than his family's business could ever have meant. He was an inspiration to me even before I got to know him personally, and he will remain an inspiration to me for the rest of my life. Here was a man who could very well have lived a life of leisure and simply enjoyed his tremendous wealth, but he knew that because God had so blessed him that he should utilize those talents that were given to him to help those less fortunate than he. As we all know, that he did. For the elderly, the unemployed, especially in the Pittsburgh area when the steel industry began to fail and most recently, as I witnessed, for the families of our forces in the Persian Gulf, and for countless others, John Heinz worked tirelessly. He was a strong voice for the kind of caring and compassionate society that all of us truly want. He made everyone who met him feel like their problem was the most important in the world to him, and it was important to him. That is why he took the time to listen and to understand. While many political figures spend much of their time tearing things down, John Heinz built a strong record of achievement. Above all, in a time when too many of us in politics are followers, John Heinz was a leader. On a personal level, John Heinz was much more than an accomplished U.S. Senator. He was a friend who inspired me to enter public service, as he inspired so many young Pennsylvanians. He encouraged me when I began my campaign for the Senate, and he took the time to discuss the campaign with me at a time at a dinner when so many other people were demanding his attention. He reminded me at that time that it is much more important for us to listen to the people than to speak ourselves. Shortly after I was elected, John Heinz held one of his famous town meetings in my district. That evening, it was in December, it was a forum where many people expressed their deep concern for the situation in the Persian Gulf. I was late, I walked in late, and immediately he looked up and recognized me. He mentioned to everybody in the room that their new state Senator had just arrived, and he was happy and pleased that I had taken the time to join him in that town meeting. I was touched at that time by his human concern and his patience with many of the people who were there that evening. They were so demanding and so distressed by the situation in the Gulf. His genuine concern and sincerity eased their fears.

Annually he held a picnic at his estate and invited many of the people who had helped him throughout the prior year. As a perennial volunteer, I was always invited to those, and one year, a few years ago, he had recently had knee surgery and was on crutches. I recall a lot of people were lining up to meet him and he had to have been tired. It was a hot day. He was hobbling around on crutches, but he kept going. He would stop and lean the crutches against a tree to shake hands with everyone and take that kind of time, and he spent a lot more time listening. I recall the last time I saw him, which was a couple of weeks ago. He spoke of his pride in the young people entering public service today. He expressed his concern that he had not lost the energy and the enthusiasm and the idealism that he sees in us, the young politicians of today. We all know that he never did lose that. I learned a great many lessons from Senator Heinz. But, perhaps, the most important lesson is that we in government are here to serve, and addressing the needs of the people who sent us here must always be at the top of our agenda. We are truly fortunate that he touched our lives and, hopefully, we will continue to carry his ideals with us through ours.

Senator SHUMAKER. Mr. President, as I listened to Senator Hart describing her support from John Heinz, I remember after I received the endorsement of the Republican Party in this county to run for George Gekas' seat, who had gone on to Congress, one of the very first persons—in fact, I think within a week—who came out to help me publicly was John Heinz. As a matter of fact, he flew into Harrisburg to take pictures and make tapes. He was a very unusual man, as Melissa said, to have a United States Senator take time out of his schedule for a first-time candidate for office and a member of his party.

As we mourn the tragic passing of Senator Heinz, we recall a man whose deep sense of caring and compassion redefined how all of us should think of public service. When people look back on the mark that John Heinz left on this state and this nation, they will undoubtedly remember his tireless efforts on behalf of the elderly. Senior citizens need champions, and in John Heinz they had a bright and articulate spokesman who kept the interest of older Pennsylvanians and all older Americans high on the nation's agenda. Indeed his passionate defense of the elderly has set an example that all of us in public life should emulate. Offering a helping hand to older Americans is only one part of the Senator's fine record of public service. A true son of western Pennsylvania, he spoke out for the steel industry in a effort to protect the jobs of working men and women.

His compassion and concern for people was shown in recent months during the Persian Gulf War when he introduced legislation to prevent both parents in a family from being placed on active duty and sent from home, placing both a mother and father in harms way. Senator Heinz saw the potential human tragedy in that policy and worked long and hard to see it altered. John Heinz represented the best traditions of public service. Despite being a man of wealth, he devoted the final years of his life, virtually seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day, to the demanding task of serving not only the people of Pennsylvania, but all of the people of our nation. Senator Heinz will be sorely missed, but the contributions he made on behalf of the elderly, working men and women, and families represent a legacy that the people of Pennsylvania, indeed of this nation, will value for years to come. It is with pride and with sadness that I second the resolution.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, many times it is said that the efforts and contributions of public officials seem to be appreciated many times only after their passing or they are gone. However, that certainly was not the case with Senator John Heinz. I think it was really an example of his enormous popularity and the recognition of his continuing work to protect various groups at harm—the elderly. He was a champion to save jobs for Pennsylvania and to bring jobs to Pennsylvania and to give our disabled a higher quality of life. Senator Heinz, I think, was strongly identified as a western Pennsylvanian, but he fought hard not only for that region, but for Pennsylvania as a whole. He was noted for his leadership on issues and projects that affected our urban, suburban and rural areas throughout the state, and I think that certainly has been demonstrated by the remarks of the previous speakers here today. If we were to reflect upon those remarks for just a moment, we would realize the impact that Senator Heinz has had on our urban areas, our suburban areas and rural areas. I think he excelled in keeping in touch with his people, as the schedule that he was maintaining last week certainly demonstrated once again, meetings with groups to update them on the debate in Washington, or whether it was to plot strategy for a particular program or interest or hearing citizens' concerns at the town meetings. In fact, as was mentioned earlier, Senator Heinz was scheduled to be in Delaware County with Senator Bell and myself last Thursday evening for a public hearing, a town meeting. We were to be there with him to listen to the concerns of the people of the county—he held these town meetings on a regular basis—and his schedule had called for the next morning to be in Philadelphia once again to chair a hearing on the aging, a particular special interest that John Heinz developed and became an advocate and spokesperson for those elderly not only in Pennsylvania but throughout our nation. He was an advocate for all the people, a defender, and above all a believer in action. At a time when many in Washington are identified with global interests and aspirations for some other office other than the office they already hold, John Heinz was noted for his attention to domestic issues that were vital not only to Pennsylvania but to the country as a whole. It is not always the kind of thing that headlines and banners are made of, but the policies and programs he felt should be working better for the people of this country. He was one of the rare individuals who earned the respect of even those who did not agree with his positions all the time. I think we all realize that it is certainly a terrible tragedy and an enormous loss, but Pennsylvania is a better place because of two decades of public service that John Heinz provided to the people of Pennsylvania. He was a competitor and a champion. He achieved countless victories for individuals and communities, and that is public service at its best, Mr. President, and our state and our nation are sorely going to miss the efforts and contributions of Senator John Heinz.

Mr. President, I am very pleased also to second the resolution and, for the information of the Members, I would simply note that the resolution is available at the desk for any additional sponsors who may wish to sign on.

Senator HOPPER. Mr. President, last week's mid-air collision above Lower Merion Township which claimed the life of John Heinz stunned and saddened all of us. Our deepest sympathies go out to the Heinz family as well as the families of the other victims. Senator John Heinz, as we all know, was a truly sincere man, a man who could very easily have lived his life as a multimillionaire, but John Heinz answered a higher calling, as others have mentioned, that of public service, and I too want to stress the word "public." John Heinz was a champion for those whose lifestyles varied most from his—the poor, the unemployed, the other low profile populations in our state—and John Heinz made sure that Congress did not ignore these humble voices. In working with Senator Heinz on many regional issues, as well as issues involving the aging, I can say without a doubt John Heinz cared. He knew the issues. He put his knowledge to work. Anyone who worked with John Heinz will surely agree that he was a real pro. He led the effort to use federal prisons after the riots in Camp Hill, of which we are all aware. On April 4th we lost a friend but Pennsylvania lost a leader, a spokesman and a true gentleman. Accidents like this are harsh reminders of our own mortality. None of us has forever to accomplish what we must accomplish as public servants. Learn from this tragedy which cut a good man's life so short. Learn from John Heinz. He set a fine example. Take advantage of every day. John Heinz did.

I, too, would like to second this resolution.

Senator REIBMAN. Mr. President, I first got to know Senator Heinz in 1976 when he was a candidate for United States Senator. In that Primary Election I was a candidate on the Democratic side in 1976. I lost. He won. What I wanted to bring out was the fact that everyone knew and extolled his virtues as a decent public servant, but I got to know him as, one, a man who was humane above and beyond the description of a public servant.

In 1977 my husband and I were honored by the State of Israel for our part in helping to raise over three-quarters of a million dollars in Israel bonds. A dinner was to be held in Allentown. John Heinz was invited. He was not to be the main speaker. The Ambassador to the United Nations was to be the main speaker, but John Heinz came and lent his presence, sat at the head table to my right, showed his interest and compassion for the economic development of one of the only democracies in the Middle East and this was back in 1977. I will never forget that and I brought the album with me that shows pictures of this very vital person, so interested, so concerned, so decent, so humane, so much a part of the entire community, aside from the politicians. There were no politicians really at that dinner except me, I suppose, if I can be called one and I suppose I can, but that indicated to me that here was a man of uncommon qualities, really the kind of a person who God had in mind when he created. And it is said in the Bible, a good name will live beyond. He was a decent, honest human being, and I would like to extend my condolences to Teresa and to the children as well, whom we got to know.

Senator WENGER. Mr. President, in the tragic and untimely death of John Heinz, we have lost an outstanding Pennsylvanian. He was the senior Senator from Pennsylvania. He had won not only our respect, but he also had won national respect by his service not only to us but also to mankind in general. In spite of that national attention that he had received, he always continued his concern for those people who were less fortunate. He was a man of integrity. He was a man of vision which could be seen in the legislation that he sponsored and supported and he understood what made a great state like Pennsylvania go, and he knew the importance of encouraging all the people of Pennsylvania to put forth their best effort and to build for the future. He was a man of great leadership ability, again not only at the state level but the national level as well. His financial resources were such that John Heinz could have done just about anything he wanted to do, and that is exactly what he did. He wanted to serve and he did that admirably. He was a man of compassion and he will be missed. He will be remembered by all of us who had the opportunity to work with him, and I had that opportunity from time to time as many of us did here in this Chamber. He was known as the Senator from western Pennsylvania, but his interests in all parts of the Commonwealth were always evident, were always noticed. He was very visible in my part of Pennsylvania, southeastern Pennsylvania, and was always welcome whenever he came into the small towns and the villages across our great Commonwealth. He was truly a man of the people.

To his widow, to his children and other family members and friends go our condolences, and it is indeed appropriate that we take this time to remember and to mourn the passing of a great Pennsylvanian and a great American.

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The PRESIDENT. Would the Members of the Senate in support of this resolution please rise in a moment of silence for the memory of Senator H. John Heinz, III.

(Whereupon, the Senate en banc stood in a moment of silence in solemn respect to the memory of Senator H. JOHN HEINZ, III.)

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is unanimously adopted. The Chair thanks all the Members of the Senate and guests, all of the speakers. The Chair would also point out that the resolution will remain with the Secretary of the Senate for the next day or so for those who wish to add their names as cosponsors.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I would move that the proceedings that just concluded be separately transcribed and appropriately bound for presentation to the Heinz family.

The motion was agreed to.

No. 21

SENATE

MONDAY, April 15, 1991.

The Senate met at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (D. Michael Fisher) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend Dr. MERLIN CONRAD, Pastor of Calvary Reformed Church, Reading, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Eternal God and Father of us all, we would not weary You this day with our constant beggings, being as children who want grades without study or workmen who desire wages without work but, rather, we would come with thanksgiving that You have provided us with lessons to learn and work to do. Most especially, we would ask that You would bless our work in terms of liberty, liberty that is too precious a thing to be buried in books and too costly a thing to be hoarded, and then come very near to these Your servants, the Members of this Body, that they may have the assurance to do that which is right with their labors, allowing them the privilege of good conscience. For these and Your many other blessings, we offer these our prayers. Amen.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair thanks Reverend Conrad who is the guest this day of Senator O'Pake.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding Session of April 9, 1991.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following Senate Resolutions numbered, entitled and referred as follows, which were read by the Clerk:

April 12, 1991

URGING THE GOVERNOR TO ESTABLISH A LONG-TERM CARE UNIT, COMPARABLE TO WOODVILLE STATE HOSPITAL'S, FOR MENTAL HEALTH CONSUMERS AT THE MAYVIEW STATE HOSPITAL

Senator DAWIDA offered the following resolution (Senate Resolution No. 46), which was read and referred to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare:

In the Senate, April 12, 1991.

A RESOLUTION

Urging the Governor to establish a Long-Term Care Unit, comparable to Woodville State Hospital's, for mental health consumers at the Mayview State Hospital.

WHEREAS, Seventy-two percent of this Commonwealth's mental health dollars go to the State hospitals which care for fewer than 10% of those with mental illness; and

WHEREAS, Downsizing our expensive State hospital system and placing as many mental health consumers as possible in a less restrictive setting has been this Commonwealth's goal for many years; and

WHEREAS, The nursing homes in the community have already rejected the long-term care patients from Woodville State Hospital; and

WHEREAS, Mayview State Hospital does not have a long-term care unit comparable to that of Woodville; and

WHEREAS, The transfer of Woodville patients to South Mountain Restoration Center, which is 250 miles away from the Allegheny County area, would cause undo hardship on family members; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate request the development of a State plan which would assure that Woodville State Hospital patients and other area mental health consumers are able to obtain the best and most appropriate care in the most appropriate setting; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Senate assure adequate financial and program supports for the community mental health system, which will be caring for many of the patients of Woodville State Hospital; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Senate encourage this Commonwealth to reflect upon the recent debacle surrounding the closing of Philadelphia State Hospital and encourage the active involvement of all parties concerned, including mental health consumers, family members, advocates, community mental health providers and county officials, in a well-planned closing of Woodville State Hospital; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Senate not divert savings from the Woodville State Hospital closing to programs outside of the mental health system as this money is desperately needed in the mental health system, a system that has been chronically and consistently underfunded for many years; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Senate recognize that people needing mental health services must not be forgotten; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Senate urge the Governor to establish a long-term care unit comparable to Woodville's long-term care unit, at Mayview State Hospital.

DESIGNATING THE WEEK OF APRIL 21 THROUGH 27, 1991, AS "NURSING HOME RESIDENTS WEEK" IN PENNSYLVANIA

In the Senate, April 12, 1991.

A RESOLUTION

Designating the week of April 21 through 27, 1991, as "Nursing Home Residents Week" in Pennsylvania.

WHEREAS, More than 80,000 of our fellow Pennsylvanians live in nursing homes; and

WHEREAS, Nursing home residents have played an integral role in the development of our Commonwealth; and

WHEREAS, Nursing home residents reflect the rich and diverse ethnic and cultural backgrounds of all Pennsylvanians; and

WHEREAS, Nursing home residents represent a vital link between our history and our future; and

WHEREAS, "Nursing Home Residents Week," which is being celebrated on the national and State levels, is a time to thank nursing home residents for the many contributions they have made and continue to make to our communities; and

WHEREAS, "Nursing Home Residents Week" is a time for us all to reflect upon and fight against the myths about aging and the elderly, and about disabilities and the physically challenged; and

WHEREAS, Pennsylvania is committed to assisting nursing home residents to achieve the highest quality of life; and

WHEREAS, All Pennsylvanians will be enriched by becoming involved with nursing home residents and by sharing the rich experiences nursing home residents have to offer; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate designate the week of April 21 through 27, 1991, as "Nursing Home Residents Week" in Pennsylvania.

RESCINDING THE REQUEST TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES THAT IT CALL A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION TO PROPOSE AN AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION TO BALANCE THE PUBLIC DEBT

Senators PECORA, SHUMAKER, AFFLERBACH, HOLL and FUMO offered the following resolution (Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 48), which was read and referred to the Committee on Intergovernmental Affairs:

In the Senate, April 12, 1991.

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Rescinding the request to the Congress of the United States that it call a Constitutional Convention to propose an amendment to the Constitution to balance the public debt.

WHEREAS, Under Article V of the Constitution of the United States, amendments to the Federal Constitution may be proposed by the Congress whenever two-thirds of both Houses deem it necessary, or on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, the Congress shall call a Constitutional Convention for the purpose of proposing amendments; and

WHEREAS, By House Resolution No. 236, adopted by the House of Representatives on June 30, 1976, and adopted by the Senate on November 9, 1976, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania requested the Congress of the United States to prepare and submit to the several states an amendment to the Constitution of the United States requiring, in the absence of a national emergency, that the total of all Federal appropriations made by Congress for any fiscal year may not exceed the total of all estimated Federal revenues for that fiscal year, or alternatively, the General Assembly made application and requested the Congress of the United States to call a Constitutional Convention for the purpose of proposing such an amendment to the Federal Constitution; and

WHEREAS, Numerous bills have been introduced in Congress calling for an amendment to the Constitution requiring a balanced budget, but none of these bills has been favorably acted upon; and

WHEREAS, Less than the required number of 34 states have, through their Legislatures, made application to the Congress for the calling of a Constitutional Convention to propose an amendment to the Constitution; and

WHEREAS, There has been no such Constitutional Convention since the Founding Fathers met to draft the Constitution nearly 200 years ago, all amendments added since then having originated in Congress and then having been ratified by the states; and

WHEREAS, One reason for the failure of the "state application for a convention" option is the ambiguity of Article V of the Constitution, in that it does not speak to how the "application" process occurs, nor does it specify the processes to be followed at the convention for proposing amendments, such as the method for selection of delegates, the voting procedures and the number of votes needed to propose a specific amendment, nor does Article V indicate whether the convention must limit itself to matters mentioned in the states' applications, or whether a "runaway convention" could seek to remake the Constitution anew after being called to consider only a single subject; and

WHEREAS, While the need for an amendment to the Constitution of the United States mandating a balanced budget continues, the state application process should not be pursued, in that a review of the 30-odd applications from states calling for a convention shows no uniformity, and discloses an array of contingencies, inconsistencies and conditional clauses on their face, and questions have been raised as to whether proper legislative procedure was followed in their adoption; and foremost, the question remains as to how far-reaching any such convention might be; therefore be it

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania rescind its application and request to the Congress of the United States to call a Constitutional Convention for the specific and exclusive purpose of proposing an amendment to the Federal Constitution requiring, in the absence of a national emergency, that the total of all Federal appropriations made by the Congress for any fiscal year may not exceed the total of all estimated Federal revenues for that fiscal year; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the General Assembly continue and renew its request to Congress to prepare and submit to the several states such an amendment to the Constitution of the United States in the same manner as all existing amendments have originated; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be sent to each member of Congress from Pennsylvania, the Clerk of the United States House of Representatives, Washington, D.C., and the Secretary of the United States Senate, Washington, D.C., with the request that this action by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be promptly published in the Congressional Record.

A constitutional majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Secretary of the Senate present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SB 432 (Pr. No. 906) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

An Act authorizing the issue and sale of bonds by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the payment of compensation to certain veterans; creating a special fund in the State Treasury to be known as the Persian Gulf War Veterans' Compensation Fund; providing for powers and duties of the Governor, the Auditor General, the State Treasurer and the Board of Finance and Revenue; providing for the payment of interest on and the redemption and refunding of the bonds.

Considered the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third consideration?

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I have prepared an amendment to Senate Bill No. 432, but because it has to do with some fiscal information that I am not quite sure of, I would like to ask the prime sponsor of Senate Bill No. 432 if he would stand for interrogation.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Bell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Senator BELL. I will, Mr. President.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, in order to come up with a number on what the total bond issue amount is going to be necessary to fund this program, could the gentleman explain who is eligible for the Persian Gulf bonus under the provisions of his bill?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, that is under Senate Bill No. 433. If we can discuss both bills, I will answer that.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair understands the question might be better addressed to Senate Bill No. 433, but in order to expedite the colloquy, could the gentleman respond to the gentleman's question in that light?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, the persons to receive payment under the proposed bonus would be in two categories. One, if they are part of the regular forces of the United States, that is Army, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard, Marines, they would have to serve in the Persian Gulf during the period starting August 2, 1990 until the termination of hostilities which was when, to my understanding, the United Nations had approved a cease-fire order last week. If they are civilian components—and the civilian components are composed of the National Guard, the Reserves, a new branch, the retired people who are involuntarily or voluntarily recalled—the bonus would be payable wherever they served.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I am reading on page 2 of Senate Bill No. 433. Line 7 begins the definition of a "Member of the civilian component," and line 16 begins the definition of a "Veteran." Both paragraphs beginning with line 7 for civilian components and line 16 for Veterans read identically except for the definition of a "Member of the civilian component—that is Guard, Air National Guard, retirees—that says they had to serve from August 2nd to the date when hostilities ended. In the definition of "Veteran," it says they shall only have had to serve during the period from August 2nd to the end of hostilities. It seems to me that we have two different definitions. My first question is why is it different?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I do not see the difference. Serving from August 2, 1990 to the date upon which hostilities ended, that is in both paragraphs.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, the civilian component definition says that they shall have served from August 2nd, which says to me that they had to be there August 2nd, not August 3rd or August 5th or January 15th, but from August 2nd to the date on which hostilities ended. However, the veterans definition allows them to be there serving during the period from August 2nd to the end which leads me to believe they could have gone over after August 2nd and be eligible, except a member of the civilian component had to be there from August 2nd, and that is my question. Why the different definitions between the veterans and the civilian components?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I do not see the fine line of difference. The intent of this legislation is serving during the period commencing August 2nd and terminating on the date the hostilities terminated.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, it may be the intent but that is not the way I read it. The total cost of this is going to be dependent on who is actually covered under the definitions of the bill. But let me move on and ask another question. Again, in both definitions, civilian component and veteran, it defines those individuals as those who served in or in support of. My question is, what does the legislation mean by "in support of?"

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I would take the meaning from this that members of the Armed Forces who were in support of those in the Persian Gulf theater of operations and, specifically, so that we can get this into the record as to legislative intent, the personnel serving in the Red Sea on the carrier forces—there were three carriers in the Red Sea and three in the Persian Gulf—and that would be "in support." The words would have the same meaning to me as direct support.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, for the record, is someone who was activated in Johnstown and went, because of the Gulf War, to Indiantown Gap to replace some Indiantown Gap Company that went to the Persian Gulf, would they be considered "in support of?"

Senator BELL. Mr. President, they would fall under line 10, people who were ordered to serve on active duty in or in support of Armed Services serving in the Persian Gulf.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, that is my question. Does "in support of" mean someone who did not actually go to the Persian Gulf or to the theater of operations, but simply moved into a military base in place of someone who did go to the Persian Gulf?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I did not know if that was a question.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, that is my question.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, the legislative intent is that civilian components who are called up, wherever they served, would be entitled to the bonus. Active duty personnel would have to be in the Persian Gulf theater of operations or in support thereof. If you ask me whether a recruiter in Pittsburgh is in support of the Persian Gulf field of operations, I do not think any reasonable person would say that.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, again, I will ask the question for the record. If a guard or reserve unit was activated and called from their home armory in Pennsylvania to move from there to Indiantown Gap and they spent 30 days at Indiantown Gap and then were sent back to their respective armories, is the intent of your legislation to include them in the Persian Gulf bonus package?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, they would be included because they are called up in support of the Persian Gulf date of operations.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, is there some reason the gentleman's legislation is creating a different standard or new standard than what was created for the Vietnam veteran's bonus? The Vietnam veteran's bonus was paid only to those who were in the country, actually in Vietnam. Is there some reason the gentleman is extending that or making it different than what was given to the Vietnam veterans?

Senator BELL. Yes, Mr. President. First of all, in World War II you did not have to serve in combat to get the World War II bonus. I am not familiar with the Korean bonus. But in the Vietnam bonus, there were very few people in the Armed Forces on active duty who did not serve in the five years that we were involved in the Vietnam field of operations. This war that we have just gone through is completely different from any war that I have known because this was a war where only a chosen few of the entire armed services were called on to fight the war on behalf of the United States, and there were reserves called up for this war from our various communities. They suffered death and other casualties, whereas in the Vietnam War there were very few civilian components called up. In fact, I believe the only unit from Pennsylvania was an air wing from Pittsburgh and most of those served in the Vietnam crisis in Vietnam. I also want to point out the difference between this war and the Vietnam War because that is the gentleman's next question—why do we give a fair and reasonable bonus this time when we were very—

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I did not ask a question.

Senator BELL. I thought the question was very broad, Mr. President. In fact, we are on the wrong bill.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would remind the gentlemen that we are talking about both bills and asking questions in a general sense. Senator Stewart, do you have further questions?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, are you ruling me out of order?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is just interested in moving along with the procedure.

Senator BELL. I know, Mr. President. I am trying to move along, too, because we will just get into it in the next bill.

The PRESIDENT. Well then, if the gentleman would allow the gentleman from Cambria to ask the question, perhaps he can answer that—Senator BELL. Mr. President, I was trying to answer the question, but he just was not able to put his words in my mouth.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, the last question I asked—and I think the record will show it—is, why are we setting a different standard for what is considered active duty between what we considered Vietnam veterans to be on active duty and what we are considering Persian Gulf veterans to be on active duty? I did not talk about amounts or ask the gentleman about amounts. I asked the definition of what is active duty, whether you were stateside or in country.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, and the answer to that is the difference between the Vietnam crisis and the Persian Gulf War was there were a number of civilian components called up from Pennsylvania. There were deaths incurred by some of those who were called up as civilian components, and this did not happen in the Vietnam War except for an air group from Pittsburgh. None of the National Guard was called up other than that. To my knowledge, none of the reserve components were called up.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, let us skip back over Vietnam. Were they called up in Korea and why a different standard for Korea?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I did not know there was a different standard for Korea.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I believe there was, but let me go on. Again, I am trying to get to what this total cost is going to be, and before we can even get to that we have to know who is eligible. My question now is when did the hostilities end for purposes of this bonus program?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, the bill does not say any time or date, but a reasonable interpretation of the bill would be that the hostilities ended when the formal cease-fire agreement was entered into by the United Nations and the Country of Iraq.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, what is that date?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I do not know when it was. I think it was last week, but I will take Senator Stewart's statement because he knows what date it was.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I do not know the date, and that is my point. We are extending a bonus for veterans of the Persian Gulf and trying to determine how much the bond issue is going to cost and we do not have anything in the legislation that says when the hostilities were over. We are talking about the Senator saying it is reasonable to assume. I do not think someone in one of the engineering detachments that is still over there cleaning out a mine field thinks the hostilities ended. I mean, when did they end? Where does it say in the bill when they ended? That is my question.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman, I did not say assume. I think I said it is a reasonable interpretation of the words "hostilities ended" when the United Nations and the Nation of Iraq executed the formal cease-fire agreement, and I only know what I read in the newspapers. I am certain the United Nations can furnish the gentleman a copy of the resolution of the formal cease-fire with the date and time.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, would it not behoove this Body to have that stated in the bill as an amendment?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, that is a matter of opinion.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, another question. Again, on page 2 of Senate Bill No. 433, the bill provides for the compensation to be computed on the basis of a monthly figure or major fraction thereof. Mr. President, a major fraction of a month, at least in my interpretation, would be 15 or 16 days or more. Now there are people who were involved in the SCUD attack who were not there 15 days or more, were not there a major fraction of a month thereof. Does your legislation say that those individuals who were there for less than 15 days do not qualify?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, if the gentleman reads page 2, lines 9 and 10, he will find that the reserve component time runs from the time they are called to active duty until the end of the hostilities or until they are released from active duty. I would like to point to the last three words of line 10, page 2 "...serve on active duty in or in support of...."

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, now we are back to my first question, "or in support of" and what exactly that means. But it seems to me if someone was on active duty in the Persian Gulf for less than 15 days, the way the bill is written, they would not qualify.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, in answer to that, it seems to me that they would qualify.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, okay, we are up to about six "seems to me's" now. Could the gentleman tell me where in the bill he addressed the whole question of prisoners of war that was addressed in the Vietnam Veterans Compensation Act?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I do not know that it is covered in the bill since all the prisoners of war were otherwise covered and they were released before the termination of hostilities.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, I cannot find it anywhere. I have found it in the language that previous Legislatures passed for Vietnam prisoners of war. I cannot find it anywhere in this particular legislation and I think it was probably an oversight. But, again, it is something like the first four or five things that I have questioned that are either oversights or matters of opinion or reasonable expectations or someone's understanding. Mr. President, I just think that—and I can go on. I have some more things I would like to discuss but, Mr. President—

Senator BELL. Mr. President, before we go away from that, was that a question to me or not?

The PRESIDENT. Would the gentleman please yield. Senator Stewart has the floor. Senator, have you completed your interrogation?

Senator STEWART. Yes, Mr. President, I have.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman is recognized for further comments.

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, repeating, there are other things—and I did not go past page 2 of the bill—in the legislation that I am sure were not intended to be vague, were not intended to be left out, or whatever. I know a lot of us, in the emotion and anxiety and the wish and desire to do something as a Commonwealth for these brave men and women, introduced a lot of legislation, and I think this legislation should become law. I also think it should become law in a clear and concise manner so that there is no question down the line who is eligible, who is not eligible, who served where, for how long, when.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT SB 432 AND 433

Senator STEWART. I would move, Mr. President, based on that, that we recommit Senate Bill No. 432 to the Committee on Appropriations because, again, the whole issue of how much the bond issue is going to cost will depend on all of these clear and concise definitions that are not in the bill, of how many people we are going to be trying to serve with the bonus. I think it is a good piece of legislation, along with Senate Bill No. 433. It should be cleaned up, and I think the Committee on Appropriations, because of the dollar amounts involved, is the appropriate place to do that. I would move that we recommit Senate Bill No. 432 to the Committee on Appropriations.

The PRESIDENT. Is it the Senator's intention to recommit Senate Bill No. 433, as well?

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, if that would be parliamentarily correct, I would, since they are a package.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman may proceed in that fashion.

Senator Stewart moves that Senate Bill No. 432 and Senate Bill No. 433 be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

On the motion to recommit,

Will the Senate agree to the motion to recommit SB 432 and SB 433?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I think a lot of the smoke and mirrors that Senator Stewart is complaining of were created by himself. He raised the question of prisoners of war. I am certain if he knows of any prisoner of war held by the Iraqis, General Schwarzkopf would be glad to find out the identity of the prisoners of war.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would remind all participants that we are debating the motion to recommit and would appreciate limiting comments to that particular aspect.

Senator SHAFFER. Mr. President, I rise to oppose the motion of the gentleman from Cambria County. I realize that this legislation, like really any legislation we pass here, is subject to the vagaries of interpretation, and if we want to find supposed loopholes, if we want to find so-called problems, we can do it, but I think on balance, Mr. President, this would be sending an entirely wrong message to the thousands of Pennsylvanians who stood tall and who volunteered for service in the Desert Storm Operation. You know, I was interested that the gentleman from Cambria was dissecting the cost of this very closely. I just wish that some of us would have taken as much time to dissect the costs of the recent pay raises that the Governor gave his subcabinet people.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would remind the gentleman that he is supposed to be talking about the motion to recommit. The Chair would thank the gentleman to restrict comments in that regard.

Senator SHAFFER. You know, Mr. President, the one reason I hope this motion fails, and I hope it goes forth, and indeed if there are problems and if the gentleman may be correct on some of the technical points, there is plenty of opportunity to correct these problems if, indeed, they are problems, in the House of Representatives. But I would remind my colleagues that Pennsylvanians paid an enormous price in this conflict. Indeed the data that I have shows that Pennsylvania along with Texas had equally the highest number of killed in action—twenty-six individuals from this state, Mr. President, some of whom I am told were only in Saudi Arabia a very few days, but they died, and whether or not they were there one hour or one minute or one month or one year, I darn sure think that they or their loved ones are worth $250 a month. I have the names of the individuals who gave their last full measure of devotion, Mr. President. I was going to read them off, but I am not going to. Just let the record show that the families include at least one individual from Armstrong County, several from Cambria County, the families of two young women who died from Indiana County, two individuals from Washington County, one from Clarion County, four soldiers who gave the last full measure of their devotion from Westmoreland County. I think that we lend a certain amount of disrespect to that today, after this bill has gone through the committee system, if we are to pull back on this legislation today for ostensibly looking at fine tuning. I think the families of the veterans of the Desert Storm Operation are going to think very poorly of us and that somehow we are engaging in conduct which devalues their service. Nothing has been mentioned here today, Mr. President, but I have heard off this floor numerous comments from numerous Senators to the effect that the Vietnam veterans do not like this. The Vietnam veterans are complaining. How dare anyone in this Chamber use the Vietnam veterans as a foil for what they really want to do which is gut this legislation if, indeed, that is the case. I strongly protest. I ask that each and every Member consider closely what I have said, and I ask for a negative vote on the gentleman's motion.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I recognize the temptation of many people to wrap themselves in the flag today and put yellow ribbons all over them. The truth be damned. Let us stand up and sound like real courageous, conservative patriots of our nation and our state. But there are some realities here that have to be addressed and maybe the courageous ones on this side of the aisle will do it, but let us stop the rhetoric. Mr. President, this bill is poorly drafted. It stinks. We all know that, but nobody wants to admit it, because to admit that might mean we are unpatriotic, or to admit that might mean that we will not have a shot to take at Democrats for being unpatriotic. This bill is an abomination. It is filled with vagaries, conflicting statements, and I am shocked that the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Bell—a man whose legal expertise I admire; I have watched him debate on this floor minor technicalities to the nth degree—says there is no difference between the language that appears in the definition of “Member of civilian component” and “Veteran.” There is distinct difference, and when you ask him, why is there difference, he said, there is not. Just like Alice in Wonderland.

Mr. President, I resent the remarks of the gentleman from Butler, Senator Shaffer. I have a letter before me from the Philadelphia Veterans Multi-Service Center signed by Edward J. Lowery, the Executive Director, a leader in our area in the fight to help veterans and, yes, many of them are Vietnam veterans. It is wrong to slap them in the face. Granted, the Gulf War got a lot more TV coverage, and it was over a lot faster than Vietnam and we did not have to look at body bags, but that does not mean those people who gave their lives in Vietnam are any less valuable than those people who gave their lives in the Gulf. He asked a simple question. Why do the people in the Gulf get a thousand times more than what we allocated to the people in Vietnam? What is the reason for that? The simple fact of the matter is because the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Bell, got a vision that night and decided to put $250 instead of $25 or $100, and then it steam-rolled through here. In fact, the only deliberate amendment to this when we say we deliberated this through the committee process—who is kidding who, it was railroaded out—was an attempt to stick it to the administration to make the cost of the bond issue be paid for by the Department of Military Affairs rather than from the bond issue, the only time ever I have seen such an action taken. Who is using the deaths of those people in the Gulf? You are, and you know damned right well you are. You do not even want to send this bill back to committee to come up with a meaningful bill that is fair to all Americans and Pennsylvanians. No, you would rather have the flag to wrap yourselves in. That may be very nice and maybe there are some petty editorial writers in some hick town who might agree with you, but I hope to God that the vast majority of newspaper reporters can see through this charade and this nonsense. Yes, it does take courage to stand up here and speak the truth, especially on an emotional issue like this, but, dammit, we took an oath to do that. No one wants to listen to that any more. Mr. Lowery goes on to say that there is an even more important issue that has to be addressed concerning veterans, and that is to help them acclimate themselves back into society. They need funding for employment and training programs that the federal government cut but we put back in. Why not put together a fund to help train some of these people? I heard in our caucus about people whose businesses were closed because they were sole proprietorships and had to close and they folded their business. What are we going to tell them? Take a couple of thousand of dollars, even if you are entitled to that much under this gracious bill, and go away? What does it do for them? Nothing. It makes it sound good with a press statement. You can go home and say I helped veterans. They may be living on the streets of Philadelphia, and you do not give a damn about them because they served in the dirty war of Vietnam. It was not sexy to serve in Vietnam. It was not nice at all. In fact, we specifically tried to make sure we did not get into another Vietnam situation here because the media was all over our backs and, to that end, we have millions of people on the Iraqi-Turkey border dying every day because we do not want to get into a Vietnam. We pulled all of our soldiers out. To hell with humanity. Our proud President walks away as children and babies are dying because we are over. God forbid we should get into a Vietnam-type conflict. To hell with the Kurds. To hell with that humanity. We got our PR shot. We can wrap ourselves in the flag. Let us go home.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, will state it.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, is not the only issue before the Membership whether to return the bills to committee or not, not necessarily a debate on international policy?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman is correct. The motion before the Senate is whether to recommit the two bills to the Committee on Appropriations. The Chair would also point out that he has given a wide degree of latitude to both the previous speakers and suggests to the Body that it is time to reel this debate in.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I recognized when I struck a nerve so, God forbid, I would continue to say bad things about the President when he is riding so high. Mr. President, this bill belongs back in committee so that we can clean up the language.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware, Senator Bell, will state it.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, will you take control of this Chamber?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair will do his job if the Senator will do his job.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I call your attention to the fact that you lost control with the shouting and the cursing and the lack of factual statements.

The PRESIDENT. Would the gentleman state his point. What is your point of order?

Senator BELL. Mr. President, my point of order is that you lost control of this Chamber.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks the gentleman for his admonition. Senator Fumo will continue.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, this bill belongs back in committee, not to hurt the people we want to help, but to clean up the language in a fair and deliberate way and to make sure there are equities here for the men and women who served in Korea, in World War II, in Vietnam. You know this bill even says in its current form that if I am a career soldier and I happen to live in Pennsylvania and I am in the Pentagon somewhere, I am in for 20 years, and for a couple of months of that there was this conflict in the Gulf, I get $250 per month. I was not there. I did not do anything. I would still be in the military no matter what had happened, and I get a bonus because I was in support of the troops. Come on. Who are we kidding? In an effort to try to help the world, we have hurt a lot of people, and I say it is time for courage to stand up, send this bill back to committee. Let us clean it up and bounce it right out today. We can move mountains when we want to. If this were a pay raise bill and we were all on line, we would have it out in 30 seconds. In fact, MacNett would probably have it drafted by now and a supplemental Calendar to go with it. Let us try to do it, Mr. President, and get it done.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, will state it.

Senator LOEPER. Once again, Mr. President, I would simply raise my former point of order.

The PRESIDENT. It appears to the Chair that the gentleman has completed his remarks on the motion to recommit. Is that correct?

Senator FUMO. I guess so, Mr. President. If the other side cannot take the heat in the kitchen, they ought to get out.

Senator SHAFFER. Mr. President, I certainly am delighted at the belated support of the Vietnam veteran from the gentleman from Philadelphia. I have been here ten years, going on eleven years, and I cannot recall the record showing where Senator Fumo had any particular interest in Vietnam veterans. He certainly has never said anything to me personally. I would be most curious at some time in the not too distant future if the gentleman could—

POINT OF ORDER

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Fumo, will state it.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, if the gentleman wants to talk about committing the bill, he should. He should not say that I do not care about veterans. If he wants to see my record on the Vietnam veterans, I will gladly put it before him. I will tell him I am the one, when Thornburgh's Administration cut out the money for the multi-service center, I got it back. This is just one little thing. I do not know where he was or what he was doing either, but we do not have to get into this—

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks the gentleman, and the Chair would remind Senator Shaffer and all of the Members that we are restricted in this debate to the substance of the motion to recommit.

Senator SHAFFER. Mr. President, the one or two facts that have not been brought up, at least if they were brought up I could not catch them was the fact that the situation today vis-a-vis the treatment of veterans in this country is indeed quite different than it was in the late 1960s and the early 1970s, during the so-called Vietnam era. Back then there was a very active, a very respectable G.I. Bill which gave numerous benefits to veterans. That bill is virtually gutted today. Desert Storm troopers returning home and, yes, I am sure just maybe somebody might slip through. Golly gee, would that not be terrible if somebody got—somebody who was over there or almost went over there—$250 that they might not deserve. Would that not be terrible? Would not the Capitol crack, Mr. President? The G.I. Bill is a farce in 1991. The V.A. Hospitals which the veterans have depended upon historically for the last 55 years are not what they were before. The veterans do not have the services today and are not entitled to the benefits in the medical care field that they had during the Vietnam era. Trust me when I tell you, Mr. President, that Vietnam veterans are all for $250 per Desert Storm trooper, and if you want to raise it, they will be for even more. I ask for a negative vote on the motion.

Senator PORTERFIELD. Mr. President, I have sat back there and I have listened to both sides of the aisle speak of something that is very important to over approximately 25,000 individuals who served from Pennsylvania, as I understand. If you multiply that times the family and the anguish, any number of appropriations that we would put into a bond issue could not compromise the suffering that these families and individuals have gone through. It grieves me when I have the 14th Quartermaster Unit in Westmoreland County not farther than a mile from my office, personal friends, and I see both sides of the aisle bickering over something, if we pass Senate Bill No. 432, that creates a bond issue to go to referendum. And when will it go to referendum? The next municipal election? When could it go on the ballot? My understanding would be in the fall. If there are gray areas, and I see there evidently are significant gray areas, why should we not send this back to the Committee on Appropriations? Clean these bills up. Why should we pass them here and say, send them to the House and let the House clean them up? Are we not capable of cleaning up our own house and putting our own house in order? I find this very strange. I do not stand at this mike and I do not speak often to a subject, and I think my fellow Senators are well aware of that. I think it is time we consider the individuals and we consider what we are doing here. There is no reason that we need to push this particular piece of legislation through today just to wave glory and wave the flag. I am very concerned about this legislation. What it is attempting to do is very important to those families. We should not take that lightly. How many times have I heard many Senators who have spent 20 and 25 years here say to me, we passed good legislation and what has happened to it? It is interpreted completely different than what we wanted it to be.

If we have gray areas as the gentleman from Cambria, Senator Stewart, has mentioned in these two particular pieces of legislation, why not clean them up here, Mr. President? Do it right here in our own house where we have the expertise and we have the knowledge and the ability. We have many people on both sides of the aisle who served in the service, both in the active service and the Reserves and the Guards. Mr. President, I say clean this up. Send it back to the Committee on Appropriations where it can be amended properly, and we can put out a piece of legislation and the press and the people of Pennsylvania are going to be happy that we have taken care of our armed forces.

Senator AFFLERBACH. Mr. President, I am a veteran, my father was a veteran and my brother was a veteran of Vietnam. I meet with veterans regularly from that war and from other wars, and I have come to understand that veterans as a whole, regardless of which war they may have served in, or which branch of the armed services they may have served in, male and female alike, are not looking for government handouts, and they are certainly not looking for political expediency and political posturing over what can be termed a generous handout. What they are looking for is legislation that provides fairness, legislation that provides equity, legislation that provides uniformity of application. As presently written, the gentleman from Cambria, Senator Stewart, has made a very strong case that this bill fails all three of those tests or, at the very best, places serious question about whether those tests can be met. For that reason I too support recommitment to the Committee on Appropriations. We clearly have within our power the ability to structure within the next 24 hours an amended piece of legislation that will meet all of those tests that will address the issues raised by Senator Stewart and others, and for us to be derelict in our duty in not doing that tells me the Majority of this Body, if they insist on pushing this bill today, is interested only in political expediency, not in fairness, not in uniformity and certainly not in equity.

GUESTS OF SENATOR ROBERT D. ROBBINS PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator ROBBINS. Mr. President, I would like to introduce from Grove City College Lisa Tubbs, Valarie Fowler, Susan Reefer and Christopher Greer. They are members of the Grove City College Republicans. If they would stand up, please.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests of Senator Robbins please rise so we can welcome you to the somewhat acrimonious debate today in the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion to recommit Senate Bill No. 432 and Senate Bill No. 433 to the Committee on Appropriations?

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, very briefly, I just cannot let the record stand with the remarks of one of the previous speakers that somehow my motion to recommit this bill to the Committee on Appropriations to clarify the language somehow implies a disservice to those individuals who served us and, in particular, those individuals who lost their lives, who are from Cambria County. I think it is a disservice to hold out to those individuals legislation that may be tied up in courts in regulations and arguments and fights and a whole series of questions for God knows how long. I think it does them a great service. We can give them something clean, neat, concise and precise that they can rely on for their service in recognition of what they have done for us.

Senator BODACK. Mr. President, I would remind our Members on this side of the aisle that we did discuss the inconsistencies or the ambiguities in this bill in caucus, and I would remind them and ask them for a vote for recommitment. I would like to further caution the Members on the other side of the aisle that they do not stand alone in trying to help our comrades in arms who served in the Persian Gulf. I would also remind them that they have the full power of this Body to take a bill into committee or not take a bill into committee, to pull a bill out of committee, to vote on a bill in committee so that if we do recommit this bill, they have the full power to get it out posthaste so that we could vote on it and get it to the other Chamber.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, we would ask for a slow roll call on the vote, please.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is somewhat taken aback by that since you won.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, permit himself to be interrogated?

Senator LOEPER. I will, Mr. President.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Majority Leader why he needs a roll call vote?

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, as the Majority Leader, I have had a request from my caucus for a roll call vote.

Senator FUMO. Is that the only answer he can provide me with, Mr. President?

The PRESIDENT. That is the answer he has given the Chair.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, am I allowed to speak on that?

The PRESIDENT. There is nothing before the Body other than the vote itself. In the opinion of the Chair, the "nays" have it, that the motion to recommit has failed. Senator Loeper has requested a roll call vote on the motion. It is the prerogative of any Senator to do so. Therefore, the Clerk will record the vote.

LEGISLATIVE LEAVE

Senator BODACK. Mr. President, I would ask for temporary Capitol leave, if I may, for Senator Belan who has been called from the floor.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Bodack asks for temporary Capitol leave for Senator Belan. The Chair hears no objection. That leave will be granted.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion to recommit Senate Bill No. 432 and Senate Bill No. 433 to the Committee on Appropriations?

The yeas and nays were required by Senator LOEPER and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Afflerbach	Fattah	Mellow	Schwartz
Andrezeski	Fumo	O'Pake	Stapleton
Belan	Jones	Porterfield	Stewart

GUESTS OF SENATOR ROY C.

AFFLERBACH PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator AFFLERBACH. Mr. President, ensconced in the darker part of the upper balcony are two visitors from the 16th Senatorial District. They are Joan Chipkar and her daughter, Judy Wagner. The thing that makes it very interesting about these two ladies coming to Harrisburg today to witness this discussion and work at the Senate is that both of them paid to do so. Now, perhaps, I should explain that just a bit. I offered to a charitable organization the opportunity to come to Harrisburg to the highest bidder who would want to spend the day shadowing me. These two ladies were the high bidders. I did not ask them how much they bid for fear that if it were not enough, I would feel disappointed, and if it were too much, I would have a swelled head. Suffice it to say that they did, however, make a very sizable charitable contribution for the opportunity of being here today to observe us in Session, and I would appreciate the Senate giving them its usual warm welcome.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests of Senator Afflerbach please rise so we could welcome you and thank you for attending.

(Applause.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third consideration?

It was agreed to.

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, prior to the roll call vote, I asked the Majority Leader why he needed a roll call vote and he did not respond except to say that some Members of his caucus requested it. Mr. President, I am particularly happy that he did, in fact, do that maneuver because it clearly points out the motivation of the Majority in this instance. They did not just want to sit down and try to do the bill. What now?

POINT OF ORDER

Senator BELL. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware, Senator Bell, will state it.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, are we not discussing a bill, not why the Majority Leader asked for a roll call?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman is technically correct. The motivations of a Senator, in whatever action—

Senator BELL. Mr. President, can we not hold it to the bill?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman has made his point. Senator Fumo may continue under those circumstances.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, on the bill, it is obvious what occurred and it is obvious that the Majority Party in this Chamber is more interested in wrapping themselves in the flag and attempting to embarrass people on this side of the aisle. I commend my caucus for having the courage to stand up and do what was right, but I will not subject them to further political shenanigans. Mr. President, I will ask my entire caucus to vote for this bill as is and the next bill as is and, hopefully, in the House there will be some reason. Obviously, the Majority has decided to abdicate its responsibility to the House. Certainly that was done in debate. That was one of the positions taken, so we will join them in this activity, having stood up for what was right once.

Senator BELL. Mr. President, may we have a fast roll call?

The PRESIDENT. According to the Rules, the final passage must involve a roll call vote.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, for the last several weeks I have stood here on the floor and listened to the tirades of the gentleman from Philadelphia as far as the tax and spend and one and one equals two and where are we going to get the money, and this is nothing but a charade.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Fumo, will state it.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, number one, I sincerely regret that the Majority Leader does not understand good debate and, rather, he puts it in the term of tirades. Number two, what does the budget have to do with this except that it just costs more money? I do not understand what he is talking about. If he wants to talk about the bill, let him do it.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman's point is equally well taken. We are dealing with Senate Bill No. 432, and if we can confine ourselves to that topic, maybe we can get through this Calendar today.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I would just finally point out that it seems to me the gentleman's debate is incongruous on this bill, and if he wishes to stand up and be counted as he has on every other one, maybe he should also do it on this one.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Senator BRIGHTBILL. Mr. President, I am sure many of the Members found on their desks this morning a note. Mine was from Lisa Cochack and it is a note saying, "I thank you for the use of your desk for my Youth in Government weekend. It was an especially enjoyable weekend filled with heated and enlightening debate."

Mr. President, I spent my weekend—Friday, Saturday and Sunday—here. My wife and I became faculty advisors for the Palmyra Area High School Youth in Government club, and we brought 20 members of our club up here for participation in the YMCA Youth in Government program. I found it to be very exciting and very enlightening, and I sat here in the Senate Chamber and watched the debate. I spent most of my time in the House and I watched the young people in committee. It really was a terrific experience for the young people. I can say this, and I am saying this on behalf of the Youth in Government program to all of the Members of the Senate and the House of Representatives, they very much thank us for the use of these facilities, because these facilities really do make the program. They were thrilled to be here. They had news-people. They had lobbyists. They had a news show that was presented nightly at 12:30 a.m. on TV at the Sheraton, and they had very exciting debates.

I would just like to relate one incident that occurred, and I am sure that what I am going to relate is just one of many such incidents. Our club came up with two bills. One of the bills was presented in the Business and Commerce Committee and the young lady, a student representative, was going to present the bill. As we talked, she was very concerned about another representative from another area, and she was afraid that this young lady was going to debate down and put down her bill. As the bill was called on the agenda for committee, the chairman turned the chair of the committee over to this one girl who our young lady feared. At first you could see the relief because she really did not want to debate this young lady, and then the young lady turned the chair over to another member of the committee so she could debate the bill. The two of them went head-to-head and I am happy to say, in my humble judgment, the young lady from Palmyra did quite well. Of course, I felt a little bit like a coach. I was walking on the sidelines. I was pacing and was a little bit engaged in the excitement plan, as some people like to say.

At any rate, what was important and what I tried to explain to the young people was not whether their bill passed or failed, but what was really important was the process. There were many young people who got to participate in the process and got to have a sense of the process. As the Palmyra Area High School watched the clock tick away on Saturday night as it got closer and closer to 9:00 o'clock, we were increasingly anxious because our bill was just not coming up on the calendar. We went back to the hotel Saturday night with our bill not being presented on Saturday, but we knew that we had an hour and a half on Sunday to get our bill passed. We came back Sunday, and finally, with 20 minutes to go, the bill came up and it turned out that someone had made a mistake and distributed the wrong copies of the bill and the bill was tabled. We were blown out for the session. I watched these kids and it was a great thing to watch. There were many adults, people who work for the YMCA, people who work within the administration, some lobbyists, all who participated to make this a great program. I think if this Chamber could talk, it would say to us today that Pennsylvania has a bright future.

Senator BORTNER. Mr. President, I introduced legislation today which would give the residents of a township some say on whether a portion of their community can be carved up for the creation of a new municipality, in this case a new borough. This issue has raised its head in York County, but I believe has some statewide implications as well and deals specifically with the question of under what circumstances a new borough can be created out of an existing township. I have introduced this legislation at the urging of township officials across York County who made it their number one resolution at their annual meeting this year. It is in direct response to some developer's plans for the creation of a new borough in York County, referred to as Chilton Borough, which would consist of essentially an 18-hole golf course and some new housing developments which at this time do not have any real or bona fide residents. Essentially, the legislation would do two things. First, it would empower the courts to reject the establishment of a new borough if its creation is motivated, in whole or in part, as an attempt to undermine the local government's existing land use regulations. Secondly, it would require a majority of the voters from that township who would be affected by the creation of a new borough to approve of that through a ballot referendum. As many Senators may know, existing law already requires that in the case of annexing an additional or a new municipality, we require a majority of the voters in both municipalities to approve. It seems to me when you are carving out or creating a new municipality from an existing one, we should follow the same procedure.

I believe this legislation is extremely important if we are to allow municipalities to plan for their future and plan for their growth. We cannot allow certain interests or special interests to make up their own rules if they do not like the existing rules that the township has established to meet their own zoning needs. I am hopeful that this will get serious consideration in my own Committee on Local Government and I am hoping that we can move this issue along so that it gets full consideration by the Senate.

LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

TUESDAY, APRIL 16, 1991

SESSION OF 1991

175TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 22

SENATE

TUESDAY, April 16, 1991.

The Senate met at 1:00 p.m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend Dr. MERLIN CONRAD, Pastor of Calvary Reformed Church, Reading, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

God of all power and mercy, hear these our prayers of thanksgiving for the land we love beyond all other lands, its heritage in righteousness and justice, its ancestry in truth and freedom, its opportunity and hope.

But, Father, we confess as well the fear that breeds prejudice and the prejudice that fosters hate, the might that makes some callous and the peace that leaves us blind, the liberty that has been turned to license and affluence that has turned into arrogance.

So, Father, come very near to these Your servants that You may use them as instruments to match Your need of them. Establish them within the fellowship that knows no exiles, for You have made of us one blood. Then grant us all the grace and power to be fellow workers with them. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding Session of April 15, 1991.

WHEREAS, County domestic relations offices play important and often critical roles in the welfare and public safety of Commonwealth citizens; and

WHEREAS, It is in the interest of all Pennsylvania communities that domestic relations offices are funded, operated and administered properly; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Majority Leader of the Senate appoint five members and the Minority Leader of the Senate appoint four members to a task force to investigate the funding, operations and administration of county domestic relations offices and their operations Statewide; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the committee may hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations at such places as it deems necessary in this Commonwealth. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

URGING REJECTION OF THE GOVERNOR'S PROPOSAL TO USE THE BORROWING
CAPACITY OF THE PENNSYLVANIA
INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY TO GENERATE REVENUES FOR THE COMMONWEALTH'S GENERAL FUND

Senators SHAFFER, LOEPER, TILGHMAN, HOLL, HOPPER, GREENLEAF, MADIGAN, JUBELIRER, ROBBINS, SHUMAKER, CORMAN, ARMSTRONG, HELFRICK, PECORA, HART, SALVATORE, WENGER and PUNT offered the following resolution (Senate Resolution No. 50), which was read and referred to the Committee on Community and Economic Development:

In the Senate, April 15, 1991.

A RESOLUTION

Urging rejection of the Governor's proposal to use the borrowing capacity of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority to generate revenues for the Commonwealth's General Fund.

WHEREAS, The Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority (PIDA) makes low-interest loans to finance economic development projects in communities throughout Pennsylvania; and

WHEREAS, The projects financed through PIDA's loans assist in attracting new business and expanding existing businesses, thereby providing jobs for many Pennsylvanians; and

WHEREAS, PIDA finances many of these low-interest loans through bonds; and

WHEREAS, The Governor has requested that the Board of PIDA refinance PIDA's outstanding bonds, issue unprecedented amounts of new debt and transfer $180 million from the Industrial Development Fund to the General Fund prior to the end of the current fiscal year to reduce the projected General Fund deficit; and

WHEREAS, While the statute which creates PIDA directs that the Board transfer moneys in excess of the amount needed by the Authority to carry out the purpose of the act to the General Fund, the financial statement of PIDA, as of January 31, 1991, reports that PIDA has no net funds available for commitment and, in fact, has insufficient funds available to meet outstanding commitments; and

WHEREAS, The Governor has indicated that it is his proposal to seek appropriations from the General Fund for PIDA at extraordinary levels during the next four fiscal years; and

WHEREAS, There is no guarantee that, if the Board of PIDA issues bonds and transfers from those bonds $180 million to the General Fund, the appropriations from the General Fund contemplated in the Governor's plan will be realized; and

WHEREAS, Approval of the request by the Board of PIDA seriously jeopardizes the PIDA program; and

WHEREAS, During this time of economic recession, Pennsylvania must maintain an aggressive and successful economic development program; and

WHEREAS, In order for Pennsylvania to have an aggressive and successful economic development program, it is essential that it have a financially healthy PIDA with funds available for both economic development and job creation; and

WHEREAS, PIDA has been the centerpiece of economic development activities in this Commonwealth for over 30 years; and

WHEREAS, A review of the refinancing of existing debt by the Board of PIDA is appropriate during a period in which interest rates are significantly lower than those being paid; and

WHEREAS, The Governor's request attempts to circumvent constitutional prohibitions against issuance of long-term debt for current operating expenses of the Commonwealth; and

WHEREAS, The Board of PIDA should, given their fiduciary responsibility for the prudent management of the affairs of PIDA, reject any proposal or facet thereof which circumvents constitutional requirements and imperils the operation of Pennsylvania's flagship economic development program; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania urge the Governor to withdraw his proposal; and be it further

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of the Senate that the General Fund appropriation levels proposed by the Governor for future years may be so unrealistically high as to go unfulfilled; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania urge the Board of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority to reject the proposed transfer of moneys generated from new or existing bond sales since no excess funds, as contemplated in the statute, exist and because such transfers, if approved, undermine the viability of the PIDA program; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Governor and to the Chairman and members of the Board of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority; and be it further

RESOLVED, That, should the Board of PIDA approve the request and undertake massive new borrowings so that it might transfer moneys to the General Fund, it include copies of this resolution in the offering memorandum and other papers relating to the issuance of the debt.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

GUESTS OF SENATOR JOHN D. HOPPER PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator HOPPER. Mr. President, today we have a visitor in the gallery who comes all the way from Southeast India. He is Cedric Rodericks, a Rotary International exchange student, who is attending Carlisle High School. Cedric is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Carlisle and Rotary District 739. As many of you know, the Rotary program offers high school juniors and seniors throughout the world the opportunity to study for a year in another country and to gain a broader understanding of different cultures. Cedric has expressed an interest in government and politics, as well as commerce and business. Since his arrival in the United States last August, he has lived with three different host families. His current host parents are Colonel and Mrs. Ronald Roberge of Carlisle, who are also here today. It would please me very much if the Senate would extend its usual warm welcome to these folks.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests of Senator Hopper please rise so that we can welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

GUESTS OF SENATOR FRANK A. SALVATORE, SENATOR F. JOSEPH LOEPER AND SENATOR CLARENCE D. BELL PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator SALVATORE. Mr. President, it is not often that I have the privilege of introducing a group of young people who are as special as those I am about to introduce to you. They are special, Mr. President, for many reasons. They are here because they are a championship basketball team since 1984. They have won a host of titles and honors—the PIAA Title, the AAA Championship and the AAAA Championship. For that they can be proud and I am proud of them. That is not the only reason they are so special. It is what they have done not just as a team, but as individuals. Each of these young men has accomplished a great deal off the basketball court. It was only because of their individual achievements that they were able to become members of a championship team. Not only do they represent a great team, Mr. President, but a great team from a truly unique school. It was founded in 1826 and has become an outstanding example of what can be done by people who really care about young people and boys who believe that they have no hope and no future. Mr. President, I have been privileged today by the two Senators from Delaware County, Senator Bell, whose district Glen Mills is in, and Senator Loeper, who comes from Delaware County, to allow me to introduce these young boys. I feel that I am part of Glen Mills because of a friendship that I have established with two people, Sonny and Mitzi Hepps, who I thank very much for having given me the opportunity to go to Glen Mills and see what can be done with young boys like those who are up there. There are 100 boys that everybody had given up on up there, and their staff, and see what happens when everybody really cares about young boys. That is the future America up there. They are the future of this great country of ours. That school only receives whatever the courts give them and they operate that school at $17 million less than the state school that is run by the State of Pennsylvania. Those kids get four meals a day and never go to bed hungry. When you go to Glen Mills you will think you are on the finest campus in the world. I guarantee that you will not see a crumb on the floor and you will not see a scratch on the table; not because somebody is telling them what to do, it is because they have earned it and they respect each other.

I cannot say enough about Glen Mills. I could stand here for hours and talk to you about Glen Mills, and I am sorry that I am taking a lot of time today, but this is special to me. Glen Mills is something that each and every one of you Senators at some point in your life should visit because you are going to come away with the same feeling that I have, that there is hope. There is hope because there are people like Sam Ferrainola, the Executive Director of the school, who is up there today. There is hope because there are distinguished members on the Board of Directors who serve without pay. The coaches and administrators of Glen Mills probably could earn a lot more in life, but they dedicate themselves to Glen Mills. That is the championship basketball team. Two years in a row they have won this. They have to win it one more time for them to have the privilege of sitting out front here. They could not sit here today because they have not won it three times, but they are going to come back here next year and they are going to sit right up front because they are going to win it three times.

(Applause.)

Last, but not least, their schoolmates. There are about 100 of them. That school has 700 boys there from other states in this country and from Pittsburgh, from Philadelphia and the inner cities of Washington and Baltimore, kids that everybody gave up on. But Glen Mills did not give up on them and, boy, I am proud of them.

I would respectfully ask, Mr. President, that we give them a tremendous applause and thank them for the pleasure of letting us appreciate what they do for us.

The PRESIDENT. Would all of the guests of Senator Salvatore, Senator Bell, and Senator Loeper please rise so we can welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Mr. President, the gentleman from Blair County, for you in the gallery, is also a native and resident of the City of Altoona. That might mean something to those distinguished gallery visitors. Mr. President, although I was not able to be there personally, I watched with great fan enthusiasm as Altoona Area High School took on what I think was one of the toughest teams I have ever seen play basketball, and that was Glen Mills. And I must tell you they acquitted themselves as the true champions that they are. They deserved to win because they played very hard and they played fair and they were just outstanding champions. But I have to tell you, Mr. President, as well, that I am just as proud of a school that rallied, and I think there was at least some thought that Altoona might get blown out in that game. You might remember the names of Fortson, Taneyhill and Rehm, because they played as hard as could be and lost by five points in the AAAA finals in one of the greatest high school basketball games I have ever seen. I applaud you for all that you have done and all that you do on and off the basketball court. But I have to tell you, you are going to have to work awfully hard to get on this floor next year because Fortson and Taneyhill are going to be back and I challenge you to do that because Altoona is going to be back too.

Senator FATTAH. Mr. President, I just want to offer my congratulations to the Glen Mills basketball team and to recognize the accomplishments and achievements of the school but, moreover, to say something about one of our colleagues. You know a lot of times we have a lot of speeches made on the floor of the Senate, but I can attest to the fact that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Salvatore, has on so many occasions beaten my ears in about Glen Mills and about getting out to the school. I think it is just something that we should all recognize, that here is one of our colleagues who has been deeply concerned and involved over the years in making sure this school is the success that it is and that it has the kind of support it needs. I just think we should take a minute and recognize Senator Salvatore's contribution also.

(Applause.)

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I would like to rise for just a moment also to pay tribute to Glen Mills. You may wonder why would a Member of the Senate who comes from the City of Scranton, the other part of the state, want to pay tribute to a school that is nowhere near his Senatorial district. Well, I have had some firsthand experience with Glen Mills. I can see we probably have 100-plus individuals who either attend or in some way have an affiliation with Glen Mills school. As a high school football official, I have had the opportunity in the last three years to officiate each year at least one football game that Glen Mills has participated in. In fact, during this past high school football season I had the opportunity of being the referee in the Glen Mills-Berwick football game that was played in Berwick. Unfortunately, Glen Mills did not come out on top of that game. They did not win the ball game, but I can tell you how impressed I was, not only with the quality of athletes who participated on the football field that day, but I think equally as important was the way each particular athlete handled himself with the utmost of courtesy and professionalism that you could expect from a high school athlete. But I think just to go ahead and to recognize the school based on accomplishments on a football field or on a basketball court would be shortsighted on our part because everything I have been told is that Glen Mills has been able to achieve outstanding academic accomplishments, not only for its athletes but also for the other students who matriculate there. So as an individual who comes from a distant place not near Glen Mills, but from a person who has had an opportunity to see the quality and the caliber of an individual and an athlete, not on the basketball court but on the football field, I salute you and I congratulate you, and I say, job well done.

(Applause.)

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I also would like to take the opportunity to offer my congratulations as a Delaware Countian to Glen Mills School and their outstanding athletic teams. I have had the opportunity over several years to speak at some of their sports banquets and also the occasion to be on campus for their anniversary last year. I think that Glen Mills really serves as a role model in our state as far as the students, faculty and the administration and the real values of life they are able to instill into the students of that school, and I would just like to take this opportunity again to offer personal congratulations to Glen Mills School, its Director, Sam Ferrainola, the entire staff and all the folks who have demonstrated in such a fine manner their outstanding abilities and wish them the best in the future.

(Applause.)

Senator WILLIAMS. Mr. President, I would also just like to very briefly add my recognition to the school and its personnel for the distinct way that they have represented themselves over the years. I would like to reenforce what Senator Fattah said about one of our Members, Senator Salvatore. It is not too often that we are able to bear witness to something successful, productive and really deep. I too have shared how Senator Salvatore over the years has dug in with Glen Mills and its young people and staff to help to produce what we always say is a challenge with young people, and I also just want to personally salute Senator Salvatore for his significant dedication and successful service on the celebration we are witnessing here today.

(Applause.)

Senator ARMSTRONG. Mr. President, I would also like to say that when this group of young men was coming into the gallery, I noticed they conducted themselves with dignity and they were very quiet. I do not know of a group that large that has come in there and conducted themselves the way they have, and I said at that time, this is a very special group. Someone is doing a very good job, so congratulations to them.

(Applause.)

PENNSYLVANIA YOUNG WOMAN OF THE YEAR PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator ARMSTRONG. It is my privilege, Mr. President, to introduce to the Senate a very special young lady, this year's Pennsylvania Young Woman of the Year. It used to be called America's Junior Miss Contest but it is now called the Pennsylvania Young Woman of the Year. It is a scholarship program which rewards excellence to the outstanding high school student. Although it is not a beauty contest, you would not know it by the young lady who is representing us in Pennsylvania today. Her name is Kimberly Yvonne Fisher. Kimberly is co-captain of the cross-country team. She is also involved in track. In fact, she has to leave today and run home and run again in three events. She was vice president of her student achievement. She was vice president of her junior class and she was president of her senior class. Please join me, along with her parents, grandfather and her local sponsor, in welcoming to the Senate this year's Pennsylvania Young Woman of the Year, Kimberly Yvonne Fisher.

(Applause.)

The PRESIDENT. The Chair welcomes Kimberly to the Senate of Pennsylvania. We would be delighted to hear from you. I cannot help but notice that the young men are not too anxious to leave.

Ms. FISHER. Good afternoon and thank you for allowing me the privilege of joining you today. In 1958 America's first Junior Miss was chosen, and since then thousands of talented young women have had the opportunity to participate in the program. Over the past 30 years the program has grown immensely and changes have occurred, including an overall structural change that occurred in 1990. America's Junior Miss Program was renamed America's Young Woman of the Year Program, and along with the change in name came a change in philosophy. The program seeks to recognize all-around excellence and focuses on five specific areas that are judged in the competition. They are panel evaluation, scholastic achievement, physical fitness, presence and composure and creative and performing arts. Through my involvement in the program, I have met many young women who, like myself, are concerned about making a positive difference in the world. These women in the program, however, are not the only individuals concerned about making a difference. Today I see many young people in my high school and in others who are involved in community service organizations, who participate in student government and who are taking a stand against the use of drugs and alcohol. Also, a growing number are involved in saving the environment. A lot of teenagers have jobs and they are learning about the importance of the responsibilities of having a job. Also, a growing number of people are interested in going to college. They are working very hard to make it possible to get a college degree. With all the media's attention on the problems that teenagers cause, I feel we should focus more on the accomplishments that teenagers are making today. I encourage you to get involved with young people who have goals and ideas. Encourage them and support programs such as Young Woman of the Year that seek to recognize these positive activities. Unfortunately, it is the few troublemakers that blemish the opinion that adults have of teenagers. Of course, we have problems and we always will, but please don't lose hope in my generation because there are a growing number of us who are working very hard to improve our world. Thank you.

(Applause.)

GUESTS OF SENATOR LEONARD J. BODACK PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator BODACK. Mr. President, today I would like to introduce some special cheerleaders from the Shaler Area High School in Allegheny County, which is in my district. The 19 young women on this squad recently won the AAAA Division of the Pennsylvania State Cheerleading Championship in Johnstown. In addition to this honor, on March 21, 1991 they placed fourth in national competition in Florida. These young women have spent many long and hard hours perfecting their cheerleading routines and dances. The fact that they have emerged at the top of the AAAA cheerleading squad in the state and the fourth best in the nation is positive proof that hard work and dedication do pay off. Mr. President, this hardworking group's co-captains are seniors Mary Carter and Julie Puskar. They are accompanied today by their coach of 12 years, Mrs. Phyllis Schatz, and also Theresa Gordon who also coached the team last year. Mr. President, I would ask now that the Senate do extend to them its usual warm welcome.

The PRESIDENT. Would all of the guests of Senator Bodack please rise so we could welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

GUESTS OF SENATOR WILLIAM J. STEWART PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator STEWART. Mr. President, there are three cheerleading championship squads from my Senatorial district. We have with us in the gallery the Penn Cambria School District winners of the varsity AAA squad. Their assistant coach is Becky Patz and the captains are Heather Eckenrode and Nichele DeSantis. We also have from Penn Cambria High School the winners of the Junior High State Championship. From the Forest Hills School District we have the winners of the Class AA State Championship. Sandra Stombaugh is the head coach, Lori Wilson is the assistant coach and Kristi Moss is the captain. I would ask that we give them the usual Senate greeting.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests of Senator Stewart please rise so we could welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

GUESTS OF SENATOR PATRICK J. STAPLETON PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator STAPLETON. Mr. President, also in the gallery we have a group of young ladies from Homer Center School District which is in Homer City, Pennsylvania, in Indiana County. They are the varsity cheerleaders who captured the State Class A Title at the Pennsylvania State Cheerleading Championship which was held in Johnstown on November 17th, as well as the junior varsity cheerleaders who also captured a state title. Their sponsors are with them today, Bernie Hilliard and Betty Ann Pavlick, and I would like to extend our warm welcome.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests of Senator Stapleton please rise so we can welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

GUESTS OF SENATOR J. BARRY STOUT PRESENTED TO SENATE

Senator STOUT. Mr. President, today visiting the Capitol is a group of fourth grade students from the Bentworth School District in Washington County, my home district. Ninety fourth grade students and 39 adults have come to Harrisburg today to view state government. This trip was organized by Star Smalley and Judy McCarty and the teachers who accompanied the group are Betty Cursi, Betty Greco, Joy Gazi, Tina Tarley, Carol Mucho, Joann Brock and the trip was organized by Janet Worgo. I would like the Senate to give its warm welcome to the fourth grade class and their advisers from Bentworth School District, Washington County.

The PRESIDENT. Would the guests of Senator Stout please rise so we can identify you and welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania. Let us welcome them, in absentia, anyway.

(Applause.)

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS SUPPLEMENTAL CALENDAR NO. 1

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 50, CALLED UP

Senator LOEPER, without objection, called up from page 1 of Supplemental Calendar No. 1, Senate Resolution No. 50, entitled:

A Resolution urging rejection of the Governor's proposal to use the borrowing capacity of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority to generate revenues for the Commonwealth's General Fund.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 50, ADOPTED

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt Senate Resolution No. 50.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Senator LINCOLN. Mr. President, when I look at Senate Resolution No. 50, once again I recall the debate between then President Carter and then candidate Ronald Reagan. In that debate I can remember very vividly candidate Reagan saying, "well, here we go again," and that is exactly what I see when I look at Senate Resolution No. 50—Well, here we go again, folks. Once again the Republican Party here in this Senate is saying to the Chief Executive Officer of this Commonwealth, well, we want you to solve the problem, but no matter what you propose to do, we are not going to support it, and not only are we not going to support it, we are not going to come forth with any ideas of our own, that you can continue to make honest and sincere efforts and we are just going to keep beating the devil out of you. I want to say as one person in this Senate, I could congratulate Governor Casey for recognizing the fact that we had a billion dollar problem in this year's budget and making some suggestions and some very difficult decisions on solving that. Then I look at Senate Resolution No. 50 and I say, well, here we go again, because I have read through the three pages of it and I see a lot of "Whereases," but I do not see a "Whereas" or a "Resolved" that says the sponsors of this, the Republican Senators who have put their names on this resolution, are whereas or resolved to suggesting anything in lieu of a very sound proposal put forth by the Chief Executive Officer in this Commonwealth, a person who has been given the responsibility, not by the 50 Members of this Senate, but by the 11.5 million people in this Commonwealth, to govern. He is also, by Constitution, supposed to come to us for help in resolving some of those difficulties. Now that we have disposed of what I believe is another round of Bob Casey bashing in Senate Resolution No. 50, I would like to say congratulations to the Governor for standing forward and standing tall, in spite of the fact that he is being criticized from, basically, the Republican Party and, basically, from people in this Senate as to his inability to do certain things. I look at January of this year whenever the Governor acknowledged the fact that he had a $1 billion hole in this year's budget, the 1991 budget, and he proposed to use $130 million from the Rainy Day Fund. Medical assistance pooled reimbursements for the hospitals of $110 million; legislative lapses for prior years for $80 million; medical assistance pooled reimbursements for nursing homes for $35 million; increased sales tax collections, $30 million; additional State Store profits of $16 million; county payments to state for forensic unit treatment for violent offenders of $12 million; and payment of federal Title 4-E claims of $4 million. Those were the revenue enhancements that he offered as part of the solution. At that time he also put into place these cost reduction measures: lapses in fiscal year 1991 appropriations of $100 million; reductions in fiscal year 1991 grants and subsidies of $72 million, which was a very painful decision, one that no one in this General Assembly, including Bill Lincoln, had the courage to propose; a 3.5 percent reduction in non-preferreds, SSHE; and 50 percent reduction in tuition challenge grants which amounted to $48 million; elimination of hazardous waste transfers of $27 million; a five-day deferral of compensation which totaled $23 million; state work force reductions and general hospital closings and other furloughs, which we have seen argued here already, of another $15 million; cost reductions in DPW of $15 million; elimination of the transfer of PENNVEST monies of $6 million and elimination of transfer monies in the PERF program of $6 million. All this totaled $730 million in increased revenue and cost reductions which brought that billion dollars that he stood forth and admitted was there in a budget year down to a deficit of $315 million. He takes the next step of dealing with this by talking about the PIDA Board transferring another $180 million, or whatever that dollar amount is, which brings this year's deficit problems down to the $1 million neighborhood. All we hear from the other side of the aisle on all these efforts that have been made, instead of one Republican Senator standing up and saying that, under the worst of circumstances Bob Casey has stood up and faced the people in this Commonwealth; he said, here is the plan for solving this problem. Not one time have I heard a Republican Senator stand up and say, geez, at least I may not agree with him, but he is trying, and I want to work with him and I want to try to resolve this problem because my constituents, whether they be Democrat or Republican, are Pennsylvanians. The outcome of this budget fiasco is going to affect the lives of the people who we represent, either adversely or in a positive manner, and whether they are Democrats or Republicans or not registered to vote at all, you, the Republican Members of this Senate, have an obligation to try to resolve this problem. To be continually putting forth useless resolutions that mean nothing other than an opportunity for you to stand up and continue to bash a person who is doing his damndest to try to resolve a very serious problem, what do I see? I see Resolution No. 50 and I see a bunch of spending bills, bills that are going to spend $50 million on PENNVEST, $1.5 million for this, $20 million for that, $40 million for that. I have never seen anything more hypocritical in my life than the approach that is being taken to this fiscal problem than I have seen in this Chamber. I know that is a very painful thing for me to have to witness because there are people in this process that I have a great deal of respect for. There are men and women in this Chamber whom I have dealt with in an adversarial manner and as allies on issues that had nothing to do with politics. I will tell you that pretty soon those good, solid, sound persons, those outstanding public officials who have served their constituencies as well as anybody I have seen on both sides of the aisle in this Chamber, some of the people I have served with in the other Chamber, I have witnessed them over the years doing the responsible thing. At some point in time the advantage that is attempted to be gained by the Republican Party in this Body has to become secondary to the real issue, and that is, are we or are we not going to face the challenge of solving a fiscal problem that is not unique? It is shared by a number of states throughout this great nation of ours, and it is shared because of a common problem, a recession on a national level which has added greatly to state problems. I want to tell you that the classiest thing I could see the Republican Party in Pennsylvania do, and particularly the Republicans representing that party here in the Senate, would be to withdraw this resolution today, not say another word about what is taking place and show some solution to the problem other than being critical continually with worthless, useless, three-page resolutions that do nothing whatsoever but compound the problem we are facing. I say that to you as calmly and as sincerely as I can. I am on record in my district, I am on record on this floor of being willing to solve the problem, but I cannot do that by myself and no one on this side of the aisle has the ability to do that by themselves. I want to tell you something. There is going to be a time when your constituents are going to start saying to you, why are you being so critical and why are you not being useful in solving a problem? Because you have constituents who depend on state government for health care. You have constituents who depend on state government for mental treatments, for child welfare services, for education, for transportation. I want to tell you something. If you allow the point in time to come and go without your being a positive part of the solution, you are going to end up being painted with the same brush as the Democrats and the Governor who you are so zealously trying to make look like the only reason there is a problem in Pennsylvania is because of Bob Casey and the Democrats in the House and Senate. If you are not smart enough politically to know that the people in this Commonwealth are going to get to a point where they do not care who is at fault, we are all going to be blamed. I was here during the 1977 budget problem, and come July 1st, no one cares whether you are a Democrat or a Republican. All they know is that the General Assembly in Pennsylvania has not responded to their responsibilities of keeping state government operating. I say to you today it is time to stop this nonsense. It is time to stop being partisan and political 100 percent of the time. It is time to acknowledge that we have a Governor who is making a very honest, sincere, definite effort in coming forth. If I were him, I would just throw my hands up and say, I do not care. I have given you a budget. You solve the problem. But he continues to take the wrath that is handed out to him by coming up with different ways of solving the problem. We are not talking about next year's budget. We are talking about a budget that we are in right now, and that is what this is all about today. I would be the most pleased person you ever saw if you would take, for once, a second look at what you are doing and withdraw this resolution and let us go about the business of solving what is one of the most serious problems that I have ever seen in my life.

Senator PECORA. Mr. President, I speak in support of Senate Resolution No. 50 only because of the need of the PIDA funds to help the industries in Pennsylvania to create jobs. Presently, the $180 million taken off of PIDA would force PIDA to issue more bonds. PIDA presently has a $93 million deficit. Now you can cancel the issues of existing loans, which is $148 million. When you cancel that, you will hurt the industries and businesses in Pennsylvania that need the monies to create jobs in Pennsylvania. Without jobs we do not have taxpayers in Pennsylvania. Without taxpayers the budget will go into a deeper debt. I am not here to discuss Governor Casey. I voted for his budget last year. I was under the impression we did not have a deficit, as he told us after the election that he has. But Governor Casey is not the issue today. The issue today is to have a solvent industry to present jobs in Pennsylvania to keep the economy flourishing. If we continue to force more bond issues, more debt, we are only passing the debt on to future generations, future elected officials, so we are not responsible to our constituents in Pennsylvania, Mr. President.

Senator FISHER. Mr. President, I have tried over the past couple of weeks to understand just what it is that the Governor is proposing for the PIDA Board to do, and I have looked at some of the materials, and I have read carefully some of the articles written on the Governor's proposal. I have examined editorials that have been written all across the state, most of them against the proposal. Even after all that, I am still not certain exactly what it is he is asking PIDA to do, but I think I understand why it is he is asking it.

I have tried to analogize this to a local government, and many of ours are in the same straits that the Commonwealth is in. Sometimes our local governments run out of bonding authority. They are at their cap. They cannot borrow any more money. But lo and behold, some of those local governments go out and they have created over the years that fiction known as authorities. We have a bunch of authorities all over this Commonwealth. The authorities go out and they float the bonds and they have intergovernmental transfers between the municipality and the municipal authorities. It has happened where many of those authorities, as well as the municipalities, are now at the point of insolvency. They have all hit their cap, and I believe all of them are learning that you cannot anymore borrow yourself out of debt. You cannot keep borrowing to cover current operating expenses. I think this is exactly what we have here. The Governor has recognized—he recognized a lot later than all of us recognized—that we have a problem in the Commonwealth. That is one thing we now agree upon. It just was amazing to us that it took him not only last June, last July, last August, even when Auditor General Hafer said it on a TV debate everybody well remembers, that we had a problem, the Governor still did not realize there was a problem. But in November and December the Governor realized his problem and he realizes now that this problem is far bigger than what normal solutions will allow him to utilize. So he has scratched and he has clawed and he has gone to everything. Of course, he has ignored many of the ideas we have brought up. He has asked for new ideas but, yet, I have not even heard back from him about our idea of selling the State Store system to bring in some needed revenues. We have not heard back from him about some of the other issues we have raised. Now he has gone to this novel approach of going to one of his authorities, one of our state authorities, to say to them, look authority, look PIDA, we have a problem. PIDA knows we have a problem, because PIDA waits anxiously each year for the appropriations to come. What the Governor has said is, PIDA, we do not want to really go and borrow any more money ourselves, because when we go to Wall Street to borrow that money, if we go too much higher our rating is not going to be too good, but what we would like you to do, PIDA, is go out and refinance this portfolio you have there at a lower rate and the extra money you get, send it to us. Maybe someday, either when I am Governor during my last three years, the Governor has said, or maybe the next administration will pay that money back to you. But if they do not, you will be sort of like the SWIF fund. You just will not get the money back. But while you have done that, you have helped us solve our current problem. Yes, it will help solve the current problem. We cannot disagree with that. But I can certainly stand here with my colleagues on this side of the aisle to say that that kind of a solution to the current problem is an irresponsible solution. That is all this resolution addresses itself to. It says, “that it is the sense of the Senate...” of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania being expressed to the PIDA board, an independently appointed board, a board that sits there, that we do not think this is the wise way to go. We hope through the adoption of this resolution that the PIDA board will think twice before they take the step that they are being asked to take, to go out and refinance their portfolio to lend that money to the General Fund to help get us out of debt because if, in fact, the PIDA board can go out and refinance that portfolio and get this additional money, I would like to see them put that additional money by way of additional appropriations from us or by way of additional programs to the businesses throughout this Commonwealth that have helped to create jobs and the businesses around this Commonwealth which are going to need all the help that they can get, if the Governor's tax plan goes into effect, in creating new jobs. So I hope that we adopt this resolution. I hope that we will have bipartisan support on this resolution so we can say to the PIDA board when they meet on Thursday, PIDA board, this is the wrong way to go. Do not borrow that money to lend to us, but, basically, tell the Governor it is the wrong way to go and, hopefully, as Senator Lincoln has said, hopefully we will be able to sit down before the end of June or July or before the end of whatever month and resolve this problem that faces the Commonwealth's budgetary problems. I do not know that going out and trying to conjure up solutions like this that do nothing more than make people think that you are indulging in good budget-making is the way to go. This, Mr. President, and this, my friends on the other side of the aisle, is not going to solve the problem that we face. This is only going to further complicate it for the people of Pennsylvania this year and for the people of Pennsylvania in future years.

Senator SCHWARTZ. Mr. President, it seems there is some confusion on the other side of the aisle about this proposal of the Governor's. I would like to speak in opposition to the resolution and provide a little explanation, as I understand it, on the Governor's proposal.

First, I would like to make very clear of my own support for the work of PIDA and I think, my colleagues, as we have heard on both sides of the aisle, the importance of a strong and successful economic development program in this state. I certainly stand for PIDA continuing in a very positive role in economic development in creation of jobs in this state, and certainly the Democrats have a strong history of 30 years, since the 1956 beginning of PIDA, in supporting the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority. Let me say, Mr. President, the Governor's plan is a request to the board of PIDA to refinance and transfer excess funds to the General Fund and, if I may, just point out some of the specifics of the proposal:

PIDA will use approximately $101 million to retire its outstanding bond debt.

PIDA will then issue $256 million in new bonds.

Approximately $200 million of the bond issue proceeds will be transferred to the General Fund prior to June 30, 1991 to assure adequate cash available to this Commonwealth for vital services to our citizens.

The Governor's budget requests will include adequate General Fund appropriations to PIDA to restore the program's long-term lending capacity. These appropriations requests will need to be in the amount of $50 million in fiscal year 1991-92, and $76 million for the three succeeding fiscal years.

In this resolution, Mr. President, there are several assertions. I would like to address each in turn.

One, the resolution asserts that there are no excess funds in PIDA. Yet, as the board will determine, when a cash flow analysis is done for this plan in its entirety, both the short-term and long-term integrity of PIDA is protected.

Second, the resolution also condemns the Governor's plan because it has PIDA incurring new debt. I would remind the Senate of two points: In its long-term projections presented to the Legislature over a year ago, PIDA was clear that it intended to incur substantial new debt in fiscal years '92-93, '93-94, and '94-95. Also, the new PIDA bond issue will be issued at a significantly lower interest rate. Such refinancing to lower rates from approximately 12 percent to possibly as low as 7 percent is, in fact, sound fiscal practice.

Finally, this resolution points to the lack of a guarantee of future General Fund Appropriations to PIDA.

Let me take this opportunity to express my commitment by stating for the record that I will call, along with others, for future appropriations to be made to PIDA. I have no doubt that the Democratic caucus, which has long supported economic development, is collectively committed to insuring adequate appropriations. Given the concern of the 17 Republican sponsors of this resolution over the future viability of PIDA, I would say, Mr. President, that they should in turn stand up and make a similar public commitment to the future funding of PIDA.

Mr. President, I am opposed to this resolution. As we all know, the Commonwealth faces very difficult fiscal times. The difficulties we face meeting our cash needs between now and June 30th is not just a troubling accounting problem. If we do not come up with solutions to our budget deficit this year, real people, some of the most needy in our Commonwealth, will face elimination of services on which they depend. The Governor's proposal regarding the use of PIDA funds will help provide almost $200 million in critically needed funds in this fiscal year. This proposal enables us to assure PIDA's future while assisting in this cash flow crisis.

This resolution does nothing more than to take pot shots at a legitimate deficit-cutting proposal put forth by the Governor of this Commonwealth. I do not challenge the Senate Majority's right to criticize the Governor's proposal. I do, however, question the Majority's commitment to finding resolutions to what is, as we all know, a very serious fiscal problem that has dire consequences for the constituents of all of our districts. This fiscal crisis requires our positive actions to create real solutions. I urge the Members of the Senate to stand with me in opposing this resolution.

Senator SHAFFER. Mr. President, I rise as a proponent and the prime sponsor of Senate Resolution No. 50. Before I begin I would like to make at least fleeting reference, if I can, to one of the remarks that the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, made in his opening remarks. I recall that he did say to some extent that this proposal was kind of like a Republican cabal, that we were kind of alone out there in left or right field in making this proposal and that we were irresponsible for doing so. If that be the case, Mr. President, I would like to point out to him that we have enormous influence since the following newspapers appear to agree with the position of the Senate Majority. I note the one issue recently of the Tribune Democrat. "Casey's PIDA plan has sour implications" is the headline on that document. The Pottsville Republican, "Casey raid could shorten PIDA's life." That is an editorial. The Times Leader editorialized "PIDA board should nix governor's transfer plan." My, Mr. President, our influence is far and wide. The Allentown Morning Call, who do we know that lives there? "PIDA plan another dud from Casey." The Sharon Herald, "Our View, Industrial loan funds best left as they are." The Beaver County Times, obviously another Republican stalwart, "Our Opinion, Bond issue is not the way to cut deficit, more shortsightedness on behalf of the Commonwealth." "Casey plan called disaster," the York Dispatch, The Express—wherever that is—"Casey's money fix short-sighted. Should seek tax hike to solve budget deficit." The Pittsburgh Post Gazette, "You're losing us, governor." Anybody here from Pittsburgh? The York Dispatch editorialized on April 5th, Mr. President, "Casey Shouldn't tap PIDA funds." I hope this is not boring anybody. The Tribune-Review, "PIDA and Pennsylvania," the last paragraph of the editorial says, "The Governor should abandon his plans to turn PIDA into a cash cow." Another editorial in the Tribune-Review dated Sunday, April 7, 1991, Mr. President, "A few answers, please," with the same conclusion. There are a number of other ones here, Mr. President, but somehow I think the point has been made that we in the Senate Majority did not just dream this up out of whole cloth. There are good and valid reasons why what the Governor is proposing is a terrible, terrible idea. The resolution says, for those who may be listening who are not familiar with it, in the third paragraph from the end, "Resolved, that the Senate of Pennsylvania urge the Board of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority to reject the proposed transfer of monies generated from new or existing bond sales since no excess funds, as contemplated in the statute, exist and because such transfers, if approved, undermine the viability of the PIDA program." Mr. President, the PIDA program was established in 1956 to make long-term, low interest loans to firms which are engaged in manufacturing and industrial enterprises. I do not think there will be any disagreement in this Chamber today, Mr. President, that encouraging manufacturing and industrial enterprises is something we want to lessen in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 1991. PIDA funds can be used for the purchase of land and buildings. Our current policy targets PIDA funds to small and advanced technology businesses and enterprise zones, many of which are in the districts of the Senate Minority. A qualified business may receive under current regulations up to $2 million at interest rates ranging from three percent to nine percent, depending on the unemployment rate in the particular county where the project is located. PIDA is the economic development workhorse, the historic workhorse of economic development through the generations, through the last generation, through the decades. It is our workhorse, Mr. President, that the Governor wants to turn into a cash cow. The proposal recently made by the Governor to have PIDA refinance their existing debt, incur new debt and transfer much of that new debt to the General Fund is a fairly complicated matter. I will try to present the facts today in the most simplistic terms without overly complicating the situation. The current facts are as follows: PIDA's authorizing legislation says that all excess funds should be transferred to the General Fund; that PIDA has cash and investments of approximately $130 million today. I do not think there is any dispute on that matter. PIDA has current obligations as of today of approximately $150 million. Therefore, Mr. President, PIDA has no excess funds. In fact, there is a deficit today by PIDA's own finance statement, by their own numbers of January 1991, of approximately $20 million.

So how will the Governor transfer $180 million or more from PIDA to the General Fund? Well, he proposes, guess what? That PIDA is to go out and borrow $250 million on the bond market to create this phony excess. This new money, plus the existing cash and investments will then total $380 million. A portion of this money, about $101 million of the $380 million, will be used to pay off the existing debt of somewhere between $82 million and $85 million, and a premium or a penalty of approximately $20 million is necessary to do that. If I may back up here for a moment, because this is a point that I do not think has been very well emphasized and which every Member should understand before he or she casts his or her vote on this matter today, the proposal is to pay off between $82 million and $85 million worth of debt, and to do that will cost us an additional $20 million in up-front fees and penalties. For every dollar of debt that we are financing, 20 cents is in overhead. Is that a good deal or not? It is up to the PIDA Board to determine, but it is not a free lunch. This will leave PIDA with $279 million of which the Governor wants at least $180 million—actually we understand now it is about $205 million—to be transferred to the General Fund. After considering the issuance costs and capitalized interest, this will leave approximately $50 million in the PIDA account to meet existing obligations of approximately $150 million. When all is said and done, if this transfer comes about, PIDA will have on day one, $50 million, or thereabout, and $150 million in debts and obligations. Therefore, a $250 million issue will leave PIDA in a deficit position of $100 million with $250 million in new debt. The loan repayments from the existing PIDA portfolio will be pledged to retire the new debt. This will have the effect, Mr. President, of severely limiting the ability of PIDA to undertake new loans unless appropriations of the magnitude never before seen in the legislative history are available. The Governor proposes $50 million in fiscal 1991-92 General Fund appropriations, and then proposes $76 million in fiscal year 1992-93 and an additional $76 million in fiscal year 1993-94, and another $76 million the year he is no longer in office, 1994-95.

Please note, Mr. President, that the average PIDA appropriation since 1955 has been less than $10 million. The Governor will then be seeking appropriations from the Legislature that will equal the appropriations for the entire 30 years of the PIDA program. If the PIDA Board complies with the Governor's wishes, it will be necessary for us to completely refinance the PIDA authorization in four years, the same amount of money in four years that took us 33 years to expend to build the program.

This transaction is entirely predicated on future year appropriations from the Legislature to put the PIDA program back on a solid fiscal basis. We in the General Assembly will be put in the position of being "blackmailed" by this or the next Governor to either support these huge future year appropriations in amounts that we have never heretofore contemplated, or have our industrial development efforts come to a screeching halt. This proposal is nothing more than an effort to circumvent the constitutional prohibition against the issuance of long-term debt for current operating expenses. We cannot in good faith allow ourselves to pledge future appropriations to fulfill this ill-conceived, short-term proposal. None of us are in a position, certainly, Mr. President, to have a crystal ball to know what economic circumstances the Commonwealth may be in during each of the next four years. Indeed, if three years ago someone had made a proposal that we spend $50 million or $75 million on PIDA in 1991-92, I think they would be sorely disappointed. It is ludicrous to advocate that the PIDA board vote on this important issue without full knowledge that the appropriations necessary to keep PIDA viable may go unfulfilled.

That is the extent of my remarks, Mr. President. I would conclude, if I may, by saying the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, made reference early in his remarks to the debate between, I guess it was President Carter and the then candidate Reagan, and I can harken back, not by personal memory, but I am sure I will jar the memory of some of my colleagues who were here in 1976 when PIDA made a $40 million advance on behalf of the Volkswagen plant. Governor Shapp at that time promised—correct me if I am wrong—that we, the General Assembly, would give back to PIDA $10 million a year for four years. We would reinvest in PIDA the enormous amount of money taken out for the Volkswagen plant. Guess what happened back then, Mr. President? The first year we gave them $10 million, the second year, $3 million, and the fourth year, I think, again $3 million or $4 million. When you consider history, Mr. President, when you consider the fact that this Governor in 1989-90 made a proposal for zero General Fund dollars for PIDA, and in 1990-91 he made a proposal that started out not too bad, $12.5 million is what he recommended we do, and guess what? We did it and what did he do? He impounded one-half of it. Only $6.2 million was given to PIDA by this General Assembly last year. Those two facts, taken with the proposal for this year, ensures that PIDA will be damaged irreparably, beyond repair. The funds of this Commonwealth dedicated for the past 35 years for economic development for the purchase of land and equipment for industrial jobs should not be tampered with. That is the purpose of this resolution, Mr. President.

Senator FATTAH. Mr. President, I was going to ask to briefly interrogate the maker of the resolution, but given the lateness of the hour, I guess I will just go on and make my statement. I am reminded of the first debates that I got a chance to hear on the floor of the House when Governor Thornburgh was the Governor then, and there were colleagues on my side of the aisle who were hollering about his budgetary maneuvers relative to the Lottery Fund and other activities of that day. That is what comes to mind as I listened to the maker of the resolution offered before us. It would seem to me that if he felt so strongly about the public policy implications of the suggestion by the Governor that, perhaps, he might have asked some of his Senate colleagues on this side of the aisle to sponsor this resolution, but obviously it is not on the merits of this suggestion that we are here this afternoon. It is because we have a budget problem in our Commonwealth and something must be done. The reason why I reflect back on those debates on the floor of the House is that it is quite easy for those of us who are Members of legislative bodies to criticize and to attempt to obstruct the activities necessary to resolve these problems, but at some point we have to do more than just be critics. We have to put forward some direction as to how we might solve the problems in front of us. Our nation at the federal government level is operating with a national debt of trillions of dollars. There is a national deficit of over $500 billion this year. We have some 30 states, including our own, that have more than their share of deficit problems—in New York, $6 billion; in California, $7 billion; in New Jersey, Minnesota, Virginia, and so forth and so on, and we have a serious problem. In fact, in a periodical just a few months ago, Governing, it said that this year some 41 of our 50 states would face deficit problems and would have to raise taxes or make cuts. Every major city in our country is facing a problem and we, I guess, can get some partisan joy out of a debate like this this afternoon, but at some point we will have to reckon with these problems. The Governor has laid off and furloughed state employees, has made other steps to try to address the problem, and at this point $180 million is needed in order to complete this budget year. Obviously, PIDA was not designed or developed to serve this purpose, but it is an instrumentality of the Commonwealth. It is perfectly legal for this maneuver to be done so we can pay our bills and, absent some other suggestion as to how we can make sure that the people would be paid paychecks, the services that would be provided to our constituents in this Commonwealth can be provided, absent this $180 million, I find it a necessity to vote in opposition to the resolution, but moreover to suggest to the Majority Party and to those on my side of the aisle that, as the weeks go on now and as we enter more and more into the heart of this debate on the budget, that we find some more responsible way for us to represent our party, represent our constituents, rather than to waste time in debates like this, absent some other suggestion as to how we should proceed.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I have tried to the best of my ability to be able to listen to the debate this afternoon, first starting with the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Lincoln, and then following through with the other individuals who have spoken on the floor, and I find it very difficult to put into the proper type of terminology the things that we have witnessed on the floor of this State Senate basically over the past year. Mr. President, to say that the Majority Party in the Senate is acting like a bunch of purists I think would be a statement that would not be accurate because I do not believe there is any purity whatsoever in the motivation that is being acted upon through this particular type of legislation. To say, Mr. President, that the Majority Party in this Senate is acting in good faith, I believe, Mr. President, would be an absolute total underestimation of really what is taking place. To say, Mr. President, that the Majority Party in this Senate is acting in the height of hypocrisy might be approaching what I really believe is taking place here. But I really believe if there is one category in which we could totally try to explain what is taking place in the State Senate here this afternoon it is that we, the Members of the Pennsylvania State Senate, and more, especially the 17 sponsors of Senate Resolution No. 50, and I think even more importantly those individuals who will vote in favor of Senate Resolution No. 50, are being intellectually dishonest with the people whom they represent. The record is very clear, Mr. President, as to what is taking place. I mean, we can repeat ourselves on the floor of this Body over and over and over, but the more we repeat ourselves, Mr. President, the more the truth comes out as to why we are having such a problem, and why, in fact, is the Majority Party in Pennsylvania today in the Senate at least not coming up with some kind of a proposal or some type of a program to go ahead and to try to aid in the problem, as opposed to going ahead and trying to establish obstructionism as to every suggestion that has been laid forth. Mr. President, we have heard some discussion here about how, in fact, the administration is not doing certain things to bring about a resolution to the problem. In the past year or so we have been asked on the floor of this Senate and have dealt with additional expenditures beyond anything dealing with the budget of an additional $314 million. That, my dear friends, has been money that has been asked by the Republican Members of the Senate to spend during this particular fiscal year when they know full well that the money is not there to spend and, to me, Mr. President, which is even that much more hypocritical, is that when you take the 17 sponsors of the legislation and you go ahead and you add the types of proposals that have been introduced by those 17 sponsors, you find out that the deficit in Pennsylvania, if those bills were considered and passed and signed into law, would have been an additional $205 million, starting right from the gentleman from Butler, Senator Shaffer, who is the sponsor of the proposal, going right through to the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Wenger, who, to his credit in this legislative Session, has not introduced one piece of legislation of new money that had not been negotiated and discussed during the budgetary considerations in May and June of 1990.

Mr. President, where are we? What are we asking for? Do we want to be part of the solution to the problem, or do we want to maintain a position of absolute total obstructionism? Do we want to continue a position, Mr. President, of being extremely hypocritical as to what is taking place on the floor of this body? Do we want to go back into our districts and tell people, hey, folks, I had nothing to do with that tremendous deficit that is taking place in Harrisburg? What I want to do is criticize the administration because it has been the Casey Administration, according to the Republican Members of the Senate, that is absolutely responsible for the deficit that we are feeling right here in Pennsylvania today. They know full well the same way I do that this budget was increased by 1.7 percent. The gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Fisher, if he wants to be realistic about it, knows also full well that during the budget negotiation there was nothing amazing about what has taken place about a deficit, unless he was not communicating with the Members of his leadership who represented him in the budgetary negotiations. We knew only full well late last spring and early last summer that potentially we would be faced with a tremendous downturn in the economy. Little did we know that that downturn in the economy would put us in a position of having to look for something somewhere in the vicinity of $2 billion in new revenues to go ahead and to balance that particular budget. But we talk about all of that, and then what took place here on the floor when the gentleman from Butler, Senator Shaffer, was talking about editorials? It is quite obvious that he missed the editorial that appeared in the morning Patriot, the editorial that said, "Flat-rate bonus to honor troops," the editorial in this morning's Patriot that talked about the action that took place right here on the floor of this General Assembly last evening. The editorial said a more fitting plan would be to provide a flat bonus of $250 for everyone who has served in the Gulf regardless of their length of stay, because the individuals who write editorials in Pennsylvania know full well the problem that we are having. They know full well the problem that is taking place in this great country of ours and they know full well that this is not a problem that has been brought about by the Casey Administration. In fact, if it were not for the frugal operation of the Casey Administration, our problem would not be $1.7 to $2 billion, it would be much greater than that. If we went ahead, Mr. President, and we implemented and the Casey Administration supported the tremendous amounts of money that the Republicans in the Senate wanted to spend, that deficit would be increased by Members of the Senate alone on the Republican side by some $314 million and basically, Mr. President, if you take those who have signed on Senate Resolution No. 50, the sponsors of that resolution have introduced legislation never budgeted, never agreed to in any budget negotiation, that would spend an additional $205 million. So if we go ahead and the Casey Administration is able to prevail on the PIDA board, and the $180 million is transferred from the PIDA Fund over to the General Fund, and if the legislation that has been requested by the Republican Members of this Senate was totally implemented, we would still be $25 million short money that was never budgeted to meet the wishes of the Republican Members of the Senate.

Mr. President, it is truly and simply this: They have to tell us what programs they want cut or what taxes they want raised, but they cannot come on in and they cannot on a daily basis give us new legislation for money they want spent and then on the other hand be very critical because there is not enough money to go ahead and to balance a budget. Mr. President, just on the Calendar of the Senate alone today there are new expenditures, money that was never discussed, money that was never part of the budget negotiation, that calls for an additional expenditure of $25,801,000 that is not part of a 1990-91 negotiated budget. So what are we saying here? How hypocritical can we be? If you want to go ahead and you want to put out the news releases that you have, if you want to continue to infiltrate with press releases, with various types of thinly veiled threats that have taken place, with speeches and with all kinds of legislation, then I suggest that you continue to do that. If you want to be realistic, if you want to go ahead and you want to resolve the problem, then a motion should be made to recommit Senate Resolution No. 50 to whatever committee it came from, to get on with the topic at hand and that is to establish a budget, to fund that budget appropriately, not to travel across this state being very critical of what is taking place here in Harrisburg when the individuals who are being very critical are basically those individuals, Mr. President, that have served as true obstructionists to trying to resolve the problem. Mr. President, I simply would ask for a negative vote on Senate Resolution No. 50.

Senator PETERSON. Mr. President, it has been interesting listening to the debate this afternoon on this issue. I was intrigued by the opening comments of the first speaker, when my friend from Fayette said it is time to stop being partisan. I would say to my friend from Fayette, lead us by example. If you can accomplish that, maybe I can. Then we heard, "Here we go again." Those are the thoughts that I had when I heard about this proposal a few short days ago. Not long ago we had a proposal from the Governor to borrow our way out of debt, or partially out of debt, with a bond issue. The Democrat House thought it was a bad idea and I think the Republican Senate thought it was a bad idea, because it was rejected, because you cannot borrow your way out of debt. You cannot pay for groceries and utility bills in your family life with borrowed money or you are going to end up in bankruptcy. This is not a bad idea, as I said in committee, it is an awful idea. There were those today who said that we are not here talking on the merits. I do not think that is true. I think this proposal is worth debating until hell freezes over. This is a terrible way to approach solving our budget, and if it takes all day and all night, we ought to fight it. It is not a waste of time as another speaker said, and I guess I am disappointed that some question the motives because we disagree on how to solve the problem. I am not here questioning anyone's motives and I will always try not to, and I wish they would not question mine.

Not long ago, just three years, we started robbing the SWIF fund, a State Workmen's Insurance Fund set up to fund insurance for small businesses. Just last year we had to change the law because they had taken so much, over $400 million, out of that fund, to make it actuarially sound. We had to change the law because we had robbed so much, taken $429 million from our small businesses who put that money in that trust for insurance, not to bail out state government.

There are those who said recently in their comments, it was one of the first speakers, who said to restore to fiscal soundness we will place back into the PIDA program $50 million the first year and $76 million two or three years thereafter. I challenge you. You do not have to restore it if you leave it alone. It is a sound fund. There are those who said we should make a public commitment for PIDA. I will make a public commitment. It is one of the best programs in the state and let us not destroy it. That is a public commitment. Last year we had an argument in this Body. It was the first year since I can remember that we did not fund PIDA with any new money. I believe this side of the aisle argued to fund PIDA and I believe the other side urged not to, to agree with the Governor. So now we are saying if we take this money out, in the next four years we will pay it back with big budgetary figures. We do not have to restore PIDA if we do not destroy it, because that is what we will do.

To just veer from the subject for a moment, the Minority Leader just recently again accused us of budget busting because we have proposals on the table that were not part of an agreement he made, not part of a budget he agreed to. I want to tell you, as a rank and file Member of this Body, I said it to you a couple of weeks ago and I am going to say it again, this is my way of telling what I am for, and I will propose proposals and I am sure other Members of both sides of the aisle will support proposals that they believe in. This government should not be run by eight Legislators in the House and the Senate. It should be run by the rank and file, and we should have the right to propose any bill we want to propose. If you want to ask me where to cut, I will show you where to cut. There are a lot of places you could cut. You may not agree with the cuts I will propose, but I think to impugn our integrity when we say what programs we are for, what programs are needed and what programs need to be expanded, is unfair.

Let us take a look back at the business issue. Let us take a look at what we have done in Pennsylvania just in the past short time. I would like to say with a statement first that the western Pennsylvania economy is struggling, at best. We have far too many companies in Chapter 11 and far too many companies that are preparing to go into Chapter 11, trying to stay alive. We have companies in Chapter 7 that are being dismantled. I have several letters in my file already saying, if you pass this budget as proposed—and that was before the PIDA proposal—we are going to expand somewhere in this country, but we will not look at Pennsylvania, and I am going to tell you why. We passed mandated leave, another item that is anti-business. This proposal this year increases the corporate tax. This year's budget increases and expands the capital stock and franchise tax, a tax which taxes ownership of a business, not profits. We are going to increase phone costs. We are going to increase fuel costs for business, and I want to tell you the one that has probably been the most damaging in the last four years, the tidal wave of new costly regulations to business. Regulations are that silent killer that we do not put a cost figure on in this Commonwealth when the departments approve them and pass them, but they are very costly to business. If you look at this year's total budget proposal, there are awesome fee increases. I will give you just a few that hurt business. If you disturb the earth with a bulldozer, from a $200 fee to $1,000, that is a 500 percent increase. If you look at the fees in there for hazardous and residual waste and all kinds of landfilling and handling of any kind of waste, they are astronomical increases. Who pays those? Business pays those. For a small gravel pit, a $250 permit goes to $1,500. Those are all business costs. Any company that produces fluids and every oil producer that produces brine is going to have an MPDES permit, normally a $500 cost, plus the engineering fees, now it is going to be $4,200. A CON permit for our health care providers, $500 to $20,000. Before there was not a fee. There should be a fee, but that is pretty heavy.

Folks, in western Pennsylvania and northern Pennsylvania our economy is in trouble. We have to compete. We cannot just say stick it to business. Business is jobs. When you combine proposals like this PIDA proposal, which is one of the best job creators in the Commonwealth, along with the proposed tax increases on business, along with the fee increases on business, along with the regulations that have slammed business, you are making it very difficult to have successful business in Pennsylvania, and successful business is what creates jobs and jobs are what pays the taxes that makes this Commonwealth work, that gives us the funds we need to provide the social programs and the educational needs of our people. I cannot understand where these proposals are coming from or what kind of process is being used to generate them, but this idea to rob PIDA is probably one of the worst yet of a series of bad ideas. I hope we debate it, and I hope we convince the PIDA board to slam dunk it because that is exactly what ought to be done. We should not defend a bad idea because of who presented it. It should stand on its own merits and there is no merit. There is no good argument for doing this to the PIDA program that will sit there and help us provide jobs at very little cost to the taxpayers in the future in its present structure. It absolutely makes no sense and there is no viable argument otherwise. I urge my colleagues to urge every PIDA board member to throw this one in the garbage can.

Senator FUMO. Mr. President, I have listened to the gentleman from Venango, Senator Peterson, on a number of occasions complain about the budget process and the fact that he does not get any input. I, for one, would welcome him on this side of the aisle if he wants to come over. We will listen to him. We will give him input. I do not have any Members on this side complaining that they have been shut out of the budget process, so he ought to think about that and then maybe together we would reform this process. That offer is open any time he is not happy. We are more than happy to take some of his conservative views and the view here and maybe implement them.

Mr. President, this resolution is flawed greatly. In the resolution side, "RESOLVED," on page 3, line 15, it should read the Republicans of the Senate of Pennsylvania, not "the Senate of Pennsylvania." Yes, this is a partisan issue, Mr. President, and I credit the Governor with some very good, very creative financing in order to keep this Commonwealth out of a deficit. We are not in it yet. We are very close, but we are still not in it, and every day the front office continues to try to keep us out of it so all of us in this Chamber who voted for that last budget will be vindicated. I might add that this side of the aisle could not have done it without the help of the other side of the aisle. So let us stop pointing the finger at each other, who did what, when, where and how. Last year we all knew what the truth was but nobody wanted to look at the truth because it meant maybe a tax vote or some cuts during an election year, and I was very candid in negotiations and I have said it publicly. I said up front he who finds it solves it. All of a sudden nobody could find the deficit. So let us stop the finger pointing and the partisanship.

Mr. President, I have not heard a plan yet from the other side of the aisle that speaks on how we are going to solve the budget crisis, and I will not go into the litany that the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Mellow, talked about, but you all know it is there. You are spending money here like there is no tomorrow.

Mr. President, I heard from the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Fisher, who is going to save the day with the sale of the liquor stores. Well, by his own memo that he sent to me the other day, he will make $325 million this year and maybe $213 million, $500 million this year, and then into the future $32 million.

Mr. President, over the last ten years the LCB has generated $35 million every year so we would be in a negative cash flow position from the first year out. Again, if he has the votes to pass the bill, I would be more than interested to see it happen. Mr. President, yes, this is new and creative financing but it is not going to hurt PIDA. It is not going to hurt the jobs development in the state. I heard Senator Peterson talk about all the companies in Chapter 11 and Chapter 7. I suggest he sit down right now and send a letter to former President Reagan and President Bush and let them know what is going on here in Pennsylvania when they took all the military jobs and shipped them out West, their good Republican friends. They killed the northeast because they did not vote for them. Let us talk about the national agenda because that is where the problem stems. Pennsylvania is in the bind it is in because of the recession caused by a Republican Administration in Washington. We do not want to say that, God forbid, I am going too far afield. We just want to deal with that today. What do we accomplish by adopting this resolution, even if it were binding in law, what do we accomplish? Is it our goal to shut down the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania so we could point the finger maybe at the Governor and say, look what you did? Remember in this Chamber Republicans cannot say that and they cannot point that finger because they were part of the process that got us to where we are today. Maybe in the House Matty Ryan can say it, but not here. So let us stop the nonsense. Let us sit down and deal with the real problems in Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, I will draw this Chamber's attention to the last page of the resolution, page 3. Why in the name of God do you ask that this resolution be included in copies of the offering memorandum and other papers relating to the issuance of debt? Why do you want to do that, because you want to help the very Commonwealth you took an oath to protect? You want to put this in an offering memorandum so, hopefully, somebody will not buy the bonds or maybe they will not buy them at a cheap rate. You do not like the fact that we may be able to change our 12 percent debt to 7 percent. You would like to see it at eight or nine percent. What good does that do for your constituents or anybody else's? This is petty nonsense, like a spoiled child. Na, na, na, na na, look what they did. You live here, all you guys, and like it or not, when there is final resolution of this in this Chamber, you will be part of that solution. Like it or not, you will be, and you may not like it but that is the responsibility of being in the Majority. You will vote for something to solve this problem and I fully predict it will be part of the biggest tax increase in the history of Pennsylvania or it will take us back to a budget cut that takes us back to the 18th Century, but you are going to do it. So you cannot stand here and point the fingers. The time has come for all of us to start to work together. Nobody is believing your nonsense. The Patriot today exposed the nonsense of yesterday when you all wrapped yourselves in the flag. The message is getting through, gentlemen, more and more, day after day. You cannot have it both ways. Simple arithmetic still works. One and one is two, and you cannot say I want to spend, spend, spend or I do not want to tax. It does not work. It worked last year because everybody decided to put their heads in the sand. It is not going to work this year because I am not putting my head in the sand and the Governor is not doing it in the front office either. Maybe this is the year you would like to be in the Minority. Maybe you will ship Senator Peterson over here with Senator Pecora to make us solve the problem, but that is not going to happen either. So, like it or not, plan for the future. You are going to be with us whether it be June 30th or December 15th. Whenever it happens you will be there with us so let us stop the nonsense and get on with the business of the Commonwealth.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, it has been interesting listening to the debate today on Senate Resolution No. 50, and I think that when I listen to many of the previous speakers on the other side of the aisle, that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Fumo, must have printed a thesaurus which has been widely distributed over there, because I am certainly hearing the same kind of words again and again. When we want to talk about hypocrisy I think, Mr. President, as everyone in this Commonwealth realizes, we all are in the middle of a current year budget deficit of crisis proportions with at least a $2.5 billion shortfall looming in the next budget year. We have heard from the other side about all these spending proposals coming from this side of the aisle, that those totals could be more than $200 million of new proposals that have been put forth by this side so far in this Session. I think, Mr. President, what happens is the other side fails to look at its own record. I think it is interesting, if you want to take a look, that just in the first three months of this Session, Members of the Democratic caucus who have repeatedly chastised this side of the aisle have seen fit to prime sponsor legislation which would cost the Commonwealth upward of one-third of a billion dollars in new funds. I think it is also interesting to note, Mr. President, that so far in the 1991-92 Session of the General Assembly, of the 24 Democratic Senators, 19 have prime sponsored bills that have a fiscal impact. Only two have not prime sponsored any bills, and there are three who have not prime sponsored any bills with a fiscal impact. I think if we were to examine those proposals, in fairness, we would see that the proposals range in costs from hundreds of thousands of dollars to more than $100 million annually. I think if we were to analyze these individual proposals, we would see that they would increase the size of the state bureaucracy and would necessitate more state employees even though the current administration is furloughing dedicated employees at the current time. We have heard a lot about budget commitments, that we are not living up to our budget commitments of last year. Well, Mr. President, living up to budget commitments has to start in the front office. As soon as the front office starts to live up to some of its budget commitments, maybe there would be a sense of concern on this side of the aisle. I would respectfully request that my colleagues on both sides of the aisle, and particularly the other side of the aisle, refrain from any type of counterproductive exercises that are not particularly specific to helping the process move forth and advance a solution to the current fiscal crisis in Pennsylvania. I think what we have heard is a lot of rhetoric from the other side criticizing this side for their proposals but, yet once again, not advocating any particular solution. If they think that spending PIDA funds, financing current debt through bonds, is a fiscal practice that is in the best interest of this Commonwealth, I think we have a long way to go during this budget season. I respectfully suggest, Mr. President, that we try to work together to address the fiscal concerns of this Commonwealth, and because it is a poor fiscal practice, I would ask for the adoption of Senate Resolution No. 50.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, just a couple additional observations that I think are important to make.

First of all, I was kind of startled that the gentleman from Venango, Senator Peterson, did not talk about the funding for a rural agenda and a rural program. I was hoping that he would talk about that. Unfortunately, he did not mention that.

Secondly, Mr. President, it was mentioned about the robbery of SWIF and, of course, no robbery of SWIF has taken place. The only real robbery that has taken place with regard to budget negotiations over the last seven or eight years has been the robbery that took place in three successive years of the Lottery Commission. The Republicans in the Senate insisted on the expenditure of monies that exceeded $300 million to go ahead and to balance the budget of then Governor Thornburgh. That was a true raid of a lottery system, and if you talk about a robbery, I guess Jesse James did it with a gun, but the Republicans in the Senate, with regard to the lottery, did it by passing legislation.

Mr. President, you know, when you go ahead and you discuss things over and over and over and you continue to repeat the truth, it does not matter how many times you say that over and over. You can use many different types of words and phrases in discussing the topic, but the issue is the same. The truth will continue to come out exactly the way it is. Any way the Republicans want to cut it, they have spent in this particular budget cycle, through this General Assembly, right here in the State Senate, they have passed through this Body $314 million worth of new expenditures.

When you want to talk about the Republicans in the Senate who are so far to the left of the Democrats in the Senate, it is absolutely incredible. The gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, can go ahead and say that Members of this caucus have gone ahead and they have introduced bills that would spend millions of dollars. Unfortunately, none of those bills, with maybe the rare exception of one or two, have ever been able to see the light of day on the floor of this Senate, because unless a bill in the Senate, for the most part, is under Republican sponsorship for some reason it does not find its way on to the floor of the Senate. Also, Mr. President, I was very happy to hear the Majority Leader talk about the current administration and how they are furloughing dedicated employees. Mr. President, that opens up an entirely new topic because it was quite a while ago that I had the opportunity of introducing a bill which is currently on our Calendar, Senate Bill No. 405, which deals with the furloughing of employees. It is also quite enlightening, as far as I am concerned, that there were a number of my Republican colleagues that saw fit to go ahead and to support Senate Bill No. 405, and what has happened since then and since the bill has been introduced, all that is on the Calendar for consideration, Mr. President, but it has been so badly Christmastreed and turkeyed that you would think it was either Thanksgiving or that it was Christmas the way Senate Bill No. 405 is with the amendments that have been added to it. Furthermore, all we find with the action of the Republican Members of the Senate is that Senate Bill No. 405 has not been considered, but they continued to put it over and over as the days go by. So if there was a legitimate concern on the part of the Majority Party in the Senate about those so-called dedicated furloughed employees, they would have taken action on Senate Bill No. 405, Mr. President, and, in fact, Senate Bill No. 405 would have been passed. I think Senator Fumo was very specific in the way he pointed out exactly what we are dealing with here. We are not dealing with a proposal, Mr. President, that means one darn thing. It is not a binding proposal. It is a proposal that has meant nothing more than to try to take some political shots at individuals when it seems to be a lot easier to go ahead and, instead of addressing an issue up front, instead of having meaningful legislation on the floor of this Senate, yes, even here today on April 16th, we decide instead of doing that, to continue to issue press releases, to continue to have news conferences, to continue to bring to the floor of this Senate legislation that is costing, in a year that we know full well there is not money to pay for it, and then we have to deal with Senate Resolution No. 50, which probably has the poorest timing of any resolution, especially when you talk about the last three lines of the resolution that Senator Fumo pointed out.

Mr. President, once again, I would firmly ask for a negative vote. There are only 17 Republicans that have sponsored this resolution. Therefore, Mr. President, there would appear that there are at least nine Members of that Republican caucus that basically must feel this is not a good, appropriate resolution. I would only like to try to appeal to those nine Members and not to the 17 sponsors who have introduced legislation that has passed this Body that would spend an additional $205 million that was never budgeted, that if we can only appeal to the common sense of those individuals who did not sponsor this resolution on the Republican side to come over and to join the Democrats because we are well-meaning in our request to try to resolve the problem, not to go ahead with, as Senator Fumo said, this gobbledygook, and try to go ahead and consider something that is absolutely meaningless and will go nowhere except to take up a lot of time in debate on the floor of this Senate. Again, I would ask for a negative vote on the resolution.

LEGISLATIVE LEAVES

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, Senator Greenleaf has been called from the floor and I would request a temporary Capitol leave on his behalf.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, can we add Senator Jones to that list also.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Senator Loeper requests a temporary Capitol leave for Senator Greenleaf. Senator Mellow wishes a temporary Capitol leave for Senator Jones. The Chair hears no objection. The leaves will be granted.

LEGISLATIVE LEAVE CANCELLED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the presence on the floor of Senator LaValle and his temporary Capitol leave will be cancelled.

SB 266 — Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Senator LOEPER.

BILLS ON THIRD CONSIDERATION AND FINAL PASSAGE

SB 275 (Pr. No. 284) — The Senate proceeded to consideration of the bill, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 1, 1988 (P. L. 82, No. 16), entitled "Pennsylvania Infrastructure Investment Authority Act," extending the act to include storm water projects; and providing for a referendum to incur indebtedness for such projects and the issuance of notes and bonds if authorized by the referendum.

Considered the third time and agreed to,

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, once again we find ourselves in the exact same position that we have been in and that we have been articulating over and over. You know, basically, we have talked about when you continue to repeat the truth, regardless of what issue you are dealing with or how you want to express it, it still comes out the same way. As was stated earlier this afternoon, here we go again. Here is another proposal, Senate Bill No. 275, that is a referendum in dealing with an expansion of the PENNVEST program. It adds an additional $50 million to the bond indebtedness. It adds an additional $8 million per year to the bond indebtedness for the state to pay it off. We are going to go ahead, Mr. President, without proper discussion, without support of the department, without the proper support of the administration, and we are once again going ahead and we are trying to spend money.

Mr. President, this is a $50 million bond issue for PENNVEST. It deals with storm water runoff. There are many, many ways that storm water runoff projects basically could be the responsibility of local government. There are many ways with storm water runoff that federal funds have been used in the past to go ahead and to have municipalities take care of their problems. Mr. President, today, because of the proper type of zoning ordinances that we have in communities, when a municipality has a development which they are going ahead and approving, you must make the proper type of provision within that development and within that approval for the handling of storm water runoff. But, it is obvious that this is another blatant attempt, as there is with several other bills on the Calendar today, to go ahead and to continue to spend money with little or no regard, Mr. President, for where that particular money is going to come from. When we talk about it once again, here we are with the expenditure of money with no proper authorization and, once again, only to cause problems in the future. When we have not taken care of our financial house, Mr. President, for this particular fiscal year and it is not in order, there is absolutely no way possible we could on this side of the aisle go ahead with putting an additional burden on that General Fund in the future, and I would have to ask for a negative vote on the bill.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Considered the third time and agreed to,
And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, prior to the roll call, we have the exact same set of facts here as we have had with the last several proposals. This is an increase in expenditure in this particular year of $1.1 million. It is something that was not negotiated during our budgetary discussions. It is meant only to go ahead and to further increase the deficit that we right now are potentially feeling in the state and to project that into the 1991-92 fiscal year. It is a proposal that when you talk about establishing grants and loans for sinkhole damage, it is something that on the surface we probably should be considering because I guess a lot of us are sinking at this point in time, but, Mr. President, it is just not part of our budgetary negotiations. It should be made part of that when we convene the committees to discuss it, and at this point in time I would have to ask for a negative vote, Mr. President. The money basically is not there. I do not know what tax the Republicans want to raise by passing this proposal or potentially what program they would like to cut because they have never shared that with us, and until they do, we must ask for a negative vote on the proposal.

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177, No. 175), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," providing for resident State troopers; providing for underwater search teams; making an appropriation; and making a repeal.

Considered the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I certainly do not want to disappoint anybody in the Chamber and not talk about a bill that has an expenditure for this particular fiscal year, but I honestly believe that if there is any type of a resolution that is going to be arrived at, whether it be with our budgetary considerations or with reapportionment, or whatever, that you have to act in good faith, and during our budgetary negotiations last year we had talked and we agreed as a group of individuals talking about the budget that this particular proposal should have been included as part of the budget package we had. We went ahead, Mr. President, and that bill was passed by the Senate. It was sent on to the House of Representatives. They upheld their part of the budgetary negotiations, and, unfortunately, the Governor vetoed the proposal, but we, the Members of the General Assembly, agreed to uphold our part of the negotiation. As was done late last summer when this was agreed upon, we will today also agree to uphold our part of the budget negotiation, although this is an additional expenditure of $1.2 million that really is not part of what was signed back on June 30, 1990. We will agree to support Senate Bill No. 820 because we gave our word back during that negotiation that it should be part of it, and we feel very strongly that our integrity on this side of the aisle of upholding that agreement is of utmost importance.

LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL

MONDAY, APRIL 22, 1991

SESSION OF 1991 175TH OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

No. 24

SENATE

MONDAY, April 22, 1991.

The Senate met at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Mark S. Singel) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend CHARLES FAIR, Pastor of Alsace Lutheran Church, Reading, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

"This is the day the Lord hath made: Let us rejoice and be glad in it."

We rejoice for a new day and a new week in the land of America and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We thank You for the blessings and freedoms that are ours because we live in the government of the people, by the people and for the people.

We are grateful for an end to the war in the Persian Gulf and for the homecoming of our American service people.

Give guidance to the Members of our Pennsylvania Senate, the House of Representatives, and our Governor, as they deal with the challenges and concerns of the people of this great state.

Their task is not easy. They cannot please everyone. There are so many needs and hurts of the disadvantaged, so many groups crying out to be heard.

So give to the Members of this Senate, Almighty God,
Sensitivity to human needs,

Awareness of the limited resources that are available,

Guidance to reach the right decisions,

Courage to stand up and be counted,

A desire to do their best,

and the Divine Blessing of our Creator King,

Lord of Lords, and King of Kings. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thanks Reverend Fair who is the guest this week of Senator O'Pake.

GUEST OF SENATOR MICHAEL A. O'PAKE PRESENTED TO SENATE

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would also like to take a moment to pass on to the Members of the Senate that Senator O'Pake informs me that Reverend Fair has just recently welcomed home his two sons who served with the United States Air Force in the Persian Gulf. They are Captain Daniel Fair and Lieutenant Jonathan Fair who have recently returned home. Reverend Fair and his lovely wife, Louise, who is with us in the gallery, are just as pleased about that as anybody in the country. We are delighted to have you with us, as well, Louise.

Senator O'PAKE. Mr. President, I would ask that the Chair extend its usual warm welcome to Mrs. Fair who is in the gallery and share with my colleagues the fact that Pastor Fair is one of the most respected members of our clergy back home. Alsace Lutheran Church has a weekly radio service which is broadcast and listened to by many shut-ins. He is a tremendous preacher and, in addition to that, is a very compassionate and caring man who does an excellent job visiting hospitals and those members of his congregation who look to him for guidance.

We are grateful to the pastor and his wife for the excellent job they did in raising those two sons. At church recently, both sons were there and they both told of their six months experience in Saudi Arabia, and one of them brought home pieces of a SCUD missile that landed near Jonathan's base. So, Pastor Fair, we welcome you and we thank you for the presence that you are in our community. Would the Chair recognize Mrs. Louise Fair. She has a beautiful voice and she is observing all of this in the gallery.

The PRESIDENT. Would Louise Fair please rise so we can welcome you to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

(Applause.)

POINT OF INFORMATION

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper, will state it.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, on the amendment I would raise a point of information as to whether the sponsor had procured an actuarial note as required by Section 7(b) of the Public Employees Retirement Study Commission Act.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Loeper has raised a point of information requesting information from the sponsor of the amendment.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, in response to Senator Loeper's question, if the bill is returned back to its original status, as we had it in Senate Bill No. 405 or if these amendments have been accepted, the answer to the question is yes.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, it is my understanding that there is no actuarial note that would exist on the bill previous to the amendment.

The PRESIDENT. If the Senate would be at ease for just a moment, if I could just have both leaders at the rostrum.

The Senate will be at ease.

AMENDMENT WITHDRAWN

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I withdraw the amendment.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Mellow withdraws the amendment to Senate Bill No. 405.

MOTION TO REVERT TO PRIOR PRINTER'S NUMBER

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 405 revert to Printer's No. 718.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, the Majority Leader asked a question about an actuarial note, and by reverting to Senate Bill No. 405, Printer's No. 718, on March 21st of 1991, the Public Employee Retirement Study Commission did submit an actuarial note, and it is signed by Dale D. Stone as chairperson of that commission, so by reverting to Printer's No. 718, as opposed to considering the amendments that I had offered, we do meet the requests of the Majority Leader and are able to produce an actuarial note. For that particular reason, I would withdraw the amendment and consider this particular proposal as encompassed in Printer's No. 718.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I would oppose the motion to revert to the prior printer's number. I think, specifically, the changes that were made in committee, particularly the changes dealing with the independent counsel issue, which is one that we have had before us on this floor, we have thoroughly debated that issue. In some cases we have passed it and others we have not, but I think the bill as it stands currently is in good shape, and I would ask for a negative vote on the reversion.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I realize that the potential does exist that the Majority Leader, having more votes than we have, probably can prevail in his request to go against the reversion back to Printer's No. 718, but I can recall on the floor of this Senate just last Wednesday when we talked about a kinder and more gentler Pennsylvania. This is a very important issue. It deals with the health, safety and welfare of not only state employees, but also their families. It deals with the tremendous number of people who have been furloughed over the last several months, and it talks about what we can do to kind of make life easier for these people, because I am of the belief and always have been and have expressed it publicly that a more humane way of reducing an employee complement, whether it be for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or for any other governmental agency or in private practice, would be to try to do it either through some type of an attrition program or through some type of an incentive program. What I tried to do, Mr. President, in bringing forward to the Body again the proposal dealing with an incentive buy-out was to go ahead and make the transition easier. Senate Bill No. 405, which has a history that goes back a number of years, was considered by the Senate Committee on Finance under the direction of the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Armstrong, as far as the Majority Party would go, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Dawida, as far as the Democrat Party would go, and I believe with one exception, Mr. President, the Committee on Finance, which was responsible for doing the work of the bill, did an outstanding job. Where the problem came was not in the way the bill was reported, basically, by the Committee on Finance, but, in fact, is the way the bill was reported out of the Committee on Appropriations, because what took place, Mr. President, was there were several amendments added in the Committee on Appropriations. The most important amendment that would go ahead and would derail this proposal is an independent status or an independent counsel that would be assigned to the state employees and the public school employees retirement systems. The Majority Party in the Senate knows full well that if this bill passes and the House would agree upon the amendments as they have been put into the Senate bill, the bill faces almost an automatic rejection by the administration and a veto of the bill. Mr. President, if we are here today to do something to try to aid the state employees who have been furloughed, and I believe we are because there are 29 sponsors of the proposal including a number of my Republican colleagues, then what we have to do is address the issue as encompassed in Senate Bill No. 405. If we are here once again, Mr. President, to play our own political mind games that we seem to play almost on a regular basis, then if that is what we are all about here today, then what should happen is the reversion to Printer's No. 718 should be rejected. As the advocate on the Republican side has indicated, we should have little or no need for what takes place with the state employees or the benefit they may be able to sustain by this proposal having passed, and we will once again, Mr. President, continue what appears, in many cases, to be the deplorable political conditions that take place in this Body when we have little or no regard for what is right, but we have only regard for what is political. We have asked to revert to the prior printer's number which would remove at least one area of this proposal that is totally objectionable to the administration, one area of this proposal that would mean full well that this bill will not pass and will not benefit the people that it was supposed to benefit. What we should do is we should strongly consider the proposal and the rejection of the proposal that has been advocated by the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Loeper. I think furthermore, Mr. President, it is important to note that although this bill could benefit up to some 6,000 state employees, that we could save in this fiscal year and in the next fiscal year up to $90 million, depending on how many people opt for the early incentive. Amendments that were inserted in this proposal and that are being advocated by the Majority Leader of the Senate will spend an additional $15.2 million in monies that we have not talked about and monies that were never negotiated. So, Mr.

President, if we are all about helping state employees, if we are all about trying to do something with individuals who have been furloughed through no fault of their own, if we are all about trying to do things in a more humane way, then we will go ahead today and we will consider Senate Bill No. 405, Printer's No. 718, which hopefully the House of Representatives will consider in its entirety the way it is. I think we then could try to prevail on the administration to sign the bill, and the immediate benefactors of this proposal would be not only the Pennsylvania taxpayer but, most importantly, the individual who has been furloughed over the last several months. If we are about politics as usual, which unfortunately happens entirely too much in this Body, then what we would be about is the Majority Party would follow in lockstep with the request of the Majority Leader, they would cast all of their votes opposing the reversion, and we will once again be involved in a knock 'em down, drag 'em out political argument which, unfortunately, has marred this particular Session. I would ask, Mr. President, for support of the entire Membership of this Body on the reversion, not as a political consideration but as a bill that is a people's bill. This is not a Democrat bill or a Republican bill. This is a bill that is going to be able to help the 80,000 people who work in Pennsylvania, those who were employed here, those who have been furloughed over the last several months—even though in many cases the only reason why they have been furloughed is because of a fiscal problem and not because of having done a job that is inferior. So, Mr. President, I would ask for an affirmative vote on the reversion.

Senator LOEPER. Mr. President, I cannot let go the remarks of the Minority Leader without responding in some fashion. I think it is interesting when we characterize that the furlough of these folks was through no fault of their own. It was not. It was done by executive order of the Governor of this Commonwealth that these people lost their jobs and were furloughed. We want to try to help these people, and I believe we have taken a responsible approach in order to do this. Unfortunately, what we find is every time we want to talk about an independent counsel to the state retirement boards, to any independent agency, we find great resistance on the part of the Governor's office to do that, because they cannot just rubber stamp whatever the general counsel believes is the proper opinion in the manner in which they disburse their funds. I think when we talk about that this bill can impact upon the state budget in several millions of dollars for this coming fiscal year, what we are saying is once again we are seeing the practice of this administration of putting off into the next year's budget costs that are incurred for this year. Mr. President, if we are really to examine the issue closely, we see that the costs that are going to be borne by this type of program are really in this year's budget and should not be put off until next year because it is that kind of budgeting that has put us in the situation we are in currently. Again, I would recommend a negative vote on the reversion.

Senator MELLOW. Mr. President, I have just one final statement in rebuttal. First of all, the bill was introduced on February 4th, which was several months from where we stand here today, in late April, in consideration of the bill. Secondly, Mr. President, if the gentleman was totally interested in trying to establish independent counsel not only for the state employees and the public employees retirement systems but also as he tried just recently when he advocated independent counsel for the State System of Higher Education, there are other vehicles on the Calendar in which he can go ahead and he can offer his amendments that would bring about independent counsel for both the State Employees' Retirement System and the Public School Retirement System. The truth of the matter is, Mr. President, this appears to be a vehicle that is well thought out. It is a vehicle that will help the 80,000 people who work in Pennsylvania, and the Republican Party, shame on them, in the Senate of Pennsylvania is not at all in favor of trying to go ahead and to aid people who have been furloughed, as I said before, through no fault of their own. It is highly unfortunate that we have a proposal here that can pass this Body today and can appear on a Calendar over in the House of Representatives in a very short period of time, but, purely and simply because of political consideration, Mr. President, we are going to deny the people of Pennsylvania not only a break because of the amount of money that could be saved through people taking the early incentive in retiring from state government but, more importantly, those thousands of people who have been furloughed over the last several months would have an opportunity of being able to benefit from this incentive program. All this is, Mr. President, once again, is politics as usual, coming from the Majority Party in the Senate of Pennsylvania.
